THE BAPTISTS IN INDIA

Missionary Tells of Her Visits to Stations in That Land.

LARGE AUDIENCE

Address at Annual Meeting of Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church.

Mrs. J. C. Buchanan, wife of the late Congressman Buchanan, who recently returned from a fourteen months' pleasure trip to the Baptist mission stations in India, gave an able and instructive talk concerning the mission work abroad, at the thirty-second anniversary meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, of the First Baptist church, yesterday afternoon. There was a very large attendance of women and all were deeply interested in the speaker's story of the progressive work in India and of the conditions as she found them.

Assisting Mrs. Buchanan were Miss Ada Fountain, Miss Florence Serrell, Miss Pauline Denton, Miss Carrie Coombs and Miss Dorothy Krewson, who were dressed in the native India costumes, and Mrs. Buchanan gave a description of each dress and the form of decorations used. She also displayed many curios obtained in India, explaining each one. Her description of the vice and awful conditions of the natives and their heathen worship was most vivid and heart-rending.

Mrs. Buchanan also pictured the bright side of the work, telling of the wonderful work of Miss Julia Shinn, who is so well-known here. She said that Miss Shinn had completely mastered the Burmese language and is leading many souls to Christ. Some idea of the work can be gained by her statement that there are 55,000 Christian Telegus in India. She paid great tribute to William Carey, one of the early Baptist missionaries, who was largely instrumental in establishing so many Baptist missions.

Most interesting was her story of an attempt on the part of John Wanamaker to purchase a communion set which is used in one of the large Baptist churches in Calcutta. This was presented to the church by the Danish government in memory of William Carey. Mr. Wanamaker offered $3,000 for the set, but this was refused by the pastor, who in turn secured several hundred dollars from the merchant with which to erect a tablet in the church in memory of Dr. Judson the world-famed missionary.

Mrs. Buchanan gave the women much encouragement in their work and enthused them in a determination to do greater things in the future.

Several reports were presented at the meeting including that of the secretary Mrs. B. J. Shreve, which showed a most encouraging condition. Miss Ida Yerkes, as treasurer, gave her report showing receipts of $481.10 for the year and disbursements the same, less a balance of ten cents. The contingent fund showed a balance of $10.27.

Miss Carre Bird, secretary of the Young Women's Mission Band, presented a brief report, indicating a prosperous condition, and the report of Miss Florence Serrell, treasurer, showed receipts of $177.48 for the year and disbursements of $117.45, leaving a balance of $6.32.

A delightful feature of the meeting was a soprano solo by Mrs. A. C. Giddis, of the church choir. Her selection was "I Shall See Him Face to Face," and her voice, so rich and full, was greatly enjoyed. Miss Edith Cairns was the accompanist.

Funeral of Charles Warnock.

Private funeral services over the body of Charles A. Warnock were held at his late home on East Fourth street, yesterday afternoon. They were in charge of Rev. E. V. Stevenson, of Grace church, and were attended by a gathering of relatives and friends. Interment was made in the family plot in Evergreen cemetery, the pall bearers being George Ballentyne, Bertram C. Firstbrook, William Fetring, William Nr Runyon, Thomas M. Muir and George E. Firstbrook.

MR. CROSS RESIGNED; HONORED BY SENATE

UNION COUNTY'S SENATOR PRAISED BY COLLEGUES.

Senator Joseph Cross, of Union County, resigned the presidency of the State Senate Thursday night and was succeeded by Senator William J. Bradley, of Camden, who received the unanimous vote of his associates, Democrats included. Mr. Cross said that, while he had previously thanked the Senators for their aid and assistance, their consideration and courtesy, in relinquishing the office to which they had selected him, he wished to thank them again.

"Senators," he said, "I return to your charge the office of President. I shall always remember you with heartiest and kindest feelings of gratitude."

Mr. Minch moved that the testimony of Mr. Cross, which, he said, was gratifying and complimentary to the Senators, be accepted, which was done. Mr. Ferrell then paid a fine compliment to Mr. Cross, than whom, he said, no Senator had ever walked these halls with greater respect from his associates. He added that the resignation brought with it a feeling of sadness on the part of Mr. Cross's colleagues, because the State would be robbed of a valuable officer.

Senators Cross and Ferrell escorted Mr. Bradley to the chair and Mr. Bachelier administered the oath of office. Mr. Bradley then thanked his colleagues for the honor and for the kind demonstration that accompanied it.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS TO CAMP AT TUXIS ISLAND, CONN.

TWO WEEKS EXPEDITION FROM JULY 26 TO AUGUST 9.

Tuxis Island, conveniently situated near Madison, Conn., twenty miles east of New Haven, will be the camping place of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. boys this summer. Two weeks will be the period of camping, July 26 to August 9 having been the dates selected. Kenneth Robbie, boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will again be in charge of the expedition. Last year he took about thirty boys to Lake Hopatcong, where a delightful two weeks was spent. The season will be a little later this year, as the boys left on July 5 for Hopatcong.

The island, which is owned by the association at New Haven, is an ideal camping spot. The bathing is excellent, and the island is of sufficient size to permit baseball and other sports requiring plenty of room to be played. During the camping season, a field meet, including the usual athletic events will be run off for a prize, and trips will be made to Faulkner's Island, and to the University at New Haven. There will be a corps of twelve competent leaders in charge of the boys, forty being the number allowed in the party. Five tents, thoroughly equipped, will be furnished, and eight boats will be supplied. The price of the trip will be nominal.

YALE MEN PLEASED A CROWDED HOUSE

SOCIETY OUT IN FORCE TO HEAR CONCERT.

Male voices in chorus are always pleasing, while banjo and mandolin music is equally popular, but none was ever given a more cordial reception than was accorded the Yale Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Clubs at their concert under the auspices of the Plainfield Yale Club at the Casino last night. The house was packed, so that for many standing room only was attainable, and it would be difficult to find a more appreciative or better satisfied audience.

The hits of the evening were made by L. S. Tyler in a series of comic songs, and by a quartette composed of Messrs. Baxton, Parks, Dustin and Tyler, which rendered a number of "negro medleys." D. A. McGee, of this city, is a member of the glee club, which was several times encored after its selections.

At the conclusion of the concert, dancing formed a feature of the occasion. The affair was managed by a committee of the Plainfield Yale Club, of which Westley Abbott was chairman.

A SAD HOMECOMING.

Charles F. Cornwell Returning From Trip to Attend Son's Funeral.

The funeral of Theodore Cornwell, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Cornwell, who succumbed to terrible burns received by his clothes catching from a bon fire, will be held from the parents' home on Clinton avenue tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. The arrangements have been deferred owing to the fact that efforts to locate Mr. Cornwell failed until yesterday, when a telegram reached him at Cincinnati. He has been in the West on a business trip since January and the messages sent to him at first were not delivered.

He left Cincinnati yesterday afternoon and is expected to reach Plainfield tonight.

CHURCHES TO CLOSE.

Congregations to Honor Dr. Yerkes' Memory Tomorrow Night.

On account of the special services to be held at the First Baptist church in memory of the late pastor-emeritus, Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, several churches have decided to hold no evening services tomorrow. Among these churches are the Congregational, Trinity Reformed, Hope Memorial chapel, Park Avenue Baptist, First M. E., Warren chapel and Faith chapel.

Several local clergymen will take part in the memorial services, and there will be special music.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Castner, of West Third street, have gone to Waterbury, Conn., to visit relatives.

James G. Scott and son, of Brooklyn, is visiting the former's daughter Mrs. Fred Hale, of Essex street.

GEN. HOWARD'S ADDRESS

Abraham Lincoln and the Mountaineers, His Subject.

VIVID RECOLLECTIONS

Famous Veteran Recounts Incidents of Martyred President's Loving Kindness.

The fourth of the special series of addresses at Hope chapel was given last evening by Gen. O. O Howard. His subject was "Abraham Lincoln and the Mountaineers," and was presented in the honored old soldier's inimitable style, drawing with many telling anecdotes upon his own rich experience and presenting most effectively the appeal to Christian brotherly kindness that comes to Americans today from the people of the Tennessee mountains from whom our greatest president was himself descended.

The address began with a series of General Howard's recollections of Lincoln, chosen to bring out in the most striking way how the great President made upon the young officer an ineffaceable impression of "loving kindness." He told for example of one occasion when Lincoln noticed the young man's discomfiture because of an unmerited snub from Seward and took the trouble to show special kindness to him immediately. The climax of these experiences occurred after the defeat at Chancellorsville when Howard was out-flanked and his division driven back by Stonewall Jackson's army. A group of three officers visited Lincoln, asking that Gen. Howard be relieved from his command. After he had heard them through in silence, the President said shortly: "Gen. Howard is a good man, leave him alone and he will come out all right." The General's description of this experience was most affecting and when he said in introducing it that out of forty battles this was the only time anything of the kind had occurred, the audience was well prepared to acknowledge the wisdom as well as the kindness of Lincoln's attitude in the matter.

Another group of experiences related touched upon Gen. Howard's transfer, with his own and other corps from the Army of the Potomac to the assistance of the army then engaged in Tennessee. It was at this time that Lincoln expressed to the General his solicitude for the mountaineers, saying impressively, "They are loyal there." The truth of this remark was most forcefully impressed on the young soldier and illustrated by many stories of the subsequent devotion of the people of that region to the Union cause, and unexampled kindness to the Union soldiers while among them. Marching from that region with Sherman, Howard and his army had no opportunity to get back to Washington until shortly after President Lincoln's death. When she then tried veteran did reach the Capital one of the first messages given him was of the desire of the late President that as soon as he could be spared from other service he should be put in charge of the work of relief for refugees and freedmen. This work was soon taken up and many of the destitute families of those loyal border states were among those aided. Some thirty years later, upon retirement from active service, General Howard was again interested in the education and relief of those sturdy mountaineers, and now in the years when most men lay down their burdens, he is energetically engaged in building up a university at Cumberland Gap, Tennessee, as a memorial to Abraham Lincoln, far more suitable, as President Roosevelt recently said in public, than any monument in bronze or stone.

A generous offering was given by the audience to this work and it was announced that further gifts to the Lincoln memorial could be forwarded at any time through Rev. L. R. Howard.

In the City Court.

In the city court this morning, sentence was suspended on George McEntree, charged by John Vardon with attempting to choke him. Both live in the same house on West Front street and they become involved in a dispute over some work to be done in the yard. McEntree evidently got the worst of it all around as both eyes were in deep mourning. The matter of Lizzie Marianka against Julia Pluteo, for using indecent language, was put over for a week.

Changes in Newspaperdom.

Francis K. Anderson, a member of The Daily Press reportorial staff, resigns his position today in order to enter the employ of the Elizabeth Evening Times in a similar capacity. He will be succeeded by Archibald Hacquer, now in the editorial department of the Newark Daily Advertiser.

WOULD NOT ALLOW "BOUTS" IN ESSEX CO.

POLICE PREVENT "KID" KLEIN HOLDING "ATHLETIC AND MUSICAL" AFFAIR.

The self-same "Kid" Klein, known to Plainfielders as the man who playfully put "Kid" Ferris to sleep in a ring encounter at Saengerbund Hall, two weeks ago, attempted to pull off a similar encounter with another pugilist at Newark, Thursday night, but was stopped by the police. Four hundred tickets had been sold for the affair and nearly that number of "sports" had gathered in a hotel in the upper part of the city when under Sheriff Charles Mason and six policemen made their appearance. The crowd was dispersed but only to gather again at Brent's Hotel in Millburn where another try was made to have the fight. The sheriff and his men again appeared and the match was declared off.

Klein is well known in Newark and the moment he is announced as one of the participants in a coming fight, the police take steps to stop it. The authorities know the import of the affair provided for Thursday night, although the arrangements were conducted as quietly as those in this city, and acted accordingly. They are determined to keep Klein and his challengers from fighting and as one of the constables put it at Millburn:

"If you fellers must scrap, g'wan over to Elizabeth or North Plainfield where they stand for it."

MRS. CHADWICK'S HUSBAND VISITING IN PLAINFIELD

DECLINES TO TELL WHAT HIS MISSION IS LOCALLY.

Unannounced by newspapers or advance guard of any kind, Dr. Chadwick, husband of the notorious Cassie L. Chadwick, whose swindling financial operations amazed the world, came to this city today. He is now stopping at one of the local hotels where he was interviewed by a reporter for The Daily Press but declined to make any statement as to why he is visiting in Plainfield. A large number of trunks at the depot and considerable mysterious looking boxes of freight at the Richmond street yards, leads to the belief that he has brought Mrs. Chadwick's $9,000 organ here and will shortly give an exhibition of this wonderful instrument.

The doctor is in excellent health and seems to be enjoying himself despite the recent ordeal through which he passed. He told his interviewer that after his appearance in New York as an instrumentalist, he would start for California on a pleasure jaunt. That, he said, would be about June 1 and as the reporter was leaving he remarked that today is APRIL 1.

READY FOR CIRCUS.

The Programme All Completed for Unique Affair at Y. M. C. A.

The first annual circus given by the members of the evening class of the Y. M. C. A. will be for two nights, April 5 and 6, having been the dates selected for the performances. The entire programme for the affair has been decided upon, and include specialty features by the members of both the evening class, Leal's School and the Model Class, of the Newark Association.

The affair is in charge of Physical Director Fred A. Henckel, under whose direction the performance will be given, and who has coached in the production. The programme includes these attractions: Hippodrom grand entrance and elephant leaping pyramid work, by the evening class; torch swinging, by the Leal's School class; tumbling features, by Wilbur Bentliff and Herbert Hansen; electric fencing, Messers. Cahoone and Poineer; farmers' country fair, including various gymnastic events, by the evening class. Clowns, monkeys, horse fencing and the usual grotesque circus events will be included in the programme. During the entire evening music will be furnished by the Y. M. C. A. orchestra, which will be located under the gallery. The audience will be seated in the main gallery, and chairs will be placed on the floor of the gymnasium to accommodate the overflow.

The regular communion services will be held at the First Baptist church tomorrow morning, when a considerable number will receive the right hand of fellowship.

WRANGLING MOTHERS CAUSE JUDGE TO RECONSIDER

THEIR BOYS FINED $3 WHEN $1 WOULD HAVE SUFFICED.

The usual argument put up by mothers about the respective good traits of their boys when they are arraigned in court, cost Mrs. Patrick Boyle and Mrs. John Harkins, of the West End, $3 each this morning, after John Harkins, John Boyle and Jack Brown had answered to Judge Runyon for playing ball on West Third street and breaking a window in Max Freedman's store. His Honor was inclined to be lenient in the matter and agreed to let the case go if the parents of the three would pay for the damage, amounting in all to $3.

The window was directly broken by Boyle and his mother promptly agreed to give her share, as did the father of Jack Brown. Mrs. Harkins objected on the ground that as her boy had not broken the glass there was no reason why should should add a dollar to the cause. A wrangle followed as to whether the Boyles weren't as good as the Harkins' and if Mrs. Harkins hadn't said Mrs. Boyle was this and somebody else hadn't said Mrs. Boyle was that, when Judge Runyon yelled above the hubbub:

"I'll make it a fine of $3 each for John Boyle and John Harkins."

Jack Brown's father, who is colored, made a hurried dive into his pocket and produced a dollar for Freedman, then beat a hasty exit from the court room before the judge should reconsider again and make it $3 all around.

FUNDS FOR SCHOLARSHIPS FROM LOCAL ENTERTAINMENT

MRS. MACDONALD MEETING WITH MUCH SUCCESS IN HER PLANS.

Mrs. Harriet I. MacDonald, of the International Sunshine Society, has about completed arrangements for the entertainment which will be given here for the purpose of interesting Plainfielders in the Sunshine Scholarships at Alfred University. It will take place at the Casino, Thursday night, April 13, and anyone at all interested in the work should not fail to attend, while those who are not acquainted with the society or its objects will surely find it profitable and instructive.

As previously stated those who will entertain, as well as all expenses for the entertainment are so arranged that the entire profits will go toward the scholarships. The artists will receive no compensation, and the only charge will be for admission to the entertainment. The idea is to establish one hundred perpetual scholarships at Alfred University, making it possible for many young men and women to secure a liberal education free of expense. Mrs. MacDonald was in Plainfield yesterday completing details for the entertainment and she was very much encouraged with the enthusiastic manner in which a number of persons promised to assist in making the affair a success. These scholarships can be established as a memorial, many persons preferring to do this in memory of some one dear to them, while others no doubt would be pleased to assist some worthy person to get an education by contributing a portion of the expense of a perpetual scholarship which costs $1,000.

CHRISTIAN CHINAMAN'S TALK.

He was at one time tutor of the grandchildren of Li Hung Chang, being the possessor of an excellent education. SHE HAD COLD FEET.

Maggie Hausheer's Efforts to Warm Them Got Her Into Trouble.

An overdose of whiskey imbibed by Maggie Hausheer, a cook, fired her brain but made her feet cold, last night. She was found by Patrolman McKeon at 12:30 this morning at Seventh street and Plainfield avenue, running about in her bare tootsie-wootsies in an effort to increase the blood circulation and make them comfortable. A woman friend with her explained to the officer that Maggie would go home as soon as her pedal extremities were in condition but this Maggie refused to do.

She weighs 200 pounds and McKeon hesitated at taking her in tow but finally assumed the contract and with the aid of the hurry-up wagon landed her in a cell. She pleaded guilty to drunkenness in the city court this morning and was fined $3.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

Several Plainfield fans will go to New York on Sunday to see Hoboken play its first game of the season with the Cedars.

Leal's second team would like to arrange games with other teams in the city or vicinity. Address all communications to Leal's School, Plainfield.

Manager Daab will have a first class league pitcher on his list this season for emergency. He will use him at Hoboken on Sundays, and occasionally on Crescent Oval.

The exhibitions given in the South by the New York Americans have not been such as so bring joy to the hearts of their admirers. They have been defeated several times by minor leaguers

"Jack" Cronin, of the Brooklyn Nationals, who shut Westfield out last season by a score of 2 to 0, pitching for Plainfield, has been purchased by Manager "Jack" Dunn for the New Providence Eastern League Club. The price paid was $1,500.

GOLF.

More than likely the Plainfield Country Club will have a strong team this season. A captain will be selected soon and then the team will be selected.

There is good reason to believe that the Central Jersey Golf League will be re-organized for the season. The league was successful last year and afforded much pleasure to the members. The organizations comprising the league were Park Golf Club, Westfield Golf Club, Cranford Country Club and Colonia Country Club.

BOOK NEWS.

Public Library Notes.

Each Lent a perceptible increase is noted in the circulation of books bearing on personal religion. That these books, many of which are by the great masters in the spiritual life, may be brought to the notice of a wider circle, this list of the more important is given:

LITTLE BOOKS ON RELIGION.

Augustine, Saint, 354-430, Confessions. "The story of his life has been told by himself in that wonderful book addressed to God which he called the 'Confessions.'" Samuel Hart.

Baxter, Richard, Saint's Everlasting Rest. "There reigns in Baxter's writings, and not least in the 'Saint's Rest,' a robust and masculine eloquence. He possessed a rare insight, conscious or unconscious, into all which was truest, into all which was furthest removed from affectation and untruthfulness in the language * * * and one may recognize here an element, not to be overlooked, of the abiding popularity of the book." Archbishop Trench.

Brent, C. H., With God in the world. "Spiritual discourses on 'Friendship with God,'" by the Bishop of the Philippines.

Brooks, Phillips, Sermons. "The real secret of their power lies less in any characteristics of style than in the fine sympathy and tender love which run through them and kindle response in every heart." A. L. A. Catalogue.

Bunyan, John, Pilgrim's Progress. "The imperishable allegory on which Bunyan's claim to immortality chiefly rests." Canon Venables.

Felelon, F. de S. de la M., Spiritual letters to men; Spiritual letters to women. "The sweetness of his character, his tender and loving mysticism, his unction and simplicity, his crystal-clear thought and affectionate direct eloquence, mark him as unequalled in his own line as a director of souls and a teacher of men." T. J. Shahan.

Goulburn, E. M., Pursuit of holiness; Thoughts on personal religion. "Designed to be a help to earnest strivers in the spiritual life."

Gron, J. M., Hidden life of the soul. "This spirit underlies the whole thought—'All peace and happiness in this world depend upon unreserved self-oblation to God'— * * * He loves to inculcate simplicity; freedom from all affectation anp unreality." Preface.

Herbert, George, The temple. Izaak Walton thus characterizes the temple: "A book in which, by declaring his own spiritual conflicts, he has comforted and raised many a dejected and discomposed soul, and charmed them with sweet and quiet thoughts."

Huntington, Bishop F. T., Forty days with the Master. Meditations for Lent by the late bishop of Central New York.

Keble, John, The Christian year. "No one, and least of all Keble himself, anticipated its great success. Before his death it had passed through 95 editions and by the next year had reached 109 * * * nor is there yet any sign of the decline of its popularity." Cannon Overton.

Lawrence, Brother, Practice of the presence of God the best rule of a holy life. A little book whose present wide-spread popularity among Protestants is probably due to its mention by James in his familiar essay, The gospel of relaxation.

Sergieff, J. T., (Father John,) My life in Christ.

Taylor, Jeremy, Holy living and Holy dying. "These two books with Taylor's Worthy communicant may be said to offer a complete summary of the duties and specimen of the devotions of a Christian," Heber.

Thomas a'Kempis, Of the imitation of Christ. "For more than four centuries, the chief manual of devotion for Christian lands." W. Maccall.

Thorold, A. W., Bishop of Rochester, Presence of Christ. Devotional meditations on the XXIII Psalm.

This is the man who caters to the 'inner man'

H. H. ROGERS' DEFENSE

Standard Oil Company's Statement From Vice President.

DISTRUSTS DR. GLADDEN'S DEACONS

Corporation Challenges Opponents to Bring Proof of Dishonesty. Mission Board's Reason For Accepting the Gift.

NEW YORK, April 1.—H. H. Rogers, vice president and director of the Standard Oil company, has issued a statement as to the conduct of the Standard Oil company, which was evidently prompted by the criticism of the prudential committee of the American board of foreign missions for accepting a gift of $100,000 from John D. Rockefeller. Mr. Rogers said:

"Ministers say queer things. Dr. Washington Gladden says that everybody knows that John D. Rockefeller has obtained his money dishonestly. With as much reason I could say that everybody knows that Dr. Gladden would not trust the Ten Commandments for ten days with the deacons of his church because they would surely break some of them and bend the rest.

"Slavery in certain sections of the United States was legal until President Lincoln's emancipation proclamation. Rebates on railroads were just as legal until the passage of the interstate commerce commission act. After an exhaustive examination by the industrial commission, authorized by congress June 18, 1898, in a review of evidence the commission reported as follows:

"'It has been charged as a matter of general belief on the part of almost all the opponents of the Standard Oil company that these discriminations in various forms have been continually received, even up to date. On the other hand, these charges have been denied in toto and most emphatically by every representative of the Standard Oil company with reference to all cases excepting one, which they claim was a mistake, the amount of freight due being promptly paid on discovery of the error. The Standard Oil company not merely challenged the opponents to bring forth proof of any case, but produced many letters from leading officials of railroads to show that the company had in no case received any favors or asked for them.'"

It became known here that prior to the final action by the prudential committee of the American board of commissioners of foreign missions in accepting the $100,000 gift tendered by John D. Rockefeller a number of prominent members of the board at a meeting held in this city considered the matter at length. As a result the parties to the conference issued a statement, in which they declare that they did not consider that the acceptance of the gift would compromise the board in any way. Among those who signed the statement were Rev. J. W. Cooper, secretary of the American Missionary association; Lucien C. Warner, chairman of the International Y. M. C. A.; Rev. C. H. Richards, secretary of the International Congregational Church Building society; Rev. A. H. Bradford, ex-moderator of the National Congregational conference; Rev. Edward P. Ingersoll, secretary of the American Bible society; William H. Ward, editor of the New York Independent; Rev. J. J. Merrill, president of Fisk university, Nashville, Tenn.; Rev. Frank K. Sanders, dean of Yale University Divinity school; Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, Rev. Charles E. Jefferson, pastor of the Broadway tabernacle, and Rev. Henry W. Hubbell of Greenwich, Conn.

The statement issued as a result of the meeting was as follows:

"The prudential committee of the American board has been requested to refuse a certain gift for its missionary work on the ground that the giver is the president of a corporation whose business methods are extensively criticised by the press and public.

"Compliance with this request would put upon the board, which is a corporate trust created for the definite purpose of maintaining missions in foreign lands, the very grave responsibility of refusing money which has been given for the development of the work intrusted to its care or in aid of particular objects for which it is trustee.

"It would also establish the precedent of subjecting individual gifts to a scrutiny not heretofore regarded as practicable for a mission board to exercise.

"We do not therefore consider that the acceptance of this gift compromises the board in any way, and we cannot recommend any departure from the long established usage of the board in receiving with thankfulness funds intrusted to its care for the prosecution of its important work."

The Damaged Liners at Halifax.

HALIFAX, N. S., April 1.—It is believed that the temporary repairs to the steamer Albano, recently in collision with the steamer Parisian, will be completed in time to allow her to sail for Philadelphia next Tuesday. A false stem section is being fitted. Little progress has been made toward raising the Parisian.

Chess Expert Pillsbury Better.

PHILADELPHIA, April 1.—The condition of Henry N. Pillsbury, the noted chess player, who underwent an operation in the Presbyterian hospital in this city last Tuesday, was reported last night as much improved.

He Walked on the Track.

MIDDLETON, N. Y., April 1.—R. Eli Mapes of this city was instantly killed by an express train on the Ontario and Western road while walking on the track. He was sixty years old.

WOODSHADE AT BENNINGS.

Favorites Had an Off Day on Washington Track.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The favorites had an off day. With the exception of Woodshade in the fifth, who was made the favorite at post time, they failed to make a winning. With Baird up, Woodshade, by a beautiful spurt, passed Wild Irishman, who had made the running into the stretch, and won easily. In the preceding race Belden, with the same rider up, won handily from Veribest, the heavily backed favorite. The handicap for three-year-olds went to Right and True, who led all the way to the wire. A feature of the day was the running of Tiptoe, who easily outfooted T. S. Martin in the second event. Summaries:

First Race.—Right and True, first; Rocklands, second; Arabo, third.

Second Race.—Tiptoe, first; T. S. Martin, second; Tickle, third.

Third Race.—Bob Murphy, first; Tootsey Mack, second; Toi San, third.

Fourth Race.—Belden, first; Veribest, second; Away, third.

Fifth Race.—Woodshade, first; Fairbury, second; Wild Irishman, third.

Sixth Race.—Port Arthur, first; Sir Ralph, second; Hagamans, third.

Agile at Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 1.—Interest in the card at Montgomery park centered in the fourth race, the mile and a sixteenth event for three-year-olds, a preliminary to the Tennessee Derby, which will be run Monday. Captain S. S. Brown's colt Agile, by Sir Dixon-Alpena, easily defeated C. Ellison's John Smulski and the Topgallant colt Jack Lory from the stable of John W. Schorr. Both Agile and Jack Lory are prominent candidates for the Derby.

Morita Was Overlooked.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—The bookmakers at Oakland cleared up handsomely in the first race, Morita, entirely overlooked in the betting, outfooting the two choices, Double Six and Royal Rogue. Prince Brutus, in the last race, woke up unexpectedly and ran a high class race, winning from Cigar Lighter and Misty's Pride. Four favorites won.

WANTED REST AND QUIET.

Former Member of "Angel Dancers" Shot Himself at "the Lord's Farm."

PARK RIDGE, N. J., April 1.—John McClintock, for many years a member of the band of so called "angel dancers" at "the Lord's farm," near this place, among whom he was known as John the Baptist, committed suicide last night by shooting himself with a rifle.

McClintock, who came from Philadelphia, left the community at the farm some months ago, saying that he desired to seek rest and quiet. A few days ago he went to board at Archibald Lytle's farm, near his old quarters. He appeared to be depressed and restless and spent most of the nights prowling about the country. When Lytle returned from work he found his boarder lying dead in his room, with a rifle clasped in his arms and a bullet through his heart. His feet were bare, and he had evidently pulled the trigger with his toe.

Man's Body and Other Effects Found.

ALTOONA, Pa., April 1.—Two young men gathering arbutus on Brush mountain, opposite this city, found the body of a man who had died probably two months ago. The body was dressed in a green suit and brown overcoat. In the pockets was a bottle partly filled with whisky, a bottle of medicine, $1.35 in money, a Cincinnati Enquirer, dated Jan. 4; a map of St. Joseph, Mo.; a card bearing the name Iona Merritts, 601 South S street, St. Joseph, and the name John Chase, Saratoga, Wyo.; a railroad ticket from Wathena to Troy and a gold nugget.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Tour.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Mrs. Roosevelt and three of her children, Miss Ethel, Kermit and Archie, left Washington last night at 8:40 o'clock on the Atlantic Coast line Florida special for Jacksonville, Fla. There they will board the yacht Sylph for a cruise of some days. They do not expect to touch at any ports and will be on the water practically all the time in the vicinity of Jacksonville.

FIGHT AGAINST HYDE

Many Extraordinary Charges In Equitable War.

PAYROLL AND CAMBON PAYMENTS?

Report Says It Is Admitted That Assurance Society Paid For Banquet to French Ambassador. All Refuse to Talk.

NEW YORK, April 1.—To investigate a sensational allegation made by a faction in the Equitable Life Assurance society that a number of J. H. Hyde's personal servants are on the company's payroll, State Superintendent of Insurance Hendricks has called a meeting of the warring parties at his office, 11 Broadway.

It is openly asserted by persons prominent in the organization that many of the young vice president's servants are being paid out of the treasury of the company, in which he owns a majority of the capital stock. One of these employees, a man who manages Mr. Hyde's country estate, is said to receive a salary of $300 per month. His name is said to be on the payroll of the Equitable society and at their offices he is said to draw his salary monthly.

At no time except on these monthly pay days does this man show up at 120 Broadway, it is said. So persistent are these men in their statements that for the purpose of getting at the truth of things without adding to the split Mr. Hendricks called the meeting.

Among those on hand were James H. Hyde, Frank H. Platt, J. A. Gulliver, James W. Alexander, John D. Crimmins, Cornelius N. Bliss, Elihu Root, E. W. Bloomingdale and former Judge William N. Cohen.

The gathering lasted until shortly before 3 o'clock. Mr. Hyde refused to talk, and Mr. Crimmins was equally reticent.

The greatest secrecy was observed by all. Elihu Root said:

"This was a meeting to which there were continual accretions."

Frank Platt said he knew nothing about the report that Mr. Hyde's servants were on the payroll of the society. He threatened to call a policeman when a reporter accosted State Superintendent Hendricks and asked him if his lips were sealed by the Equitable society.

Earlier Mr. Platt said that he would push the fight for immediate mutualization as the one way to settle the present difficulties.

The Equitable, it is now admitted, paid for the $30,000 dinner to M. Cambon given by the young vice president, James H. Hyde. It is said that Mr. Hyde reimbursed the company on the examination of its books by the state superintendent of insurance.

It is now understood that Mr. Platt had in his possession when he went to Albany to attend the hearing before the state superintendent of insurance a copy of a letter written by Mr. Hyde to the Equitable Life directing that the cost of the Cambon dinner be charged up to the company.

It was this letter and other documents, the nature of which is kept a close secret, in the possession of the counsel to the policy holders' committee which caused Elihu Root, Mr. Hyde's counsel, to beg Mr. Platt and the policy holders' committee to consent to an adjournment of the hearing.

Mr. Hyde's friends still deny that Mr. Hyde paid for his famous French costume ball and other social functions, save the Cambon dinner, out of the funds of the Equitable.

Following the conference called by State Superintendent of Insurance Hendricks at his New York office, at which were present many of those directly interested in the Equitable controversy, announcement was made on apparently good authority that no agreement had been reached. None of those present at the meeting would discuss it. Members of the so called Crimmins committee of policy holders and officials of the company attended.

One Dead, Saloon Wrecked.

OMAHA, Neb., April 1.—As a result of the explosion of a flashlight apparatus here one man is dead and another badly injured. Preparations were being made by an unknown person to take a flashlight photograph of a saloon on Eleventh street when, without warning, the apparatus exploded and fragments of the photographer's body were blown in all directions. William A. Murray, a bystander, was seriously cut about the head. The saloon building was wrecked by the explosion.

Plainfield, N. J., April 1, 1905.

Don't forget the Dreamland Carnival.

How Mrs. Chadwick must envy Mr. Hyde.

There does not seem to be much in a name after all when we think of Hyde and the Equitable.

An exchange states that the Czar is thinking of peace. First time anybody gave him credit for thinking at all.

If there's any further discussion about that Rockefeller $100,000 gift—well no, we'll stay poor but honest.

H. H. Rogers rises to remark that "Ministers say queer things." No mention is made of Brother Lawson.

Who dares says that the Legislature is crooked after such a searching, far-reaching and thorough investigation of the alleged corruption incident to the passage of the canal abandonment bill? When the newspaper correspondent suggested the members take the stand and swear that they were innocent, of course there was a general rush to carry out the idea.

It is noticeable that the New York newspaper cartoonist is not working overtime on the Jersey commuter. Instead he's devoting himself to the real commuter, the fellow who takes the subway or "L" to Harlem or the Bronx and eventually reaches his destination at some time or other. The man from the Bronx prides himself that he doesn't have to go away out in Jersey to reach his home. No, he lives right in the city and it takes him only forty-five minutes to get to his fireside—if the Interborough is not tied up. He lives in a stuffy home; pays an exorbitant rent, and has the pleasure of residing in a foul atmosphere at the best. Of course he doesn't mind the fact that his house is attached to others on both sides and the only beautiful grass he sees is that in a plot, six by four, in his back yard—if he is lucky enough to have one. He is willing to pay fancy prices for the necessities of life and he is not at all worried because his children are compelled to drink poor milk. In fact the New York man who tells you he lives "up-town" considers himself quite a fortunate being. Think what a contented man he is in comparison with the commuter from Plainfield for instance. This man rides on a road which runs its trains on schedule time and they get him home in forty-five minutes. His rent is cheap and his household expenses are comparatively small for he buys for his table the best at the lowest prices. He can view the beautiful lawns, shade trees and well macadamized streets from any of the four sides of his comfortable house. His children can romp at will about the country without fear of being run down by a vehicle. They and their parents can enjoy all the outdoor sports. They drink pure milk and eat wholesome food and breath pure air. In fact the commuter has every opportunity to be healthy and happy—but then he belongs to that much caricatured class known as the Commuter. Poor fellow!

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Final action by the Piscataway Township Board of Education will undoubtedly be taken toward the school question at the meeting to be held Monday evening at Pierce School, East Bound Brook. The newly elected board will meet with the purpose of issuing a call which will be submitted to the legal voters. This call will be for authority to bond the township to purchase land, build and furnish schoolhouses. The appropriations will probably be as follows: $20,425 to build and furnish school for New Market; $2,500 to build school at Parker's corner, furnished and inclosed by a fence; $2,500 to erect and furnish school at Kerwin's corner. It is expected that after the submission of this vote to the citizens of the township there will be no further delays in the matter. From the tone of the recent public meetings it is judged that the matter will meet with favor at another vote. The appropriations are not exorbitant considering the need of the public, and the only opposition which is looked for may come from the residents of South Plainfield.

Rev. S. K. Doolittle, for five years the pastor of the Dunellen M. E. church, will preach his last sermon in that capacity tomorrow evening. Since his residence in this borough, Mr. Doolittle has made many friends, who will unite with the community at large and his congregation in wishing him success in his new charge. The Methodist conference will meet at the Halsey Street church, Newark, on Wednesday, April 5. At this conference Mr. Doolittle will be assigned to his new charge, and in all probability Rev. Alexander Anderson, of Gladstone, will be given the local church.

A destructive fire was the one which burned Peter Schneiderwin's barn on Prospect avenue, yesterday afternoon. It started from an unknown cause and accomplished all the damage that was possible before it was under control. Practically the whole barn was destroyed, together with a cow, chickens and a quantity of hay, which brings the total loss to the amount of $1,000. Sparks from a locomotive is the only plausible cause assigned to the fire, as there seems no possibility of an incendiary.

The firm of Shephard & Grady, decorators, has been established in the Dealaman building, in the store formerly occupied by Howard Bird. The firm came recently form Elizabeth, and has the contract for interior decorating at the First Baptist church, of New Market.

A large gathering enjoyed the dime social given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the Methodist church, last evening. A considerable sum was received from the proceeds, and from the boxes which were brought in. Light refreshments were served.

The Mills house on Walnut street, no occupied by Mrs. Mary Coriell, has been rented to Harry Reid, of Jersey City, who will move here about the middle of next month. Mr. Reid is an engineer on the Central Railroad.

Rev. W. W. Casselberry will occupy his pulpit tomorrow for the First time in two weeks. He has recently returned from a vacation at Lakewood.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

"Rivivals and Soul Winnings," will be the topic of Rev. T. Moore-Smith's sermon at the Baptist church tomorrow morning. At the close of the sermon the monthly communion will be held. In the evening the topic will be "How to Live the New Life."

A large delegation from the Epworth League, of the Methodist church, enjoyed the address given by Yung Liang Hwang at Grace M. E. church last night. The speaker is a class mate of Rev. Mr. Coons at Drew Seminary.

Fishermen are having good luck of late fishing for suckers at the Back Pond. Several days ago a follower of Walton from Plainfield landed one weighing over three pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hollingsworth, who have been residing in Plainefld for several years, have leased the Coles cottage on Stout avenue, moving in Thursday.

It is needless to say the teachers of the public school are glad April 1 came on Saturday, as the average school boy makes a teacher's life miserable on All Fools' Day.

The Township Committee met last night in the town rooms. A number of bills were paid and considerable other business of a routine nature transacted.

Mr. and Mrs. William Johnston have rented the Hetfield house on Front street, taking possession today.

Rev. Warren P. Coons leads the weekly prayer and praise service at the Methodist church tonight.

Henry C. Meyers contemplates erecting several houses this spring on his property on Bartle avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gray have been entertaining Mr. Gray's brother, Adam Gray, of Newark.

John Reick has sold his property on Forest avenue to a number of the Italian colony.

Miss Sadie Reger is spending Saturday and Sunday with relatives at Morristown.

The Parks cottage on Park avenue has been rented to a Dunellen party.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Township Board of Education will hold a meeting at the Pierce School in East Bound Brook, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, for the purpose of issuing a call to submit to voters for authority to bond the township to purchase land, build school houses and furnish them.

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

That bad man, Mayor Newton B. Smalley, who sits in the saddle and dictates all kinds of trouble for the borough, as so fully printed by Mr. Honeyman in a recent newspaper article, is not so bad a man when his actions as Mayor have been analyzed. What will he be later on when he has all the best element of both factions in the borough behind him to give us better schools, better streets and better sanitary conditions than has existed heretofore. Now he must stay in the saddle and see that our borough is sewerage. Every property owner knows how important a matter this is and this bad man Smalley must fight for annexation and win. Strangers coming into our borough refuse to buy property because of improper sewerage. This is the most important subject that he and those abetting him can take up for consideration at the present time.

It is not all good that good men do so we will let that "ring side affair" drop and say it was a mistake and the Mayor says it must never happen again. It was a fortunate thing that the Mayor did not see it himself as he has been in so many political fights the past two years he might have donned the gloves When that bad man, the Mayor gave his permit for a boxing contest he perhaps was aware of the position taken by Senator Coggeshall, in New York State Senate, defending his vote in favor of boxing contests. He pointed out that in 1904 only four men were killed in prize fights while twenty-six splendid young fellows died from the result of playing football. They had better enact a law to step in and save these manly victims rather than to throw up their hands in holy horror when made acquainted of the fact that some tough gets hit on the nose in a cheap athletic contest.

TREPOFF SHOT AT.

Terrorists Attempt to Kill Governor of St. Petersburg.

GENERAL ADVANCE OF OYAMA'S ARMY

Three Arrests at Russian Capital of Men Having Bombs In Their Possession—Fighting Organization Condemns Many to Death.

LONDON, April 1.—A late dispatch from St. Petersburg says an attempt was made to murder General Trepoff, the governor general of St. Petersburg. A revolutionist fired two shots at Trepoff as he was driving to the Winter palace. Both shots missed.

The "fighting organization" of the terrorist party is known to have condemned to death more than a score of personages, including General Trepoff and the Grand Duke Alexis, the czar's uncle, high admiral of the Russian navy. The police have arrested many persons with bombs in their possession, but have been utterly unable to find the real center of the widespread plot which is believed to exist.

St. Petersburg dispatches say that the news from the front indicates that Field Marshal Oyama has begun a general advance of his main army, with wings far extended.

Heavy reconnaissances are being made against the Russian center, with the object of developing the Russian position.

A dispatch from General Linevitch says the enemy is displaying great activity east of the railroad in the vicinity of Sipinghai.

General Linevitch has forbidden the inhabitants of Harbin, with the exception of the women and children, to leave that place without special permits, fearing that the town may be denuded of workmen.

A special report says that the police have by chance foiled what is believed to have been a plot to kill Governor General Trepoff, according to the latest details of the affair. A man dressed as a messenger was observed lounging at the corner of Great Morskaia street, about a block away from the entrance to General Trepoff's chancellery. The man attracted no attention at first. A policeman, noticing that the man's face was not familiar to him, approached the supposed messenger with the object of interrogating him. The man thereupon became alarmed, drew a revolver and fired at the policeman, but missed him. The policeman then overpowered his assailant and arrested him.

Almost at the same hour that the bogus messenger was being arrested on Great Morskaia street the police, who have been keeping a sharp lookout at the hotels and lodging houses, discovered several bombs of the terrorist pattern in a trunk belonging to a stranger who occupied a furnished room in a house in Pushkin street, but who was absent at the time the police searched his apartment. The man was promptly taken into custody when he returned, and two individuals who called to see him were also arrested. All the prisoners declined to give any account of themselves.

ROOSEVELT AS PEACEMAKER.

Report That France and Germany Would Object to His Mediation.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—While no definite proposals for our good offices between the belligerent powers have been received here, it is a well ascertained fact that through both Russian and Japanese channels President Roosevelt has been apprised that mediation by him would not be unwelcome.

But the fair prospect of peace which this information holds forth is seriously marred by equally reliable intimations that interested powers in Europe do not view our president's assumption of the role of peacemaker with unmixed complacency. It is known indeed that some of them resent the idea.

Officials of the White House and state department are naturally deaf to all questions concerning the pourparlers now in progress, but there is good authority that cannot be disputed for the statements here made.

It may be assumed that the objecting powers are France and Germany and possibly, though not probably, England. The two former were concerned with Russia in denying to Japan the fruits of her victory over China, thereby creating the condition of affairs which lies at the bottom of the present war.

France has, of course, important financial and political interests at stake by reason of her vast investments in Russian securities and her half secret alliance with the government of the czar.

As for Germany, her sympathies from the beginning of the war have been with her northern neighbor, her interests in the orient are large, and there is every reason to believe that the kaiser, controlling what he considers the greatest military power in the world, expects confidently that he will be consulted in any steps that may be taken in the readjustment incidental to a declaration of peace.

President Roosevelt has on various occasions made public avowal of his eager readiness to do what he can to bring the war to an end if the combatants will signify a willingness to listen to proposals to that end made through him. It is barely possible, therefore, that present hints from the fighting nations that they are willing now to listen to him may result in a cessation of hostilities.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

NEW YORK, April 1.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Trade returns are increasingly satisfactory, continued high temperature accelerating distribution in all leading lines. The closing days of March brought greater confidence regarding the future, and results for the first quarter of 1905 proved even more favorable than was anticipated when the year opened. Sanguine expectations of manufacturers who made extensive preparations are now being realized. Reports from the south indicate that the period of hesitation is about over, and agricultural sections are stimulated by prospects of a good season for planting.

Freight congestion has followed the heavy shipment of spring merchandise, and railway earnings in three weeks of March were 8.2 per cent larger than in 1904. Official returns make the cotton crop fully a third larger than the one preceding, and still prices are far from demoralized. With the subsidence of floods the mills have resumed, water traffic is heavy, and the percentage of unemployed is seasonably reduced.

The most tangible news relates to winter wheat, which develops very rapidly, and an early harvest is practically assured. There is scarcely any complaint regarding injury from the elements or insects.

Liabilities of commercial failures thus far reported for March amounted to $8,475,815, of which $3,116,118 were in manufacturing, $4,822,978 in trading and $537,719 in other commercial lines. Failures for the week numbered 244 in the United States against 208 last year and 33 in Canada compared with 16 a year ago.

Jumped to Death From High Bridge.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 1.—While the Wabasha street bridge was crowded with pedestrians and vehicles an unknown man vaulted over the railing of the middle span and disappeared in the Mississippi river, a hundred feet below. The act was so sudden that onlookers were dazed, and no attempt at rescue was made, the man drowning in full view of the crowd. His body has not been recovered.

LIQUID AIR FOR THE HOUSE

Rooms Are Found to Be Cooled Easily and the Ice Man's Occupation Is Gone.

Skeptical housewives may smile when told that liquid air and its products, oxygen and nitrogen, will ever be of economic value to them in cooling the house. There is every indication, however, that within the next decade these commodities will be delivered at the door for cooling purposes, just as milk and groceries are delivered to-day, and at a minimum price. When this time arrives architects will plan for cooling pipes just as they do now for heating apparatus. Inventors have now perfected their system, however, to the extent that they are building a plant which will manufacture every 24 hours liquid air which in cooling effect will be equivalent to 200 tons of ice. At first they propose to interest large establishments where the liquid air will be delivered ready for use at one-twentieth of the present cost. Later, when its value is recognized, it will be delivered to the housewife in insulated containers ready to attach to the pipes leading to the coil overhead. This coil, by the way, will be made as ornamental and inconspicuous as possible and will cost no more than the heating pipes. As nitrogen is one of the most perfect preservatives known, it is predicted that when it becomes plentiful through the manufacture of liquid air it will be possible to do away with ice so far as the kitchen refrigerator is concerned.

KINDS OF LIFE INSURANCE.

Statement of Actual Difference Between the Various Forms of Policies.

The fundamental principles of insurance policies are most simple, is the comforting assurance contained in Henry Wysham Lanier's article on "How to Buy Life Insurance" in the World's Work. There are, to begin with, two great divisions, "participating" and "non-participating" policies; that is, those in which the insured person shares in the "profits" of the company, and those that furnish protection against death for a given term, and nothing else. A man of 25 may by paying $50 to $75 a year know that, if he dies within ten years, his estate will receive $5,000; but if he is still alive at the end of that time, he has nothing to show for his money. This whole class of policies can practically be disregarded, since, in this country at least, hardly anybody wants "term insurance," as it is called. Of the participating policies, the main kinds are; the "endowment," which pays to the insured himself a certain annual sum at the end of a term of years; the "full term," by which payments are made by him, until death; and the "limited payment," which calls for a higher premium through 10, 15 or 20 years. The subdivisions from these are various, but they are not necessarily complex.

WHIST ONCE A CRUDE GAME

First Known as "Triumph," Whence the Word "Trumps" Is Said to Be Derived.

Whist was first called "triumph," a name which was afterward corrupted into "trump." The eighteenth century saw whist in its primitive form, the whole object of the game being to win tricks by leading high cards or by trumping. Then came the era of Hoyle, which may be said to have lasted from 1730 to 1860, and taught players to think not only of their own hands, but of the other hands also, and to take advantage of the positions of the cards in them. Hoyle also taught that trumps might be more profitably employed than in simple trumping, and showed that they might be used to disarm the adversary and to obtain secondary advantage in trick-making by other suits of less apparent power. It was not until 1860 that the philosophical era can be said to have begun, and the origin of the new movement was a knot of young men at Cambridge, England, known as the Little Whist school. This body kept records of its games, but no one thought of making the data known until 1861. Coherence in the system of play was still wanting, and this was supplied in 1864 with Dr. Pole's essay on the theory of the modern scientific whist.

Life of Korean Women.

In no country is the life of women more pathetic than in Korea, where it might be termed imprisonment with hard labor from the age of seven until death. Little girls are secluded from the time of their betrothal. At ages varying from ten to 16 years they are married to men they have never seen and go away to take their places as menials.

Spaniards Emigrating to Cuba.

Out of a total of 20,211 immigrants to Cuba in the last fiscal year, 16,176 were from Spain. There were but 1,200 Americans among the immigrants, and out of the total there were but 3,500 women, as women do not seem to like Cuba—that is, other than Spanish women. One-third of the Americans and Canadians who go there are accompanied by their women folk.

Must Confess Before Execution.

In Sweden confession is necessary before capital punishment can be carried out. If, however, the culprit persists in protesting his innocence in the face of overpowering evidence, the prison discipline is made extremely strict and severe until the desired confession is obtained.

Codex Psalmarum Sold.

The sum of $20,000 was paid at a London auction the other day for a "Codex Psalmarum" of the year 1459, of which only 20 copies were originally printed.

WHAT WILL BE WORN.

Modes For Tailor Mades—Plain Full Skirts In Vogue.

Some of the three-quarter coats button almost to the throat, leaving only space for a high linen collar and a lace jabot. But the most stunning of them have a narrow waistcoat of fine embroidery in white and pale blue with a line of silver. When worn with a stole of ermine the effect is very smart.

The newest skirts are invariably plain, falling in long, straight lines, trimmed often with two or three tucks above the hem or with rows of exquisite silk braid.

In the new smart dress models the sleeves are fitted with a short shoulder after the Louis XVI. style. The bodice is swathed about the figure in some becoming fashion, with the inevitable sharply pointed girdle effect in front.

The satin Louis coats have made immense strides in popularity since their introduction here a few months ago from Paris.

All sleeve fullness must now be at the top or droop gracefully from the elbow.

The dress in the cut is of mushroom lightweight broadcloth. The skirt is simply trimmed with stitched strappings of cloth. A small scalloped collar of blue silk, with girdle to match, completes this very Frenchy costume.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SPRING FOOTGEAR.

Patent Leather With Cloth Uppers Makes the Smart Shoe.

The smart shoe of the season will be of patent leather with snug fitting broadcloth uppers. These shoes have high heels on the Cuban order and the vamps are of the softest leather, with rounded toes. When expense is not to be considered the uppers match the gown material. But when the shoes are bought ready made the usual colors for the uppers are black, white and checked cloth.

These shoes are worn by children as well as grownups. They are expensive, but give the foot a trim, neat appearance.

Spats are very much worn, but they are not always made to fit the outline of the instep and heel.

For smart occasions the patent leather shoe has a cream colored cloth upper fastened with small cream white buttons.

Skirts will be fuller than ever about the feet. Every conceivable trick to extend the width is being employed. Around the hips they fit smooth.

The new silks are almost a trimming in themselves with their small checks, shadowy figures and beautifully shaded stripes.

Tucks will be used on the new spring gowns combined with lace and braid.

Embroidery will trim silk shirt waist dresses. This season the embroideries are exquisite, dignified and original enough to appear with credit on any kind of gown.

The girl's dress illustrated is of chambray. The full skirt is trimmed with rows of narrow white linen braid. The odd collar on the blouse waist is of all over embroidery trimmed with braid. The deep cuffs and chemisette and narrow belt are of the same embroidery.

Kate Bonnet

The Romance of a Pirate's Daughter

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

Being now commander of two vessels, which might in time increase to a fleet, Capt. Bonnet's ideas of his own importance as a terror of the sea increased rapidly. On the Revenge he was more despotic and severe than ever before, while the villain who had been chosen to command the tender, because he had a fair knowledge of navigation, was informed that if he kept the bark more than a mile from the flag ship he would be sunk with the vessel and all on board. The loss of the bark and some men would be nothing compared to the maintenance of discipline, quoth the planter pirate.

Bonnet's ambition rose still higher and higher. He was not content with being a relentless pirate, bloody if need be, but he longed for recognition, for a position among his fellow-terrors of the sea, which should be worthy of a truly wicked reputation. A pirate bold, he would consort with pirates bold. So he set sail for the gulf of Honduras, then a great rendezvous for piratical craft of many nations. If the father of Kate Bonnet had captured and burned a dozen ships, and had forced every sailor and passenger thereupon to walk a plank, he would not have sinned more deeply in the eyes of Dickory Charter than he did by thus ruthlessly, inhumanly, hard-heartedly, and altogether shamefully ignoring and pitilessly passing by that island on which dwelt an angel, his own daughter.

But Bonnet declared to the young man that it would now be dangerous for him and his ship to approach the harbor of Kingston, generally the resort of British men-of-war, but in the waters of Honduras he could not fail to find some quiet merchant ship by which he could send a message to his daughter. Ay! and in which—and the pirate's eye glistened with parental joy as this thought came into his mind—he might, disguised as a plain gentleman, make a visit to Mistress Kate and to his good brother-in-law, Delaplaine.

So Dickory was forced to be satisfied, and even to admit that there might be some good common sense in these remarks of that most uncommon pirate, Capt. Bonnet.

So the Revenge, with her tender, sailed southward, through the fair West Indian waters and by the fair West Indian isles, to join herself to the piratical fleet generally to be found in the waters of Honduras.

CHAPTER XIII.

A GIRL TO THE FRONT.

THE days were getting very long at Spanish Town, although there were no more hours of sunlight than was usual at the season; and even the optimism of Dame Charter was scarcely able to brighten her own soul, much less that of Kate Bonnet, who had almost forgotten what it was to be optimistic. Poor Mr. Delaplaine, whose life had begun to cheer up wonderfully since the arrival of his niece and her triumphant entry into the society of the town, became more gloomy than he had been since the months which followed the death of his wife. Over and over did he wish that his brother-in-law Bonnet had long since been shut up in some place where his eccentricities could do no harm to his fellow creatures, especially to his most lovely daughter.

Mistress Kate Bonnet was not a girl to sit quietly under the tremendous strain which bore upon her.

"Uncle," she said, "I cannot bear it any longer, I must do something."

"But, my dear," he asked, looking down upon her with infinite affection, "what can you do? We are here upon an immovable island, and your father is sailing upon the sea, nobody knows where."

"I thought about it all last night," said Kate, "and this is what I will do. I will go to the governor; I will tell him all about my father. I do not think it will be wrong even to tell him why I think his mind has become unsettled, for if that woman in Bridgetown has behaved wickedly, her wickedness should be known. Then I will ask him to give me written authority to take my father wherever I may find him, and to bring him here, where it shall be decided what shall be done with him; and I am sure the decision will be that he must be treated as a man whose mind is not right, and who should be put somewhere where he can have nothing to do with ships."

This was quite childish to Mr. Delaplaine, but, for Kate's dear sake, he treated her scheme seriously.

"But tell me, my dear," said he, "how are you going to find your father, and in what way can you bring him back here with you?"

"The first thing to do," said Kate, "is to hire a ship; I know that my little property will yield me money enough for that. As for bringing him back, that's for me to do. With my arms around his neck he cannot be a pirate captain. And think of it, uncle! If my arms are not soon around his neck, it may be the hangman's rope which will be there."

Mr. Delaplaine was troubled far more than he had yet been. His sorrowing niece believed that there was something which might be done for her father, but he, her practical uncle, did not believe that anything could be done. And, even if this were possible, he did not wish to do it. If, by some unheard-of miracle, his niece should be enabled to carry out her scheme, she could not go alone, and thoughts of sailing upon the sea, and the dangers from pirates, storms, and wrecks, were very terrible to the quiet merchant. He could not encourage this night-born scheme of his niece.

"But there is one thing I can do," cried Kate, "and I must do it this very day. I must go up to the governor's house, and I pray you, uncle, that you will go with me."

It was not half an hour after that Kate and her uncle entered the grounds of the governor's mansion.

CHAPTER XIV.

THE GOVERNOR OF JAMAICA.

THE governor of Jamaica was interested in the visit of Kate Bonnet, whom he saw alone in a room adjoining the public apartments. He had met her there two or three times before, and had been forced to admit that the young girls of Barbadoes must be pretty and piquant in an extraordinary degree.

But now she was different. Her sorrow had given her dignity and had added to her beauty. She quickly told her tale, and he started upright in his chair as he heard it.

"Do you mean," he exclaimed, "that that pirate is your father? It amazes me! The similarity of names did not strike me; I never imagined any connection between you and the captain of that pirate ship."

Now Kate was weeping. The governor did not attempt to console her. Her sorrow was natural, and it was her right.

When she looked up again she spoke about what she had come to ask him for; the authority to bring back her father wherever she might find him, and to defend him from the attacks of all persons, whoever they might be, until she reached Jamaica. And then she told him how she would seek for her father on every sea.

The governor sat and pondered. The father of such a girl should be saved from the terrible fate awaiting him, if the thing could possibly be done. And yet, what a difficult, almost hopeless thing it was to do. To find a pirate, a fierce and bloody pirate, and bring him back unharmed to his daughter's arms and to reasonable restraint.

He spoke earnestly. "What you propose," he said, "you cannot do. It would be impossible for you to find your father, and if you did, no matter who might be with you, and no matter how successful you might be with him, his crew would not let him go. But there is one thing which might be done. His majesty's war vessels report at different stations. I might send a dispatch to his majesty's naval officers, ordering them not to harm your father, but to take him prisoner, and to bring him here to be dealt with."

Kate sprang to her feet.

"An order!" she exclaimed, "an order to withhold the hand of the law from my father? Ah, sir, your goodness is great, this is far more than I had dared to expect!"

"I beg you to be seated," said the governor, "and let me assure you, that in offering to send this order, I do not in the least expect you to take it."

"From my heart I thank you, sir," cried Kate, "give me the orders and I will take them, or I will—"

"Nay, nay," said the governor, "such offices are not for you, but I will give the matter my present attention. Rely on me, my dear young lady, my order shall go by the very earliest opportunity."

Kate rose and thanked him warmly. "This is much to do, your excellency, for one poor girl," she said.

"It is but little to do," said the governor, "and that girl be yourself."

With that he rose, offered Kate his arm, and conducted her to her uncle.

When Mr. Delaplaine was made acquainted with the result of the interview, both his gratitude and surprise were great. He comprehended far better than Kate could the extent of the favor which the governor had offered to bestow. It was, indeed, extraordinary to commute what was really a sentence of death against a notorious and dangerous pirate for the sake of a beautiful and pleading woman. An ambitious idea shot through the merchant's brain. The governor was a widower; he had met Kate before. Was there any other lady on the island better fitted to preside over the gubernatorial household? But, although a man of high position could not wed the daughter of a pirate, a pirate, evidently of unsound mind, could be adjudged demented, as he truly was, and thus the shadow of his crime be lifted from him. This was a great deal to think of in a very short time, but the good merchant did it, and the fervor of his thankfulness was greatly increased by his rapid reflections.

As they were on their way home Kate's eyes were bright, and her step lighter than it had been of late. "Now, uncle," said she, "you know we shall not have to wait for any chance ship which may take the governor's dispatch. We shall engage a swift vessel ourselves, by which the orders may be carried. And, uncle, when that ship sails I must go in her."

"You!" cried Mr. Delaplaine. That can never—"

"But remember, uncle," cried Kate, "it is just as likely that I shall meet my father's ship as any other. My father shall be brought here and the good governor will make him safe, and free him, as he best knows how, from the terrible straits into which his disturbed reason has led him."

HOOKER UNTRUE TO HIM.

George C. Tiffany Testified That He Was Hostile to Judge.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 1.—That his part in the agitation against Justice Warren B. Hooker and in the publication of charges connecting the justice with alleged irregularities concerning appointments and rental matters in the postoffices at Fredonia and Dunkirk was due entirely to Justice Hooker's failure to secure his appointment as postmaster at Fredonia was most candidly admitted by George C. Tiffany, a Fredonia undertaker, to the assembly judiciary committee in its investigation of the charges involving Justice Hooker.

He declared that he and Justice Hooker had been close friends for many years and that the justice, then a representative in congress, had promised to secure the postmastership for him, but had "proved untrue" to him. Both Tiffany and William C. Hudson, the latter a representative of the Brooklyn Eagle, positively denied the assertions of Frank P. Ball, who testified last Wednesday that Tiffany had tried in Hudson's presence to influence him to make statements which would result in Justice Hooker's removal from the bench.

"I loved him as a brother," said Mr. Tiffany in explaining his relations with Justice Hooker. He said he had known Mr. Hooker for twenty years and had been extremely friendly toward him until four years ago, when Taylor was appointed postmaster.

"How long did that love last?" asked Lewis B. Carr, counsel for Justice Hooker.

"Until he became untrue to me."

"When was that?"

"When he gave the postoffice to Mr. Taylor after he had promised it to me."

"Since that time you have been bitterly hostile toward Judge Hooker?"

"Yes, sir."

"And you have never hesitated to say so?"

"No, sir."

Tiffany added that he had organized a league to investigate the Hooker matter and had been offered its presidency, which he declined. At one of the meetings resolutions derogatory to Mr. Hooker were adopted, concerning which Mr. Carr asked:

"They were intended to be hostile to Judge Hooker, were they not?"

"Yes, sir."

TO FIGHT EXTRADITION.

Smith Couple, Wanted For Conspiracy, Unwilling to Appear.

NEW YORK, April 1.—Assistant District Attorney Garvan has left for Cincinnati to conduct the legal proceedings necessary for the extradition of J. Morgan Smith and his wife.

Although the fact was not discussed at length officially in the district attorney's office, it is known that the Smiths will make a strenuous fight against being brought back to this city.

A Columbus report says that on application of Robert McNaught, a sergeant of detectives of New York, papers were issued at Governor Herrick's office for the extradition of J. Morgan Smith and wife, Julia Patterson-Smith, who are under arrest in Cincinnati and are wanted in New York on a charge of conspiracy to blackmail the late Caesar Young. The papers were quickly issued, and Detective McNaught left at once for Cincinnati.

Smith and his wife, Mrs. Julia Smith, at the house of detention, have declared that they had spent quite as comfortable a night in the custody of the police as they had enjoyed at any time during their flight through Canada and various parts of the United States in their efforts to evade arrest and avoid returning to New York to testify in the Nan Patterson case.

On the subject of their connection with the alleged murder of Caesar Young, however, they would say little. This silence undoubtedly has something to do with a telegram received from Washington, which read:

"Keep your mouths shut."

It was signed "H. L."

Smith, however, made the assertion that he had nothing to fear in going back to New York.

Newfoundland House Opens.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 1.—The colonial legislature has opened here. Governor MacGregor in the speech from the throne congratulated the colony upon the prosperous condition of affairs during the past year and said that for the last four years the colony's favorable balance of trade had averaged over $1,250,000 annually. Everything indicated the continuance of prosperity, the fisheries having brought large returns, and the prices have been the highest for years.

Decision Against Cable Company.

CARACAS, Venezuela, April 1.—President Arnal of the highest court has decided that the French Cable company has forfeited its contract by failure to fulfill its terms, and he decided against the government in the action for damages resulting from the company's acts. Five days are allowed the company to appeal for a reconsideration by the entire court, whose decision is final.

Kaiser's Escort Ship In Collision.

GIBRALTAR, April 1.—The German cruiser Prinz Friedrich Karl, escorting the Hamburg American liner Hamburg, with Empress William on board, collided with the British battleship Prince George in going alongside the new mole here. The damage was slight.

Sudden Death of Dr. Hewett.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., April 1.—Dr. E. C. Hewett, for fifteen years president of the Illinois State Normal school, died suddenly here yesterday. He was seventy-seven years old.

DIAMOND DUST.

George Bradley, who played third base for the Alis team last season, is now employed at Somerville.

Washington, Warren county, fans are getting anxious. No prospects of a team at that place are rather discouraging.

A baseball league comprising the high schools of Phillipsburg, Hackettstown, Belvidere and Washington, has been organized.

High Bridge fans are getting together and will soon organize a team. It is said that a number of fast players have been secured.

Bradgley, who pitched for Plainfield last season, is now pitching for Trinity College team, and will have a chance to go up against the big college aggregations.

The first baseball game of the season on local grounds was played yesterday between the Franklin and Lincoln school teams. Franklin won by a score of 4 to 0.

The first practice of the Orange Field Club baseball team takes place this afternoon on Hope Common at 3 o'clock. There will be about thirty candidates for the team, which promises to be one of the best which the club has ever had. George Conover will captain the aggregation, and the manager will be Howard Woolston. Games are being booked with the strongest teams in the State and the club is anxious to take part in the proposed amateur baseball league of teams in the vicinity. It is expected that the Plainfield headquarters of the team will be on Hope Common, where a diamond will be laid out. Among the candidates are George Conover, George McVey, Peter Emmons, Harry Joseph, Harry Hook, John Todd, Charles Hellyer and Clifford Smith, all of whom have played with the team in former years and are good at the game.

GOLF.

The season schedule for the Park Golf Club is now in course of preparation and will be announced soon. The Westfield Golf Club will also announce its schedule within a short time.

The Sixth annual tournament of the New Jersey State Golf Association will be held on the course of the North Jersey Country Club June 1, 2 and 3. The courtesies of the club will be extended to tournament players during the week of May 29 Leighton Calkins, of this city, as secretary and a member of the executive committee of the association, will be one of the officers in charge. It is expected that there will be several entries from the Plainfield Country Club.

Leighton Calkins has written a little book entitled "A System for Club Handicapping," which is a complete guide for golf handicapping. It is printed by the publisher of "Golf," the official organ in this country. Mr. Calkins' system has been adopted by the Metropolitan Golf Association and by nearly every club in this district. It has also been adopted in Massachussets and in the West. Leading golfers everywhere endorse it as the most careful system yet suggested and scientific in each detail. The pamplet is being sold at a nominal sum. Copies can be had at Harper's stationery store store in Park avenue.

VOLTA CURED MY RHEUMATISM AND SAVED MY LIFE.

FOR three and one-half years I suffered agony from sciatic rheumatism with no prospect of ever finding relief, an object of solicitude among my friends—a hopeless cripple, in constant pain, dragging my limbs after me in constant torture. 'Doctors could do nothing to help me. I looked forward only to old age, as being a helpless burden to my family.

Then a friend urged me to try VOLTA.

I thanked him, but told him it was useless. He insisted that I try it, and I thought it would do no harm to humor him.

The result was marvelous!

It wasn't faith that cured me—for I had none.

My cure was the wonder of Brooklyn. I was well known to hundreds of people who came into Matthews' store. They knew what my trouble had been; and I was supposed to be incurable. Everybody wanted to know about the miracle.

Since then I have recommended it to hundreds who have been cured, and whose testimonials have poured in upon me.

I think VOLTA is the greatest medicine in the world—I KNOW it is.

That's why I want to recommend VOLTA to everyone who has RHEUMATISM, or whose friends have it.

I have suffered as you and your friends are suffering. I know all of the agonies of Rheumatism; and I know that VOLTA is the positive cure for the pain and disablement.

JAMES L. SMEDLEY.

(For many years in charge of second floor, at A. D. Matthews' Sons' store.)

Here is the testimony of some other Brooklyn people who have been cured by VOLTA:

RUFUS SMALL, 1060 Dean Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., says:
You can at any time refer rheumatic sufferers to me and I will be pleased to tell them what a wonderful medicine is the Volta Meteorite Electric Powder for the cure of rheumatism. I say wonderful, because, at my advanced age of 83 years, I had my doubts that your Powder would be of any benefit to me, hence I was very skeptical about it, but now, to the contrary, I will say to all those who are afflicted by rheumatism, by all means use Volta Meteorite Electric Powder; for myself I am a well man after using four (4) boxes. I called my case a miraculous one for I was able to throw away my crutches. I may add also that I am completely cured of a running sore in my right leg which was caused by the rupture of a varicose vein of 25 years' standing.
My cure cost me four dollars. I consider it would have been cheap at four hundred.

MRS. L. PHILLIPS, 358 Clinton Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., says:
It affords me much pleasure to testify to the merits of Volta medicine. I am a nurse and obliged to be on my feet a great deal. I had rheumatism in my lower limbs for years until I used the Volta Powder. Now I am happy to say I am entirely free from it. I have recommended it to at least fifty people and every one that used it derived great benefit.

MRS. CHARLOTTE L. BOLTON, formerly of 1935 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., says:
I am delighted to inform you that after using two boxes of the Powder was cured of inflammatory rheumatism of eight years' standing. Part of that time I was obliged to use crutches. Have been treated by the most celebrated physicians and visited nearly all the wonderful curative watering places in the world with no satisfaction.
It is now six months since my recovery, with no return of aches, pains nor stiffness. God bless the man who discovered the healer.

MR. HIRAM F. WAGAR, 34 South Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y., says:
I have suffered so intensely for four months with rheumatism as to be entirely unfit to attend to business. A friend of mine recommended to me the Volta Meteorite Electric Powder, by the use of which I am glad to say I am perfectly well, and you have my gratitude.

MR. T. F. HERMAN, 723 Union St., Brooklyn, N. Y., says:
I will heartily recommend Volta Meteorite Electric Powder to any one who suffers from sciatic rheumatism, and bless the makers of the Powder for the good it has done me.

Street Sprinkling Begun.

The sprinkling carts made their first appearance this season yesterday afternoon in the business part of the town and today they are continuing the good work. Mr. Wilson, chairman of the street committee, realizing the dusty condition of the streets, decided to start the sprinkling work a little earlier, although the Common Council has not yet ratified the action of the committee in awarding the contract to John E. Keely. This will be done at the April meeting on Monday night

HONOR MEMORY OF DR. YERKES

Great Throng at Union Service in First Baptist Church Last Evening.

SPLENDID EULOGIES

Local Churches Closed While Congregations Unite With Dead Minister's Parishoners to Pay Tribute.

Loving tribute expressing the high appreciation of the true worth of Rev. Dr. David J. Yerkes, who, for almost forty years served the First Baptist church as pastor, was given at a service held in his memory in that church last night. Not only in the very large attendance of members of all churches, which had been closed for this service, but in the deep and sincere words spoken by the various pasors of the city, as well as Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, and from out of the city, was united testimony of the exemplary life and character of Dr. Yerkes shown.

Dr. Chambliss was in charge of the service, and seated on the platform were Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York; Rev. Dr. Cornelius Sobenck, and Rev. Dr. T. E. Vassar, of Elizabeth. Other pastors present included Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, Rev. George Mooney, Rev. L. B. Howard, Rev. C. E. Herring, Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, Rev. William Montgomery Downey, Rev. A. E. Finn, Rev. F. D. Tildon and Rev. E. E. Jackson.

In addition to the several addresses there was a programme of appropriate music by the choir, besides the prelude, "O Rest in the Lord," Mendelssohn," by Dr. Leonard Waldo, 'cello, and Howard Case, organist. The other selections included an anthem, Agnus Dei—"Messe Solennelle," by Gounod; an anthem from the oratorio of Elijah, by Mendelssohn; by William Holmes, baritone; George Smith, tenor; Miss Luella C. Harris, soprane; Mrs. F. M. Ward, contralto. Mr. Holmes sang the solo part. Another anthem, "Blest Are the Departed," (from Spohr's Last Judgment,) was also rendered by the choir. Howard Case, organist, presided throughout.

After appropriate Scripture reading by Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, a prayer by Rev. Charles L. Goodrich and the singing of a hymn, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss spoke impressively by way of introduction. He said that rarely was such a tribute paid to any one. He referred to the recent death of Stephen A. Ginna, who stood for all that was noble and good, and added that there were men and women present who had lived so long in the community and been so prominently identified with its interests that when they die the bells will toll and flags will be displayed at half mast to do honor to them. He expressed the thought that all of this meant that it is worth while for a man to live on the higher plane, broadly, charitably, unselfishly, to hold all a sacred trust and in the words of another to "make all that can be made out of the stuff," so that the world will know the touch and real goodness and love and respond to it. "It was not because Dr. Yerkes was a great, but good man, not intellectually imperial, but golden, that his memory is honored," continued Dr. Chambliss, "and his life an unfailing stream of goodness that we are here to speak of him. He stood a tower of strength. We are not here to mourn, for death was not cruel to him." Dr. Chambliss then read the last poem of Rev. Dr. Babcock, entitled "Emancipation," and said that he knew that were Dr. Yerkes living he would say Amen to every word of it.

Dr. Chambliss said that there are now living only two officials of the church who were such when Dr. Yerkes assumed his pastorate here—Oliver B. Leonard, the church clerk, and L. V. F. Randolph, a trustee. Mr. Leonard then read a short sketch called retrospection, in which he said that he considered it an honor that he prepared the call extended to Dr. Yerkes. He referred to his masterly discourse and the commencement addresses he heard delivered when he was a student at Bucknell University, which institution conferred the degree of D. D. on the venerable pastor in 1870. He said that he was in the prime of young manhood when he came to Plainfield in 1863 and referred to his long and faithful services. At that time there were 254 members enrolled and during his pasterate over one thousand members were received. He said that he was endowed with power of mind, physical strength, was modest and kind always.

One of the most impressive tributes was given by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Sobenck, of Trinity Reformed church, who referred to his first meeting with Dr. Yerkes eighteen years ago, how he took his hand and welcomed him to this city. Dr. Sobenck said that Dr. Yerkes was pre-eminently a preacher, that some of the best sermons he had ever heard were from his lips. He mentioned a discourse he heard him preach several years ago at the First Presbyterian church, another at the McKinley memorial service and another during revival services in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. At this last named service, the one announced to preasch failed to appear and Dr. Yerkes was chosen. He described how effectively he told about the divine mission of Christ. "He was a prince among preachers and there was never a doubt about his sermons," said Dr. Sobenck. "He believed thoroughly in the authenticity and inspiration of the Bible."

Rev. E. E. Jackson, paster of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, then read a set of resolutions adopted by his church, expressing true appreciation of the departed minister. Owing to a misunderstanding Dr. Rush Rhees failed to send an intended written testimonial, but in response to a telegram, he replied with a beautiful tribute, giving expression to his feelings of love and admiration which he had held from his boyhood acquaintance with Dr. Yerkes, of his catholicity and consistent ministry in things of eternal life.

Another touching tribute was in the original poem by L. V. F. Randolph, which was read by himself. It is as follows:

"THE FRUITFUL OLIVE TREE."

"A fruitful Olive near the temple stood
And suffered Summer's Heat and Winter's blast;
To it came old and young for shade and food
For four score years it valiantly stood fast.";

"The patient Olive sent its roots to streams
Sweet and far-flowing from the Gracious Throne.
Its crown's fair fringes caught the glory-gleams
Of Light Divine—on land and sea unknown.'

"At eve, the Orchard-Master, clothed in Love,
Here walked, and marked this tree of ripest grace;
And found it meet this Olive to remove
For richer fruitage to a fitter place."

"And now, we know, as from His Fane on High
Betimes He treads His Mount of Olives there,
As erst to Bethany, His tender eye
Falls on this Tree, which loves The Master's Care."

Rev. Dr. T. E. Vassar, pastor of the Baptist church, Elizabeth, added strong testimony in his words of appreciation of Dr. Yerkes, whom he had known for so many years. He said that of the 126 Baptist ministers in the State when Dr. Yerkes came here, only eight are now active and twelve are in other parts of the country. He said that Dr. Yerkes enshrined the Word of God in his faith, and if one would see him truly they must open Bunyan's Pilgrim Progress and study the life of "Evangelist." He spoke of him as a citizen of God's broad kingdom.

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis referred to the time when he first met Dr. Yerkes, before he came to this city, and from 1880, when Dr. Lewis settled here, until Dr. Yerkes' death he had found him to be bread, firm, conscientious and with an opinion. He said that he belonged to the "High Church of Baptist doctrine" and that both old and young should feel it an honor to have been associated with him and they could count it among their richest blessings to have had such a one to lead us.

Mason W. Tyler, for many years a near neighbor and friend of Dr. Yerkes, said that he was pre-eminently a minister of the Gospel, and that when he was laid to rest the influence of his fruitful life would continue to live on. Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, of the First M. E. church, said that in Dr. Yerkes was a realization to him of his boyhood days of the ministry, that he was a man in the best sense of the word. He referred to his strong convictions and courage, which had won the respect of all who knew him. With him God was an abstraction, but one in whom he believed

DIMINUTIVE PRISONER ANXIOUS TO BE LOCKED UP

BAFFLED CITY JUDGE AND POLICE WHEN ACCUSED OF STEALING A WHEEL.

The city court revealed an unusual case of precociousness this morning, when Wilfred Henry, a colored boy, was arraigned on a charge of stealing a wheel from a schoolmate, George Murray. He was so small that Judge Runyon had to rise from his seat to see him over his desk, yet he told a clever story and offered what appeared to be a conclusive alibi. It was overcome by testimony from William Green, who was positive that he saw Wilfred take the wheel from its resting place on West Fifth street, yet Chief Kiely and the Judge could not make him admit the theft.

Finally as a clincher, the Chief ordered him to be locked up and to the surprise of all in the court, Wilfred's face lighted up with a smile and he asked Officer McCarthy to "please hurry and put him in cell." This was part of the plan he had concocted to get out of the scrape but it was seen too readily and much to his disgust he was brought back and informed that the Reform School was where he was going. That unnerved him and he owned up that he had taken the wheel and that it could be found in a repair shop where he had ordered new handle bars and different colored enamel. It will be a long time before he forgets the lecture he got when he was discharged in the custody of his mother.

WARNED TO REFRAIN FROM PERSECUTING YOUNG BOY

COURT ALSO LECTURES GASTON AND SMITH, THE TORMENTORS.

After nearly a year's persecution of George Morrison, a boy residing on Plainfield avenue, William Gaston and Herbert Smith, two young men living in the same neighborhood, were arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning. A specific complaint was entered against them by Mrs. Morrison, the boy's mother, but both pleaded not guilty.

Plenty of evidence was brought forward to show that Gaston in particular had seized every opportunity to make life miserable for young Morrison and for many months past had made it a practice of stealing his cap, shoving him off the sidewalk and frequently threatening to "break his head." The trouble which directly caused the complaint took place two weeks ago when both Gaston and Smith chased him off a baseball field on Grant avenue and then pursued him for nearly a mile while he ran in terror. They received a lecture from the court and then had sentence suspended with the warning that a continuance of their actions would get them in serious trouble.

MEMORIAL DAY PLANS.

G. A. R. Preparing for Its Annual Observance.

The joint committee from Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and the Women's Relief Corps met Saturday night to further plans for the observance of Memorial day. The work of training the children in the singing of patriotic songs was delegated to the women, and an invitation extended by Rev. Phil. Parsons to attend divine service at the Christian church on Grove street, Sunday night, May 28, was accepted. Other minor details were completed.

The exercises will be held in Reform Hall on Memorial Day with an attractive programme.

Grist From the City Court.

Included in a list of city court cases this morning, Judge Runyon disposed of the following "drunk and disorderlies" picked up by the police over Saturday and yesterday: Patrick Parcell, an old offender, sixty days straight; Thomas Ryan, $5 or twenty days; Patrick Donovan, sentence suspended; Guiseppe Demfino, $5 or twenty days; Harry Ryan, sentence suspenced; Alfred Sanderson, charged alone with disorderly conduct in David Thompson's Park avenue pool room, sentence suspended.

Tribute to the Late Dr. Yerkes.

The New Jersey Baptist Bulletin in the April number publishes a strong tribute to the memory of Dr. Yerkes. Among other things this is said: "He was first, last and all the time a minister of Jesus Christ, a preacher of righteousness, a pastor to his people, and he counted this the highest honor that could come to him."

NO CHAIRMAN FOR PARTY

Somerset's Democratic Committee Holds Stormy Session.

FIGHT OVER LEADER

Frech and Dungan Candidates—Frech's Friends Leave Meeting.

A stormy session of the Somerset County Democratic Executive Committee was held Saturday afternoon in the parlors of the Somerset House at Somerville. The meeting was an adjourned one, called to receive the resignation of Chairman Jacob Shurts and to select a successor to fill that position. A secretary was also to be chosen. The candidate for the position of chairman were County Attorney John A. Frech and former Prosecutor Major N. Y. Dungan.

An opposition to the candidacy of Mr. Frech had been formed by Surrogate DeMond and former Assemblymen Klotz and Pace. The meeting was called to order at 3 o'clock and rapid cross-fire of words and motions filled the room. Surrogate DeMond and Jacob Klotz were told they were not members and asked to refrain from taking part in the proceedings. It seems that Mr. Frech had procured a large number of proxies of members who were not present and to this the opposition took serious objection.

A vote taken to prevent these proxies being used was, by the secretary, declared to stand six to five, with one not voting, to which Mr. Frech objected, stating that it was six, six. Here occurred considerable wrangling. Another vote was asked but the chairman would not put the motion. There are twenty-eight members of the committee.

Then a motion to adjourn was put and the vote on that was seven to five. At this announcement the followers of Major Dungan left the room.

During the session one member of the committee suggested that it would be a good idea if the committee adjourn sine die, whereupon D. J. Carney, of North Plainfield, said: "What a blessing that would be to the Democratic party of Somerset."

There is much unfavorable discussion on the action of the minority leaving the meeting in the manner in which they did. This is more noticeable so in the cases of former Assemblymen Klotz and Pace and the present surrogate, W. J. DeMond, who are being severely censured for their actions.

Those who left the meeting were Martin Liddy, of Bernards; Peter Sutphen, of Hillsborough; W. C. Linbarger, of North Plainfield; George E. Pace, of Millstone, and Mr. Haley, of Raritan, with the others above mentioned.

The most amusing feature of the entire proceedings was that a question had been raised that there was not a quorum present after the first vote had been taken. A majority calls for fourteen. The seven and six vote was what the contenders placed their objections on. Of course they neglected to count on the chairman, who made the fourteenth.

Dreamland Promoters Meet.

The Oshkosh Club held an informal meeting Saturday at the Casino to discuss the Dreamland fair venture. Another meeting is scheduled for tomorrow night but owing to the death of Mr. Fisk's mother it is likely to be postponed.

J. M. Whiton on Florida.

The Men's Club, of the Congregational church, tomorrow night will listen to a talk on Florida by John M. Whiton. There will also be musical numbers by J. H. Sanford. Refreshments and a social time will follow.

Funeral of Miss Ruby.

The funeral of Miss Monica G. Ruby, who died Saturday morning after a brief illness, will be held from the home of her sister, Mrs. E. D. Murphy, of Sandford avenue, tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Penn. Alumni Banquet.

The annual banquet of the New Jersey Alumni Association of the University of Pennsylvania, was held at the Continental Hotel, Newark, Saturday night. There were no Plainfield members present.

Estate of W. S. Stevens.

Letters of administration have been granted to Alvah Gray, of Dunellen, estate of William S. Stevens. The personal estate does not exceed $300.

Mrs. Thomas Doud, of Duer street, returned home Saturday after spending a week at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ellen Hartnett, of Watervliet, N. Y. She was accompanied by Mrs. Hartnett, who intends remaining a short time.

C. J. FISK'S MOTHER DIED THIS MORNING

WIDOW OF FAMOUS BANKING HOUSE'S FOUNDER PASSES AWAY.

Mrs. Louisa Fisk, mother of former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, of West Seventh street, died this morning at Atlantic City, following an illness of long duration. She went to the shore three weeks ago in the hope that the change would be beneficial, but she gradually grew worse passing away at 7:20 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. Fisk's home was at "Wilburtha," Trenton Junction, and there she spent her summers. She possessed rare womanly qualities and was loved and admired by a host of friends. She was a frequent visitor at the home of her son in this city. Her husband established the well-known banking firm of Harvey Fisk & Sons in New York, which is now in charge of the several sons.

She was 70 years of age. Surviving Mrs. Fisk are three daughters, Mrs. Samuel Thurber, of New York; Miss Mary Fisk and Miss Evelyn Fisk, who lived with her; also five sons, Edward, Pliny, Charles J., Alexander and Wilbur Fisk. The immediate family was with Mrs. Fisk when she died, having been summoned to Atlantic City, yesterday. Arrangements for the funeral will be made later.

PLAYERS WARMING UP FOR THE SEASON'S OPENING

MANAGEMENT ALSO ADDING FINAL TOUCHES TO PLANS.

An informal opening of the local baseball season took place Saturday afternoon, when "Dave" Driscoll, captain and first-baseman, and "Jimmie" Beisel, pitcher for the Plainfield team, spent a couple of hours on Crescent Oval in practice. There was the usual crowd of young baseball enthusiasts on the oval and all joined in the practice. Both Driscoll and Beisel are in the best of condition and they were as lively as a pair of two-year olds. They batted, fielded and ran in mid-summer form, although the strong west wind was a handicap to them.

Lines Groe met Chief T. O. Deane, and W. S. Bullock, chairman of the fire and building committee, at the oval in the afternoon and conferred with them about the improvements to be made. These will include the strengthening of the covered stand, the building of dressing rooms for players and the erection of separate toilet rooms for the men and women. Comfortable quarters will be arranged for the official scorer, Charles Dixon, and the representatives from the local press. This will be covered and provided with a table upon which to write. If the present fine weather continues work will be started this week putting the oval in condition.

At first the management thought it advisable not to issue season tickets, having confidence in the public to give the team loyal support, and appreciate the efforts to place a strong nine in this city and book only the best attractions. As the season approaches the association has received many requests for season tickets, as many of the "regulars" do not like to stand in line to purchase tickets, especially if in carriages or autos. Besides, the women are anxious to secure them for the same reasons. These tickets will be issued on Wednesday, good for twenty games, grandstand seats, $6 per ticket. They can be secured at The Daily Press office, J. P. Powers, druggist, Somerset street, and Marcus Hoyt & Co., on North avenue.

Theodore Cornwell Buried.

The funeral services of Theodore Cornwell, the little boy who died a few days ago as the result of burns, were held yesterday afternoon from the home of the parents on Clinton avenue. Rev. George Mooney, pastor of the Monroe Avenue church, officiated. There was a large attendance of friends, including many children. There were also many floral tributes. The interment was in Hillside cemetery.

New Jail for Somerset County.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders has decided to erect a new county jail this summer. It will be built before work is begun on the new court house and will be located on a site back of the present jail. An underground passage will lead from it to the new court house.

DR. GROSZMANN HONORED

Notable Men Speak at School Anniversary Celebration.

AT WATCHUNG CREST

Fifth Year of the Institution Which Occupies Old Mountain Park Inn Property.

With an almost cloudless sky, and a delightful spring breeze, typical of the bright, happy environment in which the school exists, no better day could be desired for such a celebration, than was Saturday afternoon for the commemoration of the fifth anniversary of the birthday of Dr. Maximilian Grossmann's School, for atypical and exceptional children at Watchung Crest. Simple exercises by the pupils opened the programme, after which Dr. Grossmann made the welcoming address. Dr. Grossmann next introduced Associate Superintendent Dr. Edward L. Stevens, of New York, the first to suggest the subject of special treatment for atypical children to the Board of Education of New York.

Dr. Jennie B. Merrith, superintendent of the kindergarten work in New York, was the next speaker. She spoke of the excellent foundation which the school had from the splendid educational principals set down by the public school system of Plainfield. She referred to the work of Miss Bulkeley, former principal of the Plainfield Public Schools.

Superintendent Homer J. Wightman, of the North Plainfield Public Schools, made a brief address in which he expressed the gratitude of the public school workers for the efforts which Dr. Grossmann has extended.

Dr. William H. Murray, school physician of the Plainfield Public Schools, made an address explanatory of his work in the schools, and in appreciation of the task which Dr. Grossmann has accomplished in the establishment of a school for atypical children. Hugh F. Fox, of this city, president of the State Society of Children's Guardians, congratulated Dr. Grossmann upon his work, and emphasized the fact that without such men as Dr. Grossmann the State is powerless in the solution of the educational problem. "The State corrects but does not anticipate evils," Mr. Fox said. "Being constantly under the criticism of the tax payer, the State must show the justification of a cause before undertaking work of this kind. It is Dr. Grossmann who has shown to the State and to the world at large, not alone the justification of this work, but the necessity of such undertaking on a larger scale.

Congratulatory letters were read from Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the Plainfield Public Schools; Dr. Walter L. Hervey, of the New York Board, Herbert L. Osgood, of Columbia University, who has a child at the Grossmann School; Dr. F. C. Ard, of this city, and Dr. Henry L. Taylor, of New York.

At the conclusion of the addresses, refreshments were served, and the guests were invited to make an inspection of the rooms.

Cross Withdraws From Practice.

Inasmuch as the federal law prohibits a judge of the United States Court from practicing law, Senator Cross in accepting an appointment on the bench dissolves his partnership with Louis H. Noe. It is a dissolution of an almost life-long partnership and is sincerely regretted by both. They have been together in the practice of law thirty-six years. Mr. Noe will continue to practice law.

The first communion service was held at Faith chapel, yesterday morning, under the charge of Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor. There were over sixty communicants. Those assisting Pastor Musson were U. B. Crane, L. W. Randolph and Frank Stewart, as officers of the chapel.

Seventh-Day Baptists Hear Encouraging Reports.

ANNUAL MEETING

Letters From Former Pastors Read—The Officers Are Chosen.

The sixty-seventh annual meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist church was held yesterday afternoon and evening.

After a short social session, the business meeting opened with a report read by J. A. Hubbard, secretary of the Board of Trustees. He stated that the church property is in good condition, and referred briefly to certain improvements which are pending. The treasurer's report showed the receipts of the church for benevolent and current expenses to have been $5,040 while for objects outside the church, $1,378 had been raised. $1,000 has been raised on subsidiary church property. The treasurer is J. F. Hubbard.

The following officers were elected to serve for the coming year: Trustee, J. F. Hubbard; church clerk, Asa F. Randolph; assistant treasurer, George E. Stillman; auditors, Charles Dunham, A. L. Titsworth; chorister, David E. Titsworth; organist, Miss Jessie Utter; ushers, J. W. Mosher, C. F. Neagle, Lawrence Miller and Rollin Williams.

Among other items of miscellaneous business $342 was pledged for the Alfred University scholarship, which is held by the church. Of this sum, Mrs. George H. Babcock pledged $200, and J. F. Hubbard and J. A. Hubbard, $50 and $30, respectively.

The meeting then adjourned for supper which was served in the chapel.

Upon the resumption, letters were read from former pastors, Rev. Dr. Arthur E. Main, and Rev. W. B. Kelley. Rev. George B. Shaw, pastor of the church, read this report for the year, in which he summarized the work of the pastor, stating the various duties performed in the capacity of preacher, pastor and superintendent of the Intermediate Society of Christian Endeavor. Asa F. Randolph read the clerk's report, and Orra S. Rogers reported for the Sabbath School. Mrs. W. B. Maxson read an interesting and complete report of the Women's Society for Christian Work. Charles F. Neagle represented the Senior department of the Christian Endeavor Society, and Mrs. Ira N. West told of the work of the Junior organization. The denominational colleges of the church, Alfred University, and Milton College were represented by a group of former graduates and Rev. G. B. Shaw, respectively. Mrs. Henry M. Maxson read the report of the denominational and local Christian work in which the Seventh-Day Baptist church is represented, mentioning the various societies in which the members are active. Dr. Henry M. Maxson presided as chairman of the meeting both afternoon and evening. The chairman for next year was chosen to be J. P. Mosher. The committee in charge of the exercises consisted of Mrs. Henry M. Maxson, Rev. G. B. Shaw, Dr. Martha R. Stillman, Mrs. W. B. Maxson, and Frank J. Hubbard.

Leal's School Basketball Team.

Scholastic champions of the city for the years 1904 and 1905, a wiry, speedy, athletic group of young men, the players on the Leal's School basketball team have every reason to be proud of the season recently concluded in which though defeated in aggregate points, they downed their rivals, the Plainfield High School, and made a creditable showing against the best teams of the State. During the year eleven games were played, five of which were won by the Leal's boys and including the most important games of the year.

The captain of the team was Charles Chapman, who put up an excellent game as forward. His record through the entire season was a good one, the majority of the points being thrown by the crack forward. Howard was also a good goal thrower, while Manning's characteristic features were long shots. Manning is a fast player, as well as a good guard. Jewett was the strong point of the team. Steady and sure, his man was always well guarded, and a few goals were always credited to him on the score book. Lyman covered the other guard for his team in a capable manner. He was a close guard, and played an all round good game.

As a team the boys were well classed. They passed together in good form, and held well to their positions. The aggregate points showing the games played and the results follow:

MORE INTERNAL TROUBLE FOR RUSSIA

Troops Fire on Jewish Socialists at Warsaw, Killing Two and Wounding Seven—Oyama's Bold Move to Take Vladivostok.

LONDON, April 3.—St. Petersburg dispatches say that from many places throughout Russia, including Tver, Berissoff and Sisran, reports come in of employees of warehouses and shops again threatening to strike, demanding shorter hours and more wages. There has been a general strike of shop assistants at Samara and Irkutsk.

According to the Russky Slovo, sixty workmen in a factory at Lodz have met death by poison, and twenty-eight are in a critical condition. It is supposed that strikers are responsible for the affair.

A commission has been appointed to examine claims for compensation growing out of the sinking of the British steamer Hipsang.

Dispatches from General Kuroki's army in the field say that two detachments of Japanese cavalry have returned to the army after the most extensive and dangerous scouting exploit of the war. The detachments were sent north early in January, under the leadership of Colonel Naganuma and Major Sasegawa, and numbered in all 300 men. Only 200 men returned. They explored the Russian positions west of Mukden. They encountered and eluded many forces of Russian cavalry and penetrated General Mistchenko's lines. Then going northward they crossed the railroad, cutting the road and the telegraph line during the battle. Afterward they visited Kirin and explored that place and finally returned to the army north of Kaiyuan.

Japanese scouts have advanced toward Hailung and collided with 300 of the enemy's cavalry at Shauciengtzu, thirty miles southwest of Seilung. The enemy, 4,011 men strong, retreated to Hailung. Large stores of cereals were found at various points between Yingecheng and Shauciengtzu. Yingecheng is thirty-five miles north of Hiengcheng.

At Warsaw a serious conflict occurred at 7:30 o'clock last night in Dzika street, where a Jewish Socialist society known as the Bund had organized a demonstration. The troops which came to disperse the gathering fired into the crowd, killing two persons and wounding seven others.

When Governor General Maximovitch arrived at Warsaw ten days ago to assume his official duties he ordered that the Cossack detachment awaiting him at the station be retired, saying he did not want an escort. Driving through the city later, however, the governor general's carriage was surrounded by twenty Cossacks.

The editors of the Polish newspapers here were summoned to the castle. Governor General Maximovitch received each of them separately in the most friendly manner and talked with them on various subjects freely, especially on the question of the censorship. He invited them to come to him in case of any difficulty.

Reports from Harbin state that the Japanese are leaving before the Russian front only a screen capable, with the help of the Mukden and Tie pass fortifications and garrisons, of holding in check General Linevitch and are transferring the bulk of their five armies to Vladivostok and by means of a wide movement through Mongolia to Tsitsihar. Considering the great distances involved, the plan appears too bold and almost impracticable, but Japanese intoxication from continued success, bold initiative and determined perseverance must be taken into account.

The situation affords an opportunity for Russian cavalry, which thus far has played an insignificant role, to distinguish itself by penetrating the Japanese lines and learning their strength.

General Linevitch has ordered the resumption of drills, keeping the soldiers occupied in the day time and music in the bivouacs at night. An energetic regime is being instituted. The soldiers are much attached to the new comander on account of his simple, soldiery style of living.

FALSE, SAYS GREENE

Head of Asphalt Company Denies Helping Matos.

CASTRO'S CHARGES TRUMPED UP.

Solicitor of State Department Reports That Accusations Made by Venezuela's President Are Untrue. No Assistance Given Rebels.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Solicitor Penfield of the state department reported last night that the charges made in Venezuela against General Francis V. Greene and the asphalt company of which he (Greene) was the head to the effect that he and the asphalt people had aided the Matos revolution were false. Some months ago General Greene submitted to the state department a sworn denial of the truth of these reports and had backed his denial by affidavits from responsible officers of the asphalt company, denying that they or the company had aided the Matos revolutionists in any way.

General Francis V. Greene has reiterated his denial of the charge of the attorney general of Venezuela that he had paid the sum of $130,000 to Matos, the revolutionary leader.

It was charged by President Castro that General Greene, as one of the officers of the asphalt trust, paid $130,000 for the support of the Matos revolution against President Castro and that the New York and Bermudez company entered into an alliance with the revolutionists to defeat the Castro administration. The charges were published in a decision of the federal district court of Venezuela on March 14, 1905. This decision was in denial of the motion made by the New York and Bermudez company for dismissal of the action of the court to compel the company to pay damages to Venezuela for having aided the revolution.

The charges against Greene say:

"Upon the definite conclusion of the alliance between the New York and Bermudez company and the chief of the liberating revolution when the latter was in New York during the month of June, 1901, the company began to supply him with the necessary funds to carry on the campaign. It was thus that when General Matos returned to Europe General Francis V. Greene, then president of the National Asphalt company and one of the directors of the New York and Bermudez company, in charge of the direction of all the affairs of the company in Venezuela, went to meet him during the month of July in order to contract for the purchase of a steamer and her necessary elements of war.

"They first met in Paris, General Greene going afterward to London and then to Glasgow, where he arrived in the early part of August, to examine several steamships then on sale. Upon his return to Paris he drew, through the Credit Lyonnais, on the Seaboard National bank of New York, of which bank General Greene was a director and where the trust to which the New York and Bermudez company belonged kept its account. Said draft, amounting to the sum of $100,000, was ordered to be paid by Mr. Sewall, secretary of the trust, who directed his cashier to charge that amount to an account under the name of 'government's relations,' which contained without details all the money expended on Venezuela. A few days afterward a draft for $30,000 was drawn and entered in the same manner.

"A few months later, as the result of General Greene's work in Europe, the fatally celebrated steamship Ban Righ, whose history of piratic depredations is known to all, came to the coast of Venezuela, carrying an immense amount of munitions of war and having on board the chief of the revolution."

Simolon Tunnel Opened.

ROME, April 3.—The Simolon tunnel, the longest in the world, was inaugurated yesterday morning, when from the Swiss and Italian sides the first trains passed through, meeting at the center, where there was the iron door which originally prevented the overflow of a torrent of hot water and which was then opened for the first time. The door was knocked down amidst frantic applause and cries of "Long live Switzerland!" and "Long live Italy!" bands played the Italian royal march and the Swiss anthem and the two nations' representatives embraced and kissed each other.

Mexican Congress Opens.

CITY OF MEXICO, April 3.—The spring session of congress opened here, and President Diaz read his message in the presence of a large audience of senators, deputies, representatives and distinguished visitors, including many Americans now in the city. He referred with especial emphasis to the close and friendly relations with the United States and also spoke of the general pleasant relations of Mexico with the prineipal nations of the world.

Mr. Hay declares that his health has been greatly improved by the trip, and Mrs. Hay also is enjoying the voyage. Secretary Hay is en route to the Riviera.

"THE CHRISTIAN OF TODAY."

Rev. Dr. Washington Gladden's Sermon at Columbus, O.

COLUMBUS, O., April 3.—The Rev. Dr. Washington Gladden, moderator of the general council of Congregational churches, preaching at the First Congregational church yesterday upon "The Christian of Today" said:

"The Christian of today is beginning to get a new idea of what it means to carry his religion into his business. He has found out that it signifies an earnest effort to make his business not only a means of gain, but an instrumentality of help and service to all his fellow men.

"Andrew Carnegie said some years ago, for instance, that a man may be as selfish as he pleases in the accumulation of a fortune if he will only be benevolent in the distribution of the fortune after it is made.

"That is not the best theory of the business man's responsibility. His greatest opportunities of benevolence are those which come to him in his business. It is while he is making his fortune, not after it is made, that he must prove himself a Christian.

"Gifts, no matter how munificent, which have been heaped up by extortion and trickery are not Christian benefactions.

"Some of the most gigantic robbers that the world has ever known, men who have accumulated hundreds of millions by wicked methods, are by some persons praised and flattered for their liberal gifts to churches and colleges and missions. Such an estimate does not represent the Christianity of today.

"The Christian of today distinctly sees that the Christianization of the great realm of industry and traffic is the most urgent problem now before them. It is a tremendous undertaking, but not too arduous for the all conquering grace of him who has banished infanticide, abolished slavery and lifted woman to an equality with man.

"The state is just as truly a divine institution as the church is, and the governor, the mayor, the superintendent of police, the member of the legislature or the city council or the school board is just as much a minister and servant of God as I am.

"I have just as good a right to use my opportunity here in this church to enrich myself or to push my personal ambitions as they have. If the scandal in the case of a pastor would be greater than in that of a public servant it is only because our notions about the service of the state have been terribly perverted."

OXFORD WON.

The Great English Boat Race Was a Procession.

LONDON, April 3.—Oxford won the sixty-second annual boat race between the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge by from three to four lengths.

The race was rowed under the most favorable conditions. There was not a ripple on the water, the wind was light and the weather was warm and bright. In view of this there was little advantage in the choice of stations.

The contest, always attractive, drew an unusually big crowd, as the waterside experts had predicted the best race in years, owing to the evenness of the crews. The prophecy, however, was not fulfilled, as Oxford speedily took the lead and held the advantage to the end.

Giants Win at Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 3. — The Giants continue to win in the south, in a hotly played game here they beat Louisville by a score of 8 to 3. Incidentally it may be stated that McGraw's men have been meeting all comers south of the Mason and Dixon line and have not yet been defeated. Wiltsie and Taylor, McGinnity and Matthewson alternate in the box.

Boston Beats Cincinnati.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 3.—In a baseball match here the Boston Americans beat the Cincinnati Nationals by a score of 9 to 1.

Positive of Mrs. Eade's Identity.

KINGSTON, N. Y., April 3.—Additional proof of the identification of the murdered woman found at Gardiner in Wallkill creek last Sunday as Mrs. William Eade of Walden, Orange county, was furnished when County Detective William Wood of Newburg examined the body and discovered a small mole on the back of the neck which had escaped observation. This removes the last doubt as to the identification. It is expected the Orange county officials, who thought the woman might not be Mrs. Eade, will now proceed with the investigation.

Officers of Looted Brig In Port.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Among the passengers who arrived per steamer Niagara was Captain Bernardo Guillemas of the wrecked Spanish brig Anton, which was looted by natives of Morgagama (Bahamas). With the captain were the mate and boatswain.

Rifles Sent by Roosevelt.

TANGIER, April 3.—American Minister Gummere, on behalf of President Roosevelt, has presented to Mulai Ali and Mulai Hamed, shereefs of Wazan, with handsomely inscribed rifles in recognition of their services in the Perdicaris affair.

PRESIDENT'S OUTING

Farewell to Washington For Two Months.

REUNION WITH HIS ROUGH RIDERS

Many Addresses and Speeches on the Way—Visits Kentucky, Missouri and Indian Territory—Will Hunt In Texas and Colorado.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—President Roosevelt left Washington this morning on a long trip to the west and southwest. He will be absent from the capital for nearly two months. One of the chief objects of the trip, which the president long has had in mind, is the reunion of his rough rider regiment of the Spanish-American war, which is to take place at San Antonio, Tex., next Friday and for which an elaborate programme of exercises has been arranged. There will be a number of brief stops en route to San Antonio, where the president will make addresses. Leaving San Antonio, there will be a brief stop and address at Fort Worth, which will terminate the public part of the trip, following which the president is to go hunting in the Panhandle of Texas and later in Colorado.

All arrangements have been made whereby the president will keep in touch with public affairs, both during his railroad ride and while hunting, so that he will be enabled to pass on all matters requiring his attention. The president is looking forward with keen pleasure to his long vacation.

The president was accompanied by Secretary Loeb, Dr. Alexander Lambert, General S. B. M. Young, Lieutenant G. R. Fortesque, Mr. M. C. Latta and Mr. J. L. McGrew and stenographers and representatives of newspaper press associations.

The first stop will be made at Louisville, Ky., at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. The president and party will pass in procession through the city, and the president will make an address. The train will leave Louisville at 11 o'clock, pass through St. Louis at 8 p. m., making a stop there of ten minutes, and at that point take the Missouri, Kansas and Texas road for San Antonio. A few short stops will be made in Indian Territory on Wednesday. At Sherman, Tex., where the party will arrive at 4 p. m., the president will leave the train, drive to the public square and make a brief address. Dallas will be reached at 6:30 p. m., and after a public address the president will attend a dinner.

The next stop will be at Waco, on Thursday, April 6, at 9:30 a. m. The president will speak briefly at Waco. He will reach Austin at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, address the joint session of the legislature at the capitol and later speak to the public on the lawn of the capitol.

The train will reach San Antonio at 8:30 p. m. Thursday, but there will be no public programme until the following morning. The object of the president in visiting San Antonio is to attend the reunion of his regiment. Exercises have been arranged which will fill the entire day, including a review of the regular troops at Fort Sam Houston, a procession in which the Grand Army and Confederate veterans will take part, luncheon at the rough riders' camp and a dinner by the Business Men's club at the Hotel Menger. The president will leave at 11 p. m. for Fort Worth, arriving there the next morning at 9:45 and leaving at 10:45. The programme at Fort Worth will consist of a drive and an address.

At Fort Worth the public part of the trip will end. The president will spend some days hunting in the Panhandle of Texas and will then go to Colorado for a hunt of several weeks' duration.

No plans have yet been made for the return trip to Washington.

A KENTUCKY WELCOME.

President Will Be Presented With Lincoln Souvenirs.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 3.—The local committee, headed by Hon. Logan C. Murray, in charge of the reception to President Roosevelt tomorrow, decided to make his short stay in this city not only a typical Kentucky welcome, but a reception representative of both north and south in a state bordering, as it does, both sections of the country.

Before the president takes his departure he will be presented with three gifts, intended as souvenirs of his visit, but nevertheless of a historical character. One is a silver flagon filled with water from the spring on the farm in Larue county on which Abraham Lincoln was born. On the flagon is a monogram comprising the letters "T. R." Another piece is a large silver vase, on which is engraved, "Louisville, Ky., April 4, 1905." The third gift is a unique piece in the shape of an inkstand. It was made from an oak tree which grew near the spring on the old Lincoln homestead. The ink holder is of silver, sunk into the wood.

Secret Meeting of Whisky Trust.

CHICAGO, April 3.—Fifty representatives of the leading whisky manufacturers of the United States have held a secret meeting here. Although it was rumored that the meeting was called by representatives of the whisky trust, so called, for the purpose of regulating the output and prices, nobody present at the meeting would either confirm nor deny the report.

Elliott Danforth Holds His Own.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The condition of Elliott Danforth of New York, who is ill with typhoid fever here, continues favorable. There is no delirium and no increase of fever, and no threatening symptoms have appeared.

Plainfield, N. J., April 3, 1905.

Minstrel Dookstader called on President Roosevelt yesterday. He didn't appear in his stage makeup and wasn't invited to lunch.

"Economy is of itself a great revenue;" and those who read the advertisements regularly are enabled to practice it in all of their buying.

The Democrats are taking more interest in Jefferson day dinners than they did in the campaign of Alton B. Parker. Well, they enjoy the "full dinner pail" even if it does come high.

An exchange directs attention to the modesty of Elizabeth as an office holding community in Union County and it leads some politicians to believe that Plainfield and Summit, which generally get the crumbs from the Republican table have had a little reason to complain of the way they have been treated during the last few years. Plainfield is better provided for than Summit, the Sheriff, County Attorney and Recorder of Deeds hailing from here. But here is what Elizabeth holds: United States Senator, Congressman, State Senator (now resigned to take a Federal judgeship,) County Prosecutor, Assistant County Prosecutor, Assistant County Attorney, Court Crier, County Collector, County Surrogate, County Clerk, Assemblyman, County Superintendent of Schools and Warden of County Jail.

HONOR DR. YERKES MEMORY

with all his heart. He was especially a minister and a pastor.

Rev. Dr. Richards, of New York, who had known Dr. Yerkes for many years, was the last speaker. He said that if there was one thing above all others that Dr. Yerkes possessed it was conviction. One couldn't doubt the reality of what he believed and one could say in the words of Scripture, "I know in whom I have believed." Such a person, Dr. Richards said one would go a long way to see and hear. He said that he was glad that the service was not one of mourning, but one that would inspire stronger hope in the future.

After the singing of a hymn the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass will preach his last sermon at the First M. E. church on Sunday.

The regular meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the First M. E. church will be held in Vincent chapel tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

A farewell reception to Rev Dr. W. C. Snodgrass and wife will be given in Vincent chapel tomorrow night. A fine programme will be presented.

The yearly parish meeting of the First Baptist church will be held Tuesday night, April 11. It will be the eighty-seventh annual meeting since the organization of the society.

There is a possibility that Arthur Drake, formerly organist of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will accept a similar position at the Second Reformed church, New Brunswick, as soon as his eyesight becomes strong enough.

The annual session of the Newark Conference of the Methodist church will be held in the Halsey Street M. E. church, Newark, on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock and will continue until the following Monday or Tuesday.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Monroe Avenue church, will conduct a "Grandmother's" supper on Thursday night, April 13. The members of the society number several highly skilled in the culinary art and the supper promises to excel all efforts in the excellence of its menu.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will be held Wednesday, afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. B. J. Shreve will read a paper on "Woman's Work for Women in Japan," and Miss Marion F. Randolph has prepared a domestic sketch of Japanese children for the meeting.

The Silver Cross Circle, King's Daughters, will give a charity tea and sale at the home of Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, of Rockview avenue, Tuesday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. At 4:30 a farce will be given. The proceeds from the affair will go toward the support of the King's Daughters' nurse.

AMUSEMENTS.

Stock gambling and sentiment go hand in hand in "A Case of Frenzied Finance," a new comedy by Kellett Chalmers, author of "Abigail," which William A. Brady will produce at the Savoy Theatre, New York, tonight, for the first time on any stage. Mr. Chalmers has recently achieved unusual distinction by the great success of his comedy, "Abigail," in which Grace George is now starring, and naturally his next play is awaited with much interest. It is said that the motive of the new comedy has been found in the recent trust-busting methods of Boston's famous frenzied financier, but Mr. Chalmers disclaims any intention of actually dramatizing Thomas W. Lawson or any of his associates in this play. There may be parallels, for instance, such as exist between a western bad man with a good heart and a celebrated colonel who has added to his reputation by flourishing a "notched gun" in Mr. Lawson's direction. But the play itself is a good natured farce with a serious touch of sentiment. It is a satire with a purpose, and yet a love story of absorbing interest. The financial and the sentimental themes attain a simultaneous climax, which is said to be both novel and daring. The scenes all take place in the gorgeous VanDillion Hotel, a shelter for vagrant millionaires.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., will confer the Order of the Temple, at a regular conclave tonight.

The Exempt Firemen's Association will hold its annual meeting tonight. Officers will be elected and reports presented.

The District Deputy of the Fifth Masonic District will visit Jerusalem Lodge, No. 36, F. and A. M., at a regular communication tomorrow night, to inspect the lodge.

Harry Lunger, of John street, has returned from a visit with relatives at Whitehouse.

CARPETS—SELECT THEM NOW

This is positively the best time to make your selections. Our stock is at its best, being more varied and complete now than it will be later in the season. The rapid rise in the price of wool is having a marked effect on manufacturers' prices. Carpets bought today would cost considerably more. It is simply a question of time when our prices must be advanced. We advise immediate purchases.

Sale of Porcelain Dinner Sets.

We have just received from the East Liverpool Pottery Co, 100 of their best grade of Decorated American Porcelain Dinner Sets, which we purchased at about half the original cost. These sets are first quality in every respect. The only reason the prices are so low is that the Pottery wanted to make a change in their decorations. Such an opportunity to secure a Dinner Set for a little money don't occur very often, and it will pay you to take advantage of this sale.

500 DOLLARS

is a fairly large amount of money. How to get it is a question, and how to take care of it after you do get it is another. The way to get it is to save, and deposit a certain sum each month. By allowing the interest to compound semi-annually, the principle is surprisingly increased. We take care of the large and small deposits and pay 3½ per cent. interest.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The gas ordinance will come up for its final passage tonight at the Council meeting, when with various changes and alterations to suit the demands of the citizens, the petition of the Public Service Corporation will be voted upon. There is little doubt that the ordinance will be passed, as according to the proposition submitted by Colonel Hine, of the P. S. C., the public is satisfied. There may be certain amendments passed, however, before the measure is carried through.

The baseball team was out for the second practice of the year Saturday afternoon, good material being in evidence. There were no regular positions assigned though the nucleus of the team is formed. The captain has as yet made no definite announcements, and no games have been secured by Manager Vail. No further developments in the league question have turned up, though it is now a certainty that the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. will be represented on the diamond in the coming season.

Hudson Wilcox was recently elected president of the W. U. D. B. E. Tennis Club, of the borough, and Arthur Bogardus was appointed chairman. The club has secured the use of the same courts which they played on last year, and will commence the season as soon as the the necessary repairs on the courts can be made.

Two side tracks on the railroad property between Washington avenue and Prospect are in the course of construction and will be completed this week. They will be used for freight purposes. Another track for the same use will shortly be laid on the south side of the railroad near Prospect avenue.

A delegation from William Helton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., attended the fair held under the auspices of Franklin Council, of Plainfield, last week. There were about twenty in the party, an enjoyable evening being the result.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Bedine have sold their house and will move to Plainfield this week. The property, including furniture, will be sold at a public sale on May 4

Engineer Runyon and R. L. P. VonMinden have been drawn by Sheriff Carman as the present term Grand Jurors from Piscataway township.

Lester Meseroll, who has for several weeks been confined to his home by illness, is a little improved.

William McCullough, of Millstone, has purchased and will shortly occupy the Stelle Blackford farm.

Rev. W. W. Casselberry filled the pulpit at his church yesterday, after a vacation of two weeks.

Mrs. J. C. Gardner entertained the Married Ladies' Card Club Friday afternoon.

Miss Estella Sofield has returned after a visit with out-of-town friends.

A. B. Nelson will shortly move to Cranford.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

One of the pleasantest events in the social life of the borough, this season, was the pit-euchre held by the young people in the fire house Saturday night Coming as it did during mid-Lent, the affair was a bright spot, which enlivened the unusually dull Lenten season here. Nearly twenty couples competed for the prizes, while many who cared not for the fortunes of pit-euchre enjoyed the time in a social way together. The lucky winner of the first woman's prize, a handsome cut glass vase, was Mrs. F. W. Westcott; Mrs. H. Thompson captured second prize, a handsome fan; Harry Knight and H. P. Robinson captured first and second prizes offered the lucky winners in the men's class, each receiving pleasant reminders of the event in the way of sterling silver novelties The winner of the consolation or booby prize has not been announced, although it is said this part of the evening's pleasure was one of the most enjoyable, as the prize given was one appropriate to the day of the month, All Fools day. As soon as the euchre events were decided, dancing was enjoyed and refreshments served. It was near the midnight hour before the pleasant event was brought to a close.

The fire department was called out Saturday night about 7:30, to fight a fire in the woods on the Ackerman estate, near Jerusalem road. But few of the members responded as the local fire fighters do not take kindly to fighting wood fires after a hard day's work in shop or office. After several attempts were made a few volunteers and many boys were gathered together and started for the scene. After a hour's hard work the fire was subdued. Hardly a year goes by but what the local department is called upon to turn out and fight a woods fire which has been started by either boys or some one older, who seems to care but little about the amount of damage their carelessness can do.

Car 1704 of the trolley company, going west, which is due here at 8 o'clock, failed to stop at the corner of Park and Westfield avenues, yesterday morning, to pick up several passengers who were waiting for it. This was not only annoying to the passengers, but was against the company franchise, which, when granted, specified that all cars should stop before crossing Park avenue. Failing to do so the company would be liable to a fine of not over $10, which could be collected in any justice's court.

Orin Power, who claimed Plainfield as his home, paid the township $4.75 yesterday afternoon, for the privilege of giving a short but pointed address on the corner of Park avenue and the trolley. Orin, who had been imbibing too much "spring water," used language that if not understood by all his hearers, certainly shocked them. Officer Shackleton introduced Orin to Judge Clark and the coin soon changed hands.

The Suburbans defeated the 'Plains bowlers three straight games Friday night on the Suburbans' alleys. The 'Plains team had an off night and bowled in poor form or were troubled with stage fright. The Suburbans were up to their usual standard, Sheelen bowling 212 in the second game, his average for the match being 170.

Robert and Lynus Walpole, the local followers of Walton, spent Saturday trouting in one of the streams near Cranford. The day's sport netted a fine catch.

The local bowling team rolls a match game tonight with the Bound Brook team on the latter's alleys.

BRYAN ON REORGANIZATION.

Bryan at His Home Speaks For Benefit of Democratic Clubs.

LINCOLN, Neb., April 3. — "It is a getting together of the aggressive elements of the party in active preliminary work for the great battle of 1908," said W. J. Bryan in explanation of his recent activity in connection with plans for the Democratic campaign of 1908. Mr. Bryan has returned home from Des Moines, and it was with particular reference to the meeting held there, at which he made the principal address, that he spoke. Mr. Bryan explained that the Des Moines meeting, like the one held at Topeka, Kan., was to further a movement for the organization of Democratic clubs. In Iowa, he said, the same plan had been adopted as in Kansas, with both of which he was in hearty sympathy.

"Reorganization," continued Mr. Bryan, "is hardly the proper way to express it, because the party does not need reorganization. There is no factional division calling for separate efforts, but the movement is to get back to the people, to put the radical and progressive element in more complete control, that there may be united, harmonious effort for the campaign of 1908. The purpose is to begin at the bottom, letting the rank and file have a voice in the national convention by writing the platform at home for the national convention to ratify."

Mr. Bryan said he was not trying to head a faction or to change the organization further than that he wanted the progressive men of the party to take the lead. The conservatives, he said, had dominated the last national convention, and the party had met defeat. He believed the rank and file of the voters was for progression and radicalism if need be. Mr. Bryan continued:

"The work should begin at the primaries, and every Democrat should vote. It remains with the rank and file of the Democratic party to say what the party's course shall be. No one will for a moment doubt the course which will be adopted by the rank and file of the party if they avail themselves of the duty to register their preference at the primaries. But a systematic effort will be necessary in order that Democrats will be impressed with the importance of participating in their party's councils."

Mr. Bryan in conclusion quoted his announcement of several weeks ago for the organization of the party, saying the plan does not rest upon the paramount importance of any one issue, but it recognizes the right of the Democratic voters to control the policy and to determine its position upon public questions.

Mr. Bryan presided last night at the meeting in St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church and introduced Ballington Booth, who made an address in behalf of the Volunteers of America.

BAD WRECK ON SOUTHERN.

Fast Passenger and Freight Trains Came Together In Fog.

BRANCHVILLE, S. C., April 3.—The worst wreck that has occurred on this division of the Southern railway in many years happened yesterday about 3 o'clock a few miles below Branchville, near a small lumber station called Badham. A through freight train from Columbia to Charleston and the fast passenger train from Charleston to Columbia ran into each other at Badham in a dense fog.

It is reported that Freight Engineer Reed's watch was three minutes slow and that this was the direct cause of the wreck. Four persons are known to have been killed outright, as follows:

Tom Conlin, engineer of the passenger train.

Another white man named James Stokes, a brakeman, and two negro brakemen, Adams and Stephens.

Freight Engineer Arthur Reed had both legs broken, besides severe internal injuries and cannot possibly live.

TO CUT OUT HIS HEART.

Ralph W. Kline Fatally Stabbed at Lancaster.

LANCASTER, Pa., April 3.—Ralph W. Kline, aged twenty-six years, an artist, was fatally stabbed here by Jennie Good, aged eighteen. Kline and Miss Good were members of a party who were fishing in the Little Conestoga, near Long Park. Kline and the girl had a quarrel, during which Miss Good threatened to cut out his heart.

Thinking that she would not execute her threat, Kline threw out his chest and told her to stab. She did, plunging a knife into his breast near the heart. He is at a hospital unconscious. The girl fled and has not yet been arrested.

Houses Destroyed by Forest Fire.

CATSKILL, N. Y., April 3.—A forest fire at the Burden iron mines, two miles south of Greendale, yesterday afternoon destroyed three dwellings, a barn, two flat cars and a section of trestle, owned by the Burden Ore and Iron company. The fire was caused by sparks from a locomotive on the Central road. Section hands and residents fought the flames for six hours before getting them under control.

Forest Fires In Catskills.

KINGSTON, N. Y., April 3.—Forest fires have started in the foothills of the Catskill mountains, and a serious fire is now raging near the foot of Overlook mountain. On account of the small rainfall during the winter the timber is unusually dry and inflammable since the snow melted.

Will Have 500 Engineer Guests.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., April 3.—It was announced that 500 foreign engineers who are attending the international railroad congress at Washington will be the guests of the General Electric and American Locomotive companies in this city.

Why Lots in These Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL, IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FASHION'S FANCIES.

Braid a Fashionable Trimming—Separate Vests Are Modish.

Soutache will be used on spring dresses. It is employed in many different ways. Whole patterns are made of the soutache braid, the Greek design being a favorite. Great big scrolls of the Greek key pattern are worked around the foot of the skirt and smaller ones for waist trimmings.

The modish spring wardrobe will boast a vest or two of cloth of gold or silver and one of white satin brocade.

UP TO DATE SLEEVE DESIGNS.

These vests are made sleeveless and button down the front with little gold buttons. They are an important addition to a woman's wardrobe.

The box plaited skirts will hold their own for the coming season, with little change for the winter models, except the plaits are larger and stitched flatter around the hips. There are also very full skirts with shirred hips and fitted hips with box plaits around the knees.

A new length for skirts is called "carriage length"—that is, it trails on the ground all around for two inches. It is elegant and gives the wearer an old fashioned air, which now is very modish, but it is a length not to be worn when afoot.

Pansy will be a popular spring color. Green, white, black and pale yellow all go well with pansy. There is a perfect rage for making gown trimmings in such a way that they may be taken off and on. In this way the appearance of a frock is changed at slight expense.

The illustration shows some up to date sleeves, all very suitable for summer gowns and separate waists. The elbow lengths are particularly pretty and dainty. JUDIC CHOLLET.

FORECAST OF FASHION.

The Indispensable House Gowns. Some Useful China Silk Waists.

A house gown is a necessity in the outfit of every smart woman. A charming frock of this character is made of coral chiffon. The full skirt has about the bottom a group of tiny chiffon ruffles, which graduate toward the back. These ruffles are banded by an insertion of white guipure lace. The waist is a bloused affair of the guipure made over coral chiffon. The sleeves of lace puff at the top and have long tight cuffs. These cuffs to be smart must fit the arm very snugly and should be furnished with buttons and loops which enable the wearer to take the sleeve off without injury to the waist or discomfort to herself.

Embroidered china silk makes up into the most serviceable kind of shirt waists. With careful laundering they may be done up any number of times and always look fresh and dainty.

Ribbon will trim summer gowns. It will be applied in straight rows or manipulated into all sorts of fascinating little scrolls and fancy designs. The Greek key pattern bids fair to be a favorite trimming design.

The latest shirt waist models have short shoulders, a few tucks at the shoulders and pouch very little at the waist line. The sleeves are full at the top and gather into straight mannish cuffs or narrow bands of the material fastened with two pearl buttons.

The gown pictured is a restaurant toilet carried out in black mousseline de soie. A handsome design of lace and passementerie trims both skirt and bodice. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Kate Bonnet

The Romance of a Pirate's Daughter

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

Her uncle would not darken Kate's bright hopes, ill-founded though he thought them. To look into those sparkling eyes again was a joy of which he would not deprive himself, if he could help it.

"Suppose he should capture our vessel," she exclaimed; "what a grand thing it would be for him, all unknowing, to spring upon our deck and instantly be captured by me. After that, there would be no more pirate's life for him!"

When Dame Charter heard what had happened at the governor's house and had listened to the recital of Kate's glowing schemes, her eyes did not immediately glisten with joy.

"If you go, Mistress Kate," said she, "in search of your father, I go with you, but I cannot go without my Dickory. It is full time to expect his return, although, as he was to depend upon so many chances before he could come back, his absence may, with good reason, continue longer, and I could not have him come back and find his mother gone, no man knows where. For in such a quest, what man could know?"

"Oh, Dickory will be here soon!" cried Kate; "any ship which comes sailing towards the harbor may bring him."

CHAPTER XV.

A QUESTION OF ETIQUETTE.

ROUDLY sailed the Revenge and her attendant bark into the waters of Honduras Gulf, and proudly stood Capt. Stede Bonnet upon her quarter deck, dressed in a handsome uniform which might have been that of a captain or admiral in the royal navy; one hand caressed his ornate sword-hilt, while the other was thrust into the bosom of his gilt-embroidered coat. A newly fashioned Jolly Roger, in which the background was very black and the skull and cross-bones ghastly white, flew from his masthead.

Apart from a general desire to show himself in the ranks of his fellow-pirates and to receive from them respect which was due to a man of his capabilities and general merits, Stede Bonnet had a particular reason for his visit to this port and for surrounding himself with all the pomp and circumstance of high piratical rank. He had been informed that a great man, a hero and chief among his fellows—in fact, the dean of the piratical faculty, and known as "Blackbeard," the most desperate and reckless of all the pirates of the day—was now here.

To meet this most important sea-robber and to receive from him the hand of fellowship had been Bonnet's desire and ambition since he had heard that it was possible.

The morning was advanced and the Revenge was rolling easily at her anchorage, but Bonnet was somewhat uncertain as to the next step he ought to take. He wanted to see Blackbeard as soon as possible, but it would certainly be a breach of etiquette entirely inconsistent with his present position for him to go to see him. He was the latest comer, and thought it was the part of Blackbeard to make the first visit.

Paul Bittern now came aft. "The men are getting very restless," he said; "they want to go on shore. They'd all go if I'd let 'em."

Capt. Bonnet gave his big sailing master a lofty glare.

"If I should let them, you mean, sir. I am sorry I cannot break you of the habit of forgetting that I command this ship. Well, sir, you may tell them that they cannot go. I am expecting a visit from the renowned Blackbeard, now in this port, and I wish to welcome him with all respect and a full crew."

Black Paul smiled disagreeably. "I will tell you, sir, that you cannot keep these men on board much longer with the town of Belize within a row of half a mile. They've been at sea too long for that. There'll be mutiny, sir, if I go forward with that message of yours. It will be prudent to let some of them go ashore now and others later in the day. I will go in the first boat and see to it that the men come back with me. And, by the way, it would not be a bad thing if I touch at Blackbeard's vessel and inform him that you are here; I don't suppose he knows the Revenge, nor her captain neither."

"I doubt that, Bittern," said Bonnet, "I doubt it very much. I assure you that I am known from one end of this coast to the other, and Capt. Blackbeard is not an ignorant man. So you can go ashore and take some of the men, stopping at Blackbeard's ship. And, by the way, I want you to go by that bark of ours and give her the old black Roger I used to fly. I forgot to send it to her, and a man might as well not own and command two vessels if he get not the credit of it."

When the sailing-master set out in the long-boat, crowded with men, he stopped at the bark, but did not go too near for fear that some of the crew might jump into his already overloaded boat.

"You are to run up this rag," cried Black Paul to Clip, the fellow in command; and so saying, he handed up the old Jolly Roger on the blade of an oar. "Our noble admiral fears that if you do not that you may be captured by some of these good vessels lying hereabout."

Clip roared out with a laugh: "I will attend to the capture as soon as I get out of reach of his guns, which he will not dare to use here, I take it. But I want you to know and him to know that we're not goin' to stay on board and in sight of the town. If you go ashore, so go we."

"HO! HO!" HE CRIED. "BLACK PAUL! AND WHERE DID YOU COME FROM, AND WHAT ARE YOU DOING HERE?"

"Stay where ye are till orders come to ye," shouted Black Paul, "if ye want to keep the cat off your backs!" And as he rowed away the men on the bark gave him a cheer and proceeded to lower two boats.

From nearly every pirate ship in the anchorage the proceedings of the newly arrived vessels had been watched. No one wanted to board them or in any way to interfere with them until it was found out what they intended to do. The Revenge was a stranger in that harbor, although her fame was known on not a few pirate decks; but if she came to Belize to fraternize with the other pirate vessels there gathered together, why didn't she do it? No idea of importance and dignity, which his position imposed upon, Capt. Stede Bonnet, entered their piratical minds. When the long-boat put forth from the Revenge, a good deal of interest was excited in the anchored vessels. The great Blackbeard himself stood high upon his deck and surveyed the strangers through a glass.

The men in the sailing-master's boat rowed steadily towards Blackbeard's vessel. Bittern knew it well, for he had seen it before, and had even had the honor, so to speak, of having served for a short time under the master pirate of that day.

As soon as the boat was near enough Blackbeard hailed it in a tremendous voice and ordered the stranger to pull up and make fast. This being done, a rope ladder was lowered and Bittern mounted to the deck, being assisted in his passage over the side by a tremendous pull given by Blackbeard.

The great pirate seemed to be in high good spirits, and very glad to see his visitor. Blackbeard was a large man, wide and heavy, and the first impression conveyed by his personality was that of hair and swarthiness. An untrimmed black beard lay upon his chest, and his long hair hung in masses from under his slouched hat; his eyes were dark and sparkling, and gleamed like beacon lights from out a midnight sky; the sleeves of his shirt were rolled up and his arms seemed almost as hairy as his head; two pairs of pistols were stuck into his belt, and a great cutlass was conveniently tucked up by his side.

"Ho, ho!" he cried, "Black Paul! And where do you come from, and what are you doing here? And what is the name of that vessel with the brand-new Roger? Has she just gone into the business, that she decks herself out so fine? Come now, sit here and have some brandy and tell me what is the meaning of these two vessels coming into the harbor, and what you have to do with them."

Bittern was delighted to know that his old commander remembered him, and was ready enough to talk with him, for that was the errand he had come upon.

"But, captain," said he, "I am afraid to wander away from the gunwale, for if I have not my eye upon them, my men will be rowing to the town before I know it. They are mad to be on shore."

Blackbeard made no answer; he stepped to the side of the vessel and looked over. "Let go!" he shouted to the man who held the boat's rope, "and you rascals row out a dozen strokes from my vessel and keep your boat there; and if you move an oar towards the town I will sink you!" With that he ordered two small guns to be trained upon the boat.

The boat's crew did not hesitate one second in obeying these orders. They knew by whom they were given, and there was no man in the great body of free companions who would disobey an order given by Blackbeard. They rowed to the position assigned them and sat quietly looking into the mouths of the two cannon which were pointed towards them.

"Now then," said Blackbeard, turning to Bittern, "I think they'll stay there till they get some other order."

Between frequent sips at the cup of brandy Bittern told the story of the Revenge, and Blackbeard listened with many an oath and many a pound upon his massive knee by his mighty fist.

WORKED THE POSTOFFICE.

Storey Cotton Company Made Inspector Holden Loan of $1,100.

PHILADELPHIA, April 3.—There was a new development here in the case of the Storey Cotton company when George C. Holden, an inspector attached to the Philadelphia division of the postal inspection service admitted having received cash favors from the Storey Cotton company. Holden's admission followed the discovery in the company's cash book, under date of April 29, 1902, of a personal loan to George C. Holden of $1,100.

The discovery was made by Assistant United States District Attorneys Stewart and Swartly. Postal Inspector Mayer, in charge of the New York division, has been detailed by Postmaster General Cortelyou to assume personal charge in Philadelphia of the investigation of the Storey Cotton company's use of the mails.

Local inspectors have been detailed to obtain further evidence concerning the loan to Inspector Holden.

PRESIDENT'S HUNTING TRIP.

Party Will Cross Red River Into Big Indian Pasture.

LAWTON, Okla., April 3.—Instructions have been received at Fort Sill to have a detachment of soldiers at Frederick, in the southern part of the county, by April 8. The troops will be used to guard the property of the presidential hunting party. The car with the camping outfit is now in Frederick.

The plans for the president's hunt in Texas have been somewhat changed, and the presidential party will cross Red river and hunt in the Big Indian pasture. There is a tract of half a million acres here well stocked with game. The outfit is in a car of the International and Great Northern railway and was shipped from southern Texas, to which place the outfit had been sent when it was proposed to hunt for bear in the Big Thicket.

The Big Thicket hunt has been abandoned.

BROOKLYN AT PORT AU PRINCE.

Minister Powell Reports All Quiet at Haitien Capital.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Contrary to an apprehension that existed in some quarters that trouble might occur in Port au Prince, Haiti, on Friday or Saturday, a dispatch received at the state department from American Minister Powell reports that affairs were quiet in that city on both days.

The Syrians, over whom it was thought the trouble might occur, kept their stores closed on both days. April 1 was the day originally fixed by the Haitien government for the expulsion of the Syrians, but this period later was extended to May 15, a fact it is suggested of which the general public was not aware.

The cruiser Brooklyn, which was sent to Port au Prince by the navy department when the probability of trouble was first discussed, has arrived at that place.

PRESIDENT POTTER DEAD.

Head of Long Island Railway Died In New York Yesterday.

NEW YORK, April 3. — President William F. Potter of the Long Island railroad, who had been ill about a month with cerebro spinal meningitis, died yesterday afternoon.

The death of Mr. Potter is much deplored by his associates of the Pennsylvania railroad in this city. This is especially felt following so closely upon the death of Mr. Potter's personal friend and predecessor, the late William H. Baldwin. Samuel Rea, fourth vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad company during Mr. Potter's illness, says that Mr. Potter was held in the highest esteem, officially and personally, by the directors of his company and profoundly respected by his associates of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, who feel that in his death a severe loss has been sustained.

E. C. Stockbridge, a resident of Plainfield several years ago, but now living in SanDiego, California, having noticed by copies of The Daily Press that the past winter was a most severe one here, sends a card bearing interesting information concerning the delightful even temperature at his home. Two thermometers are represented, one for winter and the other for summer. They indicate warm winters with a maximum temperature of 73 degrees and a minimum temperature of 38 degrees with no ice, snow or cold winds. The coolness of the summers is indicated by a maximum temperature of 80 degrees and a minimum temperature of 57 degrees, with no extreme heat, mosquitoes or malaria. Four times in the history of San Diego has the temperature touched 32 degrees, but has never fallen below, and the temperature has exceeded 90 degrees but nineteen times in thirty two years.

P. H. S. Debate.

This morning at Franklin Hall the long prepared for debate between the Junior English classes of the P. H. S., of Miss Ball and Miss Cuming's, took place. The subject was: "Should Mid-Year and Final Examinations be Abolished," the debaters of the former class taking the affirmative side, while those of the latter class took the negative. The debaters were: Affirmative, Emil Jahn, chairman; Arthur Whitney and Martin Stutesman; negative, Miss Gertrude Hunter, chairman; Miss Elizabeth Winter and Elmer Stryker. The judges, Ira W. Travell, principal of the P. H. S. and Miss Mae Batcheler, a graduate of the school, declared in favor of the negative side on the ground of clear delivery and good grounds for arguments and truth of the arguments.

MORTGAGE TAX FIGHT.

William Jeffery to Assist New Yorkers Against the Measure.

The real estate interests of New York city and those in charge of the opposition to the proposed mortgage tax and stock transfer tax have engaged William Jeffery, the local real estate agent, to assist them in their fight.

Mr. Jeffery visited many parts of New York State last summer in the interests of the New York Tax Reform Association, who is also very much opposed to these measures, and through the experiences which he had, representing the association, and his long experience as a real estate operator, together with a close association for many years with Belton Hall, a well known political economist, he is well fitted to render valuable services for those who now turn to find men who can really do something.

Other prominent Baptist ministers took part. The meeting was largely attended.

Firemen Kept Busy.

Grass fires in the outlying districts continue to give the local fire department a great deal of trouble. No. 2 hose wagon was sent out for a bad one on Rahway road yesterday afternoon, and this morning was again called for another on Belvidere avenue. Both were near houses and barns and threatened serious damage. Saturday afternoon, the department was called out for a chimney fire at 512 West Fourth street. An extinguisher sufficed to stop the trouble.

Still Alarm.

A telephone message from 724 Berkely avenue, called the fire department to the Netherwood district at 11:10 this morning to extinguish a grass and wood fire back of the Netherwood Hotel. The adjoining property was threatened. The firemen beat the flames out in a few minutes.

CITY FATHERS KEPT BUSY

Many Petitions Presented at April Session of Council.

MOSTLY MINOR MATTERS

Street Widening, Lumber Yards and Storm Sewers Discussed—Transfer $1,000 to Fire Fund.

Because the minutes of the last special meeting did not state clearly that the street committee had no knowledge of the purpose to bring up the ordinance to widen Park avenue on its second reading, Mr. Wilson, chairman of that committee, took exception to their approval at the April meeting of the Common Council last night. He previously wanted to know by whose authority the ordinance was put in the call for the special session, but he failed to get the information at that time or since and as the minutes did not show his objection, there was some delay in starting last night's session. After considerable argument, in which Clerk MacMurray wanted to know whether the Common Council desired the meetings reported verbatim, Mr. Wilson finally agreed to let the minutes stand. It has been intimated that this matter was put in the call so as not to make it appear that the members were summoned especially to act on the Charles Schanz saloon question.

There were a large number of petitions of all sorts that occupied the attention of the members. One was received from Charles Sebring asking for a permit to erect an iron awning in front of his new building at 327 West Front street. This was referred to the fire and building committee. Another from residents of Park terrace asking to have one block macadamized was referred to the street committee, and the report from the Public Service Corporation regarding the placing of new lights was referred to the light committee.

Jeremiah F. TenEyck, owner of what was known as the Hetfield lumber and coal yards on Madison avenue, petitioned the Common Council for information regarding the proposed ordinance to restrict lumber yards. He said that his was one of the oldest yards in the city, having been in use forty years and he thought it would be a great detriment to him if the ordinance prohibited him from using it for the storage and sale of lumber. The matter was referred to the fire and buildings committee.

Petitions for a storm sewer in Darrow avenue were received from Miss Minton M. French and other property-owners in that street. They claimed that the work of the trolley company in raising the grade on West Fourth street caused the water to back up on Darrow avenue. The matter was referred to the street committee.

Petitions for a light at West Front and Albert streets, and for the macadamizing of Charlotte road, were referred to the proper committees. The usual petition from Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., for the annual appropriation of $100 to be used in observing Memorial Day was referred to the finance committee, and the request received from Samuel Field and others for a hydrant on East Front street, between Terrill road and Raymond avenue, was granted, the members voting two two-way hydrants for that section in accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Bullock. He explained that one hydrant would not cover the territory and inasmuch as the water company intends to extend its mains in that part of the city, it was thought advisable to place two hydrants there.

A. H. Martin objected to the city establishing a building line on West Second street, which would make a change in his building. He said that when he put up his structure he asked for such a line and he did not get it. Now it would cause him much trouble. The matter was referred to the fire and buildings committee.

The Clinton Foundry and Machine Company expressed a desire to equip the city's garbage disposal plant with the latest approved machinery, and offered to furnish any information the Common Council might want. The matter was referred to the committee on public affairs.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh instructed the members that the new maximum tax will would not go in effect until January 1, 1906, and accompanying this was a copy of the measure giving the new bill in detail.

Building Inspector Doane reported that during March thirty permits were granted, one was rejected and one withdrawn.

Mr. Tolles offered a resolution appropriating $300 for the care of the

MRS. FISK'S FUNERAL AT WILBURTHA THURSDAY

MOTHER OF FORMER MAYOR WAS NOTED AS A BENEFACTOR.

The funeral of Mrs. Harvey Fisk, of Wilburtha, widow of the founder of the banking house of that name in New York, who died at Atlantic City yesterday morning after a long illness, will be held at Wilburtha, known as "Riverside," Thursday at 12:45 o'clock. Carriages will be in waiting at Trenton Junction on arrival of train leaving New York at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. Fisk was Miss Louisa Green, of Trenton and was the mother of former Mayor U. J. Fisk, of this city. She lived in New York at one time, but has been living in her summer home almost entirely of late.

Mrs. Fisk was born at the old homestead known as Riverside in 1834. She was a daughter of the Hon. Alexander B. Green and a direct descendant of William Green, who came from England in 1700, purchasing 345 acres, where the Fisk residence now stands.

She was known to all her close friends for her liberal but unobtrusive generosity and deeds of charity. She founded Mercer Hospital and was the main support of Ewing church, in whose cemetery she will be buried by the side of her husband, whose father and mother and six generations of Mrs. Fiske's ancestors are also buried in the little church-yard. The body was taken to Wilburtha late yesterday.

She is survived by five sons, former Mayor Charles Joel Fisk, of this city; Harvey, Edward, Pliny and Wilbur Fisk, all of New York; Alexander, of Boston, and three daughters, Mrs. Samuel Thurber, of New York, and the Misses Mary and Evelyn Fisk, of Wilburtha. Death was due to heart trouble.

EXEMPT FIREMEN ELECT OFFICERS FOR THE YEAR

ASSOCIATION TAKES ACTION TO DROP MEMBERS IN ARREARS.

At a largely attended, annual meeting, last night, the Exempt Firemen's Association elected the following officers: President, V. W. Nash; vice president, J. E. Flannery; recording secretary, Guillermo Thorn; financial secretary, George W. Clark; treasurer, E. M. Laing; trustees, D. W. Littell, E. M. Laing, W. A. Woodruff, Joseph A. Hubbard and T. O. Doane; representatives to Relief Association, Guillermo Thorn and J. O. Cranston; representatives to State Association, V. W. Nash, J. O. Cranston, Guillermo Thorn, E. M. Laing and W. A. Woodruff; representative to board of visitors, George W. Clark.

Several matters of a business nature were brought up, one of which was in connection with delinquent members. The question was thoroughly discussed and ended in several of those fartherest behind being dropped, while others were laid over until the next meeting. The association's action is due for the most part to the fact that it pays a death benefit and cannot conveniently carry "dead wood." D. W. Littell presented an excellent report on the State organization and other reports presented showed the association to be sound in membership and finances.

Street Widening Hearing.

Mr. Wilson called up the ordinance providing for the widening of Park avenue, between Second street and the railroad on the southwesterly side, at the Common Council meeting last night. It was adopted on second reading and ordered advertised. This improvement will affect the property owned by The Plainfield Trust Company, C. W. McCutcheon and Beloe, Runyon & Co., and is intended to establish a twelve foot sidewalk on that side of the street. A resolution offered by Mr. Wilson fixed Monday night, May 1, at 8 o'clock as the time when a public hearing will be given for objectors.

Autograph Car at Work.

The Public Service Corporation's "autograph" car passed through the city yesterday making an inspection of the main line. The vehicle is equipped with intricate mechanism which registers the grade of the tracks, the speed of cars and the amount of power expended. It is needed at this time of the year in order to determine where frost has raised or lowered the tracks so that repairs can be made.

APPOINTED MEMBER OF CANAL COMMISSION

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT HONORS DR. ENDICOTT'S BROTHER.

Rear Admiral Mordecai T. Endicott, who has just been appointed a member of the new Panama Canal Commission by President Roosevelt is a brother of Dr. George W. Endicott, of Park avenue, and of Judge Endicott, of Atlantic City, who is a Circuit Court judge of New Jersey. He is considered internationally as an expert on dry docks and locks and holds the important post of Chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks in the U. S. Navy. His station is at Washington, D. C.

The rear admiral was born in Mays Landing, N. J., and after being graduated from the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, at Troy, N. Y., entered the Navy in 1873. As a civil engineer he stands in the front rank in this profession. In 1895, President Cleveland appointed Rear Admiral Endicott as a member of the commission to investigate the feasibility of the Nicaragua canal route and he has frequently been honored by appointments to important missions.

BROKE AUTO RECORD TO SEE DYING MOTHER

A SON OF MRS. HARVEY FISK RUSHED TO ATLANTIC CITY.

All automobile records for Jersey were broken yesterday when Edward Fisk, a son of Mrs. Harvey Fisk, passed through Freehold at the rate of forty miles an hour. Mr. Fisk was on his way from New York in a large touring automobile to the bedside of his mother in Atlantic City.

The run from New Brunswick to Freehold, eighteen miles, was made in 28 minutes. Mr. Fisk was attempting to catch the Atlantic City express at Lakewood.

When just outside of Freehold a tire on Mr. Fisk's car burst and caused a delay of fifteen minutes. He telephoned to the Central Railroad officials to have a special train meet him at Lakewood.

Finding the tire beyond repair Mr. Fisk climbed in the car and throwing the throttle wide open tore down the road at a terrific pace.

FIRST DEATH FROM SPINAL MENINGITIS

COLORED MAN A VICTIM OF DISEASE WHICH BAFFLES DOCTORS.

Spinal meningitis, the dread disease which is baffling physicians throughout the country by its contagion and frequency, made its appearance in Plainfield and claimed a victim in the person of Harry Burnley, colored, of West Third street. He was first afflicted several days ago and from the start it was seen by the attending physician that his condition was serious. All precautions were taken to guard against its spreading and every effort was made to check its inroads on Burnley but without success. He died yesterday afternoon with the case fully developed.

Burnley was twenty-four years old and was married. He had been a resident of the city for a long time and was well known. Funeral services will be held from Mount Olive Baptist church, Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

One More Express Train.

Beginning with Sunday, May 14, the excellent express service between New York and Philadelphia, over the New Jersey Central and Reading roads, will be increased by the addition of a 9 o'clock local express in the evening, making stops at Elizabeth, Westfield, Plainfield and Bound Brook. This will give a train service at a time in the evening when there is quite a demand for it and it will undoubtedly be appreciated by the travelling public.

P. B. and L. Officers.

The Plainfield Building and Loan Association met last night and elected these officers: President, Lewis K. Barkalow; vice president, Henry Leifke; secretary, E. Frank Coriell; treasurer and solicitor, W. R. Codrington. This finance committee was also elected: W. A. Woodruff, Jacob Voehl and J. P. Homan.

TAX LAW PROVISIONS

New Maximum Tax Measure Goes Into Effect Jan. 1, 1906.

READ TO COUNCIL

In No Case Shall the Rate be Over $1.50 Per $100 in Cities of Less Than 50,000.

Just now the principal points in the new maximum tax bill are of interest to all taxpayers. A copy of the bill was presented at the meeting of the Common Council, last night and referred to the finance committee.

The measure provides that the Board of Freeholders shall meet not later than the last Tuesday of August and determine and appropriate specifically the amount to be raised for current expenses, debt and interest, public works and for all other county purposes; provided that no such amount shall in no case exceed in the aggregate fifty cents for each $100 of assessed valuation in such county. The county collector shall transmit to the county board of assessors at its next annual meeting a statement of the total amount so appropriated and otherwise required by law to be raised by taxation in that year for county purposes; the said board shall apportion the tax among the taxing districts as in this act directed.

Section twenty-five of said act shall be amended to read that the clerk or other proper officers of each taxing district shall certify to the assessor on or before the third Tuesday in August, a copy of the annual taxing ordinance or resolution or other evidence showing the amount to be raised by taxation for the purposes of the taxing district. The governing body of such taxing district may add to the amount appropriated for State, county and school district or local purposes not exceeding ten per cent. to meet contingencies and the assessor's rate shall be fixed accordingly. In no case shall the rate of taxation for county, school district and local purposes exceed in the aggregate the sum of $1.70 for each $100 assessed valuation in cities over 50,000 population; $1.50 in all other cities, boroughs, villages, towns and townships; provided, however, that any municipality may exceed such limited tax rate whenever the governing body of such municipality shall by resolution adopt a higher rate and the same shall be approved by a majority of the legal voters of such municipality at the general election next preceding the fixing of such tax rate. This measure goes in effect January 1, 1906.

"AMERICAN SCULPTURE."

Mrs. James Middledith Reads Paper on the Subject Before Monday Afternoon Club.

An interesting paper on "Sculpture in America," was read by Mrs. James Middledith before the Monday Afternoon Club at its regular meeting in the Casino, yesterday. The subject was afterward thoroughly discussed and photographs and prints of famous sculptures and statues were shown. Part of the time allotted in the meeting to current events was spent in discussing the question, "Is it true that American writers are less imaginative than those of other countries and why?"

Before adjournment, plans were discussed for the club's annual entertainment which will be given this year on Thursday night, April 27.

P. H. S.'s First Game.

All preparations having been made, the baseball season of the P. H. S. for 1905 will be formally opened on Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon. At that time the P. H. S. nine will cross bats with the Westfield High School. The probable line up will be: Pitchers, Smith and Burt; catcher, Davis; first base, Doane; second base, Thompson, captain; third base, Conway; shortstop, Craig; fielders, Banks, Brakeley, Stuart Freeman. It is probable that the substitutes will be given a chance to show their ability in the latter part of the game.

Sunday-School Union Officers.

These officers were elected at the annual meeting of the Primary and Junior Sunday-school Teachers' Union held yesterday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A.: President, Miss Nettie Beeching; first vice president, Mrs. J. A. Powlison; second vice president, Mrs. F. R. Baker; third vice president, Mrs. John P. Mosher; secretary, Mrs. R. W. Barnes; librarian, Mrs. Morse, of Westfield; pianist, Mrs. John Schofield. The reports for the past year were very encouraging to all.

Concert Offerings $60.

The offering received at the annual concert in the Congregational church last Thursday night, amounted to $60.

TWO BADLY HURT IN TROLLEY ACCIDENT

MOTORMAN AND CONDUCTOR INJURED, AND FORMER MAY DIE.

Spreading rails caused car No. 33, of the Bound Brook-New Brunswick line, to jump the track at East Bound Brook near the Cash Register Works, yesterday afternoon, and plunge at full speed into the girders of the bridge over the Green brook. Motorman DeWitt Baird, of South River, made every effort to lessen the shock but without success and he was caught in the crash. He was badly hurt about the head and body and was taken from his post unconscious. The conductor, William Killingsworth, of Raritan, was also badly cut and the several passengers in the car were severely shaken up. All were attended at Bound Brook by Dr. Fisher. It is not thought Baird's injuries will prove fatal.

The front platform of the car was demolished and nearly every window was broken. The force of the collision was so great that the bridge girder was twisted out of shape and will have to be replaced.

IRELAND'S OWN BAND COMING TO PLAINFIELD

FAMOUS ORGANIZATION TO APPEAR AT THE CASINO.

Ireland's Own band, the famous aggregation of musicians, singers and dancers numbering fifty in all, brought from the Emerald isle expressly for the St. Louis exhibition, will make its appearance at the Casino, Monday night. The organization is now making a short vaudeville tour previous to returning home and Manager Edwards secured the date after a week's negotiating. The band will come to Plainfield in its entirety, just as it was composed at St. Louis all last summer and also as it appeared at Proctor's Twenty third Street theatre, New York, a week ago.

The troupe comprises the Kelly Trio of dancers, which gives a remarkable demonstration of Irish jigs and reels; Pat Touhey, the world's champion Irish pipe player and vocal and instrumental soloists. It has been exhibiting in New York for the past month and has been considered one of the greatest vaudeville attractions of the season.

The North Plainfield Board of Education held an executive session, last night, at which the teachers' appointments for the coming year were considered. Superintendent Wightman's resignation is still in the hands of the teachers' committee and will be considered later.

CITY SCHOOL BOARD HAS ROUTINE MEETING

INFORMED THAT $13,000 CAN BE EXPENDED IN FURNISHING NEW SCHOOL.

In accordance with a decision reached by the Board of School Estimate, the sum of $13,000 will be expended in equipping the new Plainfield High School with proper furnishings. The amount was made known at the regular meeting of the Board of Education, last night, when the report of the Board of Estimate was read by Chairman Abbott. The building is now rapidly nearing completion and the furnishings will be in keeping with the general attractive tone of the structure.

The business transacted at the meeting was purely of a routine nature. Superintendent Maxson reported that Jacob Riis, the noted author, would make the address at the annual commencement exercises to be held on June 22 and it was announced that the First Baptist church had again been secured for the occasion. A letter was received from Mrs. George H. Babcock expressing her thanks to the Board for naming the laboratory department in the new High School in memory of Mr. Babcock.

The clerk was authorized to advertise for bids for the coming year's supply of fuel and Mr. Abbott, as chairman of the Building and Grounds committee, was empowered to have the Franklin building repainted. The Teachers' committee was notified to make the necessary appointments in the teaching corps and William Ashton and Alfred Jacobson applied for the positions of engineer and janiter, respectively, at the new school. Adjournment was made until April 22.

WERE UNABLE TO ACT ON SCHANZ APPLICATION

COMMON COUNCIL NOT NOTIFIED BY CORPORATION COUNSEL.

Charles Schanz did not get his liquor license at the April meeting of the Common Council, last night, neither was any action taken regarding it, except that an adjournment was made until Friday night, April 14, when it is expected that the matter will be finally disposed of. Mr. Gleak asked Mr. Tyler what he proposes to do about the application of Mr. Schanz, and the chairman of the police committee replied that it was not in the hands of his committee. This called for a recess. They were about to resume business, when W. R. Coddington, who was present, held a conference with some of the members, and they decided to hold another recess. Nothing could be accomplished.

While the members had understood that the writ of certiorari secured by W. L. Hetfield, Sr., in behalf of his wife, and which held up all proceedings, had been set aside as directed by the Common Council, they had no legal evidence of the fact, other than the word of City Judge W. N. Runyon, counsel for Mr. Schanz. This was not sufficient for the Common Council and they adjourned to April 14 in the hope that the matter could be settled then. It was stated that the legal papers giving the Common Council knowledge of the court's action, were in the possession of the Corporation counsel, but he had not presented them in a report on the status of the case.

P. H. S. Ball Team.

Closely following his election as captain of the P. H. S. baseball team, Harvey Thompson has announced the personnel of players for the 1905 season as follows: Pitchers, Smith and Burt, catcher, Davis; first base, Doane; second base, Thompson; third base, Conway; short-stop, Craig; outfielders, Brakeley, Banks and Stuart Freeman; substitute infielders, Russell and Howard Freeman; utilityman, William Douglass. The squad held a practice Saturday morning in preparation for the Westfield H. S. game, which will be played tomorrow on Crescent Oval.

Library Wants $4,700.

The Board of Directors of the Public Library and Reading Room informed the Common Council last night that $4,700 was the amount determined upon as needed for the maintenance of the institution for the coming year, and the Board of School Estimate in a communication stated that $13,000 would be needed to equip the new High School building. Both of these matters were referred to the finance committee.

CALL WILSON TO TIME

Councilmen Express Opinions Regarding Dusty Streets.

DEMAND SPRINKLING

Tolles and Gleak Declare That the Work is Not Properly Done.

There was a lively debate at the April meeting of the Common Council, last night, between Theodore Wilson, chairman of the committee having the matter of street sprinkling in charge, and other members who opposed what seemed to them to be a laxity on his part in furnishing relief to the citizens from the dust nuisance.

Mr. Wilson stated that the committee had found the bid of John M. Keely for street sprinkling to be the lowest, and he offered a resolution to the effect that Corporation Counsel be instructed to prepare an argument awarding him the contract after he furnishes a $1,000 bond and the same is approved by Mr. Marsh.

Mr. Murphy wanted to know at once Mr. Keely's bid and some of the details concerning the contract. He was informed that the bid was $667 a month, but that the resolution was drafted by Mr. Marsh in accordance with his ideas. Mr. Murphy then wanted to refer the resolution back, and have it presented with the contract in the regular way. This was eventually done, but not until some of the members expressed their opinions rather freely.

Mr. Gleak stated that Mr. Wilson should have called a meeting of the street committee last week and had the matter in proper shape to go through at this meeting. He said that the streets were unusually dusty and should be sprinkled now. He told Mr. Wilson that those who go back and forth to New York daily have little idea of the dust nuisance here and he thought it was a shame that the people were obliged to suffer.

Mr. Wilson replied to Mr. Gleak's remarks by saying that perhaps that member did not know that the streets in the business section were being sprinkled.

Mr. Tolles then hastened to the rescue of Mr. Gleak, by saying that the sprinkling now being done does not cover the bill. "Why," said Mr. Tolles, "last Saturday I was out driving and the dust was so bad that I could not see my horse and one wagon cannot do the sprinkling satisfactorily. I believe that this is a subterfuge to hold the contract up."

Mr. Wilson simply replied: "I am acting on the advice of the Corporation Counsel."

Again Mr. Gleak joined the discussion. "The streets should be sprinkled now," said the member from the First ward, "and I believe that Mr. Wilson is trying to hold the matter back."

Then Mr. Murphy called for a vote on his resolution to have the resolution referred back. Mr. Daniel suggested that the resolution be passed and the contract executed, thus making it possible to start the sprinkling right away. Mr. Murphy's resolution was adopted.

Things were getting interesting and after a consultation with Mr. Tyler, Mr. Wilson offered a resolution that the streets and sewer committee be authorized to employ drivers and teams to sprinkle the streets at a cost not to exceed $667, until such time as the contract for the work is awarded. This resolution was adopted. It is now within the power of the committee to engage anyone it may see select to do the work, prior to the giving of the contract, but no doubt some relief will be afforded at once from the dusty streets.

To Raze Frame Building.

Alexander Kane, dealer in second-hand lumber, has purchased the old frame structure on East Front street, between the buildings of Woodhull & Martin and Powlison & Jones, and has been given ten days in which to remove it. He purchased the building of Woodhull & Martin, who will soon commence the erection of a modern building, with a store on the first floor and flats above. Mr. Kane will commence the work of demolition today.

Sewage System Adjustants.

The improvements and extensions to the sanitary sewage system made under contract by Patrick Plankitt and Maybury & Sons, at a cost of $34,905.75 and the work performed by Stone & Greenart, at a cost of $8,457, were on resolutions offered by Mr. Wilson referred to a commission comprising R. A. Meeker, J. W. Murray, Jr., and DeWitt C. Ivins for adjustment as to benefits and damages, at the Council meeting last night.

Y. M. C. A. baseball took a new lease of life and enthusiasm at the public meeting Friday night, when fifteen candidates turned to the encouragement of the managers, and promising a good season. Speeches were made at the meeting by Manager Henckel and Captain Marsh, who has recently been given a temporary appointment in that capacity. The first practice will be held this afternoon on Crescent Oval, the captain and manager being in charge. There is now more of a definite idea as to the make up of the nine, the following candidates having pledged themselves to support the team last night: Charles Burt, James Conway, Hervey Marsh, Edward Overton, Harry Woodland, Phil Smith, William Glenney, Harris Egan, Arthur Jeffries, Harry Gilmore, Hand, French, Arthur Humble and Fred Armstrong. The old dates which were announced for benefit entertainments have been changed, and Arthur Jeffries, as chairman of the committee, will present the new decision at the next meeting on Monday night.

There is nothing the women appreciate more than a small piece of jewelry, now and then. It doesn't have to be expensive and that is why L. Moraller & Son, of Park avenue, carry a large line of just that kind. In addition they have any quantity of diamonds and watches to select from.

The stock is very large, allowing a wide selection of the best goods at the lowest prices. The women, of course, will be interested in the showing of fine dress goods in all the popular shades and material. The sufferer who is tired of vain experiments should use Cream Balm. Druggists sell it for 50 cents. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York, will mail it.

THE CANAL SHAKEUP

New Commission to Prosecute Work at Isthmus.

PRESIDENT'S LETTER STATES CASE

Result of Former Commissioners Was Not Satisfactory—Shonts, Magoon and Wallace to Be the New Executive.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The personnel of the new isthmian canal commission is as follows: Theodore P. Shonts, chairman; Charles E. Magoon, governor of canal zone; John F. Wallace, chief engineer; Rear Admiral M. T. Endicott, U. S. N.; Brigadier General Peter C. Hains, U. S. A., retired; Colonel Oswald M. Ernst, corps engineers, U. S. A., and Benjamin M. Harrod.

These names have been announced by order of the president at the war department. At the same time Secretary Taft gave out for publication a statement showing the salaries to the new commissioners and a letter from the latter explaining the plan of reorganization of the commission, the reasons therefor and the particular duties to be assigned to each commissioner. The first reads as follows:

"The president has made an order allowing a salary of $7,500, with traveling expenses, to each member of the commission; to the chairman the additional compensation of $22,500; to the chief engineer the additional compensation of $17,500 and to the governor of the zone the additional compensation of $10,000.

"Professor William H. Burr and William Barclay Parsons, civil engineers, will be appointed members of the consulting board of engineers."

Secretary Taft in a letter to the president advocates the formation of an advisory board of notable engineers to report upon the form of canal best adapted to the situation and points out that there is much preliminary work which can be done before it is definitely settled whether or not to build a sea level waterway.

The president's letter reads in part as follows:

"The practical result of the operations of the isthmian canal commission, appointed and acting under previous executive orders, has not been satisfactory and requires a change in the personnel of the commission and in the instructions for its guidance.

"The commission, under the supervision and direction of the secretary of war and subject to the approval of the president, is charged with the general duty of the adoption of the plans for the construction and maintenance of the canal and with the execution of the work of the same; with the purchase and delivery of supplies, machinery and necessary plant; the employment of the necessary officers, employees and laborers and with the fixing of their salaries and wages; with the commercial operation of the Panama Railroad company and its steamship lines as common carriers; with the utilization of the railroad as a means of constructing the canal; with the making of contracts for construction and excavation, and with all other matters incident and necessary to the building of a waterway across the isthmus of Panama, as provided by the act of congress of June 28, 1902."

Governor Magoon will be required to reside permanently on the isthmus and has resigned his present position as law officer of the bureau of insular affairs and of the commission. It is the present intention to refrain from filling the vacancy thus created. The insular bureau, like the other bureaus of the war department, will call on the judge advocate general's office for any necessary legal advice.

The new body met yesterday at the offices of the commission and perfected its organization. The first action taken was the appointement of an executive committee composed of Chairman Shonts, Governor Magoon and Chief Engineer Wallace. Finding he was obliged legally to appoint seven commissioners, the president did so, but he has carried out his own plan by making three of them as the executive practically the commission.

STATE TO EXAMINE

Governor Higgins States That Investigation Has Begun.

EQUITABLE TANGLE NOW AT ALBANY

Senator Brackett Presses Resolution For Inquiry Into the Methods of the Great Life Assurance Society.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The most important development in the Equitable Life Assurance society's affairs was the announcement last night by Governor Higgins at Albany and by President James W. Alexander of the society in this city that the state superintendent of insurance, Francis Hendricks, had begun an investigation of the company's affairs.

This was followed by the introduction in the state senate last night of a resolution providing for a legislative investigation of the Equitable. The resolution was presented by Senator Brackett.

Mr. Hendricks returned to Albany after several days spent in conference with those interested in Equitable matters in this city. The governor's announcement came less than twelve hours after the superintendent had reached his Albany office and was followed by a formal announcement from Mr. Hendricks' office in this city to the same effect.

This action by the state authorities follows a request made by Mr. Alexander to Superintendent Hendricks by letter Feb. 21 and by Mr. Hyde in a later letter, announcement of which was made last Saturday night.

In an authorized statement last night, the first Mr. Alexander has made since the state superintendent was called in to the controversy, the president of the Equitable says that the investigation by Mr. Hendricks "is now in progress. Its result will establish the truth or falsity of many matters which are now being alleged on the one hand and controverted on the other." He also takes occasion to deny some of the statements made formally by Mr. Hyde last Saturday night. Mr. Alexander's statement in part is as follows:

"It has been my settled purpose to avoid as far as possible a discussion in the public press of the merits of any phase of the controversies now existing within the Equitable Life Assurance society. The examination asked for by me is now in progress, and its result will establish the truth or falsity of many matters which are now being alleged on the one hand and controverted on the other.

"In a signed statement issued by the vice president of the society, James H. Hyde, on Saturday, April 1, 1905, certain statements were made which I cannot allow to pass unchallenged. He says that the charges that have been made against him have their origin in an effort by individuals to obtain control of the Equitable society and its assets. On the part of myself and the other officers of the society who are associated with me in this movement I desire to deny that our action is influenced by any motive except a desire to discharge our duty as officers of the society.

"Mr. Hyde further says that he has exercised no power except with the president's concurrence. In reply I assert that Mr. Hyde's usurpation of the president's authority and his habitual action without the consent or the knowledge of the president of the society are among the subjects of serious criticism against his conduct as an officer of the society."

Mr. Hendricks said last night the action of his department would be in the nature of an examination and an investigation. Isaac Vanderpool, chief examiner of the department, will be in charge.

LEITER MINE WRECK

Fifty Miners Entombed by Explosion at Zeigler.

FIFTEEN BODIES BROUGHT UP.

Rescue Party Worked All Night, but Are Hindered by Deadly Gas. Steel Cage Blown Five Hundred Feet.

BENTON Ill., April 4.—Some fifty miners have been entombed in Joseph Leiter's mine at Zeigler by a terrific explosion of gas, and it is probable that thirty or more of the buried men are dead. Thus far fifteen bodies have been found. The explosion, it is said, was due to the fact that the Leiter mines are not worked on Sunday, thus allowing gas to accumulate in the lower workings.

When between thirty-five and forty-five miners had descended into the mine a terrific explosion blew the mouth of the mine high into the air. One of the steel cages was blown to the surface from the bottom of a 500 foot shaft. The shock of the explosion was felt at Benton, twelve miles northeast of Zeigler. A teamster driving along a road half a mile from the mine was covered with falling cinders, and debris covered the floor of his wagon half an inch deep.

One miner was killed and four were severely injured at the mouth of the shaft in which the explosion occurred. The work of rescue was begun at once by miners, who were arriving when the explosion took place. But the main shaft was demolished so that rescue work has to be carried on through the airshaft.

This has hindered the work of aiding the entombed men to such an extent that late last night only fifteen bodies and one injured man had been brought to the surface. These bodies were found forty feet from the bottom of the airshaft, this being as far as the rescuers have been able to penetrate the shaft.

A committee of union miners from Duquoin and other neighboring mining towns, headed by District President Morris, hastened to Zeigler soon after the explosion occurred and offered their aid.

The bodies of the dead are so blackened that they cannot at once be identified. Rolla Campbell is the injured miner brought out of the shaft, and it is said that he cannot live. Campbell is conscious, but he is unable to give any explanation of the accident.

C. E. Childers, a striking Zeigler miner, last October predicted in a printed article that an explosion was likely to occur on account of what he termed improper ventilation of the shafts.

There was much excitement among miners when the accident became known, because there had been a strike of long duration and many conflicts had occurred between strikers and nonunion miners.

An all day investigation tends to show that the catastrophe was due to the accidental explosion of accumulated gas.

Joseph Leiter is expected to reach Zeigler today, although reported to be on his way to Europe. Search for bodies continued all night. Nearly all the bodies found show no marks of injury, indicating death by asphyxiation.

Fire Near Mohegan Cost $25,000.

NASONVILLE, R. I., April 4.—Fire which destroyed several buildings in the neighboring village of Mohegan caused a loss of $25,000. Sparks from a burning barn, the property of Fayette E. Bartlett, set the fields and woods on fire and the flames jumped to the bottling works and ice house of the Great Western hotel and to the village schoolhouse, all of which were destroyed. The hotel was saved in a damaged condition.

Four Held in Witter Case.

NEW LONDON, Conn., April 4.—On the finding of Coroner Brown murder in the first degree was charged by Prosecuting Attorney Rogers against George Gleason, Manuel Silva, Leo F. Shandeor and Patrick Donovan, the young men suspected of being concerned in the death from violence of Charles H. Witter of Old Mystic, in this city, on the night of March 17. The hearing is set for Saturday next.

Minnesota Christening Party.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 4.—A christening party which will attend the launching of the battleship Minnesota on April 8 will leave Minneapolis tonight for Newport News. Miss Rose Marie Schaller, sponsor for the new battleship, with her maids of honor, Miss Constance Day of Fairmont and Miss Lillian McMillan of Minneapolis, and many guests will compose the party, which will go by way of Washington.

Prominent Dallas Man Shot.

DALLAS, Tex., April 4.—Frank J. Bell, a prominent citizen and member of the Pythian order, was shot and probably fatally wounded by Robert Parker, chief clerk of the district court. Mr. Bell is grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of this city. The cause of the shooting is not known. Both men decline to make a statement.

Asthma Caused Suicide.

NYACK, N. Y., April 4.—Because Benjamin Ackerson, one of the best known residents of Rockland Lake, suffered from asthma and could not be cured he shot himself in the head while in the street near his home. He died instantly. He was seventy years old and leaves a widow and daughter.

Plainfield, N. J., April 4, 1905.

All sorts of wonders will be seen at the Dreamland Fair next month. Remember it is for the benefit of Plainfield charities.

It is up to the Board of Trade to extend its thanks to The Suburbanite, that admirable publication of the Jersey Central. Every number shows the advantages of life in this model city in a way that must be convincing to the average New Yorker, whose aim it is to reach every month. The April number contains a well written story on the Plainfield Country Club finely illustrated. In addition it has the usual number of views of Plainfield homes.

The maximum tax bill fixing the rate at $1.50 in cities of less than 50,000 inhabitants, which passed both the Senate and House and was signed by Governor Stokes, will go in effect January, 1906. An amendment provides that the Common Council may by resolution adopt a higher rate provided the same shall be approved by a majority of the legal voters at the general election next preceding the fixing of such rate. Senator Minturn is understood to claim that this amendment was not in the bill when it last passed the Senate.

Mrs. Harvey Fisk, whose death was recorded yesterday, was a woman who had the interests of others at heart and did what she could to help mankind. Mercer Hospital, at Trenton, was founded and received much aid from her. The fine qualities she possessed were inherited by her son, former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, whose goodness of heart is well known to the average Plainfielder. Like his mother he has taken great interest in hospital work and as the president of Muhlenberg has advanced that institution to the front rank among institutions of the kind in New Jersey.

Councilman Telles voiced the opinion of the business men of the city when he declared to his colleagues that the street sprinkling is not properly done. The way the work is being carried on does not answer the purpose by a long shot and general dissatisfaction is expressed. The merchants demand that the dust be kept laid and their requests should be heeded. It is a mistake to place at the head of the street department committee a person who is not in Plainfield from morning to night. Some one on the ground is needed and we can appreciate the fact that Street Commissioner Gavett must be seriously handicapped in not being able to consult with the chairman of the department as occasion requires. We do not mean in any wise to reflect upon Mr. Wilson. No doubt he is carrying out his duties the best way he can under the circumstances and is making every effort to please but as his business is in New York it is hardly possible for him to attend to his Councilmanic work in this particular connection as he should. Just before the commuters' trains pull out in the morning and a few minutes before they arrive in the evening, the thoroughfares used are carefully sprinkled and this probably leads the average commuter to believe that the condition is the same all during the day. It is a clever idea but not the kind that is appreciated by the man who is in business right here in Plainfield.

Rockefeller offered $1,000 to Hope chapel missionary fund, it should be rejected because it has not been rightfully earned." MARION HALL'S LECTURES.

Son of Mrs. Florence Howe Hall Closes Series.

Henry Marion Hall has just brought to a successful termination, his course of lectures on the Elizabethan dramatists given at W. C. T. U. parlors in Orange. Mr. Hall possesses a pleasant voice and manner, together with an earnestness which enables him to win and hold the attention of his hearers. His description of the quaint old miracle plays and "moralities" of the first theatre buildings and crude stage scenery was full of interest. On the second afternoon, brief yet clear sketches of the lives of the playrights Marlowe, "rare Ben Jonson" Beaumont and Fletcher, was supplemented by extracts from their works. The last lecture presented the Grical poetry of these eminent writers.

Mr. Hall's mastery of his subject obtained through wide reading enable him to impart to his audience the interest which he himself evidently feels, in these classic authors. Mr. Hall was warmly congratulated on the success of his initial venture in the lecture field.

Mrs. David Bowden, of West Fourth street, is able to be out after her long illness.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

At the morning service in the Methodist church, Sunday, Rev. S. K. Decittis bade formal farewell to the congregation. He will retain his residence in the borough until he is appointed to a new pasterate by the Newark Conference which meets in the Halsey Street church beginning today. The pulpit at the Methodist church the coming Sunday will be occupied by Rev. H. N. Jordan, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church. Isaac Stites and Firman Gise will be among those to attend the Conference.

The fact that Dunellen is to put a strong baseball team in the field this year has been the means of stirring the New Market rooters to action and the village by the lake will be ready at the start with a formidable array of players. "Al" Squier will do the twirling and he will be caught by A. G. Nelson. It is possible that George Whitley will be maintained as substitute pitcher and the remainder of the line-up will include Piddington, Walter Nelson, "Tommy" Mack and Joe Waglow.

The feature at the musicale to be given in the Presbyterian church, Thursday night, will be whistling solos by Miss Emma D. Hillyer, of the borough. The assisting artists will be Miss Bessie Robertson and Miss Bertha Ayers, of Bound Brook, elocutionists and Mrs. Robert Humpston, of Plainfield, soloist. Robert Humpston will act as accompanist.

The Aluminum Press Company at West Dunellen has taken on twenty new hands in the past week. Business at the Levering & Garrigues factory is also on the increase.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Grieb have removed to the borough from Rahway. They were former residents of Plainfield.

Mrs. Mary Pickoff, of Raritan, has returned home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Siriski.

Benjamin Pixie is regaining slowly after an illness of three weeks.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD

Among the spring changes in town are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Fancher, Newark, to the Frazee cottage, Park avenue; Freeholder and Mrs. John Robison and family, from the borough, back to their former home on Forest avenue; Mr. and Mrs. George A. Clark and family to Finderne; Mr. and Mrs. William Johnston, from Forest avenue, to the Hetfield cottage on Front street; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hollingsworth from Park avenue, Plainfield, to the Dr. J. Ackerman Coles cottage on Stout avenue; Mr. and Mrs. George Wyckoff from Westfield avenue, to Plainfield, their former place of residence; Mr. Wood and family, from Dunellen to Mrs. J. H. Parks' cottage on Park avenue. These are only a few of the changes made but it is needless to say the supply of houses did not begin to meet the demand.

The annual parish meeting and election of trustees of the Baptist church was held last night in the church parlors. The yearly report of both treasurer and president shows the church to be in a flourishing condition. Rev. T. Moore-Smith, whose pasterate began the first of the year, gives promise of having a most successful ministery. The retiring board of trustees were all re-elected, being as follows: A. D. Beekon, Charles R. Vincent, Edward W. D. Johnston, Fred'k Heppell, John Bernmann, J. H. L. Todd and Dr. F. W. Westcott.

Rev. Warren D. Coons preached his farewell sermon Sunday night, at the Methodist church. Whereas, The Board of Chosen Freeholders of the county of Union have heretofore, to wit, on the eighteenth day of April, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine, in accordance with the provisions of an act entitled, "An Act to enable Boards of Chosen Freeholders to acquire, improve and maintain public roads," approved March 19, 1889, and the supplements and amendments thereto, acquired, improved and maintained a certain public road located in the city of Rahway, and hereinafter described:

And it being the sense of this board that control of said road should be relinquished; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union do hereby relinquish control of the aforesaid road, which is described as follows:

Beginning at a point where the center line of St. George avenue intersects the center line of Westfield avenue, in the city of Rahway; thence running westerly and northwesterly along said Westfield avenue, or Westfield road, its various courses thereof, through the city of Rahway, to a point where the center line of said road or avenue intersects the boundary line dividing the city of Rahway and the township of Clark; and be it further

Resolved, That certified copy of this resolution, duly certified by the clerk of this board, be filed in the office of the county clerk, and that the map now on file be changed accordingly.

Freeholder Cady moved the adoption of the foregoing preamble and resolutions, and on roll call they were adopted by the following vote, viz.:

Ayes—Director Hubbard and Freeholders Adams, Cady, Chandler, Darby, Jensen, Kline, Krouse, Meisel, Murphy, Robison, Scudder, Swain, Wahl, Westphal, Woodruff—16.

Nays—Freeholders Cladek and Marsh—2.

Absent—Freeholders Connoly and King—2.

On motion it was ordered that a recess of ten (10) minutes be taken in which to arrange bills.

Upon reassembling after recess, roll call showed all members present except Freeholders Connoly and King—2.

The following bills, properly audited and approved, were read, and on roll call unanimously ordered paid, viz.:

Beautiful Women

realize that luxuriant hair of rich, youthful color always adds to their charms. The hair may be golden, black or brown, but when it becomes gray or faded there is an appearance of age, though she may feel as young as ever. Under these circumstances gray hair is a drawback to men and women.

Hay's HAIRHEALTH Keeps You Looking Young.

Always brings back the color and beauty of youth to gray or faded hair. Positively removes dandruff, kills the germ and stops hair falling. Does not soil skin or linen. Aided by HARFINA SOAP it soothes and heals the scalp, stops itching and promotes fine hair growth. Large 50c. bottles. Take nothing without Philo Hay Co. signature.

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth. 7 Miles from Newark.
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in These Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER, AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL, IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FASHION VAGARIES.

Blouses Very Greatly Pouched In Front Are Out of Style.

Blouses very much pouched in front are entirely out of style. In their stead are the corset shaped or pointed waistbands, the latter being very low in front, but so curved at the sides that the hip line does not lose in grace.

Chip, crinoline, panama and manila are the leading straws of the moment, though some of the outing hats are of coarse material. These simple hats are trimmed with quills and soft bands of kid or suede around the crown and are quite smart for traveling and country wear.

Tulle enters into the hats of the season extensively, many of the daintiest toques being made of this material either in black or white decorated with sequins and trimmed with paradise plumes held with a bird's head.

There is a new shade of prussian blue which is very attractive in serge. A gown of this material is extremely effective trimmed with black braid. Dark red cloth braided in black and the new blue in cream, white and black will be much in evidence. In many of the new braids there is an introduction of either gold or silver, which gives a bright effect to an otherwise severely tailor made costume.

The nightdress seen in the sketch is of sheer French cambric. The square yoke fastens on the left side and is formed of tucks outlined top and bottom by a half inch embroidery, through which quarter inch wide ribbon is run.

NEW MILLINERY.

Smart Spring Hats Will Be Worn Tilted Over the Face.

The square high effect at the back of hats is one of the new wrinkles of the spring styles, and the tilt over the face is effected by means of an exaggerated bandeau at the back.

There is no question that all hats this season will be smaller. Even the picture chapeaux are curtailing their dimensions. To the majority of women these hats with smaller brims are most becoming.

There is another whim of millinery to be chronicled that will attract a certain type of woman, and this is the square appearance imparted to the front of a hat by cutting away or catching up the brim directly in front. A leaf shaped bow fills in the vacancy.

A stunning hat of this square shape is carried out in mauve straw, with a soft bow of pale blue ribbon in front. An ostrich feather curls gracefully over the brim at the back.

The new French sailors have dented crowns and are worn well tilted over the face, with immensely high bandeaux. Swathings of shaded tulle trim them about the crown, and soft loops of satin ribbon fill in the bandeau at the back.

The popularity of the turban hat is greater than ever, it is such a becoming shape and does duty for so many occasions.

Taking it all round, the millinery of 1905 has decidedly changed from anything seen last summer. The beautiful lines of the old masters have given place to small, compact styles.

The illustration shows a smart hat of nut brown fancy straw trimmed with a shaded bow of soft ribbon toning from brown to pale yellow. Cream and brown roses encircle the crown, while the bandeau at the back is lifted by quillings of the shaded ribbon.

Kate Bonnet

The Romance of a Pirate's Daughter

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

"Oh, I have heard of him," he cried, "I have heard of him! He has played the devil along the Atlantic coast. He must be a great fellow this—what did you say his name was?"

"Bonnet," said the other.

Blackbeard laughed. "That suits him well; he must have clapped his name over the eyes of many a merchant captain! Where did he sail before he hoisted the Jolly Roger?"

At this Bittern laughed. "He never sailed anywhere, he is no seaman; and if he were not rich enough to pay others to do his navigatin' for him he would have run his vessel upon the first sand-bar on his way from Bridgetown to the sea. But he pays some good mariner to sail his Revenge, and he now pays me. I am, in fact, the captain of his vessel."

"You mean," cried Blackbeard, "that he knows nothing of navigation?"

"Not a whit," replied the other; "he doesn't know the backstays from the taffrail. It was only yesterday that he thought he was already in the port of Belize, and dressed himself up like a fighting-cock to meet you."

"To meet me?" roared Blackbeard; "what does he want to meet me for, and why don't he come and do it instead of sending you?"

"Not he," said Bittern. "He is a great man, if not a sailor; he knows what is politeness on shipboard, and as he is the last comer you must be the first caller. He is all dressed up now, hoping that you will row over to the Revenge as soon as you know that he is its commander."

The hairy pirate leaned back and laughed in loud explosions.

"He is a rare man, truly," he exclaimed, "this Capt. Nightcap of yours—"

"Bonnet," interrupted Bittern.

"Well, one is as good as the other," cried Blackbeard, "and he be well clothed if it be of the right color. And you started out with him to sail his ship, you rascal? That's a piece of impudence almost as great as his own."

Bittern did not much like this speech, and wanted to explain that since he had served under Blackbeard he had commanded vessels himself, but he restrained himself and told how Sam Loftus had been tumbled overboard for running afoul his captain, and how he had been appointed to his place.

Now Blackbeard laughed again, with a great pound upon his knee. "He is a man after my own heart," he shouted, "be he sailor or no sailor, this nightcap commander of yours. I know I shall love him!" And springing to his feet and uttering a resounding oath, he swore that he would visit his new brother that afternoon.

"Now, away with you!" cried Blackbeard, "and tell Sir Nightcap—"

"Bonnet," interrupted Bittern.

"Well, Bonnet or Cap, it matters not to me. Row straight back to your ship, and let him know that I shall expect to be received with admiral's honors."

Bittern looked somewhat embarrassed. "But, captain," he said, "my men are on their way to the town, and I fear me they will rebel if I tell them they cannot go there."

In saying this the sailing master spoke not only for his men, but for himself. He was very anxious to go ashore; he had business there; he wanted to see who were in the place, and what was going on before Bonnet should go to the town.

"What!" cried Blackbeard, putting his head down like a charging bull. "I order you to row back to your vessel and take my message; and if you do it not I will sink you all in a bunch! Into your boat, sir, and waste not another minute. If you are not able to command your men, I will keep you here and give them a coxswain who can."

Without another word, Bittern scuffled over the side, and, his boat being brought up, he dropped into it.

"Now, men," he said, "I have a message from Capt. Blackbeard to the Revenge; bend to it as I steer that way."

"Give my pious regards to your Sir Nightcap," shouted Blackbeard.

CHAPTER XVI.

AN ORNAMENTED BEARD.

It was about the middle of the afternoon when a large boat, well filled, was seen approaching the Revenge from Blackbeard's vessel. As soon as it had become known that this chief of all pirates of that day, this Edward Thatch of England, was really coming on board the Revenge, not one word was uttered among the crew on the subject of going ashore, although they had been long at sea. The shore could wait when Blackbeard was coming. Even to look upon this doughty desperado would be an honor and a joy to the brawny scoundrels who made up the crew of the Revenge.

It might have been supposed that everything upon Capt. Bonnet's vessel had been made ready for the expected advent of Blackbeard, but nothing seemed good enough, nothing seemed as effectively placed and arranged as it might have been; and with execrations and commands, Bonnet hurried here and there, making everything, if possible, more ship shape than it had been before.

"Stay you two in the background," he said to Ben Greenway and Dickory; "you are both landsmen, and you don't count in a ceremony such as this is going to be. Station your men as I told you, Bittern, and man the yards when it is time."

Capt. Bonnet, in his brave uniform and wearing a cocked hat with a feather, his hand upon his sword-hilt, stood up tall and stately. When the boat was made fast and the great pirate's head appeared above the rail, six cannon roared a welcome and Bonnet stepped forward, hand extended and hat uplifted.

The instant Blackbeard's feet touched the deck he drew from their holsters a pair of pistols and fired them in the air.

"Now then," he shouted, "we are even, salute for salute, for my pistols are more than equal to the cannon of any other man. How goes it with you, Sir Nightcap—Bonnet, I mean?" And with that he clasped the hand reached out to him in a bone-crushing grasp.

His fingers aching and his brain astonished, Bonnet could not comprehend what sort of a man it was who stood before him. With hair purposely dishevelled; with his hat more slouched than usual; with his beard divided into tails, each tied with a different-colored ribbon; with half a dozen pistols strung across his breast; with other pistols and a knife or two stuck into his belt; with his great sword by his side, and his eyes gleaming brighter than ever and a general expression, both in face and figure, of an aggressive impudence, Blackbeard stood on his stout legs, clothed in rough red stockings, and gazed about him. But the captain of the Revenge did not forget his manners. He welcomed Blackbeard with all courtesy and besought him to enter his poor cabin.

Blackbeard laughed. "Poor cabin, say you? But I'll tell you this one thing, my valiant Captain Cap; you have not a poor vessel, not a poor vessel, I swear that to you, my brave captain, I swear that!"

Then, with no attention to Bonnet's invitation, Capt. Blackbeard strolled about the deck, examining everything, cursing this and praising that, and followed by Capt. Bonnet, Black Paul, and a crowd of admiring pirates.

Ben Greenway bowed his head and groaned. "I doubt if Master Bonnet will ever go to the de'il as I feared he would, for now has the de'il come to him. Oh, Dickory, Dickory! this master o' mine was a worthy mon an' a good ane when I first came to him, an' a' that I hae I owe to him, for I was in sad case, Dickory, very sad case; but now that he has Apollyon for his teacher, he'll cease to know righteousness altogether."

SIXTH RACE THE FEATURE.

Two Favorites Won on Benning's Track at Washington.

WASHINGTON, April 4. — Special features at Benning were the victories of two favorites and a heavily played second choice, the talent breaking nearly even with the bookmakers. In five races Jockey Baird was first three times, second once and third once. The prettiest race of the day was the sixth, Bobbie Kean giving the favorite, Uncle Urigh, a beating in a drive, Sais, heavily played for the place, running third. Summaries:

First Race.—Weirdsome, first; Arabo, second; Mamie Worth, third.

Second Race.—Belden, first; Tickle, second; Anodyne, third.

Third Race.—Little Wood, first; Poseur, second; The Gadfly, third.

Fourth Race.—Royal Window, first; Cascine, second; Blue and Orange, third.

Fifth Race.—Sir Ralph, first; Flat, second; Probe, third.

Sixth Race.—Bobbie Kean, first; Uncle Urigh, second; Sais, third.

Agile Won the Derby.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 4.—Captain S. S. Brown's handsome bay colt Agile, by Sir Dixon, dam Alpena, ridden by Jack Martin, romped home an easy winner in the Tennessee Derby at a mile and an eighth, defeating John Smulski, the Ellison candidate, and Jack Lory, representing the stable of John W. Schorr, by five lengths. Ram's Horn and Whippoorwill, the entry of Captain W. S. Williams, were withdrawn. Agile was a prohibitive favorite in the betting. The Derby was probably the richest stake ever offered in the south, being worth $10,535, with $8,800 to the winner.

Close Finish at Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4. — The closest finish of the season at Oakland occurred in the fourth race. Five horses finished heads and noses apart. The judges placed Augie first, Eva G. second and Cinnabar third.

Americans Defeated Nationals.

PHILADELPHIA, April 4. — In a match here the Philadelphia Americans defeated the Nationals of this city in a close game by the score of 3 to 2. Batteries—Coakley and Noonan; Corridon and Kahoe.

Smiths Fighting Extradition.

CINCINNATI, April 4.—The contest by J. Morgan Smith and wife, relatives of Nan Patterson, against extradition and the fight against the New York detectives will go hand in hand. This was indicated by the proceedings in court. Attorney Shay, for the defense, asked for time to prepare an answer. The court granted till tomorrow, when the habeas corpus proceedings will be disposed of. Mr. Shay was afterward asked what he intended to do about the Smiths' letters that were taken by detectives and sent to New York. He replied that action would be taken against these officers.

He held the position of United States naval officer at Philadelphia from 1893 to 1897. Mr. Wright was a prominent Mason and was a brother of Robert E. Wright, Democratic leader of Pennsylvania.

All Is Peace, Says Palma.

HAVANA, April 4.—The seventh session of congress began Monday. President Palma's message congratulated the country on the continuance of order and on the fact that there have been no untoward incidents beyond those ordinarily dealt with by the courts. Notwithstanding the great movement to Cuba of workers in the sugar and other industries, the tranquillity in the country districts is absolute.

JUDGE SCHENCK TAKES THE OATH

Qualifies for Second Term As Judge of Somerset Co.'s Court.

REGER NOT SWORN IN

Oath to be Administered to New Prosecutor Later — The Careers of the Two Officials.

Louis H. Schenck was yesterday sworn in as law judge of Somerset County for his second term of office by County Clerk A. G. Anderson. There was a large gathering of friends to witness the proceedings and after the oath was taken congratulations and best wishes were extended.

Judge Schenck's appointment was conferred by Governor Stokes and ratified by the Senate. He is a graduate of Rutgers College and after being admitted to the bar conducted his law practice at Somerville.

Judge Schenck's salary is $1,800 per year.

Contrary to reports in other papers, County Prosecutor John F. Reger was not sworn in yesterday, although it was intended he should have been at the same time Judge Schenck entered upon his second term. The delay was caused by the non-arrival of his commission and the oath will be administered by Judge Schenck as soon as it is received from Trenton. Fred A. Pope's term as assistant prosecutor does not expire until the September term of courts.

Mr. Reger was born near North Branch, N. J., and since he was six years of age he has lived in Raritan. Before he began the study of law he taught school at Watchung, N. J., and also for three years in Somerville. He began to study law in the office of James J. Bergen, now vice chancellor, and later with Nelson Y. Dungan. He was admitted to the bar as an attorney at the February term of the Supreme Court in 1896, and as a counsellor just three years later. He opened a law office, and one year later formed a partnership with Nelson Y. Dungan that still exists.

Mr. Reger is 35 years of age, and a bachelor. He is a member of Solomon's Lodge, F. and A. M. He is also a member of the Bachelor Club, of Somerville, president of the Public Library Association and was recently elected counsel of the Board of Commissioners of the town of Raritan, where he now resides.

Protest Against Tax.

The Central Railroad has served notice on the borough of Garwood that it will carry the matter of the tax assessment, which is deemed excessive, to the Supreme Court for adjustment.

COUNTRY CLUB'S STORY

Plainfield's Chief Social and Out-Door Sports Organization.

LARGE MEMBERSHIP

Interesting Article in The Suburbanite by Leighton Calkins, of This City.

In the current number of The Suburbanite, a monthly publication of the Jersey Central, is a well written story on the Plainfield Country Club by Leighton Calkins, of this city. It is as follows:

The Plainfield Country Club was incorporated as The Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, and was known by that name until as recently as last December when an entirely new constitution was adopted including the change of name. The club was originally a tennis club, located on Hillside avenue. In 1896 the club moved to Plainfield avenue, constructed a nine-hole golf course, practically gave up tennis as many other clubs did also, at that time, and devoted itself to the encouragement of the royal and ancient game and to the development of good players.

For two or three years the club was a golf club and little more. It outgrew its clubhouse—a small and inexpensive building which is now used as a caddy house—and it entirely outgrew its golf links which were crowded to the point of danger. The year 1899 found the club at its present location, about two and one-half miles from the center of the town, with a club property comprising about 110 acres of land and a clubhouse representing an investment of many thousand dollars.

In addition there is a three-story farm house, and the stables, horse sheds and automobile sheds add much to the resources of the club and to the comfort of the members. All of this very valuable property is owned by the club, and is constantly increasing in value. The clubhouse is equipped with a large living-room, a dining-room, which will accommodate seventy-five people at dinner, private dining-rooms, and an open-air luncheon piazza; a large men's locker-room in the basement, a dressing-room and locker-room for ladies, a men's smoking-room, and kitchens, offices and store-rooms. Many improvements have been made, including bedrooms on the second floor for the use of members and guests.

An unusual feature is the private driveway leading from the main road to the automobile sheds. This has been constructed at a considerable expense to prevent any danger of the accidents which often occur when large and noisy motor cars and spirited horses meet on a common driveway.

While the club has become in every sense a country club, golf continues and is likely to continue to be the main attraction, especially from April to Thanksgiving Day. The course is an eighteen-hole course, laid out over a beautifully rolling country, with a turf which is rapidly improving in quality. When certain improvements now under way are completed, the links will have a playing length of about fifty-seven hundred yards.

While not a long course, the holes have been laid out in such a way that the long driver has a distinct advan-

TENEMENTS ALL GOOD

Board of Health Inspection Show Flat Houses to be Clean.

NEW BARBER LAW

Sanitary Regulations for Barber Shops—Proprietors Petition Board.

A remonstrance signed by ten of the local barbers was received at the April meeting of the Board of Health, yesterday afternoon, objecting to the adoption of the ordinance which provides that they shall pay an annual license fee of $2. They believed that it would be unjust in view of their other expenses. The Board felt that it would be best to adopt the ordinance as at present drafted and later it could be amended so that the fee could be reduced to possibly fifty cents. The Board's object in putting this ordinance through is as much for the protection of the barber and their patrons, and it was adopted on its third reading.

It was stated that the tenement house inspection was completed in March and the results were satisfactory. With the exception of two or three houses, all the buildings in Plainfield occupied as tenement houses, are in good condition. The general need is, perhaps, a thorough cleaning of the yards and cellars with a generous use of white wash. The tenement house law provides also that there shall be sufficient access to the roof by means of a fixed ladder or stairs and a scuttle or sky light. Nearly all the houses are provided with scuttles to the roof, but in only one instance is there a fixed ladder. The results obtained from the inspection will be referred to the State Board of Tenement House Supervision for its action.

At present the sanitary condition of the city is good. During March but one case of diphtheria and four cases of scarlet fever were reported, two of the latter being in the same family. There was a decided decrease in the number of cases of measles reported. Seventeen dairies were visited and twenty-three samples of milk and cream were analysed.

Plumbers' bonds of Reuben J. Southwick, of Somerville and Stothoff Brothers, of Flemington, were ordered filed. A permit was granted to Mrs. Noah Terry to collect garbage, and one to Joseph F. Burke to carry on the business of scavenger. There were reported during the month eleven marriages, nineteen births, two stillbirths and twenty-three deaths.

Before adjournment the annual report for 1904 was ordered printed.

Captain January Dramatized.

"Captain January," a short story by Mrs. Laura E. Richards, a sister of Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of Madison avenue, has been dramatized and is being performed this week at the Colonial Music Hall, New York. It is a pathetic little story of the Maine coast and a pathetic little play that will appeal to persons whose hearts are not calloused.

Agriculturists to Meet.

The quarterly meeting of the Somerset County Board of Agriculture will be held in the Court House at Somerville Saturday, April 29. A. A. Cortelyou, of Neshanic Station, president of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, will lead a discussion on "Corn: Its value as a crop and the best way to increase its yield."

—Included in the large line of very fancy fruits at Neuman Brothers are oranges, pineapples and apples. The quality is appreciated after a single purchase.

WASHINGTON VALLEY DEVASTATED BY FIRE

FLAMES SWEEP OVER AN AREA OF 5,000 ACRES UNTIL PUT OUT BY RAIN.

The heavy rain of last night was the means of extinguishing one of the most destructive forest fires that has swept through Washington valley in many years. It had its origin Monday in the woods about Meldenke's castle at Watchung and despite the efforts of scores of men to check it, spread with amazing rapidity over an area of 5,000 acres. It travelled over to the second mountain burning young timber on the farms of A. M. Lyall, Robert Murphy, W. H. Rogers and A. G. Worsing.

Several times yesterday, genuine alarm was felt through the valley as many large houses and barns were threatened and it was only by working with feverish energy that the hungry flames were diverted.

Part of the area devastated included a tract of woodland cut last winter by John Mobus, where many cords of wood were stored up for seasoning. In trying to save this Mobus was badly burned by a back draught on a large pile and is now confined to his home. He was the only one of the fire fighters to sustain any injury.

The damage will reach in the thousands of dollars and the valley residents are taking extra precautions against a repetition of the fire.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR BAND CONCERT BENEFIT

FAIR WILL BE GIVEN IN SAENGERBUND HALL SEVEN NIGHTS.

At a meeting held last night, plans were perfected by Ben LaVere and those who are assisting him for the big fair and vaudeville show to be given in Saengerbund Hall for the benefit of the summer band concerts. It was decided to have it continue seven days, from April 25 to May 2, and through the services of professional friends of Mr. LaVere, will be replete with novel features. The programme will be changed nightly, plenty of good talent having been secured.

Among the musicians and vocalists who will appear are George Offerman, "Billy" Murray, William Redmond, Jack Driscollon, Theodore Morse and William Corcoran, all of whom are well known to Plainfielders. All are first class singers, Redmond at the present time being with Dockstader's minstrels and Offerman and Morse appearing in vaudeville. Following the fair, the same artists will conduct a straight vaudeville show in the Casino on May 11 for the same purpose. In the event of $500 being raised, this will suffice to keep the concerts going all summer, as Mr. LaVere counts on raising an additional $1,000 from admissions to the grandstand which will be increased to a seating capacity of 1,000. The first concert will be given on June 9 and one of the soloists will be Jack Lesck, for many years cornetist with Innis' Band and now traveling in Europe with the Kilties.

The general committee appointed at last night's meeting comprises Edward Smith, Charles Greer, H. P. Greenwood, F. M. Slater, William McMullough and Walter Emmons. A committee of women is to be announced later.

BALL BENEFIT.

Series of Entertainments for Y. M. C. A. Team.

A supplimental series of entertainments to the Y. M. C. A. Star Course will be held at the association hall on Tuesday night, April 11; Thursday night, April 27, and Tuesday night, May 9, for the benefit of the association ball team. The first entertainment will be provided by Miss Helen M. Wilson, elocutionist; Miss Catherine Lane, soprano, and VanEps brothers, banjo and mandolin. In the second entertainment Miss Clara Commens will appear in an impersonation of "Mercy Mary Ann," with Miss Dorothy Johnson, harpist.

The last entertainment will be furnished by W. D. Howe, president of the Yale Dramatic Club, and William Paulding DeNike, 'cellist. Those interested in baseball for the coming season are asked to meet at the association tomorrow night.

GIFT TO RETIRING PASTOR

Dr. W. C. Snodgrass Pleasantly Surprised at Reception.

FORMAL LEAVE-TAKING

First M. E. Congregation Honors Clergyman to Whom It Owes So Much—What He Accomplished.

The members of the First M. E. church and congregation as well as pastors from other local churches, united in giving a farewell reception to Rev. Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Snodgrass in Vincent chapel, last night. The stormy weather had a tendency to keep some away, but nevertheless there was a large number of persons present and a pleasant time was had.

The chapel was unusually attractive in its decorations. Encircling the gallery were strips of crepe paper and the incandescent lamps were shaded with various colored paper. The platform was completely hidden by palms, ferns and flowers, while throughout the large room were many cozy corners. Pretty rugs and sofa pillows helped to make the decorations complete. The room directly back of the main auditorium was used for the serving of refreshments from a long table garnished with sets of silver and flowers.

Rev. Dr. G. H. Whitney was in charge of the programme, which opened with a prayer by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Senenck. This was followed with a piano selection for four hands, "Priests' March from Athaliah," Mendelssohn, by Miss Winckler and Miss Emmons, a vocal solo by Miss Etta Raybert, accompanied by Miss May Whitney; recitations, "The Bleighride," by Edmund Clarence Stedman, and "Rory O'Moore," by Samuel Lover, by Miss Bertha H. Whitney.

Dr. Whitney then made a few appropriate remarks, referring to the long pastorate of Dr. Snodgrass and wishing him and his family God-speed in their new home wherever that may be. He then read a letter of regret from Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, who was unable to attend. The letter was as follows: "Please accept my thanks for the kind invitation to Dr. Snodgrass' reception. It would give me great pleasure to be present as a mark of my high personal esteem for the doctor as well as of denominational fellowship, but unfortunately I have promissed to attend the same evening an important meeting in New York which deeply concerns our foreign missionary work. In behalf of Mrs. Chambliss, who is in the south, I remain sincerely, J. A. Chambliss."

Rev. Charles E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, spoke on behalf of the ministers of the city. He related several amusing stories and concluded with a rich tribute to the service of Dr. Snodgrass.

The surprise of the evening and the feature was the remarks by Nelson A. Miller and presentation to Dr. Snodgrass. In his usual happy vein he made a short address, referring to his high regard for Dr. Snodgrass, who had assisted him in locating in Plainfield, and then produced a handsome purse, which he said he had purchased in New York. Then placing a bright penny dated 1858, the same year he was born, therein, he presented to Dr. Snodgrass on behalf of the congregation the purse and contents amounting to $250.

The presentation was such a surprise to Dr. Snodgrass that it was several minutes before he could find words in which to express his appreciation. He then referred to the many friends he had made during his stay of eight years here and said that he did not believe that any present were glad to have him leave. His relations had always been pleasant and it was his desire to leave so quietly that his departure would scarcely be noticed. In conclusion he thanked one and all for the kind expression.

The programme closed with a delightful piano selection, "International Fantasie of Nations," arranged by Epstein, by Miss May Whitney and Miss Jessie Utter.

During the social hour which followed Mrs. Snodgrass was pleasantly remembered, two little girls presenting her a handsome bouquet of flowers to which was a card, bearing these words: "Flowers may fade, but the memory of your kindness and grace will never leave the hearts of your friends, the givers."

The reception was given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, of which Mrs. Nelson A. Miller is the president. Mrs. J. H. Motley was the general chairman. Mrs. George H. Whitney had charge of the programme, and Mrs. Judd Stewart the HUGGED THE WOMEN.

Man Bound for Cranford Causes Commotion on a Trolley Car—Was Arrested.

A man who says he is Joseph Sullivan, of this city, caused a great commotion Monday night by trying to hug the women passengers on a trolley car bound from Plainfield for Cranford. When the crew of the car and some other men interfered to protect the women Sullivan became very violent and was with difficulty restrained. When Westfield Junction was reached two strapping motormen boarded the car and took charge of the man until the car arrived at Cranford.

Meantime a telephone message had been received, asking the police to look out for the arrival of the car. When it reached Cranford several policemen were waiting for it and Sullivan was handed over to them by the motormen, who said that they had had all they could do to keep the man in order on the trip from Westfield Junction.

Sullivan resisted arrest and had to be dragged to the lock-up. He became so violent after the lock-up was reached that an opiate was administered to quiet him. Yesterday morning Sullivan said he could remember nothing of what occurred Monday night.

Randolph has also presented four volumes of valuable reports and one book entitled "Awakening of a Nation," and his own volume of poems, "Survivals."

The secretary of the board has been directed to extend its thanks to Charles L. Moffett, executor of Mrs. John Dietrich, for the gift to the art gallery of a large oil painting of Washington.

APPLIES FOR JURY.

To Test Right of Property Under Seizure.

Another phase of the long-standing legal fight between Charles H. Hand and Frank H. Smith and Dr. Herring over two months' rent of a house rented to Dr. Herring, will be settled before a special jury within two weeks. The jury was applied for by Counsellor S. S. Swackhamer, for the defendant, to prove the right of property involved in the levy made by the deputy sheriff on office goods supposed to belong to Dr. Herring, to settle a judgment of $65.

The defendant claims that the goods seized had been sold to R. A. Geman, who has an office near Dr. Herring in the Babcock building. The application for a special jury was made by Counsellor Swackhamer in the court of Common Pleas today. He expects a trial in two weeks.

Trust Co.'s Pamphlet.

Under the captions "The Modern Trust Company," "The Security Afforded" and "The Facilities Offered," the Plainfield Trust Company has issued a valuable book of convenient size. To those who know nothing of the work of a trust company the book cannot fail to be instructive.

MR. WHITESIDE MARRIED

Former Newspaper Man Now in Ministry is a Benedict.

WEDS MISS HOCKRIDGE

Rev. Theo. Henderson Performs the ceremony at Bride's Home at St. Remy, N. Y.

At St. Remy, N. Y., Monday afternoon, a wedding of much interest to Plainfielders took place. While none of those directly interested in the event lives in this city now, all of them were residents of Plainfield recently, and are well known here.

The groom was the Rev. Francis E. Whiteside, a former newspaper man here, and the bride was Miss Helen Eugenie Hockridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Hockridge. Mr. and Mrs. Hockridge resided with their family, until two years ago, on East Fifth street. Mrs. Whiteside, at that time, was one of the active workers in Trinity Reformed church young people's circles.

St. Remy is the country home of the bride's father, to where the family removed when they left this city. The wedding was held at the house. It was a quiet affair.

Rev. Theodore S. Henderson, head of the evangelistic commission of the New York East M. E. Conference, performed the ceremony. Until recently, Rev. Mr. Whiteside was associated with Rev. Mr. Henderson in the work of the Commission.

Mr. and Mrs. Whiteside went to Waterbury, Conn., yesterday. The annual meeting of the New York East Conference opened there this morning, and Mr. Whiteside, who is a member of the Conference, must attend the sessions. After the conference ends next week Mr. and Mrs. Whiteside will go to Philadelphia, to spend a few days with the groom's family. Where they will make their home depends on the Bishop at the head of the Conference; he makes the pastoral appointments. Mr. Whiteside will not know where his charge is to be until the last day of the Conference, when the appointments will be announced.

Mr. Whiteside's marriage is the fruit of an evangelistic campaign held in this city in 1901. At that time Mr. Whiteside, reporting the meetings for his paper, was converted and decided to enter the ministry. Miss Heckridge was attending the services at the same time, and the two met. She too, felt the influence of the revival spirit, and the bond of sympathy established by their changed feelings became something warmer in a very short time.

It was the clergyman who married them, Rev. Theodore Henderson, who preached the evangelistic sermon that converted Mr. and Mrs. Whiteside.

Mr. Whiteside has been in the ministry a little over a year. He is a graduate of the Philadelphia Central High School, and of Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, where he matriculated in the autumn of 1901. Immediately after his graduation he became the assistant of Mr. Henderson in the evangelistic commission work. His labors in that field were so highly regarded that when the pastorate at Huntington, L. I., became vacant unexpectedly last fall, Mr. Whiteside was sent to fill it. The charge is] one to which much older men have usually gone.

He finished his term there as a supply last Sunday, after three months of service. The result of his work in upbuilding the church was shown that night by the reception of eighteen new members, converts of a recent evangelistic campaign.

This is Mr. Holmes' eighth season in New York. For six years, Mr. Holmes annually delivered the Daily Lenten Lectures, but last season, the New Lyceum being built, moved to that handsome playhouse on 45th street, this being the second season there. The Sunday night course at Carnegie Hall was inaugurated last season in response to the demand of those who were unable to attend matinees. Next Sunday night his subject will be "Russia."

LOUISVILLE EN FETE

President Gets a Great Welcome In the South.

GREETED WITH OLD REBEL YELL.

President Asked For a United People, With No North, No South and One Object, Their Country's Welfare.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 5.—The president arrived in Louisville on his special train after a slow run through Ohio and a strip of Kentucky. The president was up early after a refreshing night's slumber and expressed himself as well satisfied with the first day of the trip.

The Confederate Veterans' home at Pewee Valley, Ky., gave the president one of the most friendly welcomes that he has received so far on the trip. The Pewee Valley home was established two years ago, and about a hundred Confederate veterans live there. When the train approached Pewee Valley it slowed up, and opportunity was given to say a few words to the veterans, who were lined up on the platform.

The presidential train on arriving in Louisville was greeted by about 3,000 persons, and when he appeared they gave him three cheers.

Old Confederates who had gathered at the Louisville station to the number of about a hundred added a rousing rebel yell all by themselves. The president had been bowing right and left, and when the rebel yell came he doffed his hat and said, "I thank you, boys; I thank you!"

The address of welcome was made by Acting Mayor Paul C. Barth in the absence of Mayor Charles F. Grainger.

At this time the presidential salute was fired on the river front and the big parade was formed. At Third street and Broadway 500 school children sang "Old Kentucky Home." The president, smiling broadly and waving a handkerchief, kissed his hand to the little girls.

Down Broadway the parade moved to Fourth street, which was beautifully decorated, and on to Jefferson and down to the courthouse, where the speeches were made.

In introducing the president Governor Beckham said:

"I believe that it is in the power of this great man—who more than any president since the big brained and big hearted Lincoln holds the affection and the confidence of the people of this country—I say, I believe it is more in his power than in the power of any other man to establish beyond question the fact that there is no north, no south, no east, no west, in this country."

President Roosevelt spoke in part as follows:

"Governor Beckham and You, My Fellow Americans—Surely any man would indeed be gratified to be greeted in this way by such an audience and be introduced as you have introduced me, Governor Beckham. As the governor has so well said, upon all the important questions, the questions that infinitely transcend mere partisan differences, we are fundamentally one, for in the questions of foreign and internal policies the points upon which there can be no proper division on party lines infinitely exceed in number those upon which there can be such division, and, Governor Beckham, I shall do all that in me lies to justify the hope to which you have given expression and try to show myself president of all the people of the United States.

"And naturally I feel peculiarly gratified at seeing here today, joined in this procession, the men who wore the blue and the men who wore the gray. In the dark days each of you fought for the right as it was given him to see the right, and each of you has left us the right to feel pride not only in your valor, but in your devotion to what you conscientiously believed your duty. And now we are all one, and as a reunited people we have the right to feel the same pride in the valor of the man who conscientiously risked his life in the Confederate uniform that we have in the man who fought in the blue."

The parade was two miles in length and was an hour in passing a given point.

On account of the actions of a stranger who appeared at the Young Men's Christian association building here last Saturday and made remarks about the president's visit, special vigilance was shown by the secret service men.

The man was about forty-five years old and was dressed as a workman. He asked for aid, but did not appear deserving and nothing was done for him. Then he said to Garland Craige, the office secretary of the association, that he intended to stop the president during the parade. "I've got something to ask him," the man is reported to have said, "and he'll have to answer."

The secret service men were immediately apprised of the occurrence and the president's carriage was entirely surrounded by them. Several persons tried to approach the carriage, but were not allowed to get near it.

After the parade disbanded the president was escorted to the Louisville hotel, in a private parlor of which two souvenirs of President Lincoln were presented to him—an inkstand and a flagon of water from the Lincoln farm.

The president left Louisville soon after 11 o'clock, western time. Several short stops were to be made at points in Indiana.

Fall River Weavers Strike.

FACTORY BLOWN UP

Bridgeport Cartridge Company Suffers From Explosion.

THREE MEN KILLED; PANIC FOLLOWED

Fire Added to Horror of Disaster—One Victim Went Through Roof With Mass of Debris—Nineteen Hundred Workers Flee.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 5.—In a terrific explosion that blew to pieces one of the brick buildings of the Union Metallic Cartridge company in Barnum avenue, shortly before the close of work last night, three men were instantly killed, and in the panic which followed women fainted and made frantic efforts to get within the walls surrounding the plant, as it was reported that many more lives were lost than really were.

Such a scene of wild excitement this city has seldom witnessed, and the apparent horror of the situation was increased by the breaking out of fire and the appearance of ambulances and morgue wagons, which rattled up to the factory and awaited their grewsome errand. A few moments after the explosion occurred the fire department arrived on the scene and did good work in checking the flames.

The exact cause of the explosion may never be known, as the only man in the building at the time, John Neary, was blown through the roof thirty feet with a great mass of debris and came down dead. Two helpers, Michael Hurley and William Bayliss, working near the building, also went up with the explosion and were killed. The building in which the explosion occurred was known as the dryhouse and is used to dry primer caps. These caps are fulminated and are brought over to the dryhouse and placed on long steam pipes. In some manner one of the caps was discharged and the explosion followed. Nearly every pane of glass in the number of buildings comprising the cartridge company's group was broken, the foundations of nearly every building were shaken as if by a small earthquake, and the explosion was felt in houses within a radius of a mile of the ill fated building.

In the various buildings of the cartridge company there are 1,900 employees, and all were working when the explosion occurred. Some of the workingmen and women saw the building in its wrecked form shoot up in the air and made a rush for the doors. Falling glass on all sides told of something serious, and in a few moments the entire working force was in the yard in an excited condition, but order was restored when the situation was finally taken in. Several of the women of the factory fainted in the early excitement and were taken to their homes in carriages and ambulances.

Outside of the factory wall there soon congregated thousands of men and women whose relatives or friends work in the factory and great excitement prevailed.

Superintendent Ryland said that the loss to the company would reach $30,000.

Windows in the factory of Eaton, Cole & Burnham, a mile and a half from the explosion, were broken.

In addition there are twenty-five big pythons and many rare specimens of birds, including one Australian ostrich. Several monkeys, two leopards and one of the elephants died on the voyage from India. ELECT DUNNE MAYOR

Chicago In Political Tornado That Overwhelmed Harlan.

FAVOR MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

Result Threatens Private Franchises In Street Car Lines Valued High Up In Millions—Plurality Was 22,753.

CHICAGO, April 5.—A political tornado overwhelmed one of the most ruggedly unique leaders in the country. Incidentally the Republican party met defeat in a memorable effort to capture the mayoralty of Chicago. As a direct result the city is officially committed to the policy of the quickest possible cessation of private franchises for public utilities. Municipal ownership is especially threatening street car lines, valued high up in the millions.

After winning successively four remarkable biennial fights of independents against the regular Republican party organization here, John Maynard Harlan, son of Associate Justice Harlan of the United States supreme court, was a loser as Republican candidate for mayor. The defeat is attributed to an extraordinary whirl of causes, starting with political revenge and taking in a wide sweep embracing the most up to date Socialism as a factor. The victor is Judge Edward F. Dunne, Democrat.

Seldom if ever has Chicago witnessed a more lively, picturesque contest, and the city was hideous with the ringing of cowbells and the roar of cannon crackers.

The Republican candidate suffered heavily from campaign attacks charging that he was a political assassin. Alleged unworthy leaders of his own party who had been thrust from office and power largely through Harlan's aggressiveness in previous campaigns were conspicuously absent from his support. The result was painfully evident before the balloting had been in progress an hour.

The plurality for Dunne is estimated at 22,753 votes over Harlan. In the city election two years ago Harrison (Dem.) defeated Stewart (Rep.) by 7,660 plurality.

Mr. Harlan last night, discussing his defeat, said:

"The people of Chicago became infatuated with the idea of immediate municipal ownership, and the majority of them cast their votes that way. There is nothing much that can be said about my defeat. The figures tell the whole story."

TO KILL HOCH.

Insane Man, Captured at Topeka, Threatened Governor's Life.

TOPEKA, Kan., April 5.—An insane man who gives his name as J. Everest Worthington, whose former place of residence the police have been unable to learn, has been captured within a block of the statehouse, where he said he was going to kill Governor E. W. Hoch. The man was unarmed, but he is of a powerful build and undoubtedly would have handled the chief executive roughly had he not been intercepted. Worthington said:

"I was inspired by Pyrus, the god of fire, to come here and kill Governor Hoch. I have sworn eternal vengeance against all statesmen who pretend that they are self made men. If it hadn't been for his officer who captured me Governor Hoch would have been no more."

Worthington now is in the county jail and will be sent to an asylum.

Suit Against Judge Bronson.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 5.—Judge S. L. Bronson of this city, candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket in the state election of 1900, is made the defendant in a suit for $1,200,000 damages. The action is brought by Miss Susan Bronson of Waterbury, an aunt of the defendant, who alleges that as her agent and attorney for ten years prior to September, 1904, the plaintiff failed to make an accounting of the affairs of her estate, which she believes to have been worth about $500,000.

Held His Head Under Water.

CATSKILL, N. Y., April 5.—George A. Gumaer of Kingston, aged twenty-seven years, who had been declared insane and was to have been committed to the Middletown asylum, escaped from his home in that city and made his way to Catskill. On reaching the river shore here he laid his hat on a flat rock and then waded in waist high and sat down, holding his head under water until drowned. The body was recovered by Theodore Castle, the occupant of a nearby houseboat.

Boer War Medals For Americans.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—As a great many Americans were in the British army during the late Boer war Consul General Bingham has supplied the state department, at the request of the South African authorities, a list of the various military organizations engaged in that war, the members of which are entitled to medals of honor. The British authorities request that this information be published for the benefit of would be applicants in this country.

Captain E. D. Haley Dead.

GARDINER, Me., April 3.—Word is received here of the death at the Hotel Victoria, New York, last night of Captain Eben D. Haley, the treasurer of the American Ice company. The cause of death was rheumatism of the heart.

Erie Station Agent Shot Himself.

NYACK, N. Y., April 5.—Frank C. Fisher of Nanuet, Rockland county, station agent for the Erie railroad at Midvale, N. J., shot himself dead here. No cause is known for the suicide.

decorations, while Mrs. Work, Mrs. Judd Stewart, Miss Sharp, Mrs. J. H. Robley, Mrs. G. H. Whitney, Mrs. Nelson A. Miller, Mrs. Charles Shupp and Mr. and Mrs. Hull Western were in charge of the refreshments, assisted by several young women of the church.

Rev. Dr. Winfield C. Snodgrass enjoys the distinction of having served the First M. E. church longer than any other pastor. He is now concluding his eighth year and his entire work here has been marked with success and good results throughout, his departure being a source of much regret.

Dr. Snodgrass is fifty-five years old, and a native of Western, Va., now West, Va. He lived on the border line of hostilities during the Civil War, and he belonged to a family that was loyal to the Federal Government. Though but a boy he served for seventeen months as a soldier in the West, Va., Volunteer Militia, auxiliary to the U. S. troops. He was chiefly educated in West, Va., but was graduated from Black Hills College, South Dakota. He was a student of comparative religion in the New York University, and a member of the American Society of Comparative Religion and has travelled extensively in Europe.

Dr. Snodgrass entered the ministry in West Virginia, and was a pastor in Wheeling, Morgantown, Parkersburg and elsewhere, and was appointed presiding elder of Wheeling District. In 1884 he was transferred to the South Kansas Conference and stationed at the First M. E. church, Emporia, where a large congregation was gathered and a burdensome church debt was liquidated. In 1887 he was transferred to the Newark Conference, and his first charge was at the Hedding church, Jersey City. In 1892 he was appointed to the Centenary church, Newark. Here he built up a large membership and one of the largest Sunday-schools in the city. Both were organized for effective work. During the past eight years he has been pastor of the First M. E. church, this city.

When Dr. Snodgrass came here the church had not yet recovered from the discouragement and depletion by the colonization of Grace and Monroe Avenue churches. A balance of nearly $2,000 remained of the debt consequent to the building of Vincent chapel. This has been paid and such improvements as city water and electric lights have been introduced into the church. The auditorium has been recarpeted and redecorated. The pews have been re-upholstered, ornamental tracery has been added to the organ front and the alcove in the gallery. The front entrance has been enlarged and beautified, new, broad and easy stairways constructed and a new plate glass partition put in the auditorium. A new pavement has also been laid in front of the church. These improvements cost more than $8,000 and have been paid for. In addition a new Sunday-school library has been provided, and the benevolent giving of the church has greatly increased. The total constructions of the year just closing, including running expenses, repairs and benevolent offerings, amount to about $14,000.

During the present pastorate and largely through the pastor's efforts, the old cemetery on Plainfield avenue, long a nuisance and an eyesore, has been rehabilitated and provided with a new fence and superintendent's lodge.

In the past eight years eighty-three persons have been received into the church on probation and 178 by letter. The church is in a hopeful spirit, and looks confidently toward the future. Numerically, it is not quite equal to what it was before the organization of Grace and Monroe Avenue churches, but in every other way it is probably as strong as it has ever been.

Arrangements have been made to greatly improve the music for the coming year and high hopes are entertained for the next pastorate.

A TEA AND SALE TO AID A WORTHY CAUSE

SILVER CROSS CIRCLE, KING'S DAUGHTERS, SUCCESSFUL IN ITS EFFORTS.

For the purpose of raising money to add to the fund which supports the city nurse in her noble work, Silver Cross Circle, King's Daughters, conducted a tea and sale at the home of Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen on Rockview avenue, yesterday afternoon, from 4 until 6 o'clock. It was largely attended by residents of both city and borough interested in the cause and the young women in charge derived a handsome profit.

Miss Katharine Hall, Miss Elsie Horne, Miss Nellie Valiant and Miss Elsie Suffern, officers of the Circle, acted as receiving party, while in the dining room were Mrs. T. U. Dudley, Mrs. Howard Turrill, Mrs. Clifford McGee, Mrs. Frank W. French, Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen and Miss Adelaide Ball, assisted by the Misses Sophia Barlow, Daisy Risberg, May Shreve, Laura Long and Elizabeth Curtis.

Other features were presided over as follows: Cake and candy table, Miss Helen Phillips, Miss Marion McCutchen, Miss Helen VanDeventer, Miss Laura Long and the Misses Frances and Helen Weir; useful articles, Margaret Long, Kate Overton, Mrs. C. H. Theirs and Mrs. George Worth. Three times during the afternoon a farce, "A West Point Regulation," was given by the Misses McCutchen, Van Deventer and Ball. The rendition was greatly enjoyed and the participants were rewarded for their efforts by genuine applause.

The decorative effects were unusually elaborate and were for the most part secured by the use of cut flowers. American Beauty roses adorned rooms and tables and enough palms and plants were displayed to form a background.

Gas Company Elects.

At a stockholders meeting of the Plainfield Gas Light Company, yesterday, the following were elected directors: A. J. Brunson, H. G. Rankie, William Rankie, J. C. Pope and A. J. Pope. These afterward met and elected H. G. Rankie president and J. C. Pope secretary and treasurer.

500 DOLLARS

is a fairly large amount of money. How to get it is a question, and how to take care of it after you do get it is another. The way to get it is to save, and deposit a certain sum each month. By allowing the interest to compound semi-annually, the principle is surprisingly increased. We take care of the large and small deposits and pay 3½ per cent. interest.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The gas franchise granted the Public Service Corporation by the Dunellen Common Council is one of the most liberal the big concern has yet secured. It has full privilege to lay mains in the local streets and derive profit without contributing anything to the borough treasury. There is no time limit or any binding provision of any kind. The Public Service people will begin the work of installing the mains at once, as many of the residents want the gas for fuel purposes.

Members of the Keons family, of Bayonne, which is to occupy the Dunham property on Prospect avenue, on visiting the place Monday, found that frozen water pipes had caused a great deal of damage. The last family which occupied the house moved out without notifying the owner and the water as not turned off. The boiler, heater and other apparatus will all have to be repaired at a total cost of $150.

At its meeting, Rockview Council, D. of L., ordered the payment of two death benefit claims, the first in three years. They were for Mrs. Bessie Pless, a former resident of the borough, and Mrs. Travis Sutphen.

The Elizabeth Presbytery has selected Dunellen as its next meeting place and will convene in the borough on April 28. The Presbyterian church will be used for the sessions.

The Public Service Corporation's autograph car has been in the borough several times during the past week, locating track depressions because of the heavy frosts.

W. A. Fletcher and family, who have been boarding, have gone to housekeeping in the house on Prospect avenue, recently vacated by John Evans.

After a residence in the borough of nearly forty years, L. S. Nelson and family have removed to Moselle, where they will make their home.

The members of Court Dunellen, I. O. F., have arranged to give a musical entertainment in connection with the meeting Monday night.

The Holy Name Society, of St. John's church, will hold an important meeting Sunday.

William Brokaw has entered the employ of John Kinney.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Board of Education will begin Monday next enforcing a school law relating to children entering school for the first time. In the past it has been customary when a child reached the age of five years it has been rushed off to school. A law which has been in existence for some time compels parents to enter their children at stated periods, namely, every quarter of the school term. This is done so as not to have the classes continually upset by new scholars entering and being assigned to classes. The Board has never taken advantage of the law until now. The question has become a serious one in the school, new scholars entering nearly every week. For this reason it has been found necessary to enforce the law.

The local bowling team defeated the Bound Brooks Monday night on the latter's alleys, taking two straight games. Scores: 'Plains, 648, 706; Bound Brook, 628, 686.

William D. Johnston and daughters, Mrs. Atwood and Miss Addie, who have been spending two months at Miami, Florida, will return home this week.

William E. Gibbs and family, who have been spending the winter in Plainfield, have returned to their borough home.

Fanwood Bucket and Engine Company holds its monthly meeting tonight in the company rooms.

Rev. G. M. Shott made the address at the Rahway Sunday-school rally held at Rahway last night.

The pulpit of the Methodist church will probably be occupied by a supply on Sunday.

Miss Sadie Reger was the guest yesterday of Mrs. W. R. Buckley, of South avenue.

George Renand and family, of the borough, have removed to Brooklyn.

The Suburban bowling team has no games scheduled for this week.

The local bowlers and Westfield team roll at Westfield tonight.

The Borough Council meets tonight in the borough rooms.

Unclaimed letters remained in the local postoffice April 1 for Miss Lisi Jokels, Mike Pareiewicy, Skrukia Mitrer, Mike Gelyipka.

A party of young people, partly from Plainfield, were out boat-riding on the pond here yesterday afternoon.

Some of the public roads hereabouts have been improved by scraping this week.

SNAP SHOTS.

Safeguarding himself from the forgeries that are likely to occasion loss to all business men, A. M. Griffen, the East Front street hardware merchant, has applied one of the old identification marks used by police departments in their "plating" of criminals to his check-making. On the face of the amount written on every check he writes out Mr. Griffen imprints the mark of his left forefinger. The simple little trick, which Mr. Griffen originated some years ago, makes forgery impossible, and check-raising almost so.

Hurt by Exploding Cartridges.

In an effort to rid himself of several shot gun cartridges that had been on a shelf in his saloon on Park avenue, Charles Sonans narrowly escaped serious injury yesterday. He threw them into a pile of burning rubbish in the backyard and they exploded almost immediately afterward. One of the shells struck him in the cheek just below the right eye and made a painful wound, while another cut his hand. He was attended to by Dr. Long.

Petit Jurors Drawn.

The first official court business to be transacted in Union County's new court house, was transacted yesterday morning, when Sheriff Cortell drew the petit jurors for the May term. Those from Plainfield are Michael J. O'Keeffe, Ezekiah Hand, Alexander T. Ayers, Louis C. Randolph, Harold C. Durar and Edward Willis.

Hook Gashed His Hand.

While removing a large sign from the store on Park avenue formerly occupied by James H. Blair, today, Jere VanWinkle caught his hand in a curved hook and sustained a bad gash. A physician bound up the wounds.

—The roll call at the meeting of the Sesame Club to be held at the home of Miss Sandford, of East Front street, tomorrow morning, will be answered by quotations from Wordsworth.

HYDE A FIGHTER.

Will Assume Aggressive to Force Out Alexander and Tarbell.

NEW YORK, April 5.—The fight in the Equitable Life Assurance society assumed a new phase last night, when several letters that have heretofore been carefully kept secret were made public. Further interest was aroused by a persistent report emanating from an apparently reliable source and so far not denied that Vice President Hyde and his friends in the society had decided to assume the aggressive.

According to the report, the Hyde party will force James W. Alexander and Gage E. Tarbell to retire from the the presidency and second vice presidency of the society at the meeting of the board of directors to be held tomorrow.

This report was strengthened by the fact that both parties to the controversy gave out certain letters and statements bearing on the questions in dispute. Mr. Hyde's contribution was the letter which he wrote to the Equitable directors on Feb. 15 when the fight for mutualization first came officially before the board. At that time the letter was carefully guarded, and only its general tenor was allowed to become known.

The letter is a lenthy history of the Equitable and Mr. Hyde's position under the terms of his father's bequests, and in it Mr. Hyde formally charges President Alexander with "gross breach of trust to my father and to me."

Mr. Alexander's contribution to the history of the controversy is his letter to the state superintendent of insurance defining his position and acquiescing in the compromise plan for the mutualization of the society. It is interesting in that he declares that his consent was given with reluctance because he felt he could not take the responsibility of rejecting even that measure of control by the policy holders.

On behalf of Mr. Hyde a statement was given out with reference to this letter, which charges that Mr. Alexander's action in this matter was a breach of faith.

Second Vice President Gage E. Tarbell is the target of an open statement given out by Alexander S. Bacon, counsel for certain policy holders. This statement declares that Mr. Tarbell is the real leader of the Alexander forces and brings up the charge that Mr. Tarbell just prior to the beginning of the present controversy sold back to the Equitable for the sum of $135,000 all his interests in renewals or future business.

STAY ASKED IN CHADWICK CASE

Judge Lurton Will Render an Opinion Today.

CINCINNATI, O., April 5.—Judge Francis J. Wing, counsel for Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick of Cleveland, appeared before Judges Lurton, Severens and Richards in the United States circuit court of appeals in this city and moved that her sentence be stayed until the United States circuit court of appeals shall have heard her appeal or until final judgment be rendered in the court of last resort. United States District Attorney John J. Sullivan, also of Cleveland, was present during the hearing of the motion as the representative of the government.

After hearing the motion Presiding Judge Lurton announced that the court will take the matter under consideration and will render an opinion today. Mrs. Chadwick's attorney, former United States Judge Wing, maintains that his filing of the writ of error in and of itself in law suspends the sentence already imposed without formally asking a suspension.

Young Irving as Hamlet.

LONDON, April 5.—H. B. Irving, the first of several new Hamlets announced for the present London theatrical season, had a pronounced triumph at the Adelphi production last night and commands critical discussion in the morning newspapers on a larger scale than would be extended to a new play by any of the foremost writers. Modeled to a considerable extent on his father's conception, but without his father's striking genius, H. B. Irving nevertheless surprised even his most sanguine admirers by the strength and originality of his rendering.

Roosevelt a Friend of Jews.

LONDON, April 5.—Speaking at a Zionist banquet in London last night, Israel Zangwill declared that in the whole history of the world the Jews never had a better friend than President Roosevelt. Referring to Great Britain's offer of territory in east Africa, he said the bulk thereof might be of use for rearing goats, but it was doubtful whether a settlement 500 miles from the sea offered sufficient basis for a prosperous Jewish colony.

Miss Babcock Still Missing.

MILFORD, N. H., April 5.—The police are baffled in their search for Miss Susan P. Babcock, daughter of Dr. D. C. Babcock, the aged pastor of the Methodist church, who left the parsonage on Mount Vernon street early Saturday and has not since been seen. The woods and waters of the surrounding country have been searched. Dr. Babcock said that he believed his daughter had thrown herself into the water while temporarily insane.

Prince Held For Woman's Death.

ROME, April 5.—While Prince and Princess Brogli were riding in a motor car to Naples at the speed of forty-five miles an hour their car ran over and killed a woman. The prince was arrested.

Milner Sails For Home.

LORENZO MARQUES, East Africa, April 5.—Lord Milner, the retiring governor of the Transvaal, has sailed for Great Britain.

LEITER MINE DISASTER.

Thirty-seven Bodies Have Been Recovered at Zeigler.

CARBONDALE, Ill., April 5.—Thirty-seven bodies of miners who lost their lives in the gas explosion at the mine of Joseph Leiter at Zeigler have been recovered, and it is supposed several more bodies are in the mine. The exact number of dead probably will not be known for several days, at least not until the mine has been divested of the gas and persons are permitted to enter.

Among the dead is William Scott Alkinson, state mine examiner for the Seventh subdistrict, who lost his life in an attempt to perform his duties as mine inspector and who died while trying to reach the bodies of those who were entombed. After thirty hours but little light is shed on the cause of the catastrophe. The accident is attributed to carbonic acid gas due to poor ventilation. Every body so far recovered is a blackened mass.

State Inspector Alkinson was one of the best known miners of the district. He was the father of four children and was a member of the Masonic fraternity. All the mines in the Seventh subdistrict have been ordered shut down on Friday next, the day of his funeral, and special trains have been ordered so that the 10,000 miners can attend the funeral.

Joseph Leiter has arrived at the mine. The coroner's jury impaneled to inquire into the cause of the disaster has so far rendered no verdict.

THAW-NESBIT WEDDING.

Bridegroom Son of Pittsburg Millionaire.

PITTSBURG, April 5.—Mr. Harry Kendall Thaw and Miss Evelyn Florence Nesbit were quietly married at 5 o'clock last evening at the home of Rev. William L. McEwan, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church.

No announcement of the wedding had been made, and none but members of the two families were present at the ceremony. The witnesses were Mrs. William Thaw, the groom's mother; his brother, Josiah Thaw, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Holman, stepfather and mother of the bride.

The wedding dinner was partaken of at Mrs. William Thaw's residence, after which the newly wedded couple left on their honeymoon, presumably going east.

The groom's father, William Thaw, was one of Pittsburg's foremost millionaire business men and prominently connected with the early development of the Pennsylvania railroad.

Miss Nesbit is the daughter of Winfield Scott Nesbit, a former well known Pittsburger, who died a number of years ago. Her mother recently married Charles J. Holman, a broker in this city.

Miss Nesbit several years ago was a light opera singer.

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in These Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER, AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

ONE-FAMILY SETTLEMENT.

Households in India Become Formidable by Accretion of Relations.

"No one is a separate unit in India," says Edmund Russell, in Everybody's Magazine. "The sons never leave the parental rooftree. All marry—marriage with them is as birth and death, inevitable—and their children are added to the family. There are always widowed aunts, other grandparents—no relative is ever left to shift for himself in India—so that households of 150 are not uncommon. Add almost as many servants, and we have some idea of the ocupation and cares of the mistress of such a home. The servants' quarters surround the yard or 'compound,' and the ladies of the household care for them as did the stately dames of old Virginia in the plantation life before the war. The great zenana of courtyards stretch back to fruit and vegetable gardens, and there are tanks or artificial ponds where ladies and children bathe in seclusion. Blossoming trees rise above hedges that jealously guard these sacred retreats, where a family may sport in private with freedom unknown to us, and suited to their shy, poetic, playful natures, that only unfold when with each other; caring as little to see the world outside as to be seen by it."

THE STUDENTS OF RUSSIA.

Young Men and Women Who Make Trouble for the Government.

There are more than 4,500 students in the University of Moscow, nearly 4,000 in the University of St. Petersburg and 2,500 at Kiev. The attendance at the Universities of Kharkow, Dorpat, Warsaw, Odessa and Kasan averages about 1,400 students apiece, and there are several smaller institutions of higher education in other cities. Altogether the universities of Russia are educating about 19,000 young men and women, or almost three times as many as attended such institutions 30 years ago. Needless to say, they represent much of the empire's best intelligence, strength of character and power to serve the state. So conscious is the government of the need of educated men to lead the industrial, commercial, professional and military life of the country that, notwithstanding its persecution of politically progressive students, it encourages the development of universities.

Yet the students are always a source of uneasiness and often of grave anxiety to the imperial court and the ministers of the czar. They are generally very advanced in their views, only a few, comparatively, siding with the reactionary imperial princes and their retainers.

HAS MULE-FOOTED HOGS.

Kansas Senator Has Drove of Porkers with Remarkable Underpinning.

Not many people know that probably the only herd of "mule-footed" hogs of any size is located in Kansas and is the property of a state senator. The herd is in Labette county, near Labette, and belongs to Senator W. J. Connor, reports the Topeka Capital.

Senator Connor has been breeding these hogs for a number of years, and says they will live and prosper where an ordinary hog will starve to death. The name "mule-foot" comes from the fact that the hoof is not split like that of an ordinary hog. It does not greatly resemble the hoof of a mule, except that it is round.

"These hogs, some 60 years ago," says Senator Connor, "were originally brought here from the South Sea islands and turned loose in the Kimish and Little River mountains, in the Choctaw Nation, for the use of the Indians, and have lived and prospered there up to the present time. They are now very nearly extinct. Many of these hogs are sold to museums, others are shipped to Kansas City market, and eight or ten are butchered each year for home consumption on the farm."

HATCHED IN POLAR WINTER

Bird of the Antarctic Region Which Has But Recently Become Known.

Dr. E. F. Wilson's lecture at the Royal Institution on the emperor penguin was illustrated by skins, eggs and a number of lantern pictures of the birds and their rookeries, reports the London Telegraph of recent date.

This fine species, larger than the king penguin, which has been exhibited in the Zoological gardens, was discovered during Capt. Cook's second expedition, but until the return recently of the Antarctic expedition, nothing was known of its life history or habits. The curious thing is that the birds are hatched in the depth of the Polar winter.

A single egg is laid, which is brooded between the birds' feet and the soft plumage of the body. The chick is clothed in grayish white down, which is moulted after five months, and when about a year and a half old the immature plumage is exchanged for that of the adult. One young bird was taken on board the Discovery and kept alive for five months.

He Was It.

"Did he actually ask old Roxley for his daughter's hand?"

"Yes, and he claims he compelled the old man to toe the mark."

"Indeed?"

"Yes, but he was the mark."—Philadelphia Press.

Her Ways And Wiles

Sweet Indecision — That Trip to Europe—Do Women Bribe?

"There is one almost distinctive feminine characteristic," remarked the bachelor, "a thing that you rarely see in a man. I refer to the charming (?) quality of indecision. There is no use talking, the average woman doesn't know her own mind. She changes it with the same facility that she varies her shirt waists, and without half the logic, either, for she doesn't temper her changes of mind to the conditions around her at all."

"Oh, well," remarked the girl, "a woman doesn't have to keep her mind fixed. It isn't absolutely necessary, as it would be with a business man, for instance."

That's just the trouble. She has never faced the necessity for prompt and decisive action—action that you cannot and must not change—and she doesn't see the importance of it. She is perfectly oblivious to the trouble and inconvenience she puts other people to. Did you ever see the undecided woman in a restaurant? Did you ever notice how she keeps the waiter in suspense, changing her mind every other second, to his politely veiled disgust?

And in the dry goods store:

"I really don't know what I want, but I think it's broadcloth. How much is that a yard?"

"Two seventy-five."

"Oh, but, then, of course it's double width. That's what I want. It takes so much less, and yet I guess it doesn't make so much difference. Let me see the single width goods. Do I want green or gray? Well, I think I want green. No; I believe I will have gray. But, then, gray soils so easily. Perhaps I'd better have green. After all, though, gray is so fashionable. Oh, well, show me the gray. But this is so narrow. Regular single width? Oh, yes, I dare say, but it looks so narrow! Perhaps I'd better get the double width after all. Let's go back to the other counter."

"Wifie" and Vacation.

This is the time of the year when the ingenuous little wife begins to work her husband for her summer vacation.

Too early? Not a bit of it! You don't know the game.

Hubby has made up his mind to take the partner of his joys and sorrows to some cheap cool spot, but she has set her soul on going to Europe. So she begins to feel ill. She cannot eat anything at breakfast, and he leaves for the office worried, which he wouldn't be if he could see her prance off to the icebox and nearly clean out its contents the minute the door closes after him.

The family doctor is called in, and he, worthy soul, recommends a change and suggests nervous prostration as the alternative. A sea voyage is what she needs, and, as Mrs. X. is going to Europe, why not avail herself of the chance? Thus it will be seen the doctor has been well coached. Once the Europe idea is ingrafted the rest is easy. She proves to him that a trip to Europe is after all much more economical. She will need no new clothes—that is, except a tailor made or two, and they must be nice, of course. If she went to any summer resort she would need at least a dozen garments of all the hues of the rainbow. He hesitates and is lost.

Women as Diplomatists.

So women offer bribes!

Do they?

Don't I know an artful one who sends a box of candy now and then to her dressmaker and, by this sugared means manages, while paying the same price, to have her gowns made ahead of any one else on the list? And perhaps you realize what that means during the spring rush.

There is that other foxy creature who sends a theater ticket to her milliner in order that that lady may copy an imported hat of fabulous price on the sly for almost nothing.

And so forth and so on, all the way down the list. Women are better politicians than one would think.

The Romance of a Pirate's Daughter

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

Dickory was angry and out of spirits. "He is a vile poltroon, this master of yours," said he, "consorting with these bloody pirates and leaving his daughter to pine away her days and nights within a little sail of him, while he struts about at the heel of a dirty free-booter dressed like a monkey! He doesn't deserve the daughter he possesses. Oh, that I could find a ship that would take me back to Jamaica! And I would take you, too, Ben Greenway, for it is a foul shame that a good man should spend his days in such vile company."

Ben shook his head. "I'll stand by Master Bonnet," he said, "until the day comes when I shall bid him farewell at the door o' hell. I can go no farther than that, Dickory, no farther than that!"

The supper in the cabin of the Revenge was a better meal than the voracious Blackbeard had partaken of for many a year, if indeed he had ever sat down to such a sumptuous repast. Before him was food and drink fit for a stout and hungry sea-faring man, and there were wines and dainties which would have had fit place upon the table of a gentleman.

Blackbeard was in high spirits and tossed off cup after cup and glass after glass of the choicest wine and the most fiery spirits He clapped his well-mannered host upon the back as he shouted some fragment of a wild sea-song.

"And who is this?" he cried, as they rose from the table and he first caught sight of Ben Greenway. "Is this your chaplain? He looks as sanctimonious as an empty rum cask. And that baby boy there, what do you keep him for? Are they for sale? I would like to buy the boy and let him keep my accounts. I warrant he has enough arithmetic to divide the prize moneys among the men."

"He is no slave," said Bonnet; "he came to this vessel to bring me a message from my daughter, but he is an ill-bred stripling and can neither read nor write."

"Then let's kill him!" cried Blackbeard, and, drawing his pistol, he sent a bullet about two inches above Dickory's head.

At this the men, who had gathered themselves at every available point, set up a cheer. Never before had they beheld such a magnificent and reckless miscreant.

Dickory did not start or move, but he turned very pale, and then he reddened and his eyes flashed. Blackbeard swore at him a great approbative oath. "A brave boy!" he cried, "and fit to carry messages if for nothing else. And what is this nonsense about a daughter?" said he to Bonnet. "We abide no such creatures in the ranks of free companions; we drown them like kittens before we hoist the Jolly Roger."

fired his pistols in the air as long as their charges lasted, while the motley desperadoes of the Revenge gave him many a parting yell. Then all the boats of the Revenge were lowered and every man who could crowd into them left their ship for the shore. Black Paul tried to restrain them, for he feared to leave the Revenge too weakly manned, she having such a valuable cargo; but his orders and shouts were of no avail and, despairing of stopping them, the sailing-master went with them; and as they pulled wildly towards the town the men of one boat shouted to another, and that one to another: "Hurrah for our captain, the brave Sir Nightcap! Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!"

"The dirty Satan!" exclaimed Dickory, as he gazed after Blackbeard's boat. "I would kill him if I could."

"Say not so, Dickory," said Capt. Bonnet, speaking gravely. "That great pirate is not a man of breeding, and he speaks with disesteem alike of friend and enemy, but he is the famous Blackbeard, and we must treat him with honor, although he pays us none."

"I had deemed," said Greenway, calmly, "that ye were goin' to be the maist unholy sinner that ever blackened this fair earth; but not only did ye tell a pious lie for the sake o' good Dickory, but, compared wi' that monstrosity, ye are a saint graved in marble, Master Bonnet, a white and shapely saint."

Blackbeard's boat was not rowed to his vessel, but his men pulled steadily shoreward.

With the wild crew of the Revenge, fresh from sea and their appetites whetted for jovial riot, and with Blackbeard, his war-paint on, to lead them into every turbulent excess, there were wild times in the town of Belize that night.

CHAPTER XVII.

"I HAVE NO RIGHT; I AM A PIRATE."

S has been made plain, Capt. Bonnet, of the Revenge, was a punctilious man when the rules of society were concerned, be that society official, high-toned or piratical. Thus it was a positive duty, in his mind, to return Blackbeard's visit on the next day, but until afternoon he was not able to do so on account of the difficulty of getting a sober and decently behaved boat's crew who should row him over.

Black Paul, the sailing-master, had returned to his vessel early in the morning, feeling the necessity of keeping watch over the cargo, but most of the men came over much later, while some of them did not come at all.

Bonnet was greatly inclined to punish with an unwonted severity this breach of rules, but Black Paul assured him that it was always the custom for the crew of a newly arrived vessel to go ashore and have a good time, and that if they were denied this privilege they would be sure to mutiny, and he might be left without any crew at all. Bonnet grumbled and swore, but, as he was aware there were several things concerning a nautical life with which he was not familiar, he determined to let pass this trespass.

Dressed in his finest clothes, and even better than the day before, he was followed into the boat by Ben Greenway, who vowed his captain should never travel without his chaplain, who, if his words were considered, would be the most valuable officer on the vessel.

"Come, then, Greenway," said Bonnet; "you have troubled me so much on my own vessel that now, perchance, you may be able to do me some service on that of another. Anyway, I should like to have at least one decent person in my train, who, an you come not, will be wholly missing. And Dickory may come, too, if he like it."

But Dickory did not like it. He hated the big black pirate, and cared not if he should never see him again, so he stayed behind.

When Bonnet mounted to the deck of Blackbeard's vessel he found there a very different pirate captain from the one who had called upon him the day before. There were no tails to the great black beard, there were few pistols visible, and Capt. Bonnet's host received him with a certain salt-soaked, sun-browned, hairy and brawny hospitality which did not sit badly upon him. There was meat, there was drink, and then the two captains and Greenway walked gravely over the vessel, followed by a hundred eyes, and before long by many a coarse and jeering laugh which Bonnet supposed were directed at sturdy Ben Greenway, deeming it quite natural, though improper, that the derision of these rough fellows should be excited by the appearance among them of a prim and sedate Scotch Presbyterian.

But that crew of miscreants had all heard of the derisive title which had been given to Bonnet, and now they saw without the slightest difficulty how little he knew of the various nautical points to which Blackbeard continually called his attention.

The vessel was dirty, it was ill-appointed; there was an air of reckless disorder which showed itself everywhere; but, apart from his evident distaste for dirt and griminess, the captain of the Revenge seemed to be very well satisfied with everything he saw. When he passed a small gun pointed across the deck, and with a nightcap hung upon a capstan bar thrust into its muzzle, there was such a great laugh that Bonnet looked around to see what the imprudent Greenway might be doing.

Many were the nautical points to which Blackbeard called his guest's attention and many the questions the grim pirate asked, but in almost all cases of the kind the tall gentleman with the cocked hat replied that he generally left those things to his sailing-master, being so much occupied with matters of more import.

ROSEBEN AT BENNINGS.

Feature of Washington Racing Was Contest in Fourth Race.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The feature of the races was a renewal of the contest between Roseben and Santa Catalina, which reversed the defeat of the former last Saturday. Roseben and Santa Catalina ran six furlongs side by side, with Roseben's head the only advantage he possessed over his smaller competitor. They came down the middle of the track and finished in just the position they had started. The winner carried eight pounds more than he did Saturday, while Santa Catalina was given an addition of seven pounds. The jockeys—Fuller on the winner and Baird the winner Saturday—rode their respective mounts in both races. Baird claimed a foul, but the judges did not allow it. A steeplechase added interest to the card. It was in the last race that the first favorite won. Summaries:

First Race.—Monte Carlo, first; Preen, second; Weirdsome, third.

Second Race.—Crossways, first; Away, second; Headway, third.

Third Race.—The Veiled Lady, first; Tootsey Mack, second; Liberia, third.

Fourth Race.—Roseben, first; Santa Catalina, second; Monacodor, third.

Fifth Race.—Weston, first; Gold Van, second; Croxton, third.

Sixth Race.—Uncle Urigh, first; Phantom, second; McWilliams, third.

Rapid Water Won Handicap.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 5.—Rapid Water, favorite at odds of 3 to 5, led a field of five around the course and won the Country Club handicap at Montgomery park in easy fashion from Jake Sanders, the only contender that challenged his lead throughout the race. Miss Doyle was third. Several close finishes developed, the most exciting being contested by Hyperion II. and Meadow Breeze in the second race and Critical and Uncle Charley in the third, the breadth of a head deciding the winner in each event.

Many Surprises at Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 5.—There were a number of surprises at Oakland. In the first race Palladia, at 25 to 1, won. The talent received another setback in the second race, when they backed Sincerity Belle heavily. She never could get to the front. In the high weight race Royal White, an outsider, came in first. Waterspout ran a game race and was second, and F. E. Shaw finished third. A field of sprinters started in the fourth race, and St. George, Jr., won in clever style.

Golf at Pinehurst.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 5.—The fifth annual north and south amateur golf championship opened here with the first and semifinal rounds of the women's championship. Miss M. D. Patterson of the Englewood Golf club of New Jersey, the title holder for several years past, was defeated by Miss Mary H. Dutton of the Oakley County club, Watertown, Mass, 1 up, on the home green in the most brilliant and hotly contested women's match ever seen here.

Earthquake in India.

AGRA, British India, April 5.—At 6:10 o'clock yesterday morning a violent earthquake which continued for several minutes was felt here. Hookers on the river here turned turtle. A violent earthquake has occurred at Lahore, accompanied by serious loss of life and great damage to public and other buildings. The town hall is almost razed, and the cathedral and the Juma Masjid, one of the finest mosques in India, are seriously injured. Other big buildings are cracked and fissured. Many houses in the native quarter collapsed.

Southern Industrial Congress.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Preparations are being made for the meeting of the southern industrial parliament, which will assemble in Washington on May 23 and continue until the 26th. It will be composed of delegates appointed by the governors of the southern states and will include mayors of cities, representatives of boards of trade, boards of health and banks, railroad presidents, planters and manufacturers. The object of the meeting is to formulate plans for the development of the material resources of the southern states.

Loubet to Meet King Edward.

LONDON, April 5.—King Edward left for Copenhagen today to be with King Christian of Denmark on the occasion of the latter's eighty-third birthday on April 8. There is a rumor current that Foreign Minister Delcasse will accompany President Loubet when the latter meets King Edward at Noisy-le-Sec, near Paris, on his passage through France today. Some significance is attached to M. Delcasse's presence on this occasion owing to the pending Moroccan question.

Russian Officer Renewed Parole.

VALLEJO, Cal., April 5.—Sublieutenant Andre Kara Dynjan, the third of the Russian officers who broke their parole and returned to Russia, has reached Mare Island and has reported to Rear Admiral Bowman H. McCalla. In his interview with the admiral he renewed his personal parole.

Emil Klaessig Dead at New York.

NEW YORK, April 5.—Emil Klaessig, the American editor of the Continental Telegraphing company, otherwise known as the Wolff bureau, is dead of pneumonia at his home in Brooklyn. Mr. Klaessig was born in 1856 in Liechtenstein, in Saxony.

SUES FOR $30,000 FOR HUSBAND'S DEATH

TRIAL OF DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

Among the Supreme Court cases to be tried in Middlesex County during the term that opened in New Brunswick yesterday are two in which Plainfield is interested. The most important is that of Eva Belleff, administratrix, against the Pennsylvania Railroad, for $30,000. William Newcorn is the plaintiff's lawyer. She sues to recover for the death of her husband, who was killed at the Scotch Plains crossing.

The other case is also in tort—Fitzgerald against Ferris. Winfield S. Appleman is the plaintiff's lawyer.

There are twenty-three Supreme Court cases on the list, and seventeen Circuit Court cases.

R. P. F. VonMinden, of this city and New Market, is one of the grand jurors.

WANTS LOAN BACK.

Levy on $3,900 to Secure Return of Cost of Klondyke Trip.

Upon application of Counsellor William Newcorn before the court in Middlesex County, Justice Fort appointed Ruliff O. Lawrence, of Freehold, auditor of the special account created by a levy made last Saturday by Deputy Sheriff Barkelew in the attachment case of Gustave Heckman against Emil Heckman. The levy was made on $3,900 paid to the executor of the estate of the defendant's father. The parties in the suit are known here.

The plaintiff seeks to recover for money loaned to the defendant to enable him to go to the Klondike. The latter is in the gold fields now and the proceedings will probably be closed up some time before he hears of the fact. Under court orders the action will be advertised in the Freehold papers.

Booth-Tucker Memorial.

The local corps of the Salvation Army is working earnestly to secure $7,000 with which to establish a suitable building for public meetings on the ground floor and officers' living rooms above the hall. It is proposed to erect the building on East Second street, between fire headquarters and Watchung avenue. It will be known as the Consul Booth-Tucker Memorial Building.

Jailed for Petty Theft.

Because he is charged with stealing a monkey wrench and a chisel from his employer, Walter Brewster, a fifteen-year-old "bound boy," is held a prisoner in the Somerset County Jail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

SPORTING NEWS.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The Scotch Plains Bowling team and a five from the Saengerbunds met in a battle of pins on the latter's alleys last night. The latter took the first game, but failed to keep up the good work and lost two others. Though the teams were made up of good men, no phenomenal scores were made as the following summary will show:

DIAMOND DUST.

Many of the players will be on the Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon for a couple of hours practice.

Manager Mallen, of the Westfield Baseball Association, is also manager of the X-Hoboken team playing Sunday games. This team has no connection with Manager Daab's club.

Manager Daab was not in Plainfield Saturday. It was Lines Groo that conferred with Building Inspector Doane about improvements at the oval and everything was harmonious.

Badgley pitched for Trinity College, against Princeton on Saturday, and lost by a score of 4 to 2. Five hits were made off his delivery, while Trinity made ten hits. Five errors lost the game.

"Jimmie" Beisel and Driscoll were the only players to get a hit in the game with the Cedars. The contest was played without foul lines or flags and the opposing pitcher, Barberick, was in the pink of condition, having been playing all winter in Cuba.

This will undoubtedly be the line-up in the opening game: Linderman or Beisel, pitcher; Lamar, catcher; Driscoll, first base, Kiernan, second base; Olding, short-stop; Leonard, third base; Connelly right field; Cregan, centre field; McCormick, left field.

Cocked Hat Play Score.

The cocked hat tournament was continued at the Park Club, last night, and resulted in J. L. Watson winning three points, F. O. Ball two points and Charles A. Reed one point. The average scores were as follows: J. L. Watson, 26 2-3; F. O. Ball, 23 1-3; Charles A. Reed, 23 2-3; F. H. Ball, 22 1-3; S. Sr. John McCutchen, 21 1-3; A. McL. Parker, 21 1-3; J. Bregnard Betts, 21 1-3.

Circus Tonight.

The circus will come to town tonight. Y. M. C. A. gymnasium will be the circus field. Physical Director Henckel, who will command the artists in their circus stunts, announced this morning that everything was in readiness for the "big show."

Father Smith Leaves.

Rev. W. P. Smith, who has been acting assistant to Father Delehanty at St. Mary's church, left Plainfield today to become assistant curate at St. James' church Newark, to which position he has just been appointed by Bishop O'Connor.

Taken to State Prison.

George Williams, alias Jesse Tunstall, was taken to the State prison by Sheriff Edward Cooper, of Somerset County, yesterday, to serve a sentence of two years for stealing a coat from a clothes line.

The Sewing Circle, of the Swedish Lutheran church, will meet tonight at 122 Madison avenue. Trustees of the church will meet at the same time, at the same place.

PLAINFIELD COUNTRY CLUB — ON THE COURTS.

COUNTRY CLUB STORY

tage on all but three or four holes; and bad direction from the tee and through the fair green is penalized everywhere. The first, fifth, seventh, ninth, eleventh and twelfth are all very good holes, and the fourteenth holes, when lengthened about a hundred yards, will call for perfect golf. The first, fifth and seventh holes are especially fine, and demand long balls from the tee, not so much because of their length, inasmuch as they are all short of four hundred yards, but because the greens are hard to hold unless a mid-iron is used; and while a mashie can sometimes be used on the second shot on the first hole, it requires a good drive to enable one to use an iron on the fifth or on the seventh, and any more powerful club cannot be depended on, if the ball is to be placed near the cup on those sloping greens.

Thus it is found that the accuracy required at this club is of such a nature that a good player, who today makes a 76, will make an 86 tomorrow if he happens to be a little off his game. New hazards are contemplated which will add not a little to the difficulty of the course, and the greens committee will have an extra allowance of $1,500 hereafter—in addition to its regular appropriation—for the up-keep of the links. This should make the course, a year from now, one of the best in the metropolitan district.

Tennis has recovered its popularity, and there are six excellent courts at the Plainfield Country Club in constant demand. Additional courts are contemplated. These courts are employed throughout the season by not less than a hundred club members who play tennis as a form of regular exercise.

The social features of club life are by no means insignificant at this popular and growing club. There is dancing every Saturday night at the clubhouse, and on holidays. From one hundred to one hundred and fifty members dine at the club every Saturday, and nearly as many can be found at luncheon. On holidays the club is fairly alive with social and athletic activity. It is planned to have the club open the entire year, adding all kinds of winter sports for the cold season.

The membership is nearly seven hundred with many applicants waiting.

The officers of the club are as follows: President, George P. Mellick; vice president, Ernest R. Ackerman; secretary, Leighton Calkins; treasurer, S. H. Patterson. These and the following comprise the board of trustees; Elliot T. Barrows, Lewis E. Waring, T. M. Day, Jr., Lewis G. Timpson and T. R. VanBeekerck.

Unity Lodge will work the first rank degree on Thursday night on two candidates.

GOLF CLUBS SEASON OPENS SAT., APRIL 15

PARK AND COUNTRY ORGANIZATIONS READY FOR THE PLAY.

The Park Golf Club course is now open for play and the active season will be formally opened on Saturday, April 15, when the weekly competitions for the President's and Park Golf Club cups will begin. Until that time the temporary putting greens will be used. Last year's competitions were very successful and the prospects for the coming season are exceedingly bright. There is renewed activity in the club and all of the members are anxious for the opportunity to resume play. The season's schedule will be announced soon. It is proposed to make the clubhouse as attractive as ever and during the season social affairs will be a feature, as usual.

The Plainfield Country Club has announced its formal opening for Saturday, April 15, although the course is now open for play. Aside from an attractive golf and tennis schedule, there will be the usual attractions at the clubhouse, including dinners, luncheons, and the holiday festivities. The various committees in charge are planning for one of the best seasons in the history of the club and nothing will be left undone in making it so.

The club hopes to have the benefit of the trolley extension to a point near the clubhouse and this will mean much in increasing the attendance of players and other members throughout the season.

One thing to be featured at the club this year will be the team matches. Already matches have been scheduled with some of the best clubs in the Metropolitan district and the team will play both at home and away.

No formal announcement of the opening of the Westfield Golf Club has been made, for the reason that play has been going on more or less during the past few weeks and the clubhouse has been opened all winter. However, the season's schedule will soon be out and promises to be as good as ever.

Sanford, of the church choir, and refreshments were served at the close.

The committee which had charged comprised L. B. Morgan, Alonzo Weseman and J. W. Winant.

CIRCUS DRAWS CROWD

No High-Priced Artists, But Lots of Fun at Y.M.C.A. Show.

BUNCH OF CLOWNS

Grand Entree and Hippodrome Incites Spontaneous Ovation—Death-Inviting Acts?

Full satisfaction soothed the overworked spirit of Physical Director Henckel, chief promotor, manager, and press agent of the Y. M. C. A. circus, last night. His amateur one-ring show combination went through the first of its two scheduled performances at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium to the accompaniment of a constant round of handclapping, laughter, and "ahs!"

There was a full house; despite the damp and unpleasant weather even the extra chairs placed about the sides of the gymnasium floor were filled.

It was a good show, even if the management didn't have a single Circus Trust artist on the bill. For the most part the talent came from the ordinary evening class of the association—young men who never took part in a circus performance before. The programme was given distinction by the presence of the Model Class of the Newark Y. M. C. A., a combination of exhibition gymnasts that ranks anything of its kind in this section of the country, and "Ternello," a member of the New York Y. M. C. A., who does comedy wire-walking and juggling semi-professionally.

The Plainfielders in the circus troupe were: F. A. Martin, W. T. Bentliff, Stryker Hoagland, Paul Collier, Ralph Collins, F. J. Cullingworth, Herbert Hansen, Harry Blimm, Walter Emmons, William Deike, D. G. Ferguson, Walter Cahoone, E. W. Poinier, Walter McNaughton, Luther Shepard, Charles Better, Arthur Aalhoim, Carl Steiner, Edward Templin, Charles Sebring, Walter Sampson, Robert Meeker, John Jewett, Tracy Howard, Charles Chapman, William Smith, John Valiant, Roy Woodhall.

There was no real ring, and the general nature of the programme made the presence of the traditional sawdust undesirable; the acts were performed on the regular gymnasium floor. There was no pink lemonade and the peanut shunned the gathering, but the spectators had fun enough without them.

The show opened with what the programme writer termed a "grand entree and hippodrome," in which all the artists paraded before the admiring multitude. Then followed, in turn, "wonderful leaping over the elephant," (the temperate language of the programme is quoted) by the whole evening class, under the leadership of Ralph Collins; work on the parallel bars, by the Newark class; Ternello, in "startling feats on the wire;" five pyramids, by the evening class; tumbling and hand-balancing, by Herbert Hansen and Wilbur T. Bentliff; teron swinging, by nine members of the evening class, with the room darkened to bring out the full effect; work on the horizontal bar, by the Newark class; electrical fencing with foils charged so as to spit fire flashes in the darkness as the blades crossed in the thrusting and guarding, by E. W. Poinier and Walter Cahoone; and the "farmers' country fair," by eighteen members of the evening class in rube costume.

Unusual effects were obtained in the electrical fencing. The rube fair included barbell drill; a vegetable drill, in which the rubes went through their stunts with carrots and other simple-life fruit in their hands; sack-racing; wood-sawing contest; horse-racing, with high-spirited property horses; blind-boxing; mounted combat—with property chargers who never flinched; and a sweet and soulful duet by Charles Sebring and Edward Templin.

All through the evening a bunch of properly foolish rube clowns made mock of the grave and shook the mouldy bone of dead-and-forgotten jokes before an audience heartless enough to laugh at them. Music of the accepted circus kind was played by the Y. M. C. A. orchestra between acts. The clowns are Walter McNaughton, C. N. Sebring, W. T. Bentliff, Herbert Hansen and Luther Shepard.

The circus will be repeated tonight. The Newark gymnasts came down for one night only, and will be cut out of the programme.

In arranging and conducting the affair Physical Director Henckel has been assisted by the following committee: W. T. Bentliff, H. Hansen, W. E. Cullingworth, E. W. Poinier, Stryker Hoagland, F. A. Henckel, W. McNaughton, Albert Steiner.

M'ALL AUXILIARY DELEGATES CHOSEN

REPRESENTATIVES TO MEETING OF NATIONAL BODY SELECTED.

Interesting articles regarding the work of the McAll Auxiliary in France were read and delegates were appointed to attend the annual meeting of the American McAll Auxiliary, to be held in Providence, R. I., on May 10-11, at the meeting of the local auxiliary held at the Public Library, yesterday.

One of the articles read was from the missionary in charge of the work in Limoges, France, which is supported by the local members. This was most encouraging and showed that there are many conversions and the interest is constantly increasing.

The women selected to attend the annual meeting in Providence are Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, Mrs. F. O. Herring, Mrs. J. S. Zelie, Mrs. Charles Wright and Miss Addie Dietrich. Representatives from all of the auxiliaries in American will attend that conference, which promises to be the best in the history of the organization.

PYTHIANS COMPLETE PLANS FOR BIG DEMONSTRATION

MAYOR JAMES F. BUCKLE TO PRESIDE OVER THEIR PUBLIC MEETING.

At a meeting of a joint committee from Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, and Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., last night, plans were practically completed for a public Pythian demonstration to be held in this city, Thursday night, April 27. It will be under the auspices of District No. 14, which embodies the two lodges, and will be attended by delegations of Pythians from Elizabeth, New Brunswick, Bound Brook and Somerville.

The programme as defined at present will begin with a street parade, starting at 7 o'clock, which will pass through the principal thoroughfares. It will be headed by Crescent Company, No. 13, U. R. K. of P., and will comprise several hundred other members of the order. This will be followed by an open meeting in Pythian Hall to be presided over by Mayor James F. Buckle, who is one of the charter members of Unity Lodge. Many prominent speakers will address the gathering, among them being Past Grand Chancellor P. Frank Shanley, of Jersey City, and City Judge William N. Runyon, who is a past chancellor of Perseverance Lodge. In addition there will be an excellent musical programme and other features.

The demonstration is in keeping with others of a similar character that are being conducted throughout the State and are mainly for the purpose of bringing the benefits of the order before eligible young men who have no lodge home. The local Pythians have always been active in a social way but as their affairs are usually for members only, this feature is not always prominent on the outside.

The committee which planned the affair and which will have full charge consists of District Deputy David Bowden, chairman; Horace J. Martin, Harry Werner and Jere VanWinkle, Jr., of Unity Lodge; Joseph C. Blimm, Asa D. Pope and Thomas Osment, of Perseverance Lodge.

These members will leave here Monday morning by the 9 o'clock trolley. It is expected that Gen. Dan S. Sickles will attend the re-union.

Miss Schaffer to Give Concert.

CONFERENCE IS AT WORK

Methodists Given Some Advice by Bishop Berry.

COMMITTEES NAMED

Plainfield Ministers Prominent at Annual Session of Denomination at Newark.

The Newark Methodist Conference began its session in the Halsey Street church, Newark, yesterday, Bishop Joseph T. Berry, of Chicago, presiding. There was an unusually large attendance at the opening session, and the conference promises to be one of the best in the history of the church.

In his address the bishop protested against the practice of churches calling pastors and of pastors accepting new charges without waiting for the action of the conference. "I have been a layman twenty years," continued Bishop Berry, "and I have the greatest sympathy with those in the pews. Nevertheless, recognizing as I do the great good done by the laymen for the support of the Church, I must recall to your minds that we are not Congregationalists, but have a distinct system of control. The cabinet and the conference look rather to the greatest good of the Church at large than to the interests of the individual congregation, and it may be that some transfers that have been fixed will be unfixed."

Bishop Berry remarked that the conference was the largest and the most important ever which he has presided since his election to the bishopric last May, and asked the brethren to help him out.

Plainfield churches are largely represented at the conference and in the appointment of committees was well recognized by the bishop, as follows: Church extension, Rev. George Mooney; Sunday-schools, Rev. George Angleman, Rev. S. K. Doolittle; Sabbath observance, Rev. Dr. G. H. Whitney; to nominate standing committees for 1906, Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass; conference qualifications, Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass.

At the memorial service held at the close of the business session in the afternoon, Rev. Dr. James R. Bryan read an eloquent tribute of the life of Rev. John Allen Kingsbury.

The remarks of the bishop regarding pastoral appointments caused not a little discussion among the ministers, who have a feeling that he may upset their plans. It is expected that Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, who is now completing his eighth year as pastor of the First M. E. church, will go to Perth Amboy, provided the bishop is willing. Last night and this morning were devoted to various committee meetings and services of a various character of interest to the many departments of the Church.

Chambliss; anthem, "O, How Amiable Are Thy Dwellings," choir; benediction, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss.

Gathering for Gypsy Wedding.

Owing to the non-arrival of several bands from the New England states, the Gypsy wedding planned for Tuesday at Keasby, has been indefinitely postponed. The Nomads have been gathering from all parts of the country and at the present time there are many hundreds camped between Metuchen and Perth Amboy. Gypsy Sam, who has the arrangements in charge, said yesterday, the new date for the affair would be set as soon as he heard from the stalled bands.

Mrs. Thomas H. Keller, has been visiting in this city.

MILLION DOLLAR PALACE

Tobacco King to Build Magnificant Home Near Somerville.

FINEST IN JERSEY

J. B. Duke's New Structure to be Modelled After Stately Houses Abroad.

As soon as the frost is out of the ground James B. Duke, multi-millionaire head of the Tobacco Trust, will begin the construction of his new million-dollar palace on his estate near Somerville. It has taken the architects more than three years to complete the plans to Mr. Duke's satisfaction. They were finally decided upon last week, a few days after Mr. Duke and his bride returned from Europe on their wedding trip. This summer Mr. and Mrs. Duke will live on the estate to supervise the building of their new home.

The new mansion, according to persons who have seen the accepted plans, will be a massive affair of stone, with balustrade, wall-terraces, and fountains. There will be an imposing main entrance facing the $75,000 artificial lake. This will lead directly into a large central hall, which will also be used as a picture gallery, with three tiers including the main floor. This will be lighted by a dome skylight. Two corridors on the main floor will lead into a music room at one end of the building, running its entire width, and a corresponding dining room at the other end. The music room is in deference to the wishes of Mrs. Duke, who plays the piano, the harp, and is fond of giving elaborate musicales. The dining room, it is said, will be the special domain of Mr. Duke, who is a chafing-dish expert of no mean ability, and a competent guide to a skilled chef. The billiard room and library will be a feature. In this house the Dukes will be able to entertain three times as many guests for a week-end party as they can in their present house. It is the expressed intention of the owner to have the finest country residence in New Jersey.

When Mr. Duke was married last winter and went to Europe on his wedding trip he began to look around for ideas about country homes. He saw some of the famous old manor houses in England and some of the most costly villas in France and Italy. So far as mere architecture is concerned the solid stone houses of England seem to have made the deepest impression upon him. That is the style to be followed out in the main in his new house. But in extravagance of landscape work Mr. Duke will emulate some of the fine estates he saw in France and Italy. He cabled to Mr. Buckenham, his landscape artist, to come over and make a tour with him. A number of things they saw have been assimilated into the plans that Mr. Duke has ultimately decided to work upon at a cost of upward of a million dollars.

He has purchased pictures and statuary. With a view of watchful Custom House inspectors, possibly, he declines to give out details. The experiences of J. Pierpont Morgan, P. A. B. Widener, and Catholina Lambert have taught American millionaires that art treasures purchased abroad must be kept there, if the purchaser wishes to avoid duty. In addition to books, pictures, and statues, Mr. Duke is reported to have purchased while abroad rhododendrons, rare palms, and ferns, and other outdoor decorative plants that florists in this country do not keep in stock. On such an estate as Mr. Duke's such decorations are lost unless they are made on a very large scale. Since he took to landscape gardening it has been Mr. Duke's policy to buy plants and trees in large quantities.

Death of Joel D. Field.

Joel D. Field, a brother of Mrs. Thomas E. MacDonald, of East Front street, died on Tuesday at the home of Charles E. Doane, on Norwood avenue, where he had been living for some time. Death was due to rheumatism and other troubles. He formerly resided in New Brunswick. He was an uncle of Mrs. E. S. Hyatt, and an uncle of Harry B. MacDonald, of this city, and Joseph Field, of Bound Brook. The funeral services will be held tomorrow from the Episcopal church, New Brunswick.

To See Them Eat.

ELKS HAD A BIG TIME

C. S. Andrews Installs Officers of Plainfield Lodge, B. P. O. E.

SONGS AND STORIES

And a Big Collation Enjoyed by Men Who Aim to Help Their Fellows.

Proper Elk features attended the installation of the recently elected officers of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., last night. The brethren turned out in force, heard apt speeches, good stories, songs, and sat down to a spread of an unusually tempting nature.

Champe S. Andrews, of New York lodge, No. 1, one of the most prominent Elks in the country, was the installing officer. Mr. Andrews is mentioned as the probable successor of Supreme Ruler O'Brien, chief of all Elks.

These were the officers installed: Exalted ruler, William N. Runyon; leading knight, A. D. Findlay; loyal knight, G. O. Stevens; lecturing knight, Frank H. Rowley; treasurer, L. B. Woolston; secretary, Walter Freeman; trustee, three years, Herbert S. Stover; tyler, E. C. Searing.

Mr. Andrews made a speech that won warm applause. His main theme was the love of man for man as exemplified by the B. P. O. E. "Take the charitable work out of the order, and the Elks may as well quit," he said. Mayor J. F. Buckle, former Senator Charles A. Reed and former Judge W. A. Coddington, as well as Judge W. N. Runyon were among the others who lauded the order.

Following the installation an informal programme of entertainment and an elaborate collation served by Thomas Timbo were enjoyed.

Garrett Not a Song Artist.

Detective McCarthy was keeping a fatherly eye on the hackmen at the depot yesterday as the 4:30 train from New York settled itself on the rails when Garrett Keating, a coachman, undulated from the platform of the smoker. Garrett's voice was raised in song, and his feet chased one another in eccentric circles. McCarthy urged Garrett to quiet down, but the melody rippled on and a crowd of admirers began to gather. The detective ended the show by pinching the artist. This morning Garrett promised to quit singing in public or have his voice cultivated, and Judge Runyon suspended sentence.

Dr. Yerkes Memorial Volume.

The officers of the First Baptist church have decided to have the Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes' memorial service appropriately printed and bound in pamphlet form for distribution among the members of the church and congregation. It will contain the addresses by the various ministers, the poem by L. V. F. Randolph, the historical sketch by Oliver B. Leonard, in fact the entire programme, together with a picture of Dr. Yerkes and other appropriate data.

Ten Pin Contest Scores.

In the ten pin tournament at the Park Club, last night, Morgan Townsend won three points with a score of 173; L. B. Thurlow two points with a score of 170 and F. O. Ball one point with a score of 162. The record to date is as follows: Walter Long, four points; F. O. Ball, four points; F. H. Ball, three points; Morgan Townsend, three points; L. B. Thurlow, two points; Herbert Rogers, one point; Clifford W. McGee, one point.

"Ireland's Own" Coming.

At the Casino, Monday afternoon and evening, two concerts of Irish music will be given by "Ireland's Own" band, an organization of fifty musicians, which not only holds the championship of Ireland, but carried off the grand prize from St. Louis Exposition last September. Irish ballad singers and jig dancers are included in the band, which numbers about fifty members.

New House Planned.

Mrs. John F. Loeser, of East Seventh street, is preparing to let contracts for the erection of a two-and-a-half story frame house on East Seventh street, near her residence. The building will measure 31x30. It will be handsomely decorated, with open fire places and similar features. Architect Fred Lancaster is drawing the plans.

BI-CENTENNIAL OF NEW MARKET CHURCH

OLDEST SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST CONGREGATION TO CELEBRATE.

Plans for the bi-centennial celebration of the New Market Seventh-Day Baptist church, the oldest living church in the denomination in this country, were carried a step further toward completion at the annual meeting of the church early this week. The complete programme of the event, which will take place in May, has not been made up.

The exercises will last four days, beginning on Thursday and ending Sunday. The whole Eastern association of the denomination will take part in them, holding the annual meeting of the body in conjunction with the celebration.

At the meeting A. E. Curtis was elected trustee for five years. A. H. Burdick was re-elected chorister. James R. Dunham, the treasurer, reported that the finances of the congregation were in good shape; the church met all expenses during the year.

The board of trustees organized as follows: President, L. S. Randolph; treasurer, J. R. Dunham; secretary, G. K. Crandall.

CONTRACTOR ANXIOUS OVER ST. SPRINKLING

KEELY READY TO BEGIN WORK, BUT IS DELAYED.

The contract for street sprinkling has not yet been given to John E. Keely, as expected. He was the lowest bidder and the only person bidding for the entire contract and depositing $500 as an evidence of good faith. It was anticipated by other members of the street committee that he would receive the contract Monday night, but unusual proceedings were taken and the matter is now held up. It may be brought up at the next meeting of the Common Council, inasmuch as that body did not ratify the action of the committee in deciding that Mr. Keely was entitled to the work.

Mr. Keely when seen today, expressed some uneasiness about the delay. He has complied with the ordinance in every particular and says that he is clearly entitled to the contract. He cannot explain the cause of the delay, and he says that no one has volunteered any information along this line to him. He is all ready to commence the work as soon as he gets the contract.

On Tuesday an extra sprinkling wagon was placed on West Front street, one of the city teams and a city employe being used to do the work. Undoubtedly this method will be continued until the matter is settled. The contract price is $667 per month, and according to the terms the person who gets it can charge from the time he actually begins work.

Fire Destroys House.

A house situated on Terrill road, Fanwood, and owned by Robert McGinley, of Brooklyn, was totally destroyed by fire at 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning. The dwelling was occupied until a week ago by D. Dealing. At that time he moved most of his goods out. The cause of the fire is a mystery. The Fanwood fire department did not learn of the fire in time to be of any service and the structure was allowed to burn down without any attempt to save it.

Asks Damages for a Death.

The suit of Mary E. Steiner, administratrix, against the Central Railroad of New Jersey, for $30,000, has been set down for trial during the May term of the Supreme Court at Elizabeth. The plaintiff sues to recover for the death of her husband, who was killed at the Dunellen crossing on Christmas Day, 1903. The suit has been pending in the Supreme Court since shortly after that time. G. W. V. Moy is the plaintiff's lawyer.

Read Papers on Japan.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society, of the First Baptist church, held an interesting meeting yesterday afternoon in the church lecture room when two papers were read in the study of Japan: "Woman's Work for Women," by Mrs. B. J. Shreve, and "The Children of Japan," by Miss Marion F. Randolph. Personal reminiscences of Mrs. Will Carlton were given by Mrs. S. T. Wilson and current events by Mrs. Frank Jones.

PLAINFIELD MAN KILLED

"Sim" Conway, Like Mother, Meets Death on R. R. Track.

IN WEST VIRGINIA

Victim Well-Known As a Baseball Player—Was a Plumber by Trade.

Through a telegram sent today by Miss Kate J. Conway, of Philadelphia, friends in this city were apprised of the accidental death of her brother, James Conway, a former well known Plainfielder who until a short time ago resided on West Fourth street. Only meagre details were given but it was stated that he had been struck by a train at Weston, West Virginia, and that his body had been badly mangled. It was sent at once to Philadelphia and will be brought on to Plainfield for interment in St. Mary's cemetery.

Conway has always been better known as "Sim" and in his younger days was well known as a baseball player. He learned the plumber's trade in one of the local shops and after following it here for a short time went to Brooklyn. Since then he has been moving about the country, spending a good deal of time in the South. The last time he was in Plainfield was about three years ago when he came on to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Anna Conway, who was struck and killed by a New Jersey Central train as she was crossing the tracks near Liberty street. It is practically certain that the son's death was brought about in the same manner.

The funeral mass over the body was held at Philadelphia this morning in the Church of Our Lady of Mercy, the same one from which Engineer Davis, who lost his life in the Westfield wreck, was buried. The body on arriving in Plainfield will be taken at once to the cemetery, the mangled condition making it impossible for friends to view the features.

Another Building Boom.

Liberty street has been brought into the building boom. It was announced this morning that Mrs. Ellen A. Graves has ordered the remodeling of the brick store and dwelling owned by her on that street, near Second street, and on the lot alongside of it will erect a two-family frame house. The store will be enlarged and fitted with modern trim and improvements. The upper part of the building will be an up-to-date flat. Architect Fred A. Lancaster is preparing the plans.

To Strike An Oasis.

Local members of Salaam Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., will attend the coming beef-steak dinner of the Arab Patrol of the Temple in New York. The dinner is to be held at a place called "The Morgue," situate at 518 West 58 street. A member of the Temple said this morning that the Morgue was picked out for the dining place because it had a poetic connection with travel over the burning sands.

Wife Beater Under Bonds.

Daniel Lamerson, of Prescott place, will be arraigned Saturday before Judge Runyon, under a charge of beating and abusing his wife. He was arrested yesterday on Mrs. Lamerson's complaint. Judge Runyon placed him under $100 bail this morning, to insure his presence in court Saturday.

High School Pupils in a Comedy.

The Junior class, of the North Plainfield High School, will present the comedy, "Mr. Bobb," in the High School building, Friday night, April 14. The cast has been selected with great care and the members are now rehearsing daily for a finished production.

Surprise Party.

Madeleine Moy, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. V. Moy, of Division street, was tendered a surprise party by a number of her school friends last night. About twenty were present. Games and refreshments were the features.

New Paint Firm.

Theodore H. Martin and Henry P. Seader, for several years employed by W. C. Chamberlain, of East Third street, have left Mr. Chamberlain and will shortly engage in the painting business under the firm name of Martin & Seader.

—Mrs. L. C. Hart and family have moved from West Front street to 502 West Fifth street.

—Plans are out for several fine residences to be erected this season in Netherwood section of the city.

—The olive oil sold by Neuman Brothers is imported by them directly from France and that is why they give an absolute guarantee as to its purity and excellent quality.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

A. H. Knander, the sanitary plumber, is an expert in his business and he always performs honest work.

If you purchase coal from Boice, Runyon & Co. you will always be satisfied. The quality and the price will meet your approval.

Brokaw's creamery on East Front street is a model one in every respect and the milk, cream, butter and eggs can always be relied upon as the best.

Harvey G. Adams, district manager Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, offers every conceivable adaptation of life insurance protection investment.

To deal with George Egel, of Somerset street, the butcher who has a proper regard for his duty to the consumer, is to deal with the right man.

Rugg & Cline, the West Third street coal dealers, have had years of experience in this business and the firm sells only the best quality of coal.

Even if the meat trust is a robber combination, we must have meat. We get good meat at the lowest prices when we get it of J. W. VanSickle, of North avenue.

It is surprising how much a few green, shrubs or plants will improve residential grounds. Order some of either from the Bellevlew nursery and see for yourself.

The usual spring building rush is on and those who intend erecting a home should place their order for stairways with John Herrmann at once. He will furnish estimates upon request.

Spring is full of colds and other ills, but the young man must have new hats and neckwear for all that. He finds "just the thing" at Greer & Greenwood's, East Front street.

Smokers should look at the stock of cigars and pipes at J. P. Kirch's North avenue store before making purchases. His prices compete with the New York combines and the quality of cigars is just the same.

The candy at Thomas P. Kolb's West Front street store is made fresh every day and there are never any "left over" goods. Only pure materials are used in their manufacture and high grade is always maintained. Watch these columns for Saturday specials.

Epidemics are sweeping over the country, or threatening to. With the health question so prominent, you will realize how important it is to be sure that you get only the milk and cream of William Lindsay & Co., of Mountain avenue. There is no doubt as to their purity.

The six day sale of furniture, bedding and refrigerators at Hill & Shupp's store, commencing on Monday is a great success and big sales are reported. The line of refrigerators, mattresses, couches, springs, chiffoniers and bed outfits is one of the best ever offered and now is the time to buy.

The expense of groceries is a big item in the household account and for that reason care should be taken in their purchase. The firm of Mack Scudder & Co., at Park avenue and Fourth street makes low price but good quality a strong point in dealing with customers. They solicit a trial order and guarantee prompt delivery.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. John Valiant, of Myrtle avenue, have been entertaining several out-of-town friends.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Clifton, who been spending the past winter in Florida, have returned to this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Sweeny, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Coddington, of Mountain avenue, for a few days, have returned to their home at Riverhead, L. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ward, of New York, have returned after a visit with Mrs. Ward's mother, Mrs. A. E. Hulbert, of West Front street. They made the trip in an automobile.

In Society notes from Hot Springs, Va. is the following item of local interest, "Miss Cruikshank of Plainfield, N. J., is said to be the best rider and driver among the women here. She is quite young and is here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Cruikshank."

There is one rational way to treat nasal catarrh: the medicine is applied direct to the affected membrane. The remedy is Ely's Cream Balm. It restores the inflamed tissues to a healthy state without drying all the life out of them and it gives back the lost senses of taste and smell. The sufferer who is tired of vain experiments should use Cream Balm. Druggists sell it for 50 cents. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York, will mail it.

AMUSEMENTS.

The twenty ninth week of merriment inaugurated by George Ade's scintillant comedy, "The College Widow," was reached on Monday evening at the Garden Theatre, New York city. As a drawing card for transients as well as the bred in the bone New Yorkers, this clever satire has reached the high water mark for attendance. Henry W. Savage is making arrangements to extend the run until well in the summer. Next season George Ade's comedy, "The College Widow," will be played by two companies.

Col. Henry W. Savage's superb production of "Prince of Pilsen" began an engagement of three weeks only at the New York Theatre last Monday evening. Seats are now on sale for all remaining performances at 25 cents to $1. This is the greatest attraction ever presented in New York at popular prices, and as this will probably be the last engagement it will ever play there, this exceptional opportunity to witness it should not be missed, especially as it is now presented by the most talented and important cast that has ever been seen in it. Col. Savage made this selection of players from the best of three companies that have played the piece during the last two years. Arthur Donaldson as the Prince, Jess Dandy as Hans Wagner from Cincinnati, James F. Sullivan as Francois, Louise Willis as "the Widow" and Jeannette Bageard as Sidonie, her maid, have repeated their former success scored during the original run at the Broadway Theatre.

LITERARY.

Miss Agnes C. Laut, the author of "Lords of the North," "Heralds of Empire," "The Story of the Trapper," and "Pathfinders of the West," writes in the Review of Reviews for April on "What the Portland Exposition Really Celebrates,"—"the heroic period in the history of the American West." In the same magazine, Edgar B. Piper, managing editor of the Portland Oregonian, describes the city of Portland and outlines the distinctive features of the Lewis and Clark centennial fair.

Four of the principal articles in the National Magazine for April deal with the railway problem now to the front in American politics. The titles of the articles and their authors are "Congress and the Railroads," by Representative John J. Esch, author of the rate bill now pending in Congress; "The Republic vs. the Banking Syndicates," by Frank Putnam; "The Masters of Our Railways," by Edward D. Tittmann, rail expert of the New York Times; "What Causes Railway Wrecks," by C. H. Allison, of the Illinois Central Railroad.

The spring number of Good Housekeeping, as the April issue is styled, devotes a considerable space to the flower garden, with some beautiful illustrations and a leading article by Hamlin Garland, novelist and horticulturist, upon "The Decorative Mission of the Vine." Fashions and dressmaking likewise claim more space than usual, with abundant illustrations and the freshest and choicest of material. Judge Henry A. Shute writes entertainingly as well as cogently, of "The Failure to Make a Will," and Prof. Lewis B. Allyn reports from laboratory tests the true inwardness of olive oil, its virtues, and the shameless adulteration practiced.

Startling is the revelation of the methods of the ever-rapacious "System" made by Mr. Lawson in the instalment of his "Frenzied Finance" published in Everybody's for April. Mr. Lawson describes the getting together of the properties that compose Amalgamated; and in doing so, tells how the owners of Utah Consolidated found themselves obliged to ask assistance from the "System;" how they got it, and the price they had to pay for it. For the "System" demanded first an option on fifty thousand shares, then insisted on increasing that to one hundred thousand; finally, when the price rose, raised it to one hundred and fifty thousand; and by a Wall Street trick, choked off the owners and got possession of Utah Consolidated.

GERMANY'S POLICY.

Baron Speck von Sternburg Outlines It.

STANDS FOR OPEN DOOR IN MOROCCO

Statement Made by Order of the Emperor Because of Sensational Reports About Kaiser's Speech at Tangier.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Germany has definitely and clearly outlined to the United States her Moroccan policy. Acting under instructions from Berlin, Baron Speck von Sternburg, the German ambassador, called at the war department and left with Secretary Taft a memorandum to this effect:

Germany stands for the open door in Morocco as in the far east and for the preservation of the status quo and for the safeguarding of the commercial and trade interests not only of Germany, but of all trading nations of the world.

Secretary Taft without committing this government on the subject thanked the ambassador and promptly forwarded the memorandum to President Roosevelt.

Germany makes no mention of France in the memorandum, nor does she request an expression of views by the United States.

This information has been conveyed to the United States because of the sensational reports abroad about Germany's attitude.

After presenting the memorandum the secretary and the ambassador had a brief conversation on the subject of Morocco, Baron Sternburg calling attention to the commercial importance of that country to the trading nations and emphasizing the international importance in Germany's opinion of the preservation there of the "open door." The secretary thanked the ambassador for his explicit statement of the German policy.

In conferring with Secretary Taft the German ambassador was acting upon a suggestion made to him by the president when he called at the White House last week to say goodby.

Regarding the emperor's visit to Tangier, although it was in the line of his cruise in the Mediterranean, the object of his address was, it can be stated on high authority, to impress the Moroccans with the seriousness of Germany's desire that the status quo should be maintained and that the principle of the "open door" laid down by Secretary Hay with reference to China should be strictly adhered to in Morocco.

She was found by her sister, having passed away in her sleep.

She was married to Dr. Cramer in 1863, when he was pastor of the Pearl Street church, Cincinnati. In 1867 Dr. Cramer was appointed by President Johnson as consul at Leipsic, and in 1871 President Grant appointed him minister to Denmark.

MUD AT BENNINGS.

Veribest Equaled Track Record In Feature Race.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—In a driving rainstorm and on a track hoof deep in sloppy mud races were run. Despite the mud, however, the going was reasonably firm, and in two of the races excellent time was made. Indeed, in the fourth race Veribest equaled the track record for the distance. Four favorites finished in front, and the crowd, notwithstanding the inclement weather, was large. The sixth proved to be the prettiest race of the day. Gold Dome was a heavy odds on favorite, but could not go the distance and dropped back beaten at the half mile. After passing Gold Dome, Warranted wore down the lead of Fairbury, and together they fought out the race in the last furlong, Fairbury getting the decision by a nose. The favorite was a bad third. Summaries:

First Race.—Bohemia, first; Jane Holly, second; Tramotor, third.

Second Race.—Oaklawn, first; T. S. Martin, second; St. Estephe, third.

Third Race.—Poseur, first; Parkville, second; Toi San, third.

Fourth Race.—Veribest, first; Gentian, second; Main, third.

Fifth Race.—Yeoman, first; Amberjack, second; Waddell II., third.

Sixth Race.—Fairbury, first; Warranted, second; Gold Dome, third.

Indoor Tennis at Boston.

BOSTON, April 6.—Play for the indoor tennis championship of the United States in singles began at the Tennis and Racket club here. The drawings in the preliminary round were G. R. Fearing, Jr., versus C. E. Sands, E. A. Thompson versus L. M. Stockton and Joshua Crane versus J. J. Carnes. Two matches were played. Crane took three straight from Carnes. Sands defeated Fearing in a good contest.

Miss Dutton Champion.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 6.—Brilliant golf was the feature of the fifth annual united north and south amateur championship tournament played here. Miss Mary Houghton Dutton of the Oakley Country club, Watertown, was the winner of the woman's championship in the final match play round, defeating Mrs. James Ford Bell of the Minnikaha Golf club of Minneapolis.

Racing at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, April 6.—Delightfully bracing weather and improved conditions resulted in fairly good racing at the City Park track. In the third race Attila, who finished second, was disqualified for crowding in the stretch, and in the last race Blue Flame, who finished first, was disqualified for the same cause, and Nicol, his jockey, was fined $100.

Southport Sculptor's Trophies.

BOSTON, April 6.—Southport Sculptor continues to win for Mr. Untermyer, and his trophies for the day were three cups, six medals and three cash prizes. Otto Stifel at Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 6.—The cold, raw weather did little to detract from the attendance at Montgomery park. The fourth race was the feature and was won rather handily by the favorite, Otto Stifel, from Leonidas. Rough and Tumble was the other winning favorite.

HARRIMAN'S LOAN.

Equitable Fight to Force Out Alexander Is on Today.

NEW YORK, April 6.—The course which the Hyde forces will pursue in today's special meeting of the Equitable Life Assurance society's directors as been forecasted in a statement given out by one of Mr. Hyde's friends. While the statement bears no signature, it originates in the same source from which others giving Mr. Hyde's attitude have come and is regarded as authentic.

The statement asserts that Mr. Alexander will be called upon to explain to the directors why he sent a letter requesting the commissioner of insurance to make an examination of the society without having informed the executive committee and that he will also be called upon to explain "his conduct in assailing the personal integrity of his associates, James Hazen Hyde, the vice president; Jacob H. Schiff and E. H. Harriman, directors of the society, and causing the publication of matter derogatory to them."

Continuing, the statement says:

"Both Mr. Alexander and Mr. Tarbell will be called upon to explain the sale of the renewal account for the sum of $135,000 on the day that the memorable petition asking for the removal of Mr. Hyde was presented to the board of directors.

"Mr. Alexander will be charged with having retained Frank H. Platt to organize what is so commonly known as the Crimmins policy holders' protective committee for the express purpose of assailing the board of directors and maligning James Hazen Hyde, the vice president, and also impairing public confidence in the management of the society.

"Mr. Alexander will also be charged with having instigated the suit known as the Brackett-Mary Young suit and the action taken by Senator Brackett in the office of the attorney general and also in the legislature, acts which are detrimental to the good name of the society."

E. H. Harriman has admitted that he secured a personal loan from the Equitable Life Assurance society. The report that he had denied having secured such a loan, he explained, had been due to a misapprehension on the part of the newspaper reporters who had interviewed him.

The amount of the loan was not given by Mr. Harriman, but report has placed it at $2,700,000, on which the collateral was Union Pacific stock of a par value of $3,600,000.

DROUGHT IN SPAIN SERIOUS.

Crops Threatened With Total Destruction In Andalusia.

MADRID, April 6.—Owing to an extreme drought all field work in Andalusia has been suspended for a considerable time, and crops are threatened with total destruction. The cost of necessaries of life has risen to exorbitant figures. The municipal authorities have done their utmost to alleviate the distress, but the funds at their disposition will soon be exhausted.

The national government has started public works in many places and has sent pecuniary assistance to the limited extent possible under the budget requirements, but unless there is rain soon to enable agriculturists to resume their labors serious consequences are likely to ensue, especially as the drought, which at first was confined to Andalusia, is beginning to spread to Valencia, Arragon and other provinces.

Vanderbilt's Palace on Wheels.

CHICAGO, April 6.—The most expensive and luxurious private car ever constructed is now building at the Chicago works of the Pullman company for W. K. Vanderbilt. The new car will cost Mr. Vanderbilt $50,000. Now that it is proposed to merge the Vanderbilt lines under one management, it is said to be the intention of W. K. Vanderbilt to devote more time to traveling, and it is for this purpose that the new palace on wheels is building.

Fatal Meningitis at Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, April 6.—James E. Wilkinson, official court stenographer in this city and well known in many other cities, is dead from cerebro spinal meningitis here, this having been the third positively identified case of the disease in Baltimore within a month, though neither of the others have resulted fatally. Mr. Wilkinson was in early life an actor, and a few years ago he managed a European tour for Malini, the magician.

Storm Destroyed Two Churches.

SALISBURY, N. C., April 6.—A violent tornado here did great damage to Livingston college, blowing down Ballard hall auditorium and laundry. Two students in the print shop, L. Hall and Ernest Robinson, were seriously injured. The loss is about $7,500. Carnegie recently gave the institution $12,500 for a library. Two churches were destroyed by the windstorm.

Rev. Charles W. Homer Dead.

NEW YORK, April 6.—The Rev. Dr. Charles W. Homer, founder and rector emeritus of St. James' Protestant Episcopal church in Brooklyn, is dead, aged seventy-five years. Dr. Homer was born in Boston and before coming to Brooklyn held charges in Newburyport and other New England towns.

PRESIDENT IN TEXAS

Public Reception and Banquet at Dallas.

LONE STAR STATE FLAG IN ROSES

Missouri and Kansas Left Behind. Greetings and Brief Speeches on the Way—"Never Felt Better In His Life."

DALLAS, Tex., April 6.—President Roosevelt and his party were welcomed to the Lone Star State at the capital on the arrival in Dallas over the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad at 6:20 o'clock last night of the presidential train.

Reception committees were in attendance when the train rolled into the station, and the chief executive was driven through the streets to a public stand near the Oriental hotel, where he delivered an address. The streets were packed with citizens and visitors, and the reception accorded the president was flattering and continuous.

After delivering his speech the president and party attended a dinner at the Oriental hotel, tendered by the citizens of Dallas.

When the president awoke his train was traversing southeastern Kansas, having crossed Missouri during the night. At every station large and enthusiastic crowds were in attendance, all bent on seeing and if possible hearing the chief executive.

At Vinita a short stay was made, and the president briefly addressed a large crowd. When Muskogee was reached fully 10,000 persons surrounded the railroad station. A stand draped in the national colors had been erected near by, and, although the programme did not call for a speech, the president yielded to the loud acclaim of the people and, escorted by a committee which boarded his train, made a brief address. His subject was "Statehood," and enthusiastic applause greeted his utterance that Indian Territory would add its star to the galaxy of states within a year.

Brief speeches were made at South McAlester, Atoka, Caddo and Durant, after which the train crossed into Texas.

Denison was reached at 3:45 o'clock. An immense crowd greeted the president, who was standing on the rear platform smiling and bowing his acknowledgments to the cheers which greeted him as soon as the train stopped.

A party of school children advanced to the platform and gave the president a magnificent floral offering in the shape of a Texas flag. A card attached read, "Presented by the children of the public schools as a welcome to the president to the state of Texas and the city of Denison."

In presenting the floral offering Miss Pauline Everett as spokeswoman said: "In former times the children strewed flowers in the pathways of Washington and Lafayette. Today the school children of the first free public school building ever erected in Texas give you this floral emblem, signifying honor and integrity."

The president replied briefly.

When the train pulled out for Sherman the president, standing on the platform, waved his hand and smiled in response to repeated cheers.

At Sherman one of the largest crowds of the day greeted the president. He was escorted to a stand, where he spoke for fifteen minutes. Cannon boomed and the city was in gala attire in honor of the visitors.

From Sherman the train maintained its schedule to Dallas. The president was in splendid spirits after the long day's ride and shortly before reaching Dallas said that he never felt better in his life.

Plainfield, N. J., April 6, 1905.

It's a game of Hyde-and-seek with the Equitable.

The victory at the polls Tuesday for municipal ownership is a significant sign of the times.

General support should be given the effort to raise funds for the free band concerts. There is only one way to do this and it is to patronize the fair to be held for that object in Saengerbund Hall.

Cerebro-spinal meningitis claimed its first victim in this city Tuesday, but there is no sign for alarm for there is no other cases according to the Board of Health. This strange disease, which is baffling medical science, has caused the death of 543 persons in New York in the last eight weeks. It is epidemic in Boston and is becoming so in Philadelphia. Although medical science has studied it fully as much as any other disease, the results of the deep investigations have been far from satisfactory. It is said that no treatment has been found which inspires confidence, but notwithstanding that fact many cases of recovery have been reported. In every instance, however, the patient's system has been wrecked. The symptoms of this strange malady are summed up by a writer in the New York Times who says that:

Cerebro-spinal meningitis is an acute infectious disease, involving the meninges and the spinal cord. Children are more subject to it than adults. Before the symptoms become alarming there are usually two or three days of general malaise, with headache, "stiff neck," sensitiveness of the eyes to light, and sometimes a rash, from which the malady has gained the name of spotted fever. As the disease progresses restlessness is replaced by delirium, and this in turn is followed by somnolence, or even complete coma. Its average duration is from ten days to two weeks, and the resulting mortality, while variable, is always high.

THE FORUM.

Cerebro-Spinal Meningitis.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Please permit me through your valued paper to ask whether Harry Burnley, of West Third street, really did die from spinal meningitis and also to ask what were the precautions taken to guard against its spreading. Is it necessary to quarantine as in other contagious diseases? Neighbors were in and out all the while he was sick. Anxious Reader.

Plainfield, April 5.

The cause of death was, as stated in these columns, cerebro-spinal meningitis. The Board of Health acting on the accepted theory that it is an infectious disease followed the regular course in such cases. The body was disinfected as were the premises and all persons living in the same house. It is not considered necessary to establish a quarantine in such cases. Dr. Northrop, one of the New York commission of experts appointed by Dr. Darlington to investigate the disease, was consulted some time ago by the local Board of Health and he gave them such information as has been obtained by medical scientists regarding the peculiar malady. A commission of experts is co-operating with the New York Board of Health in an endeavor to determine to what extent it is communicable. Investigations made show that there is little reason to suspect that defective sanitation is responsible for the disease. Very little has been learned after fifteen years of research but it has been discovered that the meningococcus is occasionally found in the nasal cavities of patients. To this form of bacteria the existence of the malady is now attributed. Physicians say that when warmer weather comes the disease will disappear like all others that start in the winter season.—Editor.

Street Sprinkling Methods.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Referring to your editorial on street sprinkling, in the issue of April 4, and the ability of Councilman Wilson to attend to his duties, I am struck by its unfairness, misconception, and general lack of knowledge of the whole situation.

Councilman Tolles undoubtedly voiced the opinion, not only of the business section, but also that of the residential, which is equally interested as to the work not being done; but he knows that the question of money, and how and where to get it, has kept, not only the street committee, but the Council back from starting this most important of street work. Why so much stress should be laid upon the fact that the "business right here in Plainfield" and "the merchants demand that the dust be laid," should be emphasized any more than the fact, that the whole city demands it, is hard to see, for if it were not for the growing residents, there would be no call for local business, and to try and raise an issue between one interest being served rather than another, certainly is not conducive to good citizenship.

You are also most empnatic that it is a mistake to "place at the head of the street department committee a person who is not in Plainfield from morning to night," and that it is hardly possible for Mr. Wilson to attend to his Councilmanic work in this particular connection as he should;" you do not "have to appreciate the fact that Street Commissioner Gavett must be seriously handicapped in not being able to consult with the chairman of the department through the day," for the latter will tell you, and any one familiar with city work will confirm that this is absurd and ridiculous; the ordinary routine is under his control and if any work authorized by the committee is not done satisfactorily he has full power to remedy same without consulting with any one. As to Councilman Wilson's giving the proper time to his work, you should know that he succeeded Councilman Gleak, who while then, and now is, a valuable city father, was so tied by the nature of his business, that he could not cover the whole city, while of the contrary, Councilman Wilson, not only drives over certain different streets every morning before going to New York, but also comes out on the 3:45 train, which enables him to do the same at night, and undoubtedly personally sees more street conditions than any chairman the city ever had. These petty complaints, however, are only the prelude to large and well founded ones that the city must face in the near future, and ones that neither the chairman of any committee or the Common Council should be held accountable for. With the growth of the city, and the increased demand for necessities and luxuries (as some call them,) the Council is face to face with the fact, that under the present laws, the city can only raise a certain amount of money, which is insufficient to properly carry on the work demanded.

You will remember, some eight years ago, just after the sewers were put down, when the streets were in a wretched condition, the police and fire departments below a proper working strength, and empty houses on every hand! The Council advanced the tax rate to 2.50, macadamized the streets, forced the laying of street walks, increased cross-walks, lights, hydrants, police and fire protection, and demonstrated that up-to-date improvements could attract the right kind of citizens to our fair city. These conditions are again pressing, and with thousands of families driven from New York by high rents, and seeking suburban homes, Plainfield should put itself in a position to attract the very best, and this will only be possible by a change of laws that will enable us to raise such moneys for public use, as the citizens may vote for.

In this campaign The Daily Press should be all powerful, and in no way could its influence be put to more good, than in educating the tax payers to a true state of affairs.

Ex Councilman.

Our great respect for the writer, as a citizen who has the welfare of the municipality at heart, causes us to publish the foregoing communication, but we think that his grounds for exception to the editorial to which he refers are not well taken. There is no intention on the part of this paper to put Mr. Wilson in any false light and it was so stated in the editorial quoted by "Ex-Councilman." We do believe that stress should be laid on the fact that the merchants, first and foremost, demand proper street sprinkling. The centre of trade is necessarily filled with people all day long and clouds of dust in that section are more annoying than in any other portion of the city because more people proportionately suffer. In addition store doors are open a good part of the time and dust fills the shop-keepers' places. There is no attempt to raise any issue between the business and residential sections for we have not heard anyone argue that the latter needs so much attention in this particular connection. It is a fact that Mr. Gavett is handicapped in his work, and, we believe, more so than he has been for many years. The Street Commissioner does not have the privileges of using his own judgment so much today as he has under previous street committees. On the other hand he is more restricted. Mr. Barrows will recall the trouble over having the snow removed from the business section. Mr. Wilson was responsible for the failure to have it carted away. Other instances might be cited. Mr. Gavett has not full power to remedy conditions where ordinary work has not been done satisfactorily. If he had we are quite sure that there would be no complaints from the merchants in this instance and these complaints are not of a petty nature. We have not heard of any argument regarding difficulty in raising money for this street sprinkling but are reliably informed that conditions are no worse financially than they have been; and surely as the new maximum tax law does not go into effect until next year, no fear is to be felt that there will not be the funds this year to meet the expenses of the work. "Ex-Councilman" will not accuse The Daily Press of being lukewarm in its efforts to boom the city and point out its advantages. The "campaign" to which he refers has been going on for several years and is has been conducted largely by this paper.—Editor.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

It cost "Shorty" Alberts fifty cents yesterday afternoon to show a group of friends in front of his restaurant what an accomplished trick animal his pet dog is. The dog has learned to catch coins in his mouth, and his master put him through the trick on the front porch of the eating place. After trying the dog with pennies, nickels and dimes, Alberts threw it a half-dollar. The dog caught the coin and jumped into the road with it. Then the animal refused to pay any attention to whistles, commands and coaxings. When Alberts made a jump for it, the dog fled with the coin under the store porch, and buried it very hastily. When the money was planted the dog crawled out into the open and wagged its tail, evidently under the impression that it had discovered a new and original twist to an old trick. The half-dollar can's be reached without tearing up the porch, so Alberts has marked it down to profit and loss. He has cut coin-catching from the list of the pup's tricks.

Contracts for crushed stone were let by the Township Committee at a meeting yesterday afternoon. Garretson & Gray will furnish the stone for two of the districts and J. Y. Wilson has the contract for the South Plainfield section. The price is seventy-five cents a ton, at the crusher. The amount to be expended on road work this year is about $5,000, practically the same as last year. J. A. Delafield, who lives near South Plainfield, sent a ripple through the committee's deliberations by protesting against the action of the body in granting a franchise to the Piscataway Water Company. He said the committee had no right to give the privilege away. He asked that the minutes of the meeting at which the franchise was voted on be read. This was done, but the committee took no further action in connection with the matter.

When the baseball season opens it is not unlikely that the Dunellen nine will be a member of an amateur league. There is considerable talk of forming a five-club combine, to include Dunellen, New Market, Orange Field Club, Y. M. C. A. and Clinton Avenue, of Plainfield. Japanese Forces Now Close to Santaukou.

WARSHIPS SIGHTED NEAR CEYLON

Mikado's Changtu Force Drove Russians Out of That Town and Out of Sumiecheng—Count Scheptzisky's Fate Uncertain.

LONDON, April 6.—Dispatches from General Kuroki's headquarters in the field say that Japanese army officials have been making a fruitless search for information as to the fate of Count Scheptzizky, a captain in the Austrian army and the military attache of that government with the Russian army in Manchuria.

Count Scheptzizky has been missing since the battle of Mukden.

Marquis Oyama reports that a part of the Changtu force drove the Russians out of Tsulushu, two miles north of Changtu, and also out of Sumiecheng, nine miles west of Tsulushu, and occupied both places.

After driving the enemy from the neighborhood of Soumiaotau, six miles southeast of Tsulushu, the Japanese reached the vicinity of Santaukou, where they were fired upon fiercely by about 500 Russian cavalry retreating north along the railway. The Russians were dispersed by the Japanese forces.

A Colombo (Ceylon) dispatch says that the steamer Marmora, from Sydney, N. S. W., for London, which arrived there, reports sighting at 2 a. m. April 4 three vessels, apparently large warships, 350 miles southeast of Ceylon.

The ships, believed to be battleships, were steaming slowly east-northeast.

Warsaw reports say that in anticipation of the funeral of a girl who died of wounds received in the fighting in Dzika street on Sunday the workmen of all the factories in the northern part of the city left their work and crowded Elekoralna and Leszno streets. The police, fearing a hostile demonstration, forbade the funeral and summoned Cossacks, who, using their knouts and swords freely, finally succeeded in dispersing the gathering.

The police and military have made a further house to house visitation in the suburb of Wola, where they arrested fourteen persons and discovered great quantities of revolutionary proclamations.

St. Petersburg official advices report continued disorders in the Caucasus. Within the past week peasants have looted and burned public offices in many villages in the Gore district, sacked schools and private estates, cutting down trees and threatening to kill the police if they interfered and forcing priests to go with them and take an oath of solidarity with their cause. Similar but less serious disorders are reported to have taken place in the Tiflis district.

At Kishineff last night an unsuccessful attempt was made to assassinate Assistant Police Commissary Kirlighi.

Troops to Protect Negro.

COLUMBUS, Ga., April 6.—Captain John C. Coart, commanding the Columbus guards, has been ordered to report with his company at Preston to assist several other companies in preserving order. Tobe Thornton, a negro, is to be tried for criminal assault on a white woman at that place tomorrow, and these companies have been ordered out to protect him, as attempts to lynch him are feared. The victim of the assault lost her mind shortly afterward from the shock, excitement and mortification and only recently has gained her reason.

Baird Contests at Princeton.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 6.—Howard A. Walters of Hartford, Conn., won the $100 prize for oratory in the Baird contests here. The second prize of $50 went to M. L. Fales of Buffalo, and the prize of $30 for best delivery to Raymond B. Fosdick of Buffalo. In disputation Fosdick also won the first prize of $40 and Norman M. Thomas of Lewisburg, Pa., the second of $30. The prize of $50 for the best poem by any senior was awarded to C. Ames Brooks of Englewood, N. J.

Beef Trust Inquiry at Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 6.—Prices paid for live stock by the packers, alleged rebates granted the packers by railroads for the handling of stock and the private accounts of some of the packing concerns are being closely inquired into by the federal grand jury, which is investigating the business affairs of the so called beef trust.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning April 9.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—What does Christ's life show us about the Father?—John xiv, 6-24.

Before the coming of Christ the people of God had but a faint conception of God as their Father. The Old Testament revelations of God set forth His power, his relation to His people as a covenant maker and keeper and such attributes as His eternity and holiness rather than His fatherhood. The titles used to designate God were Elohim, Jehovah, "the I am," rather than the more endearing name of Father. But Christ changed this conception in the New Testament. Old Testament titles gave way to that of "Father." Christ taught His disciples to pray "Our Father," and this was the name which He most frequently used in addressing God. In prayer He addressed God as "Father," and in conversation with others this was the title used. In the passage before us from John He uses this appellation no less than sixteen times and in doing so revealed to us much important truth concerning the Father.

From Christ here we may learn:

1. The way to the Father. And this way is none other than Christ Himself. "I am the way, the truth and the life; no man cometh unto the Father but by Me." Christ makes it possible for sinful man to make his way back to God. But for His atoning death upon the cross man's reconciliation with God would be impossible. But now He is "the door," "the way," and if we will accept His sacrifice for us we can get back to God, our Heavenly Father. And in no other way can it be done. How important, then, that we accept the ample provision made in Christ!

2. The unity of God the Father and of God the Son. The doctrine of the Trinity is an insoluble mystery. We cannot comprehend it or explain it, yet the fact is a very clear revelation of Scripture, as can be seen in the passage before us so far as the Father and Son are concerned. To Philip's inquiries Jesus said, "He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father," and again, "I am in the Father and the Father in Me," and to prove His assertion Christ appealed to His works. His works were divine. His life was free from sin. What could He have been, then, but divine? And, there being but one God, He and the Father must be one. Glorious though mysterious truth! Then the Father in giving the Son for the world gave Himself, and back of the power of Christ is the power of God, able to sustain us amid the trials and hardships of life.

3. The Father's perpetual interest in His children. From Him they were to receive power. By Him their prayers were to be answered, and in answer to the prayer of Christ the Father was to send them the Comforter, even the Spirit of truth. These blessings are ours today. Are we availing ourselves of them and living up to them?

Recognition Day at Baltimore.

One of the most interesting features of the great international convention at Baltimore next July will be a memorable recognition day on Monday, July 10, when conspicuous gains and good work along various lines of Christian effort will receive recognition. The object of this is not to laud individuals or societies, but to promote the spirit of service for Christ and the church, to encourage faithful effort and to stimulate the zeal of all. All banners previously given for the increase campaign will, it is hoped, be taken to Baltimore. Other banners will be given to states that have recently made their 10 per cent gain, and stars and crescents will be given to those states that have gained additional percentages. A list of all unions, district and local, that have made a 10 per cent gain in societies since Nov. 1, 1904, counting juniors and intermediates, senior societies, neighborhood societies, mothers' societies and all other kinds of genuine Christian Endeavor societies, will be announced. A pennant for the union banner marked "For Progress In Christian Endeavor, 1904-05," will be given to these unions.

To the Work!

And now we are in the harness again. The vacation is over. The new year with its splendid possibilities stretches before us. Let us begin aright. This will mean to look carefully into our own hearts. Shall we not each put the questions to himself: "Am I in perfect accord with God? Do I desire above all things else the progress of His kingdom?" Nor let us leave this dealing with self until our souls fairly throb with a holy zeal. Be sure of this, our work shall count for little if we are not right with God.—Rev. Dr. Edwin Forrest Hallenbeck.

The Reorganized Society.

[Written for an Ohio society that died and has recently been reorganized.]

Before my house there stood a tree,
Its branches waving full and free,
Its shadows flecked with bits of sun,
Its boughs with blossoms overrun.

The tree grew sick one droughty spell;
Half formed, the scanty foliage fell;
Too soon the starving leaves turned brown,
And then, alas, they cut it down!

My yard it was a lonesome place
Without the tree's delightful grace;
No time of fruitful blossoming,
No place for birds to nest and sing.

So now I have another tree
Set where the former used to be;
A younger tree, whose eager roots
Are bold with hope of flowers and fruits.

And if the stripling chance to fall,
Its leaves grow flabby, scant and pale,
I'll fertilize the soil a bit
And keep the ax away from it.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

April 9: "What Does Christ's Life Show Us About the Father?" John xiv, 6-24.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

The gospel of John has been well called "the heart of the gospel." It reveals more clearly than any other writing the inner nature of the Master and the possible relations of man to God.

John calls Jesus "the Word." What words are to thought that Jesus is to God the Father. He expresses in His actions, talk and nature the invisible nature of the Eternal and Holy God. Jesus ate, slept, talked, walked, worked and dressed like the other men of His times. He seemed much like any of them in outward appearance, but those who associated with Him closely detected a personal element in Him different from what they observed in any one else.

Every one has peculiarities which distinguish him from all of his fellow men. This is our mark of individuality. In Jesus this was particularly noticeable. His personality was unique in its balance and proportion of each faculty in harmonious development with the whole. To the men of His time, to the men of all subsequent times, He seems the best specimen of fully developed manhood the race has produced—in fact, He is the only one of whom it can be said He adequately represents what a man should be among men. It has been said with too much of sad truth, "No man is a hero to his lackey." Alas, the more closely we get to each other the more glaringly we perceive the faults in our poor human nature. No one is free from them. We see them in self and all others until we grow heart sick longing for the sight of a full grown manhood to appear among us and rescue us from contempt of the race and despair of ourselves.

That which lifts Jesus above all others is His pre-eminent manliness. He is the type man not of His age only, but of all ages and among all races and conditions. He shows what man is at his best and highest and under most adverse circumstances.

In this He shows what were the thought and design of the Father in making man. It is as if God said to each of us: "See, that is what I intended you and all men to be. Can you do it? Try." Jesus is the thought of God the Father made visible in human form. He is the Word which speaks out of the God idea of manhood. It is said that the intention of God in making the race of men was to put in visible and tangible form the invisible moral perfections of the divine nature. "Let us make man in our image." That design was not fulfilled completely in the first one made. It took long ages of weary waiting, but at last it was done. This is the stupendous task of all the ages of time—to shape from the dull, insensate materials of earth a creature who shall know and feel and do and be an adequate expression of the God of all life and truth. There was no lack of power in the Godhead, but the material was so refractory that it might well seem to all created intelligences an unthinkable combination. The creature an image of the Maker! How could such a thing be? Nature had been for ages stammering and trying to say God's thought. She had been working toward the design, striving manward. All who went before were prophetic of the coming one for whom the ages wait in expectancy. At last she shouts the long attempted word. This is what Jesus shows us of God the Father.

In Christ we see God's model of what a man should be.

We see Him sustaining the relations of true man to true Deity in the daily work of the world among men, going about doing the right and good thing.

We see Him, the first of creaturely mold to understand God's nature and in loving obedience, wholly and fully appropriating it into Himself.

He becomes the medium and only way by which we can come to the Father. He has found the path before unknown and has passed that way. He hails and beckons men to follow Him. That way, and that way only, lie eternal life and the goal of manhood.

The clew to it all He places in our hands. It is love. Do you know the word? Knowing the word, have you ever found its meaning? Has the voice spoken to you, and have you understood what it said? Does He abide with you?

The unspeakable word of your Father's love Jesus will give to you if you will let Him.

Walking With God.

To walk with God! What a beautiful image is presented to the mind by these words! All the paternal tenderness of the Almighty Father, all the filial love and trust of His poor, dependent child as they walk hand in hand, the child looking up to the Father for everything, glad and willing to go the road where He is going and sure that it is best—all this is obvious at first, but yet this is not all. "As we must never let our trust and dependence on our Father relapse into inactivity, either of mind or body, so in thinking about this walking with God let us not lose sight of the spiritual meaning of the word 'walk.' It is to move, to live, to do, not to be lost in stagnation and unfruitful gratitude, but to be active in all usefulness."—Rose Porter.

The Christian Spirit.

The Christian spirit is pre-eminently the humble, loving, forgiving spirit, the spirit that will have nothing of hatred or bitterness or denunciation, nothing to hurt or destroy. It counts all men as brothers and permits no exclusiveness on the ground of race or wealth or culture. If any one has any superiority in any respect, that only increases his obligation to his fellows and makes him by so much more their servant.—N. M. Mann.

THE NURSERY.

A Room Every House Should Have For Its Children.

A nursery is simply a necessity. To have the children mussing all over the house is an antiquated and very inconvenient practice.

Fit up a room simply where the children may keep their toys and where they can romp to their hearts' content, and both they and you will be happier. But first remember to have the room sunny. Have the walls painted instead of papered, if possible, and if the windows are high up protect them with a railing. The window sills should be low, if possible, so that the little ones can look out. In the springtime a window box filled with plants will add greatly to the pleasure of the city child.

PROTECT HIGH WINDOWS WITH A RAILING.

Have the nursery, if you can, far enough away from the rest of the house so that the children may play without disturbing the older people.

Fit up one side of the room with shelves, over which a curtain can be drawn. On these shelves each child can keep its toys, and thus they may be trained in habits of order. Wicker furniture is good for a nursery, for it may be easily freshened with a coat of white enamel. Charming nursery furniture is also made on the mission plan, the miniature chairs being cushioned as attractively in reds and greens as the grownup specimens.

What nursery is complete without its animal or flower frieze? And what dainty and inexpensive pictures may be obtained illustrating childish subjects—Mother Goose, foreign children, dogs, cats, etc.!

It is a good thing to consult the individual taste of the child. Low bookcases painted white may contain the fairy tales and other stories so dear to juvenile hearts. There can be also a blackboard with colored chalks for kindergarten work and drawing. A window seat which opens and holds toys is another good idea, and this can be tastefully and inexpensively upholstered in blue and white cretonne, with cushions to match.

If the fireplace is homely, why not paste around it pictures of Dutch scenes after the fashion of tiles? And, speaking of fireplaces, be sure to have a high fender to prevent accidents.

With very little expense the nursery can be made a delight not only to the children, but also to the parents.

LOUISE BRENTON.

WHEN BUILDING A HOUSE.

Remember That Wide Windows Add to Its Attractiveness.

The mere matter of a couple of inches makes all the difference in the world in the appearance of a window and consequently in the appearance of a room, for it is wonderful how the window influences the cheerfulness of the room. Nothing is so depressing as a narrow view. A room with fine large windows, letting in plenty of sunlight, needs little else in the way of decorations. The picture illustrates one of these generous sized casements which opens outward, French fashion. It is hung with curtains of light green and a roomy divan is placed before it. The woodwork of the room is white and the general effect is puncted. The paneling is done in pale green, the tapestry chairs are old rose in tone and the furniture is of light oak. The electric light globes are of delicate pink.

Kate Bonnet

The Romance of a Pirate's Daughter

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

When they had finished the tour of the vessel Blackbeard conducted his guest to his own cabin and invited him to be seated by a little table. Bonnet sat down, placing his high-plumed cocked hat upon the bench beside him. He did not want anything more to eat or to drink, and he was, in fact, quite ready to take his leave. The vessel had not pleased him and had given him an idea of the true pirate's life which he had never had before.

Blackbeard seated himself on the other side of the table, on which he rested his massive arms. Behind him Ben Greenway stood in the door way. For a few moments Blackbeard sat and gazed at Bonnet, and then he said: "Look ye, Stede Bonnet, do you know you are now as much out of place as a red herring would be at the top of the mainmast?"

Bonnet flushed. "I fear, Capt. Blackbeard," he said, "I very much fear me that you are right; this is no place for me. I have paid my respects to you, and now, if you please, I will take my leave. I have not been gratified by the conduct of your crew, but I did not expect that their captain would address me in such discourteous words." And with this he reached out his hand for his hat.

Blackbeard brought down his hand heavily upon the table.

"Sit where you are!" he exclaimed. "I have that to say to you which you shall hear whether you like my vessel, my crew or me. You are no sailor, Stede Bonnet, of Bridgetown, and you don't belong to the free companions, who are all good men and true and can sail the ships they command. You are a defrauder and a cheat; you are nothing but a landsman, a plow-tail sugar planter!"

At this insult Bonnet rose to his feet and his hand went to his sword.

"Sit down," roared Blackbeard; "an you do not listen to me I'll cut off this parley and your head together. Sit down, sir."

Bonnet sat down, pale now and trembling with rage. He was not a coward, but on board this ship he must give heed to the words of the desperado who commanded it.

"You have no right," continued Blackbeard, "to strut about on the quarter-deck of that fine vessel, the Revenge; you have no right to hoist above you the Jolly Roger, and you have no right to lie right and left and tell people you are a pirate. A pirate, forsooth! you are no pirate. A pirate is a sailor, and you are no sailor! You are no better than a blind man led by a dog—if the dog breaks away from him he is lost, and if the sailing-masters you pick up one after another break away from you, you are lost. It is a cursed shame, Stede Bonnet, and it shall be no longer. At this moment, by my own right and for the sake of every man who sails under the Jolly Roger, I take away from you the command of the Revenge."

Now Bonnet could not refrain from springing to his feet. "Take from me the Revenge!" he cried, "my own vessel, bought with my own money! And how say you I am not a pirate? From Massachusetts down the coast into these very waters I have preyed upon commerce, I have taken prizes, I have burned ships, I have made my name a terror."

Now his voice grew stronger and his tones more angry.

"Not a pirate!" he cried. "Go ask the galleons and the merchantmen I have stripped and burned; go ask their crews, now wandering in misery upon desert shores, if they be not already dead. And by what right, I ask, do you come to such an one as I am and declare that, having put me in the position of a prisoner on your ship, you will take away my own?"

Blackbeard gazed at him with half-closed eyes, a malicious smile upon his face.

"I have no right," he said; "I need no right; I am a pirate!"

At these words Bonnet's legs weakened under him and he sank down upon the bench. As he did so he glanced at Ben Greenway as if he were the only person on earth to whom he could look for help, but to his amazement he saw before him a face almost jubilant, and beheld the Scotchman, his eyes uplifted and his hands clasped as if in thankful prayer.

CHAPTER XVIII.

THE NEW FIRST LIEUTENANT.

WHEN the boat of the Revenge was pulled back to that vessel Bonnet did not go in it; it was Blackbeard who sat in the stern and held the tiller, while one of his own men sat by him.

When Blackbeard stepped on deck he announced, much to the delight of the crew and the consternation of Paul Bittern, that the Revenge now belonged to him, and that all the crew who were fit to be kept on board such a fine vessel would be retained, and that he himself, for the present at least, would take command of the ship, would haul down that brand-new bit of woman's work at the mast-head and hy in its place his own black, ragged Jolly Roger, dreaded wherever seen upon the sea. At this a shout went up from the crew; the heart of every scoundrel among them swelled with joy at the idea of sailing, fighting and pillaging under the bloody Blackbeard.

But the sailing-master stood aghast. He had known very well what was going to happen; he had talked it all over in the town with Blackbeard; he had drunk in fiery brandy to the success of the scheme, and he had believed without a doubt that he was to command the Revenge when Bonnet should be disposed. And now where was he? Where did he stand?

Trembling a little, he approached Blackbeard. "And as for me," he asked; "am I to command your old vessel?"

"You!" roared Blackbeard, making as if he would jump upon him; "you! You may fall to and bend your back with the others in the forecastle, or you can jump overboard if you like. My quartermaster, Richards, now commands my old vessel. Presently I shall go over and settle things on that bark, but first I shall step down into the cabin and see what rare good things Sir Nightcap, the sugar planter, has prepared for me."

With this he went below, followed by the man he had brought with him.

It was Dickory, half dazed by what he had heard, who now stepped up to Paul Bittern. The latter, his countenance blacker than it had ever been before, first scowled at him, but in a moment the ferocity left his glance.

"Oho!" he said, "here's a pretty pickle for me and you, as well as for Bonnet and the Scotchman!"

"Do you suppose," exclaimed Dickory, "that what he says is true? That he has stolen this ship from Capt. Bonnet, and that he has taken it for his own?"

"Suppose!" sneered the other, "I know it. He has stolen from me as well as from Bonnet. I should have commanded this ship, and I had made all my plans to do it when I got here."

"Then you are as great a rascal," said Dickory, "as that vile pirate down below."

"Just as great," said Bittern, "the only difference being that he has won everything while I have lost everything."

"What are we to do?" asked Dickory. "I cannot stay here, and I am sure you will not want to. Now, while he is below, can we not slip overboard and swim ashore? I am sure I could do it."

Black Paul grinned grimly. "But where should we swim to?" he said. "On the coast of Honduras there is no safety for a man who flees from Blackbeard. But keep your tongue close; he is coming."

The moment Blackbeard put his foot upon the deck he began to roar out his general orders.

"I go over to the bark," he said, "and shall put my mate here in charge of her. After that I go to my own vessel, and when I have settled matters there I will return to this fine ship, where I shall strut the quarter-deck and live like a prince at sea. Now look ye, youngster, what is your name?"

"Charter," replied Dickory, grimly.

"Well, then, Charter," the pirate continued, "I shall leave you in charge of this vessel until I come back, which will be before dark."

"Me!" exclaimed Dickory, in amazement.

"Yes, you," said the pirate. "I am sure you don't know anything about a ship any more than your master did, but he got on very well, and so may you. And now, remember, your head shall pay for it if everything is not the same when I come back as it is now."

Thereupon this man of piratical business was rowed to the bark, quite satisfied that he left behind him no one who would have the power to tamper with his interests. He knew the crew, having bound most of them to him on the preceding night, and he trusted every one of them to obey the man he had set over them and no other. As Dickory would have no orders to give, there would be no need of obedience, and Black Paul would have no chance to interfere with anything.

When Bonnet had been left by Blackbeard—who, having said all he had to say, hurried up the companionway to attend to the rest of his plans—the stately naval officer who had so recently occupied the bench by the table shrunk into a frightened farmer, gazing blankly at Ben Greenway.

"Think you, Ben," he said in half a voice, "that this is one of that man's jokes? I have heard that he has a fearful taste for horrid jokes."

The Scotchman shook his head. "Joke! Master Bonnet," he exclaimed, "it is no joke. He had ta'en your ship from ye; he has ta'en from ye your sword, your pistols, an' your wicked black flag, an' he has made evil impossible to ye. He has ta'en from ye the shame an' the wretched wickedness o' bein' a pirate. Think o' that, Master Bonnet, ye are no longer a pirate. That most devilish o' all demons has presarved the rest o' your life from the dishonor an' the infamy which ye were laborin' to heap upon it. Ye are a poor mon now, Master Bonnet; that Beelzebub will strip from ye everything ye had, all your riches shall be his. Ye can no longer afford to be a pirate; ye will be compelled to be an honest mon. An' I tell ye that my soul lifteth itsel' in thanksgivin' an' my heart is happier than it has been since that fearsome day when ye went on board your vessel at Bridgetown."

A SETTLEMENT ROMANCE.

J. G. Phelps Stokes, Millionaire and Philanthropist, to Wed.

NEW YORK, April 6.—An interesting romance growing out of University settlement work among the tenement population on the east side was revealed when announcement was made of the engagement of J. G. Phelps Stokes, millionaire and philanthropist, son of Anson Phelps Stokes, to Miss Rose Harriet Pastor, formerly of Cleveland, O., and later a writer on the Jewish Daily News of this city, from which she recently resigned to accept a clerkship in the University settlement in Eldridge street.

Miss Pastor, who is a very attractive young woman, has for years been one of the foremost workers for the betterment of the conditions of the poor on the east side, and it was while thus engaged that she met Mr. Stokes, who has always been actively interested in settlement work. Miss Pastor was born in Augustowo, Russia, in 1879 and came to this country with her family in 1891, going to Cleveland, where she was a contributor to the local Jewish papers until three years ago, when she came to New York.

Mr. Stokes is many times a millionaire. His brother, the Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, Jr., is secretary of Yale university. One of his sisters is the Baroness Halkett. Another sister, who, like himself, is devoted to works of philanthropy, married Robert Hunter, formerly head worker in the University settlement, in which Miss Pastor is now employed.

THE EARTHQUAKE IN INDIA.

Vast Damage Done From Agra to Simla.

CALCUTTA, British India, April 6.—The earthquake in northern India has caused a vast extent of damage from Agra to Simla.

The inhabitants of Lahore were thrown into panic by a succession of shocks. It is reported that the towers of the Golden mosque have fallen, and the Wazir Khan mosque was badly cracked.

Accounts from various cities tell of severe damage to property arising from the earthquake, but it is impossible as yet to estimate the extent of the loss of life.

Visitors from Mussoree report considerable damage to private property. Curious scenes were witnessed in the grounds of the Savoy hotel there, where ladies rushed from the hotel in hastily assumed garments, their hair covered with fallen plaster. One lady had the whole of her jewelry buried under a mound of brick and mortar several feet high. It is a curious fact that the older houses in Mussoree escaped with less damage than modern buildings. The only fatalities yet reported there were to two natives.

Dharmsala station, ninety-five miles northwest of Simla, has been destroyed, all the houses in the place being leveled to the ground and some Europeans and many natives killed. Women and children are sleeping in the open air.

ARRAIGNS THE COMMON COUNCIL

Mr. Randolph Calls Mayor a Figurehead and Council "The Whole Show."

CITY IS EXTRAVAGANT

Former Mayor's Hot Speech at Board of Trade Meeting Last Evening—Several Councilmen Reply.

"Spite-houses" was the subject at the Board of Trade meeting last night and former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, who has had a painful experience in this connection, was the speaker of the evening. After he had finished a severe arraignment of the Common Council for its alleged neglect of the matter, several Councilmen consented to make some remarks and they spoke in a conciliatory manner.

President L. H. Woolston was in the chair and after the introduction of a resolution calling upon the Common Council to take prompt action for relief and reparation from "spite-houses," introduced by H. W. Marshall had been tabled with the consent of the latter, the speaker of the evening was introduced.

At the outset, Mr. Randolph stated that it was not his desire to speak unkindly or too severely of any one and then went on to tell of Plainfield as he knew it sixty years ago, paying a tribute to the high character of the old-time Plainfielders.

Mr. Randolph spoke in part as follows:

"When nearly a quarter of a century ago, I was called to serve you as Mayor, we made the best possible campaign for cleanliness and good conduct, and we had a fair measure of useful success. Along with these virtues should go an able administration of municipal interests broad enough to deal comprehensively with municipal needs but careful and economical of the public funds. Economy is not niggardliness.

"When I was Mayor, the administration was by law allowed for municipal purposes, including street lights, police, and all other city requirements, $10,000 per year. That was too small a sum to meet reasonable requirements. Since then the city has increased perhaps seventy per cent. in population, but not a square foot in area, and it now spends for municipal purposes something like ten times as much as it was permitted to spend when I was Mayor. This is too much. The spirit of extravagance is abroad. Too much money is spent for various purposes, and I am persuaded that much of what is spent returns little if any benefit to the community. A reform is necessary along lines of careful economy.

"We have all the complete arrangements theoretically for protecting and promoting the welfare of this community. We have the Council for legislation; the City Judge to hear and decide upon municipal questions; the Mayor to execute and direct the enforcement of the laws and ordinances, and to superintend the entire interests of the municipality.

Council "The Whole Show."

"But, practically this normal and appropriate arrangement is ignored and set aside by the Common Council of Plainfield. To use a vulgarism, the Common Council is pretty nearly 'the whole show.' It arrogates to itself practically the administration of the town's affairs. It not only legislates, it also pretends to execute; and that is just where some of our trouble lies—the execution or direction of affairs is only a pretense and seldom gets the form of reality.

"The Mayor is considered for the most part to be an ornamental functionary! If he should attempt absolutely to direct anything, he would probably be considered as 'treading on the toes' for some councilmanic committee. The Common Council makes its ordinances and then 'makes a stagger' at their enforcement through committees. The street committee looks after the streets. The police committee does something or other in relation to the practical management of the police, etc.

"We have had an example of how this thing works out in the management by the committee to whom was referred the problem of spite-houses. This problem emerged sometime last year. More than six months have elapsed since it became a public question and issue. The councilmanic committee to whom the subject was referred by the entire Council, (which thereupon as a body seems to have largely washed its hand of the question), decided to hold meetings and a 'hearing.'" Continuing Mr. Randolph said:

Village Government Better.

"I have, myself, so much personal desire to treat with respect the representatives of the people, that I do not trust myself even to express the opinion, which arises to my lips, of the manner in which this subject has been dealt with, or rather, of the manner in which it has been ignored and neglected by the committee and by the entire Council. The present Mayor of the city, has done what probably he considered himself permitted to do as the chief ornamental officer of the town—not being allowed by existing traditions to go forward and do the thing required to be done as a genuine executive officer. He has earnestly recommended to the Council that active measures be taken and that reparation be made to parties who suffered under the negligence and injurious behavior of the administration of last year. I am not now putting any words into the Mayor's mouth as to the former injurious behavior of city officials. The Mayor, however, did, himself, choose and use the word 'reparation,' and upon that it is proper to lay some emphasis. What has the Common Council done toward carrying out the Mayor's recommendations? Absolutely nothing! If the Mayor should proceed to do things, the Common Council and its committees would feel that their toes were trodden on or their premises invaded! Under these circumstances, we have neither one thing nor the other, and the practical administration of our affairs to a certain extent 'goes at loose ends.' In some respects we would be better off with a plain village government instead of undertaking to be a city at all.

Ordinance Violated.

"In regard to this particular subject of 'spite-houses,' whilst I do not care here to dwell upon so unpleasant a theme, it has been repeatedly pointed out and complained of to the authorities that in various respects the ordinances of the city and its arrangements for the erection of buildings are every day violated at a certain point—each day's continuance of the violation making in itself a new violation—but no sort of regard is paid to this fact which stares everybody in the face who goes along and through the principal street of the town.

"It has been pointed out for example that a certain building (I will not now apply to it the name which would be suitable) is contrary to the very building permit under which it was erected, and does not at all correspond in a most vital and essential respect to that permit; and moreover the building stands in a place in which it is not permitted to stand by the ordinance; but is where it is constantly in direct violation of the ordinance every day, subjecting the owner to be dealt with and punished, and subjecting the building to removal and demolished because of this violation.

"All this has been repeatedly pointed out and shown and is thoroughly well understood and known by the gentlemen having charge of our municipal affairs, and yet they now absolutely pay no attention to these facts and complaints and they openly permit every day in the week the continued violation of their own ordinances in these and other ways.

Ordinances Not Enforced.

"Meanwhile these excellent gentlemen, members of our Common Council, occupy themselves with adopting

HOPE CHAPEL HOLDS ITS ANNUAL MEETING

VARIOUS ORGANIZATIONS REPORT AN ENCOURAGING YEAR.

Meeting in annual session in the Sunday-school rooms last night, the members of Hope Memorial chapel heard many interesting reports of the work which the various organizations have accomplished during the past year. All showed a gain over the previous twelve months and the net increase in membership and finances was a source of much satisfaction to all.

Rev. L. R. Howard presided as chairman of the meeting and J. Fred Wharton was elected clerk. Of the reports, those for the church, read by Mr. Howard, and the Sunday-school, given by Superintendent Henry J. Squires, were probably the most important. The former stated that the membership of the chapel is now 370, a gain of nineteen for the year. The congregation raised for general purposes, $634 21, nearly all of which had been expended. For the Sunday-school, Mr. Squires stated that it has 623 names on the roll and that the average attendance is 341, much higher than any previous year. It has raised considerable money for various objects, one important item being $130 for missionary purposes. In presenting this report, Mr. Squires congratulated the older members in the good work that is being done in this department.

Included in the other reports, with those who gave them, were the following: Ladies' Aid Society, Mrs. L. R. Howard; Ladies' Missionary Society, Mrs. George Radford; relief committee, Donald McInnies; Penny-a-Week Mission, Mrs. Walter Bradford; flower committee, Mrs. William Johnson; Young Men's Association, William N. Runyon; Boys' Club, Walter Firstbrook; Young People's Society, Miss Gertrude Hunter; Girls' Club, Miss Emily Tracy; primary department of Sunday-school, Miss Bertha Jones; sewing school, Mrs. P. B. Cregar.

The election of officers for the year resulted as follows: Treasurer, Robert Slorah; assistants, J. Fred Wharton and Donald McInnies; clerk, Walter Bradford.

Burial of Harry Burnley.

Funeral services over the body of Harry Burnley, the first local victim of spotted fever, were held yesterday afternoon from Mount Olive Baptist church. They were in charge of Rev. E. E. Jackson and was largely attended, the gathering including a delegation of members from Union Lodge, 4026, I. O. O. F. Interment was made in Evergreen Cemetery, the pall bearers being William Keats, Thaddeus Paine, Perry Jenkins and Waverly Carter.

King's Daughters' Meet.

The executive committee of the City Union, King's Daughters, met at the Y. M. C. A., yesterday. Nothing but routine business was considered. At the next meeting plans preparatory to taking up the summer camp work will be taken up.

Rutgers' Head Resigns.

Dr. Austin Scott, for nearly fifteen years president of Rutgers College, has sent in his resignation, asking however, that he allowed to retain the Voorhees professorship, to which he was appointed before he was made president.

WELL-KNOWN FIREMAN PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY

WILLIAM T. NEWMAN'S DEATH CAME AS A SURPRISE.

William T. Newman, known for many years as a fireman, died yesterday afternoon at the home of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth DeForest, of West Second street. He had been ill for several months but had been out only a few days ago and his death was unexpected. He was in his fortieth year and had been a life-long resident of Plainfield.

In the days of the local volunteer fire department, he was a member of Gazelle Engine Company and when it was disbanded, he was appointed a call man in the present system. By Chief Doane he was regarded as one of his most reliable men, always ready night or day, to answer an alarm. He was treasurer of the Firemen's Relief Association and a member of Benevolent Council, No. 356, Jr. O. U. A. M. He was a mason by trade and beside following it, served many terms as a member of the city election board. In all parts of the city he was well known and his list of near acquaintances was exceptionally large.

Funeral services will be held from his late home Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Delegations from the local firemen and Benevolent Council will attend.

SPRINKLING BEGUN.

Temporary Street Watering Ordered by Authorities.

Arrangements were made yesterday by Councilman T. D. Wilson, chairman of the street committee, whereby the city has employed John E. Keely to do such street sprinkling as the committee may determine upon, thereby carrying out the provisions of the resolutions adopted at the meeting of the Common Council on Monday night.

At present only two or three sprinkling carts are being used. It is not the intention of the street committee to put on the full number, eight, until conditions warrant it.

Militiamen's Dance.

Company K tendered a reception to the committees and workers connected with its recent fair, at the armory last night. The affair was well attended, and passed off delightfully. Refreshments were served at midnight. The committee in charge comprised Sergeant Charles Peterson, chairman; Sergeant Nathaniel Hart, Corporal F. A. Weaver, and Privates John Judson and Ferris Pearsall.

Sheriff's Sale Postponed.

The trial of the right of property question brought up by the levy imposed on the office furniture supposed to belong to Dr. G. D. Herring, to settle a judgment recently secured against him by Charles H. Hand and F. H. Smith, will be held in Elizabeth April 19. The sale of the goods seized, set for yesterday, has been postponed a week by Sheriff Corbett's orders.

Preparing for Jail.

Still unfearful of the law, Patrick Kearns, dean of the street cleaners and jag artists, took on another load yesterday. This morning, in the city court, Judge Runyon gave Pat three days in which to put his worldly effects in order before going to jail for sixty days. Sentence will be passed on Patrick Monday morning.

New Gas Mains.

The Public Service Corporation began the work this morning of laying a gas main in Grant avenue, connecting with the main on West Front street. It is also proposed to lay a main in West End avenue.

Police Court Notes.

Patrick Donovan, drunk, and Max Morris, peddling without a license, were released by Judge Runyon in the city court this morning upon promising to mend their respective ways.

New Netherwood Home.

Plans for a ten-room frame house to be erected by John Bormann, of Netherwood, on South avenue, near Belvidere avenue, are being prepared by Architect Fred L. Lancaster.

COUNTY REPUBLICANS PLAN ANNUAL OUTING

OTHER BUSINESS TRANSACTED AT MEETING LAST NIGHT.

The annual outing of the Union County Republicans will be held at Wenzel's Grove, College Point, L. I., Saturday, July 29. This was decided at a meeting of the executive committee held at Elizabeth, last night. William Newcorn, of this city, was made chairman of the committee of arrangements, and William Bauer was appointed secretary and treasurer. It was also decided to fix the price of tickets at $3.50.

Various members of the committee submitted the names for supervisors of census, and the Plainfield members named Thomas Hanna to represent this city.

The Plainfield members of the committee present were Mayor James F. Buckle, William Newcorn, Frank H. Smith and Andrew McCardell.

ANNUAL FEAST FOR THE Y. M. C. A. BOYS

TROPHIES OF INTERSCHOLASTIC MEET PRESENTED BY PRESIDENT GAVETT.

Almost the entire membership of the Boys' Department, of the Y. M. C. A., attended the annual banquet of the juniors last night. Fully 150 boys were at the tables, which were set in the large hall. The tables were decorated with ferns, cut flowers, candelabra lamps.

Walter Caldwell, president of the department, was toastmaster. Rev. Dr. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church, said grace.

The speakers of the evening were Charles W. McCutchen, former president of the association; William B. Wadsworth, president of the Boys' Club; and O. S. Rogers, chairman of the Y. M. C. A. religious work committee.

J. W. Gavett, president of the Y. M. C. A., presented the trophies to the winners of the recent interscholastic gymnastic and athletic meet at the association gymnasium. Howard Craig received the championship cup for the high school. Clarence Steiner received the individual championship medal.

FARMERS ORGANIZE.

Piscataway Township Has a Full Fledged Grange.

The farmers of Piscataway township organized a grange at a meeting held early this week at the home of David Griscom, near New Market, and permanent organization will be completed next Monday night.

The grange spirit was awakened in Piscataway by J. E. Halloway, a practical Maine farmer who believes that the prosperity of the American agrarian interests depends on organization.

Temporary organization was speedily formed, with the following officers: Grand master, W. FitzRandolph; treasurer, L. D. Walker; secretary, F. O Nelson. The men put at the head of the grange movement are prominent among the farmers of the township. Treasurer Walker is overseer of the Piscataway poor farm.

Operation Due to Old Injury.

James Muldowney, of West Third street, was yesterday taken to Muhlenberg Hospital to undergo a severe surgical operation. The injury has not healed properly and the wound will have to be reopened. Dr. Murray will have charge of the operation.

Circus Performer Hurt.

In doing his stunt with the pyramid-builders at the Y. M. C. A. circus last night, Wilbert T. Bentliff strained a ligament of his left wrist so badly that he had to quit the show. He is worried over the possibility of the injury keeping him from the coming inter-association meet, but Physical Director Henckel, sprain expert of the association, says that it will be healed by that time.

Dog Bit Woman.

A West End small boy reported to Officer McGinley last night that a white woman, name unknown, was severely bitten by a dog belonging to Mrs. Dempsey, colored, 640 West Third street, yesterday afternoon. MINISTERS ON TIME LIMIT

Dr. Halleron Deplores it in Speech at Newark Conference.

EQUITABLE TRANSFERS

Second Day of Methodists' Meeting Sees Lots of Work Accomplished.

The Newark Conference, yesterday, was occupied with the reading of reports by Rev. Dr. Halleron, presiding elder of the Elizabeth district, and Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson. Dr. Halleron greatly deplored the removal of the time limits, stating that it has brought about a state of feverish unrest among the ministers, especially the younger men. He also stated that the churches in the rural districts are decadent, owing to the decline in agriculture and the increase in importance of mechanical and mercantile pursuits.

There was considerable excitement when Rev. Morris D. Church, of Newark, introduced a resolution earnestly and respectfully request the bishop not to make any transfers into the conference at this present session except upon the basis of an absolute equity in the exchange of appointments. The resolution was adopted after striking out the word "absolute."

In his report, Dr. Halleron took up each city, town, village and hamlet in the Elizabeth district, giving praise where it was due and pointing out the weak spots. He referred to the number of churches in the rural districts which are slowly passing away owing to the decline in farm property. The Conference Life Insurance Association held a meeting in the afternoon, at the same time the anniversary meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society was held. Last night the anniversary of the missionary society was celebrated. Rev. Dr. John Y. Debbins, of Montclair, presided, and the principal speaker was Rev. Dr. E. M. Taylor, general field worker of the society.

WILL BE REMOVED.

Small Building at Somerset Street and Craig Place, Not Included in Realty Deal.

The sale by Dr. Albert Pittis of his property at Somerset street and Craig place, to Dr. Fred Hughes, will eventually result in the removal of the small brick building directly on the corner, erected a few months ago by the former. The structure was not included in the deal but the contract stipulated that it should be either razed or moved away. In all probability it will be torn down owing to the expense that would arise from change of location.

The building has not been rented since it was put up and as it stands it represents an outlay of about $700.

JERSEY CENTRAL VET DEAD.

John L. VanWart, Old Baggagemaster, Passes Away.

John L. VanWart, 62 years old, a veteran employe of the Jersey Central Railroad, died at his home, Dunellen, Wednesday night, after two days of illness. He was in the railroad's service for 36 years. At the time he was taken ill he was baggageman on the 5:15 train for New York.

Many of the Plainfield commuters knew him. He was buried this afternoon in Evergreen Cemetery, Brooklyn, after a brief service at the residence of Charles R. Ross, where he made his home. VanWart was a bachelor, and a veteran of the Civil War. A brother, Joseph VanWart, of New York, survives him.

Prize-Winning Band.

Ireland's "Own" Band, which is coming to the Casino Monday afternoon and night, is a notable organization, having not only carried off every prize in Ireland for the last twenty years, but also won the grand prize at St. Louis last September. It has held the Freeman's Journal All-Ireland Challenge Cup since 1887, although this coveted trophy has been open for competition ever since, and the winner outright of the Feis Ceoil. The band numbers about fifty in all, and carries with it a first-class vaudeville troupe.

ARRAIGNS THE COUNCIL

other ordinances. How can they expect, whilst the existing ordinances are openly and constantly defied that any other and new ordinances are going to be respected? For example, (and in this immediate connection it may be stated) they are in course of adopting an ordinance in relation to the lumber yard industry. Who supposes, that, if we are to have no better enforcement of the lumber yard ordinance than we have of the building ordinance, any attention will be paid to this new ordinance by parties desiring to do any particular thing in the lumber yard industry?

"And a like question might be asked in relation to other ordinances now existing or likely to be adopted. The only way to secure real respect for the ordinances is to enforce them. If the Common Council (through its committees) is to take no measure looking to enforcement, would it not be better to have our city administration go forward along the legitimate lines of the Tripartite Government everywhere else established and in use?

"Let the Common Council make the ordinances and the appropriations and audit the accounts. Let the City Judge take cognizances of things within his jurisdiction, and let the Mayor (and under him the other executive offices) attend to the administration and direction of affairs—instead of being hampered and crippled by councilmanic committees, for which there is no warrant in law."

Inspector Only Draws Pay.

After dealing at length with the "spite-house" and "lumber yard" matter and giving his views regarding the evil, Mr. Randolph said:

"At present it is difficult to see the use of the building ordinance except to provide the salary for the Building Inspector. No attention appears to be paid to it, so far as the enforcement of the ordinance is concerned, against certain parties every day violating it."

Subsequently he said: "Meantime, aside from the efficiency of the Board of Health, there is no efficiency in enforcing the ordinance by removing the wrongful and injurious occupation for which the city is thus over and over again responsible.

"The city makes itself at the next step trebly responsible for the whole situation by taking cognizance of it and revoking the license or permit given by the Building Inspector for the erection of the second building. Then it re-appoints the Inspector, thus making its responsibility a quadruple responsibility.

"All these things have been pointed out to the Common Council and to members of it, and the petitions of the citizens still lie neglected on the Council's table. How long will the community suffer such administration? It may be that certain of the executive officers are too much occupied in other ways—such as promotion, in the adjoining borough, of the manly art of self-defense! But we have expected better things from our Council, and we are still patiently waiting. Possibly if this highly-respected Board of Trade were to use the influence it is entitled to exercise in requesting the Common Council to take action, it might hear your prayer."

Sick of Partisanship.

Referring to present political complexion, Mr. Randolph said, "For myself, I am growing somewhat tired of partisan government. In connection with my New York duties, I have recently seen the effect of it in the determined policy of the Republican administration of the State of New York to raise tax money by levying a special tax on important business interests instead of raising the money by direct and equitable taxation from all property-owners in the State at large.

"Here in Plainfield, we Republicans have in years past been pleased to see a Republican administration elected to take care of our affairs. We have perhaps become entirely too Republican. I do not know what our personal property interests at home have to do, or need have to do, with national policies of tariff or other matters. It was apparently a mistake to leave the former fashion of December election of city officers and to tie ourselves up to a November election of all officers, municipal as well as State and National. In any case, it seems about time that we cut loose from a hide-bound Republican municipal policy and elect to office men of both parties, or all parties, pledged to a Reform Municipal Administration.

Suggests Municipal Party.

"We want men for councilmen who will reduce expenses and increase efficiencies, and we are entitled to have them. Perhaps the suggestion, several times recently made, for a Tax Payers' Citizens Association, without regard to party, might accomplish some good. It appears to be worth trying. The present situation is far from satisfactory."

Poor Freight Service.

Continuing Mr. Randolph said: "Great changes have gradually come about in sixty years, and our passenger-train service today is of the quickest and best. I wish that we could say as much for the freight service. This seems to me to be still about forty years behind. Possibly the members of this Board of Trade may have noticed how difficult it is to do any freight business in and out of Plainfield on this railroad, and how a certain express company seems to have 'the inside track' in operating freight propositions; and how, having this inside track, it takes its own time and charges.

"Whilst there is abundant reason for discontent and for effort at improvement in our city, there is still much in which we may suitably rejoice. In Plainfield we have a large part of the privilege which attaches to metropolitan life, with the additional comfort and beauty of environment going along with suburban life. If we can maintain these advantages, prosperity and happiness should largely attend us and our children. Let us not try to do too many things. Especially let us keep our administration of affairs reasonably simple. Whilst I would be disposed to agree with those of my fellow-citizens who believe in municipal ownership for water-plants and light-plants, (provided always that the city obtain such plants at their actual cost; or, perhaps better, that the city build them for itself at the lowest possible cost for a good job) I do not think the city ought to go into too many enterprises. For myself, I would think well of a public movement to kill off the San Jose scale, which is now more and more infesting this entire neighborhood; but I do not think the city of Plainfield should undertake the job as a municipality and pay for it. No more do I think that the city of Plainfield should oblige me, or my neighbors, to pay for gathering ashes and garbage in other parts of the town. This plan of gathering and destroying refuse of that character has always proven expensive and unsatisfactory in other towns of our size. Our taxes are already too burdensome. They should be reduced and not increased, and the principle should be avoided to the utmost extent of putting upon the whole body of tax payers the cost of certain conveniences intended for the benefit of a moiety of the tax-payers.

Taxes Burdensome.

"I am already now paying taxes for a number of things from which I receive no benefit. I do not say much in complaint of this as yet; but there is a point beyond which I would have a right to complain very seriously, and other tax-payers would have the same right.

"If we would but take care of the good things that we have; if we make the most of our intelligent and well-to-do community, its beautiful homes, its pleasant shade-trees, its interesting gardens and lovely lawns; if we encourage both poor and rich to plant a few shrubs and blades of grass to make pleasanter the homes of our citizens; if we see to it that the health-laws are continuously enforced; that our water supply is kept pure;—and that the water company does not steal away too much of it for other towns;—that our city is kept free from disorder; that public officers are selected, who shall set a proper example by their behavior, not only to their subordinates but to all members of the community; if our schools and churches are sustained and encouraged, and an atmosphere of purity and nobility is diffused everywhere through our city, then shall we be on the way to still higher and better attainments and shall have the greater reason to rejoice in the blessings with which we are endowed."

Councilmen Talk.

When Mr. Randolph had finished President Woolston called for remarks and at his suggestion Sheriff B. F. Cortell, Councilmen W. S. Tyler, W. S. Bullock and J. Stephen Higham and Charles H. Frost, in turn, gave brief talks. Councilman Tyler was diplomatic in his brevity of speech, taking pains however to assure Mr. Randolph that the city fathers are looking after his interests as well as of all others.

Councilman Bullock deplored the fact that Mr. Randolph had taken the position that the city is retrograding, asserting that he himself believed that the municipality is steadily advancing and that each year shows much improvement. He declared that each and every member is doing as good work in the Common Council as he is capable of and that the buildings committee is devoting much tireless effort in so amending the ordinance as to bring about satisfactory relief from "spite-houses." Like the previous speakers he was heartily applauded. Councilman Higham caused continued laughter by his pleasantries. He intimated that there is much misunderstanding as to the duties of a councilman and that his highest aim is to perform to the best of his ability the duties that the office involves. He declared that he believed with Mr. Randolph that there should be a non-partisan Council, but that so far as extravagance is concerned he disclaimed it on behalf of his colleagues, stating incidently that the committee of which he is chairman has not spent one cent since it was named. He also mentioned the fact that as the present Council only dates from January 1, Mr. Randolph could hardly blame it for an alleged six months' delay in suppressing "spite-houses."

A. T. Sisanson impressed upon the assemblage the necessity of ridding Plainfield of the evil and after he had finished Mr. Randolph was called upon to speak again, which he did briefly.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

The coal sold by V. W. Nash, of Park avenue, is the best in the market and will give you entire satisfaction.

Dr. E. B. Stowe, of the Babcock building, has been very successful in the treatment of corns, bunions and ingrowing toe nails.

House building is W. H. Kirch's specialty and he is ready to take your contract. If your plans are out, let him look at them and give an estimate.

J. A. Koch, the butcher at Watchung avenue and Second street, will be pleased to serve you with the best meats at short notice. His prices are right.

Dainty confections of the bakeshop are always temptingly arrayed on the shelves and in the cases of D. Demelli & Co., West Front street and Central avenue.

George F. Brown, of Somerset street, is a thoroughly reliable real estate agent and all business left in his charge will be attended to promptly.

Summery hints in the weather turns one's attention to the soda fountains. Hodge's pharmacy, Y. M. C. A. building, is the haven of the thirsty and the warm.

E. B. Maynard, the North avenue barber, has for a long time conducted a strictly sanitary shop with a sterilizer, and his many customers appreciate it.

Harry G. Adams, of East Front street, district manager Penn Mutual Life, offers every conceivable adaptation of life insurance, both protection and investment.

Why go limping about with a troublesome corn when it can be removed almost in a night? E. J. Schreiner, the Park avenue pharmacist, has the remedy—ask him for it.

F. Neidig's meat market is located at 98 Somerset street but his delivery wagons go to every part of the city and borough. Give him a trial order and see if he does not satisfy you.

Shaving is a small matters as wars and such things go, but it means a lot to a man in his every-day life. W. H. Randolph's barber shop on Watchung avenue, is a place worth knowing, if you want skilful shaving.

"Choice cuts"—where have we heard that before? Lots of places; but we haven't seen 'em in many other places besides Fred Endress' meat market, on West Front street. Meat of succulence and tenderness.

Tan ties are the thing for spring wear on both men's and women's feet—if you like tan. M. C. VanArsdale, East Front street, has them if you do, and he has black ties and other shapes if you don't. They know how to fit you at VanArsdale's—at the right price.

VanCamp & Franklin, in the former Dunlap building at Front and Somerset streets, call attention to their spring showing of carpets, rugs, mattings and shades. Their stock is all new and it will pay householders to investigate while the spring renovating is on.

It is always a pleasure, not a task, to visit Neuman Brothers' grocery at Fifth street and Watchung avenue, because not a day goes by but what they have something new to show customers. Their display of fancy fruits is replenished at regular intervals with all the best that Florida and California affords, while fresh vegetables arrive daily. The general line of groceries is always complete and nothing is allowed to grow old on shelves.

Finishing Street Contract.

Contractor Meeker is finishing up the streets in his first contract with the city, including Woodland avenue and East Seventh street, so as to start work on the contract made last year clear of left-over jobs. The work is mostly of a light character, like the laying of top dressing.

Little Boy Lost.

Dr. George Endicott, of Park avenue, telephone police headquarters yesterday afternoon that he had a lost small boy, "dressed in white," who was picked up on the street near his office. The boy was claimed a few minutes later by Mrs. Marshall, of 131 Central avenue.

O. T. Baxter, of East Orange, was in this city yesterday on business.

LEGAL BATTLE ENDS.

Estate Involving $100,000 in Courts Three Years.

Settlement of the estate left by Mrs. Susan Perrine, of New York, whose will was defended by Codington & Swackhamer, representing the legatees, Mrs. Peter Green and Mrs. William Daily, of Whitehouse, against the protest of New York relatives of the testatrix, has been effected after a three-years' battle in the courts of New York. The estate involved $100,000. The legatees won all through the action; the estate passed into their hands last week. Mrs. Green and Mrs. Daily have a number of relatives in this city. They were nieces of the testatrix. The effort to break the will was made by grandchildren, who alleged that Mrs. Perrine was non-compos mentis when she made the will.

Y. M. C. A. CIRCUS SCORES AGAIN.

Crowds Turned Away at Final Performance Last Night.

Every available inch of space was crowded with spectators at the final performance of the Y. M. C. A. circus troupe last night. By 8 o'clock, fifteen minutes before the show began, the gallery and parterre seats were so filled that Chief Doane, present to oversee just such an occurrence, ordered the doors closed against further admissions. A lot of disappointed amusement seekers were turned away.

The show took as well as on the previous night. The profits of the venture have not yet been figured up, but they will undoubtedly be large, as amateur show earnings go.

Church Must Pay.

Louise Simms, colored, suing Calvary Baptist church, for money loaned, secured a verdict in full, for $49, in Justice Hand's court yesterday. The church was not represented by legal counsel, but Deacon Spencer Conway appeared to explain that an outing or an excursion of some kind was held for the express purpose of paying the debt, and he "thought all the time that it was." What became of the money made on the outing he couldn't tell. Lawyer F. J. Huff appeared for Mrs. Simms.

Hunting Mrs. T. A. Devine.

Mrs. Thomas A. Devine, supposed to be visiting or staying somewhere in this neighborhood, is being sought by J. H. Caffee & Sons, of Newport News, Va. Her husband, who was in their employ, died yesterday. The firm telegraphed Chief Kiely to help them in their search. No trace of the woman could be found yesterday afternoon, although Detective McCarthy worked on the case to the exclusion of everything else. Two of the dead man's sons live in Brooklyn.

Police Chiefs to Gather.

The International Association of Police Chiefs of the United States and Canada, of which Chief Kiely is a prominent member, will hold its annual convention in Washington May 23-29. Chief Kiely will attend.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

"Shorty" Alberts recovered the half-dollar, yesterdy, that his trick dog Gyp buried under the porch of his restaurant the day before after cashing it in his mouth for the delectation of an admiring group of friends. After a careful survey of the space beneath the porch, Alberts decided that he could reach the grave of the coin by proper art and force in squirming. He worked his way in under the boards and reached the dog's treasure pit in good order. He was half-way down to pay-dirt when Gyp repented of his thieving, and dashed in to help. The dog dugg up the coin as fast as he buried it, and almost in no time he had it out in the hand of his master. Alberts crawled from under the porch, brushed himself off, looked fondly at the coin, and told Gyp he would think about forgiving him. Yesterday afternoon peaceful relations had been re-established between them.

ROCKEFELLER'S GIFT

Standard Oil Solicitor Asserts Their Honesty.

DOES NOT CONTROL RAILROAD RATES

Statement That Millionaire Head of Great Oil Industry Makes His Money Dishonestly Is False and Doubly Vile.

NEW YORK, April 7.—S. C. T. Dodd, chief solicitor of the Standard Oil company, has given out a statement with reference to the recent discussion as to the acceptance of a gift of $100,000 offered by John D. Rockefeller for missionary work. Mr. Dodd declares that the statement that Mr. Rockefeller made his money dishonestly "is false, is vile and, being made by ministers in the pretended interest of morality, is doubly vile." Mr. Dodd then says that the Standard Oil company does not own a share of stock of any railroad company, does not control any railroad company and that since the enactment of the interstate commerce law has not received lower rates than other shippers by rebates, arrangements, devices or plans of any character.

The testimony of Howard Page, freight agent of the Standard Oil company, before the industrial commission is quoted in this connection. With reference to gas and copper companies Mr. Dodd says:

"No doubt many have been prejudiced against Mr. Rockefeller by sensational writers, whose articles, accompanied by portraits and caricatures, are intended to create the impression that Mr. Rockefeller was principal in the affairs relating to the organization of the gas and copper companies, although no fact showing such connection is stated. The Standard Oil company has already denied that it had any connection or interest directly or indirectly in the organization of these corporations, and on the best authority the same denial is now made for John D. Rockefeller. He had no connection with nor interest in directly or indirectly the organization of these corporations.

"The objection to Mr. Rockefeller's gift is based upon the allegation that he made his money dishonestly. This accusation is false, is vile and, being made by ministers in the pretended interest of morality, is doubly vile. The assertion should not be made unless it can be readily established by specification and proof. I have seen no proof and no attempt even at specification except in the protest of Dr. Gladden. He says: 'In this case the investigation has been thoroughly made and the facts are known. The legislative inquiries, the records of the courts, have given the reading people of this country the materials for a judgment upon the methods of Standard Oil, and there never was a day when their minds were as clear on this subject as they are now.' Then follows the specification: 'Mr. Rockefeller may deny that rebates are now given to the Standard, but the Standard now controls about two-thirds of the railroads of this country, and its power is exerted in establishing classification of freights in such a way that it can kill competition. Rebates are no longer necessary.'

"The assertion is not true. No such state of facts has ever been disclosed by any investigation nor supported by evidence in any court of law. No such facts exist to be proved. The Standard Oil company does not own a share of stock in any railroad company nor does it control any railroad company. Stockholders of the Standard undoubtedly invest in railroad as in other shares, but stockholders of the Standard are not a majority on the board of directors of any railroad company so far as I am aware and therefore cannot control it."

A dispatch from Cambridge, Mass., says that Rev. Daniel Evans, chairman of the committee of the Congregational clergymen who have entered a protest against the acceptance by the American board of commissioners for foreign missions of a gift of $100,000 from John D. Rockefeller, when shown last night the statement given out in New York by General Solicitor Dodd of the Standard Oil company declared that it was interesting to know that the Standard Oil company was beginning to talk.

Dr. Gladden, who had raised the question of rebates, was well able, he said, to answer the company on that matter.

"We did not originate these charges," said Mr. Evans. "We say that Mr Rockefeller and the Standard Oil company are charged with various indictments and are not yet cleared, and, not being cleared of them, we do not feel that we have the moral right to stand in relations of honor with them."

COMRADES IN ARMS

Roosevelt Welcomed to Texas by Rough Riders.

CAMPFIRES TO BLAZE AT SAN ANTONIO

President's Train Held Up by Ordinance at Temple on Hurry Order of Town Council—Address to Legislature at Austin.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 7.—After an eventful trip across a large portion of Texas President Roosevelt arrived in San Antonio at 8:39 last night. When the special train bearing the president reached the station he was greeted with cheers from thousands of throats, and the lusty hurrahs of his old comrades in arms, the rough riders of the Spanish war, who are holding their annual reunion near the crumbling walls of the historic Alamo, could be plainly heard above the din.

The city is a maze of color in honor of the president's visit. Business houses and residences are decorated with flags and bunting, and today's exercises promise to be the most patriotic demonstration ever held in Texas.

The president's train left Dallas at 5:30 o'clock in the morning. Its occupants were sleeping soundly when the long run across the state was begun, but the president was up and astir at 7 o'clock. The first stop of the day was at Hillsboro, where the entire population turned out. The president spoke briefly and was given a cordial reception.

When the train reached Waco cannon were fired and bands played patriotic airs. The area about the station and the railroad yards was packed with humanity. A reception committee made its way to the president's carriage, and he was escorted to a stand in a city park near by. The president's appearance was the signal for a demonstration. Thousands of tiny American flags were waved by men and women, and it was several minutes before the president could begin his address. A band played "Dixie," and the president smiled and beat time to the music. The president's address was brief, and he was frequently applauded.

The president returned to his train with difficulty so great was the crowd. As the train moved away he stood on the rear platform and waved his hand to the people.

The train glided swiftly across the plains of north Texas and entered the fertile valley of the Brazos river. Several short stops were made, and one especially interested the president because of the manner in which it occurred.

When the citizens of Temple learned that the train would not stop at their city a hurried call of the city council was requested. The city fathers immediately passed an emergency ordinance requiring the train to stay at Temple station three minutes. When this news was telegraphed to the president he laughed heartily. He immediately issued instructions that the train stop at Temple. Nearly the total population of the little city was on hand, and the greeting accorded the chief executive was hearty.

At Taylor the train was switched from the tracks of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad to those of the International and Great Northern railroad, and the run to Austin was begun. The capital city was reached at 2 o'clock, and President Roosevelt was met at the station by Governor Lanham, Lieutenant Governor Neil and a committee of thirty citizens and members of the Texas legislature.

The president was in excellent spirits and appeared none the worse for his long ride across the country. He expressed himself as being greatly pleased to arrive in Austin under such auspicious circumstances. All members of the party were placed in carriages and driven to the statehouse, where President Roosevelt made two speeches, one in the hall of representatives and the other on the lawn.

The president was taken for a drive over the capital city. The day was ideal, and so crowded were the streets that it proved a difficult matter for the militia to control the vast throng. The school children, both white and black, were lined up for review along the line of march, and they cheered lustily as the president passed.

An enthusiastic demonstration occurred at New Braunfels, where the special train was surrounded by a mass of surging people, all anxious to greet the chief executive. New Braunfels is a German settlement and is noted for its thrift and enterprise, and the president spoke encouragingly to the people, who cordially applauded his utterances.

The long ride was brought to an end when San Antonio was reached.

Deep Snow For President's Trip.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., April 7.—A heavy snowfall in the mountains around Redstone, Colo., may necessitate a change in the plans for President Roosevelt's Rocky mountain outing. Philip B. Stewart of this city, who is in charge of the local arrangements for the trip, has received a note from Jake Borah, who is to be one of the president's guides, giving information of the condition at Redstone. "I learn from Borah's note," said Mr. Stewart, "that the snow in the upper country is very deep, which may necessitate starting out at a point considerably below Redstone."

Bostonian Dead at Augusta.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 7.—Joseph Peabody, a retired banker of Boston, is dead at a resort hotel near here. A cold contracted two days ago added to the feebleness of extreme old age was the cause. The remains will be shipped to Salem, Mass., for interment.

The very broad facilities of The Plainfield Trust Company are extended to those who have recently taken up their residence in town.

A booklet describing the methods of the various departments will be mailed on request.

BOROUGH IMPROVEMENTS COMING

Sewer System, New Fire Apparatus and Street Widening Now in Agitation.

ALL THREE REFERRED

Councilmen Discuss the Plans and Seem Anxious for Definite Action—Mayor Smalley's Stand and His Reasons.

Something akin to a wave of progression swept over the Borough Council, last night, and the suggestions for improving the municipal aspect, if carried out, will accomplish more than has been done in many years past. In comprehensive form, the building of a sewer system, better equipment for the fire department, the widening of Somerset street from Jackson avenue to Johnston's drive and more storm sewers for that thoroughfare, were among the projects advanced. No definite action was taken in either instance but from the manner in which they were brought up it is plainly evident that one or all are to be realities in the near future.

The matter of a sewer system was broached by Councilman Arnold, who declared that its need is becoming more evident every day and that if North Plainfield wishes to move ahead, it cannot be ignored. The question had been discussed by previous councils, he said, maps had been drawn and the plan talked over in a general way but nothing ever came of it. He ventured the opinion that were it taken up properly at once and put before the people, they would vote the necessary expenditure.

Mayor Smalley expressed himself as being heartily in favor of a movement to secure sewers but added that he hoped action would not come to a head during his administration. The preliminary work, he said, would require the close, personal attention of someone who represents the people and it would be impossible for him to devote the time. He quoted figures to show how residents of North Plainfield at present are paying more for the antiquated cesspool system than what it costs Plainfield for the retirement of its construction bonds and the maintenance of its sanitary disposal plant, he himself, being a property owner who has a heavy expense in this respect. Borough Counsel Charles A. Reed also gave figures as to cost of installation and maintenance in comparison with what is now being paid and he advocated a postal card canvass of residents to learn the expense they are under and their sentiment for a sewer system. The advisability of calling a public meeting was suggested but after a discussion the matter was left in the hands of the committee on streets and health for a report later.

Mayor Smalley spoke of the fire department's needs and said that its efficiency should be increased by the installation of a combination chemical and hose wagon in place of the two hose wagons now in use. Fifty per cent. of the fires in Plainfield, he said, were put out by the chemical engines and their superiority over hydrant streams has been frequently demonstrated. He suggested that the fire committee take the matter in hand, keeping in mind the fact that one or both of the present hose wagons could be disposed of in order to get the new apparatus.

Mr. Arnold was responsible for reviving the upper Somerset street widening project and more storm sewers, but his colleagues readily assented their approval with the exception of Mr. Humble. In his maiden speech to the Council, he affirmed that the widening is needed and would be a big improvement, but he, for one, believed a sewer system is the borough's most urgent need and that it should be considered to the exclusion of all other projects at present. Like the other suggestions, this matter was also left in the hands of the proper committee to work up.

While these projected improvements will require the close attention of the councilmen, Mr. Arnold declared he has other matters in view to come up, two of which are the prohibiting of ruthless distribution of dodgers about the borough streets and the practice of allowing overloaded ash carts to spill half their loads on well kept thoroughfares. He intended to stop both, he said, and would call upon the Council for help in due time.

BISHOP TALKS PLAINLY

Reminds Newark Conference of Old-Time Doctrines.

DELEGATES STIRRED

No Compromise With Sin, No Higher Criticism and Eternal Damnation for the Unrepentant.

Probably the greatest feature of yesterday's session of the Newark Conference of the M. E. church, was the stirring address by Bishop Berry to four young men who were candidates for admission into full membership. It was an impassioned exposition of old-fashioned Methodism, no compromise with sin, no sympathy with "higher criticism" and a full belief in eternal damnation for the unrepentant. The fiery words of the bishop aroused his audience, and stirred the hearts of his hearers.

The bishop laid great stress on pastoral calls and said that they should be made as far as possible when the women of the house are surrounded by the other members of the household. He cautioned the ministers to be careful in their remarks about women, especially those in their congregation.

The rest of the morning was devoted to reports from Presiding Elders Hyman, of Paterson, and Hoagland, of Newark. In the afternoon there was the Laymen's Conference, and Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, was appointed a member of the committee of ministers to attend. During the day there were a number of meetings of interest to home and foreign missions and other departments of the church work.

Last night the principal meeting was devoted to the anniversary of the Epworth League, the speaker being Editor Stevens, of the Epworth Herald. There were a number of local members present. The conference will continue today, tomorrow and Monday when it is expected that the annual appointments will be made.

FEW CATCHERS BETTER THAN "PETE" LAMAR

RECORD OF R. A. A.'S MAN BEHIND THE BAT.

One of the crack players of the Plainfield Baseball Association team is Pierre Lamar, who will be at the receiving end of the battery. He is recognized as the leading catcher in the semi-professional class, and in the opinion of Manager Daab, he has no superior outside of the major leagues.

PIERRE LAMAR.

"Pete," as he is familiarly called, was once a member of the Ironsides, of Newark. He afterward played with Orange A. C., and Nutley. He joined the New London Club of the Connecticut League and later was bought by Providence, of the Eastern League. He also played with Syracuse and Hartford. Cincinnati tried to sign him two years ago, when Hoboken defeated that team twice in one month, and Lamar's great work attracted attention. Chicago the same year tried to sign him, and succeeded in getting him to catch three double-header games at the Polo Grounds.

TIGERS AT A SMOKER

Princeton Alumni Have a Good Time Sans Formality.

HEARLEADER DUFFIELD

Assemblyman Tells His Brethren He Thinks $300 a Man is Cheap Valuation.

Cubs of the tiger, big and little, from all over Union County and some other sections of the State and the country gathered at the Casino last night, to attend the annual reunion of the Princeton Alumni Association of Union County. Harry Munger, of this city, was toastmaster. Assemblyman Edward S. Duffield, leader of the Republican majority in the lower house of the Legislature, and a Princeton man, was there.

Half the Casino ball room was shut off by screens, and the other half, of which the big old-fashioned fireplace is the chief feature, was converted into something like a nice and clean tavern room. Deal tables were scattered over the floor, and about them the college men gathered in groups of four or five. Very nearly all the Plainfield graduates were present, and a big delegation from Elizabeth was there. The Plainfield alumni of other colleges present included Evarts Tracy, George S. Ring, Clifford McGee, H. L. Lovell, Louis Williams, Yale; Leighton Calkins, Harvard; George Schoonmaker, H. S. Hall, Columbia; Willis West, Brown. The undergraduates were all members of the university musical clubs. They were: Jones, '05, leader of the glee club; McClintock, '07; Longcope, '05; Hamilton, '05; Kenneth Clark, '05; and Grimes, '05. Clark played the piano; he is a great man in Princetonia, because he wrote some good music for the Triangle Club last year, and Klaw & Erlanger have hired him for a salary and royalties to make music for the Theatrical Trust. Grimes played the banjo, and the others sang. They were helped out in this arduous service by Truesdale, '04, leader of the glee club last year. The smoker was opened with a standing toast to President Roosevelt, who is a Harvard man, and the singing of "America."

Place of honor on the speaker's list belongs, if to anyone, to Professor Daniels, of the chair of psychology, who spoke first, on the preceptorial system that Princeton is to establish next year. Assemblyman Duffield made a joking reference to the bribery charges that upset the Legislature last week. He wanted to know if it wasn't tough that the Legislature of the great and glorious State of New Jersey should be considered purchaseable at $300 per. "They might have made it an even five hundred," he said sadly.

He had some fun with McCready Sykes, of this city, over his book of Princeton poems.

The other Princeton men who spoke were Dr. J. H. Buchanan, of this city, William S. Edwards, famous in Princeton annals as the captain of the championship eleven of '98, and McCready Sykes, of this city. Evarts Tracy spoke for Yale, H. S. Hall for Columbia, and Leighton Calkins for Harvard. The latter read an original poem with the contrast between college days and later days as a theme. He poked fun at it himself; nobody else made any comment.

At the meeting of the association, J. M. Shellabarger, of this city, was elected president; Conover English, of Elizabeth, vice president; Owen Fleming, of this city, secretary. The executive committee comprises the foregoing and Knox Taylor and Whitney Baker, of this city.

Judge Atwater, of the district court at Elizabeth, of the class of '62, was present. He was the senior graduate there.

APPOINTED CUSTODIAN.

Former Freeholder William Hulskamper Receives Position as Court House Keeper.

Former Freeholder William Hulskamper has been appointed custodian of the new Court House, Elizabeth, at a salary of $3,500 a year, from which must he pay the salaries of a matron, engineer and such other help as he may need. It is estimated that the position will clear him about $1,500 a year. The Board of Freeholders has provided apartments for him and his family in the rear of the building, thus saving the amount paid in rent.

Third Auto for Stanbery.

Wm. Stanbery has sold his automobile and today he went to Philadelphia to secure his new twenty horsepower Rambler, olive green, which he has just purchased. He expects to return to this city in the new auto.

MR. KREBS, SCHOOL SUPT.

Selected to Succeed H. J. Wightman in Borough.

AN ABLE EDUCATOR

He is Now Somerset Co. Superintendent and Principal of Somerville Schools—His Career.

On recommendation of the teachers committee, the North Plainfield Board of Education at its next meeting, will confirm the appointment of H. C. Krebs, of Somerville, as supervising principal of the borough schools, to succeed Homer J. Wightman, resigned. The decision was reached last night as he had been under consideration from the time Mr. Wightman announced that he would retire this year. The appointee is now superintendent of schools for Somerset County, by appointment of the State Board of Education, and is at the same time supervising principal of the Somerville schools. He is one of the best known of the younger educators in this part of the State and is looked upon as an excellent acquisition to the borough faculty.

Mr. Krebs is 35 years of age, and a native of Schuylkill County, Pennsylvania. He was graduated at the Pennsylvania State Normal School at Kutztown, where he remained two years longer for graduate study, after which he was elected professor of mathematics in the same institution. He entered the educational work in this State as superintendent at Egg Harbor and then went to Hammonton, from which he went to Somerville eight years ago.

At Somerville Mr. Krebs has shown himself a wide-awake, progressive man, and under him the schools have been brought to a high degree of excellence. His capability so impressed the State Board of Education that three years ago they placed him at the head of the county schools. In this position his administration has won the hearty approval of the educational department and the public.

BOROUGH HEALTH BOARD NOT PUSHED FOR MONEY

INFORMS COUNCIL IT DOES NOT NEED ANNUAL APPROPRIATION.

Included in a large amount of routine business transacted by the Borough Council, last night, was the receipt and filing of a communication from the Board of Health announcing that it would not need the annual appropriation this year. In explanation it was said enough funds were on hand to meet all expenses, a surplus having accumulated from time to time. The information was gladly received by the Council as heretofore the appropriation has been about $500, and it can be applied to other purposes.

The owners of the Heideloff property at Watchung avenue and Pearl street, asked for a permit to erect a frame building at that corner. The plans were carefully considered but the matter was laid over. A petition from the residents of Stone street asking that the thoroughfare be macadamized, they contributing $90 of the cost, was granted. The usual appropriation of $25 was made for Winfield Scott Post's Decoration day exercises and James Stewart was appointed a special marshal.

Chairman Arnold reported spending $206.63 on streets during the past month and Chairman Lee gave the usual report for the police for March. On motion of Mr. Arnold a resolution was passed calling for bids for the usual supply of crushed stone and crosswalks and on motion of Mr. Krewson $1,500 was ordered borrowed for general expenses.

District Court Headquarters.

It has been decided that the city of Elizabeth will have to seek the apartments set aside in the new Court House for the district court, because the Board of Freeholders at its meeting yesterday, refused to stand the expense. County Attorney Coddington referred to the probability of Plainfield having a district court in the near future. He could see no reason why the rest of the county should help Elizabeth to pay for furnishing its court room.

Interment of James Conway.

The body of James Conway, the former Plainfielder killed by a train at Weston, W. Va., was brought to Plainfield from Philadelphia on the noon train today and interred in St. Mary's cemetery. There was no local service but a gathering of friends accompanied the remains to the graveside.

WANT TERMINUS SHIFTED

Residents of Upper Dunellen Seek 15-Minute Headway.

ATTACK NEW SWITCH

Wealthy Men Will Get Out Injunction to Force Trolley Company to Change the Location.

No long ago the Public Service Corporation announced its desire to lay a Y switch or a loop of some character at its Dunellen terminus, to enable their motorman to send the car on the return trip without shifting the fenders and controller. The company's idea is said to be the protection of the conductors' uniforms, which are dirtied at the end of every trip in shifting the fenders. Complaints of patrons over the untidy appearance of the conductors led to the decision, it is said.

If the company attempts to put down its new switch, it will have to move its terminus a quarter of a mile westward, or win against a stiff legal fight put up by citizens interested in giving the upper end of Dunellen a fifteen-minute-interval trolley service. In the necessity of a permit for new tracks from the Common Council the men at the head of the movement to give the upper end of the borough a better service see their chance to force the company to do as they request. If the P. S. C., as it expects, receives the permit without compensation to the borough, an injunction restraining them from laying the switch will be secured. A good-sized fund will be used in a determined effort to make a restrainer permanent.

Statement to this effect was made yesterday afternoon by Howard Bird, the leading real estate operator of Dunellen, head of the movement.

It was expected that the traction company would ask permission to lay the tracks at the meeting of the Dunellen Council last Monday night, and to meet the request Mr. Bird secured and presented a petition signed by a long string of names, asking that the company be compelled to put the switch down at the upper end of the borough. The petition was the only reference to the matter that came up; the P. S. C. didn't put in its application.

The opposition to the permit to lay the new tracks at the present terminus, which is about midway between the east and west ends of the borough, will be based on the ground that the Council has no right to give the company the privilege to be asked for without full compensation. Mr. Bird is determined to fight the matter to a finish, and associated with him is W. J. Winges, a wealthy resident of the upper end. Both Mr. Bird and Mr. Winges own lands in the west end.

"An injunction will be slapped on the company just as soon as we can secure one," said Mr. Bird to a reporter, "if the Council gives them the right to lay those tracks at the present terminus. I have pledged $250 to a law fund for that purpose, and so has Mr. Winges.

"The upper end of the borough did just as much for the trolley people, when they first came here seeking favors, as the other section, and it is entitled to as much consideration and as good service as that received.

"Under present conditions we have to depend on the Bound Brook line, which runs cars every half-hour, or walk to the center of the borough. The change of terminus would give us a fifteen-minute service."

The desire of the residents of the upper end for the change of terminus, which is seconded by the employes of the Levering & Garrigues and the Aluminum Plate and Press plants who live in this direction, is not supported by the people of the center of the borough, where the terminus now is. Under present conditions the latter can wait for the westward-bound cars in the stores that line Front street opposite the terminus in comparative comfort. If the terminus were shifted they would run constant risk of enduring disagreeable waits for the Bound Brook car in the open. The business men near the terminus are naturally opposed to a change, because a goodly amount of transient trade comes to them under the existing circumstances.

Turned in False Alarm.

Chief Woolston, of the borough fire department, aided by Chief Weiss and the police, are looking for a malicious individual who turned in a false alarm of fire from box 153 at 10:30 last night. It is located at Giraud and Willow avenues and when the apparatus reached the scene there was no trace of the sender or any fire. A determined effort is being made to apprehend the offender.

COUNCIL SHY OF "BOXING BOUT"

FIXING THE CITY BUDGET

Fire and Police Departments Ask for More Money.

UNDER NEW TAX LAW

Not Likely to be Any Increase in Appropriations for Streets or Lights.

The action of the Legislature regarding the new maximum tax law and the question as to whether it would go into effect this year in case of its adoption, has had a tendency to delay the Common Council in fixing its tax budget for the year. Knowing the new law will not affect this year's taxes, the finance committee can go ahead and arrange the budget and apportion the amounts to the various departments.

Mr. Bullock, of the fire department, has announced a wish for an increased appropriation so that his department will be able to close the year out of debt, and no doubt the finance committee will do all in its power to see that this is done, although it is doubtful whether he will get all that he asks for.

The police department will need an increased appropriation if its plans are carried out, for Chairman Tyler, it is understood, is anxious to put additional men on the force so that the city may be properly covered. Chief Kiely favors extra men for day and night duty. He believes that there should be at least two more men used day times, while he argues that with the present force it is impossible to cover the entire section of the city, notwithstanding the assistance of the police call boxes. At present there are a number of private night watchmen employed, mainly in the residence section, and with an adequate police force this should not be necessary, for it's only an extra expense to the citizens who hire night watchmen.

There was a time not many years ago when private watchmen were employed in the business section, but improvements in the police department eventually made this unnecessary, and additional men on the force will gradually do away with these watchmen in the other sections of the city.

It is believed that the poor department will be able to get along on the same appropriation as made last year, but the street department will undoubtedly want an increase. Mayor Buckle, in his annual message, recommended the extension of more substantial pavement than macadam, especially for the business section and the committee decide to follow out this suggestion to some extent at least. It has been suggested that while Park avenue is being widened between Second street and the railroad, it would be a good idea to lay vitrified brick in that block, thus helping to make the improvement complete. The cost of street sprinkling will be the same as last year, but there is considerable work to be done that will require extra money.

There is not likely to be much of an increase in the light department. The city is pretty thoroughly covered with lamps, with possibly a few exceptions and these can be cared for on the same amount as allowed last year.

In addition there will be the appropriations to the public library and Board of Health, the exact amounts not having been ascertained and stated to the finance committee. When the increased revenue from the licenses is apportioned it is not likely that the several departments will have any more than they actually need. The tax ordinance will probably be presented at the April meeting of the Common Council.

Hope Chapel Boys Debate.

The Hope chapel Boys' Club gave a "ladies' reception," last night, at which an interesting debate formed a feature of the programme. The debaters were Frank Rimmer, Peter Sweeney and Donald Mortimer for the affirmative, which won, and Walter Firstbrook, Morris Hunter and James Kenney for the negative. The judges were I. W. Travell, Miss Gertrude Hunter and G. Herbert Condict. A social period followed the close.

Recorder Doud's Doings.

In the Borough court, last night, Frank Driver was fined $3 for riding his bicycle on the sidewalk and Archie Davis handed up $5 because he went down on the sidewalk match with John Barleycorn.

Borough Fathers Vote Down Resolution to Investigate Last Month's Affair.

MAYOR'S EXPLANATION

Asserts Agitation Would Do North Plainfield No Good, and, Anyway, "County Authorities Are on the Trail."

By a vote of three to one, the North Plainfield Common Council, at its regular meeting, last night, decided not to conduct an investigation into the recent pugilistic carnival in Saengerbund Hall, after the matter had been brought up by a resolution prepared by Councilman VanWinkle and read by Councilman Krewson. The granting of the permit for the affair, the occurrence itself and the fact of Chief Marshal Weiss being present but making no interference, were thoroughly discussed by the members and explained in part by Mayor Smalley. When the resolution was put to a vote, Councilmen Arnold, Humble and Lee opposed it and Councilman Krewson stood for it, Mr. VanArsdale and Mr. VanWinkle being absent.

The resolution as read was as follows:

"Whereas it has been reported in the newspapers of the borough, city and elsewhere that on the night of the twentieth of March last, a prize fight took place in Saengerbund Hall in this borough; and

"Whereas, such exhibitions are contrary to law and shock the moral sense of the community; and

"Whereas, in said published accounts of such prize fight the chief marshal of said borough was reported to have been present, but made no arrests, nor in any wise attempted to prevent the same; therefore, be it

"Resolved by the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield, that a committee of three members of the Council be appointed to investigate the matter of the granting of a permit and of the alleged failure on the part of the chief marshal to put a stop to the proceedings, said committee to report to the Council at its next regular meeting."

In commenting on the resolution, Mayor Smalley said it was one that properly belonged to the marshals and license committee, but inasmuch as the permit had been given by "the powers that be," he felt impelled to allow its open consideration. In explanation of his part in the affair, he said that he had frequently granted permits for entertainments and simple boxing matches in Saengerbund Hall and when he gave the one last month he believed it to be another such instance. As a precaution he instructed Chief Weiss to be present and also informed the county authorities.

"Notwithstanding all that has been said," continued the Mayor, "I see no reason to criticise the conduct of anyone in authority who was present, as I believe no law of New Jersey was violated. There may have been a mix-up of gloves but a man versed in such matters who attended, informed me that nothing out of the way had occurred; for that reason, no action by the local authorities is necessary. The county people have taken the matter up and it should be left with them. It seems to me it would be superfluous for us to go through the proceeding as the agitation will do the borough no good.

"As to the permit, that is a privilege vested with the chief executive and while I granted it, there is no evidence to the contrary that it was not a musical and athletic entertainment. I might say, however, that all such applications in the future will undergo extremely careful consideration. There has been boxing in the borough in past years and there may be again after the present administration goes out, as there is no borough ordinance against it."

The Mayor was followed by Mr. Lee, who spoke in a similar vein with the added remark that should the Grand Jury discover anything in its investigation, the Council could then inquire into the conduct of the chief of police. Mr. Arnold coincided but Mr. Krewson was not backward in championing the resolution. Several sharp retorts passed back and forth,

IRELAND'S "OWN" BAND.

Ireland's "Own" Band, which won the grand prize at the St. Louis Fair, will appear at the Casino Monday afternoon and night before returning to Ireland. With the band, the company will number fifty people, including the famous Kelley trio of Dublin, Ireland, champion jig and reel dancers of the world, and some noted Irish singers. The performance constituted the leading feature of the great "Irish Industrial Exhibit" at the World's Fair.

It is the first time in history that an Irish band and company of singers and dancers, direct from Ireland, have visited America. The band, which is conceded to be as good as the world's best, has won every prize in Ireland since 1885, including the All Ireland Championship, 1887; Feis Ceoil, Dublin, 1901 2 and '03, and is winner, outright of the Feis Ceoil.

The Freeman's Journal All Ireland Challenge Cup, valued at $1,500, has been held by the band since 1887. The cup has always been open for competition. Besides all of the national organizations of Ireland, the band has the endorsements of all eminent Irish and Irish Americans.

SIX SUICIDE ATTEMPTS.

A Woman and Four Men Successful One In Critical State.

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—Suffering from nervous prostration, due, it is said, to the death of her father, coupled with an extraordinary passion for music, Miss Mary E. Munce, aged about twenty-four years, threw herself in front of a freight train near Swarthmore, a suburb, and was ground to death.

Five other persons sought death by suicide in this city, and three of them were successful. Rudolph Blanz shot himself dead.

Lewis Enyetkraut drank a quantity of disinfectant and oxalic acid and is dead.

A druggist, John H. Krause, drank chloral and died in a hospital.

The Tichenor colt was made favorite at odds of 2 to 1, with the Yeager entry, Jack Ratlin and Sidney C. Love, the second choice at 18 to 5. Sidney C. Love came strong in the stretch, wresting the place from Hands Across. The weather was ideal and the track fast. Jockey Buchanan rode three winners.

Indoor Tennis at Boston.

BOSTON, April 8.—The last of the semifinals in the national indoor amateur tennis tournament was played at the Tennis and Racket club here. DISASTER IN INDIA.

Hundreds of Gurkhas Entombed at Dharmsala.

KANGRA VALLEY IS DEVASTATED.

Lord Curzon Reports Damage at Lahore—Town of Palampur Leveled. European Missionaries Are Killed at Kangra.

LAHORE, Punjab, India, April 8.—During the disastrous earthquake 470 men of Gurkha regiments were buried alive at the hill station at Dharmsala, ninety-five miles northwest of Simla, according to information from that place.

It is said it is impossible to rescue the entombed men.

In addition, twenty members of the First battalion and fifty members of the Second battalion of the First Gurkhas were killed, while it is roughly calculated that from 20 to 30 per cent of the native population of the surrounding villages were killed.

The greatest difficulty is experienced in procuring news from Dharmsala. The telegraph staff at the station there was practically wiped out. A temporary office has been opened thirteen miles from the town, but the facilities are most scanty.

The Kangra valley is believed to have been devastated, and it is reported that the town of Kangra was reduced to ruins, with great loss of life. No confirmation of the report is obtainable, as the telegraph station at Kangra is wrecked.

A private telegram received here says the whole town of Palampur has been leveled to the ground and that not a single building is left standing. This announcement has not been confirmed.

According to the reports received at Calcutta, only 400 soldiers, mostly Ghurkas, were killed at the Dharmsala cantonment, and these were crushed to death by the collapse of a stone barrack building. But it is added that seventy-one Ghurkas are missing.

In addition to the Europeans already reported killed at Dharmsala seven children of Europeans are said to have met their death.

In the Ghurka cantonment of Dharmsala twenty-nine women and children and twenty-one camp followers were also killed and 186 Ghurkas were injured.

A dispatch received at London from Lord Curzon reports as follows:

"Earthquake at Lahore; several large buildings damaged.

"The cantonment and civil station at Dharmsala are reported to have been practically destroyed, houses and bazaars being leveled with the ground. The loss of life is not yet known accurately, but at least nine Europeans were killed. A relief party has been dispatched by the local government."

A telegram received in London by the Church Missionary society from Lahore reports that three of the society's representatives at Kangra—the Rev. H. F. Rowland, Mrs. Daueble and Miss Lorbeer—were killed by the fall of the mission house there during the recent earthquake. Miss Lorbeer was a member of the Berlin Ladies' Missionary society and was lent to the Church Missionary society for work in India.

Four Arrests at Highland Falls.

HIGHLAND FALLS, N. Y., April 8.—A discovery by United States secret service agents of extensive frauds perpetrated in the electrical supply department of the West Point Military academy was followed by the arrest of Charles Laubenheimer and John G. Metzger, electrical engineers of Newburg; Frank Dornberger of West Point and Charles Diller, a saloon keeper of Highland Falls. Dornberger has been chief electrician at the academy for the past twelve years.

George and Albert Wrecked.

TIVERTON, R. I., April 8.—The little coasting schooner George and Albert has been wrecked on Comorant rocks, off Sachusett point at the entrance to the Seaconnet river, and will be a total loss. The captain, his wife and the three men of the crew escaped in a tender and after a hard row in a heavy sea reached Seaconnet point at daybreak. From there they were brought to this place by the steamer Queen City.

Unknown Murdered at San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, April 8.—The dismembered remains of the man who was murdered here are still unidentified. Harry Heinze declared that the mutilated body was that of Harry Una, an Italian peddler, but Una was found. Chief Dineen has detailed fifty police officers to assist Captain of Detectives Burnett in his search for the murderer.

Died From Blood Poisoning.

TRENTON, N. J., April 8. — John Muirheid, former secretary of the Interstate Fair association, is dead here, aged fifty-one years. The immediate cause of his death was blood poisoning, brought about by the too close paring of a corn. Muirheid had been suffering for some weeks.

Benson Bank Closed.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 8.—The Bank of Benson, at Benson, N. C., has been closed by the corporation commission, as a shortage has been discovered, and the charge is made that the bank is being conducted improperly. The deposits are $18,000 and the capital stock $10,000.

FAMINE AFTER WAR

Nijni Novgorod Palace Besieged by Starving Women.

"ALWAYS THE ETERNAL COMMISSION"

Widows, Wives and Children of Russian Soldiers Cry For Bread—Czar Keeps Within Tsarskoe-Selo. Warships Near Penang.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 8.—Terrible scenes of despair are being enacted throughout the country by the starving widows, wives and families of soldiers who have either been killed at the front or are still in service there, with small prospect of soon returning home to earn bread for those dependent upon them.

At Nijni Novgorod, one of the great trade centers of the empire, the palace of the governor was besieged by a crowd of hungry women with babies in their arms. They asked for bread, and the governor replied that he would appoint a commission to investigate the situation.

This reply has infuriated the local newspapers.

"Always the eternal commission!" cries the Viedomosti. "While it is investigating the women and children will starve."

The public is vehemently demanding government aid for the sufferers. Local charities are no longer able to cope with the situation.

In many places the funds raised are entirely exhausted, and the provincial papers are filled with pathetic stories of mothers and children begging for food in the streets.

The annual parade of the horse guards, always heretofore one of the most spectacular military ceremonies as well as social functions of the year, was chiefly notable by the absence of Emperor Nicholas and the imperial family. The horse guards is the emperor's own regiment and never before has he failed to attend its annual parade.

With the empress, dowager empress and the entire court the emperor remained at Tsarskoe-Selo. The only grand dukes who ventured out of their palaces were Nicholas, Boris and Alexander Michaelovitch, the first named representing his majesty. Even Grand Duke Vladimir, commander of the military district, was not present, the explanation being that he was detained at the palace on account of sickness.

A dispatch from Singapore says that the captain of a coasting steamer reports having sighted twenty-seven warships (about the number of vessels in Rojestvensky's fleet) seventy miles southwest of Penang.

A Batavia (Java) dispatch says that Chinese junks report that Japanese warships are policing all the straits available to Rojestvensky in an attempt to reach the China seas.

By a collision of military trains west of Harbin eight soldiers were killed and twenty-six men wounded. The accident was due to the engine crew, who were worn out with excessive hours of continuous work, falling asleep and running past signals.

A Jibutil (gulf of Aden) dispatch says that Vice Admiral Nebogatoff's division of the Russian second Pacific squadron sailed east yesterday.

Science Congress at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—Many men prominent in the field of social and political economy are attending the ninth annual meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, which began here. The general theme under discussion is "The United States as a World Power." The various aspects of this main question were taken up and will be further discussed. The annual address, which is the feature of the meeting, was made last night by Seth Low, former mayor of New York, who took for his subject "The Position of the United States Among the Nations."

Wesley Brown Dropped Dead.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 8.—Wesley Brown, the oldest practicing attorney in Hornellsville, has dropped dead here of heart disease. He was seventy-six years old. King Pays For Daughter's Surrender

DRESDEN, April 8.—King Frederick Augustus has given his consent to the raising of the yearly allowance of his former wife, the Countess Montignoso, to $15,000 in return for the surrender of their daughter, Princess Anna Monica Pia. It is believed that this will settle the controversy between the king and his divorced wife.

Negro to Be Hanged at Americus.

AMERICUS, Ga., April 8. — Tobe Thornton, the negro who assaulted Miss Margaret Dismukes in her home near Preston, was convicted in the Webster county court yesterday afternoon and sentenced to be hanged April 27. He was captured two days after the crime and is confined in the Americus jail.

Suit Against Mormon Church.

SALT LAKE CITY, April 8.—An injunction suit has been filed in the Third judicial district court asking the court to restrain the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints and Joseph F. Smith, its president and trustee in trust, from investing the tithings of the church for any other than church purposes.

Plainfield, N. J., April 8, 1905.

North Plainfield's Board of Education is indeed fortunate in securing so worthy a successor to Homer J. Wightman as H. O. Krebs. Mr. Wightman as an educator and as a man has endeared himself to a large portion of the people of North Plainfield and much regret has been expressed over his decision to sever his connection as superintendent of schools. His successor, Mr. Krebs, is a man of whom much is expected and from all accounts he will undoubtedly size up to requirements.

The Philadelphia Record says: "The average spring poet would have us believe that the season to which he dedicates his energies is all sunshine and buds and birdies. It is the patent medicine men who take us behind the scenes and call our attention to 'that tired feeling' and other evils coincident with our return to outdoor life. The tired feeling, the generally run-down condition, sometimes afflicts not only the man but his business, and there are remedies suitable for the restoration of both. After a stagnant winter there is nothing like the tonic of advertising for the rejuvenation of trade. But it is an allopathic remedy, and should not be taken in microscopic doses."

SHY OF "BOXING BOUT"

one being brought out by Mr. Krewson's remark that "many queer things happen in the borough."

"Yes, you're right," replied the Mayor quickly, "men are often knocked down in the streets and then sent up for ten days for falling."

Chief Woolston, of the fire department, who was in the lobby, addressed the Council and said that he attended the affair and that he saw nothing out of the way. His remark was followed by the calling of the question and the vote ended the controversy with the loss of the resolution.

The organization of the Plainfield Church of Seventh-Day Adventists will be completed this afternoon at a meeting to be held in the W. C. T. The other officers of the Plainfield church are James Baker, deacon; Aaron Wadsworth, treasurer, and W. E. Lott, librarian. The local church will start with a membership of thirty, and meetings will be held every Saturday afternoon at 2:30 and Sunday night at 8. The Seventh-Day Adventists differ from the Seventh-Day Baptists essentially in that they believe there will be a visible appearing of Christ, while the latter denomination believe it will be invisible.

is a fairly large amount of money. How to get it is a question, and how to take care of it after you do get it is another. The way to get it is to save, and deposit a certain sum each month. By allowing the interest to compound semi-annually, the principle is surprisingly increased. We take care of the large and small deposits and pay 3½ per cent. interest.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

In the presence of a number of trainmen who had known and respected the veteran baggageman for years, the funeral service over John L. VanWart was held yesterday afternoon, at the home of Charles H. Ross, at 1:30 o'clock. Rev. W. W. Casselberry conducted the service. In addition to the dead man's comrades a number of borough residents and commuters attended the funeral. The flowers included a large set piece from the trainmen. James VanWart, the only surviving relative of the dead man, was present. He accompanied the body to Evergreen Cemetery, Brooklyn, where the interment took place.

When on his rounds along Front street Thursday night, Constable Owen Mohan saw two suspicious looking strangers crossing the roadway. He hailed them, and ordered them to halt. One obeyed, but the other took to his heels. Mohan took the former to the station house, and this morning he was arraigned in the borough court. There was nothing the authorities could fasten on him, and he was released with a warning to keep moving.

Street work will be discussed by the Common Council of the borough at an adjourned meeting to be held April 17. The thoroughfares to be benefitted by the appropriation of $1,400 will probably be decided upon at that meeting. It is understood that all the main streets of the borough are to have a thorough overhauling.

It has been decided by the school board of the borough to fit the schools with fire escapes during the coming vacation. The safety devices were ordered at a recent meeting.

The application of Edward Carney for a retail license for the borough has been held for consideration by Judge Strong. Action on it has been laid over until the 18th.

Garretson & Gray expect a busy season at the crusher. The winter has been a hard one on the roads, and big orders for crushed stone of various kinds are expected.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society, of the First Baptist church, held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Robert Pierce yesterday.

Jesse Ayres and Shorty Alberts have started warming up for the baseball scramble. Ayers will try for his old position at second base.

The Rev. H. N. Jordan spoke at the Methodist church meeting last night. He will have charge of the meeting there tonight.

Spring work on the streets was begun yesterday. The scraper started on its rounds early in the day.

There will be another public meeting on the Piscataway school in Friendship Hall on April 17.

Lester Messeroll was downstairs yesterday for the first time in an illness of three weeks' duration.

Mr. and Mrs. Holman, of Bayonne, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman, of the village.

Nearly $40 was netted by the Presbyterian recital and sociable Thursday night.

Miss Gertrude Sabine is staying with friends in Linden for a few days.

Zibe Osmun is suffering from an attack of rheumatism.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

After a service of over thirty years, "Prince," Dr. Westcott's faithful old horse, is dead, having passed away Thursday. "Prince," until he was retired upon a pension of plenty of oats and a good bed, several years ago, was the Doctor's constant companion upon his professional calls among the townspeople. His familiar form was known to all and his gentleness and good "horse" sense had won him many friends among the Doctor's acquaintances, who had known Prince ever since his owner began to practice here.

"Revivals and Spiritual Growth," will be the topic of Rev. T. Moore-Smith's sermon at the Baptist church tomorrow morning. In the evening, "The Art of Happiness in Life" will be the subject. Services at the usual hours: Morning, 10:45; B. Y. P. U., 7:15 p. m.; evening sermon, 7:45.

Baseball—soon—but not for Scotch Plains. Too bad, but we will have to link our fortunes with Manager Daab's team and journey to Crescent Oval each Saturday.

Mrs. J. S. Baker and son, Buren, who have been spending several weeks with friends here and in Philadelphia, has returned to their home at Lynn, Mass.

William D. Johnston and daughters, who have been spending two months at Miami, Florida, returned home Thursday.

George Miller, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia for the past week, is reported as being somewhat improved.

Mrs. Creed and family, of Jersey City, have taken the Sheelen homestead on Jerusalem road for a year.

John Alberts is out with a new rubber tired surrey to meet the increasing demands of his business.

Is it Right?

It is right for you to lose $4.20 that a dealer may make 50 cents more by selling fourteen gallons of ready-for-use paint at $1.50 per gallon, than our agent will make by selling you eight gallons of L. & M., and six gallons of linseed oil, which make fourteen gallons of a better paint, at $1.20 per gallon. Is it right?

HALT AT SAN ANTONIO

Roosevelt Recalls His Visit Seven Years Ago.

"THAT I SHOULD RETURN PRESIDENT"

Great Reception Within the Shadow of the Old Alamo Deeply Touched President's Heart — Recalls Glories of Old Texas.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 8.—With the city covered with patriotic emblems, a display of flags of all sizes, likenesses of the president in many windows and the streets and plazas filled with cheering throngs of people, Theodore Roosevelt could not mistake the hearty welcome accorded him in San Antonio. Enormous crowds of people greeted him along the route of the procession from Fort Sam Houston to Alamo plaza where an address of welcome was delivered and a response made. The people felt that they had as their guest not only the president of the United States, but a man toward whom the people of San Antonio feel especially friendly on account of the fact that it was here that the regiment was organized with which his name has become a synonym.

The president was delighted with the reception accorded him. He was kept busy bowing right and left acknowledging the outbursts of enthusiasm. It is approximately seven years since President Roosevelt left San Antonio with his rough riders.

"No human being dreamed that after the war I would return as president of the United States," he said in a short address at the depot.

It was a busy day for the president. It began with the reception at the train. This formality was soon over, and the president and party proceeded to the parade grounds, where the troops in Fort Sam Houston were reviewed. This interesting ceremony over, the start was made for the city. From the moment the procession of troops, carriages, police and rough riders swept out of the gates of the post into Grayson street until the president entered the gates of the fair grounds to go to camp with the rough riders he was the recipient of one of the greatest ovations ever witnessed here. The most spectacular scene of the day was at Travis park. The president's reception here by 8,000 school children was the most inspiring feature of the programme. All the way the crowd cheered and the children sang "America," while a band played the national air.

On Alamo plaza, within the shadow of the old Alamo, he was greeted in a manner which profoundly touched him. His arrival was the signal for a burst of cheering, which lasted until after he had taken his seat on the stand and which was renewed when he arose to respond to the address of welcome by Alderman Kirkpatrick.

The president made a characteristic address. He was pleased that San Antonio agreed with him in his ideas on race suicide. He noted with satisfaction the attention Texans are paying to education. The law of the worthy life, the effort in a cause worthy of striving for, was his theme. His reception throughout Texas had touched him deeply. The president spoke as follows:

"I thank you all for the way in which I have been greeted. You can hardly imagine how much it means to me to come back to San Antonio in this way and to be received as you have received me. I know that the rest of you will not grudge my saying a special word of acknowledgment to two sets among your citizens—first, to the men of the great war, to the men who wore the blue or wore the gray in the days that tried men's souls.

"I suppose you must know it, but I want to tell you that it was, of course, the memory of the valor, the self sacrifice, the endurance you displayed in the great war that made us of the younger generation feel that when the lesser war came we wished to emulate your course. The regiment which I had the honor to command was raised and organized in this city, took part in what were only skirmishes compared with the campaigns in which you did your share, and all that we claim is that while it was not given to us to have the chance to do great deeds, yet we hope we made you feel that the old spirit was not altogether lost.

"This regiment served under men who had themselves fought in the civil war, both under Grant and under Lee. The commander of the cavalry division was that great, gallant ex-Confederate soldier, Major General Joseph Wheeler, and our immediate commander, our brigadier commander, was a former Union soldier, who entered the Union army as a private and to whom for my great fortune it befell me to sign the commission as lieutenant general of the army of the United States, Lieutenant General Young. Afterward at San Juan the cavalry served under General Sumner, from whom I took my orders. I am going to tell you just one anecdote of General Young. Before the war began I told him I was going to do my best to get into it and that I wanted to get a chance for some fighting. He said: 'All right. I will have a cavalry brigade, and if you come with me I will guarantee that you shall see the fighting.' He kept his word, as he always does.

"I cannot say how much it meant to me to be able to take part in raising that regiment under the shadow of Alamo. My admiration for Texas and Texans is no new thing. Since I have been a boy and first studied the history of this country my veins have thrilled and tingled as I read of the mighty deeds of Houston, Bowie, Crockett, Travis, of the glorious men who fell in the fight of the Alamo, of which it was said, 'Thermophylae had its messengers of death, but the Alamo had none.'

"I remember well seven years ago when we were raising this regiment of riding in here one day to see the Alamo and going away feeling that come what would I was going to try to handle myself so that no disgrace should come to the memory of the Americans who died there. I want you to remember that ours was a volunteer regiment and a small war and that we do not claim any credit for what we did more than falls to the lot of any number of other people. All we ask of you is to believe that we tried to show the spirit which would have made us do the kind of a job that you of the civil war did if the need had arisen. I wish to express my acknowledgments for the greeting which I have received here in San Antonio and which I have received throughout the length and breadth of Texas. This is the third time I have visited this beautiful city. I wonder if you yourselves, proud though you are of it, appreciate the charm it has to an outsider coming here?"

After finishing his speech the president was taken in charge by the rough riders, and he will be their exclusive guest.

He attended a banquet given in his honor at the Menger hotel, where he delivered a farewell address. His train then left for Fort Worth.

Geronimo, the famous old Indian chief, who is now a prisoner of war on the Fort Sill military reservation, has left for Frederick to plead with the president to grant him freedom.

The Apaches on the Uintah reservation are said to be slaughtering deer ruthlessly and pay no attention to the warnings of the game wardens. The Indians have heard that the "great white father" is coming, and some of them have announced an intention to hold a powwow with the president.

BAGGAGE ROBBER CAUGHT.

Southern Tourist Baggage Depleted $50,000.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 8.—Gus Emanuel, baggagemaster of the Florida East Coast railway, who is held here charged with robbing the baggage of northbound tourists, waived examination and was released under a $2,000 bond. More than $1,000 worth of jewelry has been recovered, and it is reported that the thefts will amount to fully $50,000.

It is believed that a gang of thieves has been at work, and railroad detectives from northern lines, now in this city, claim to have spotted confederates who have hidden the property of northern tourists. The plan of the thieves appears to have been to rob only northbound baggage, so that tourists would not discover their losses before they arrived at their distant destinations, thus making the robberies difficult to trace.

Insane Man Drowned.

BIDDEFORD, Me., April 8.—The escape of two inmates from the insane ward of the city farm was followed by the drowning of one, while his companion was with difficulty rescued from a similar fate. Baptiste Filion and Joseph Beseau broke from their confinement and, making a dash for a small pond at the rear of the home, secured a rowboat and pushed out. Their reckless navigating capsized the craft, and Filion was drowned. Beseau clung to the craft and was saved.

Dunne's Address in New York.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Fresh from his triumph in the recent municipal election, Mayor Elect Edward F. Dunne of Chicago came to New York and last night addressed a large meeting in Cooper Union under the auspices of the Municipal Ownership league of this city. He told his hearers how he expected to carry out his pledges made in his recent campaign in Chicago to attain municipal ownership.

Governor Bell at Springfield.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 8.—Governor Charles J. Bell of Vermont was the guest last night of the Springfield Association of the Sons and Daughters of Vermont at their annual sugar festival. More than 700 natives of the Green Mountain State attended the reception to Governor Bell, who spoke on Vermont as the home of agriculture and the maple sugar industry.

King Edward at Marseilles.

MARSEILLES, April 8.—King Edward has arrived here from Paris. His majesty immediately boarded the royal yacht Victoria and Albert, where he greeted Queen Alexandra and other members of the royal family. Later the British sovereigns took an automobile ride through the town and in its vicinity. The party will leave today for a cruise in the Mediterranean.

Striking Miners Returning to Work.

INDIANA, Pa., April 8.—All has been quiet at the Ernest mines, where a strike is on. About two-thirds of the strikers have resumed work again, and it is the intention of the company to start work again in full. Some of the strikers profess that they will get all the men out notwithstanding so many have returned to work.

Senator Platt's Condition.

WASHINGTON, Conn., April 8.—Dr. Delafield of New York issued the following bulletin here last night: "There is still inflammation in the right lung. Senator Platt passed a comfortable day, and his pulse and temperature are encouraging."

Car Chained to the Track.

SPRINGFIELD, O., April 8.—County Treasurer P. M. Stewart to collect $1,200 taxes attached the Springfield and Western railroad, a part of the Appleyard system. A car was chained to the track to stop all traffic.

Section 2. That the building line on said portion of said street shall be forty-one and sixty-two one hundredths feet from said center line.

Section 3. That the curb line shall be twenty-four and sixty-two one hundredths feet from said center line, making the sidewalk twelve feet wide and leaving for areas a width of five feet.

Said center, curb, side and building lines are delineated on a certain map made by H. C. VanEmburgh, C. E., entitled "Map showing proposed laying out and widening of Park avenue, from the southeasterly side line of West Second street to the northwesterly line of the right-of-way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, Feb. 1905," to which map reference is hereby made for greater certainty.

Feminine Snapshots

Thoughts and Happenings of Interest to Women

There were all kinds of a doleful time in New York during the "L" and subway strike, yet there were humorous features too. While it was at its deepest and darkest one green motorman let a subway train land at a station with an awful ker-bump. It broke windows, knocked passengers over and caused a mild panic. Men seemed greatly concerned lest women should faint or go into hysterics. But while men were struggling in a mass of bodies so thick nobody knew whose legs and arms were whose one large masculine person, terrified out of his seven senses, squeezed himself in beside a seat and immediately "flopped" upon his knees and began to pray desperately in an exaggerated British cockney accent. Not a woman had fainted, not a woman was overcome with hysterics, but when this large man began his performance some women and men as well who had been entirely cool and calm before began to be excited. What if death were impending? In the nick of time two or three ablebodied men grabbed the praying one by the collar and yanked him upon his feet. Whether the individuals who thus rudely cut short the scene considered the occasion was not desperate enough for such a resort or whether they concluded a hysterical masculine prayer in a broad cockney accent would scare away more than it would attract the "invisible helpers" of the theosophists is not clear, but, at any rate, the vigorous action relieved the situation, and men and women alike laughed.

Those women who wear mourning perpetually for lost friends and live only in their remembrance are among the dead and not at all among the living. Such actually dwell in cemeteries.

Miss Sarah Jackson of Dearborn county, Ind., appears to have prejudices against the masculine sex. She has lately made her will and left directions for her funeral when that event shall be due. She orders that her grave shall be dug by women, that her pallbearers and the driver of the hearse shall be women and that even the hands which lower her coffin into the grave and fill in the earth above it shall be feminine ones.

A New York police magistrate has severely rebuked a policeman who arrested some boys for lounging upon street corners. "Lounging on corners by boys is no crime," said Magistrate Durack. Yes, but what a comment on our so called civilization it is when boys who are to be voters and workers of this country have nothing better to do than to hang in idleness around street corners!

Mme. Pernet McCarty of St. Louis has evolved a new and natural method of producing a sweet and sustained singing voice. Now, if somebody would only evolve a method, natural or unnatural, for producing a sweet and sustained American speaking voice! The American singing voice is immensely superior to our execrable speaking voice.

It certainly shows lamentable lack of breeding to gossip over the private affairs of mutual acquaintances in presence of strangers, especially where scandals, family quarrels or divorces are involved. Who knows whether among the listening strangers may not be a cousin, aunt or dear friend of the gossiped over absent ones?

A man recently complained in court that his wife had taken up with a certain reform movement and that when he had forbidden her to attend the meetings of her cult she had refused to obey him, and, "Your honor, I am no longer able to control her." Dear, dear, how sad!

The soured, disappointed old maid has gone out of fashion. The old maid of these days is jolly and comfortable. The soured, disappointed looking woman nowadays is she who has been wedded and has proved marriage a failure.

When a girl wants very much to enter on any worthy career, no matter what, don't hinder her or discourage her, but help her all you can.

The greater the victory the greater must be the struggle to gain it.

Hundreds of young women are taking up claims in the government lands and preparing to farm these themselves. It is hinted that the fine girls have in their minds the sly expectation of getting husbands as well as farms in their migration to the womanless lands of the west. Well, why not?

Kansas is a noble state because of its past, and yet more because of the present fact that it will be the next state to swing into the glorious line of those in which women have equal suffrage. Illinois is a noble state too. Women are going to vote there before long. Illinois women are making a splendid fight for their rights as human beings.

Kate Bonnet

The Romance of a Pirate's Daughter

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

"Ben," said Bonnet, "it is hard and it is cruel that in this, the time of my great trouble, you turn upon me. I have been robbed; I have been ruined; my life is of no more use to me, and you, Ben Greenway, revile me while that I am prostrate."

"Revile!" said the Scotchman. "I glory, I rejoice! Ye hae been converted; ye hae been changed, ye hae been snatched from the jaws o' hell. Moreover, Master Bonnet, my soul was rejoiced even before that master de'il came to set ye free from your toils. To look upon ye an' see that, although ye called yourself a pirate, ye were no like ane o' these blackhearted cutthroats. Ye were never as wicked, Master Bonnet, as ye said ye were!"

"You are mistaken," groaned Bonnet; "I tell you, Ben Greenway, you are mistaken; I am just as wicked as I ever was. And I was very wicked, as you should admit, knowing what I have done. Oh, Ben, Ben! Is it true that I shall never go on board my good ship again?"

And with this he spread his arms upon the table and laid his head upon them. He felt as if his career was ended and his heart broken.

It did not take very long for a man of practical devilishness, such as Blackbeard was, to finish the business which had called him away, and he soon reappeared in the cabin.

"Ho there! good Sir Nightcap—an' I may freely call you that since now I own you, uniform, cocked hat, title and everything else—don't cry yourself to sleep like a baby when its toys are taken away from it, but wake up. I have a bit of liking for you, and I believe that that is because you are clean. Not having that virtue myself, I admire it the more in others, and I thank you from my inmost soul—wherever that may be—for having provided such comely quarters and such fair accommodations for me while I shall please to sail the Revenge. But I shall not condemn you to idleness and cankering thoughts, my bold blusterer, my terror of the sea, my harrier of the coast, my flaunter of the Jolly Roger washed clean in the tub with soap; I shall give you work to do which shall better suit you than the troublesome trade you've been trying to learn. You write well and read, I know that, my good Sir Nightcap; and, moreover, you are a fair hand at figures. I have great work before me in landing and selling the fine cargoes you have brought me, and in counting and dividing the treasure you have locked in your iron-bound chests. And you shall attend to all that, my reformed cutthroat, my regenerated sea robber. You shall have a room of your own, where you can take off that brave uniform and where you can do your work and keep your accounts and so shall be happier than you ever were before, feeling that you are in your right place."

To all this Stede Bonnet did not answer a word; he did not even raise his head.

"And now for you, my chaplain," said Blackbeard, suddenly turning toward Ben Greenway, "what would you like? Would it suit you better to go overboard or to conduct prayers for my pious crew?"

"I would stay wi' my master," said the Scotchman, quietly.

The pirate looked steadily at Greenway. "Oho!" said he, "you are a sturdy fellow, and have a mind to speak from. Being so stiff yourself, you may be able to stiffen a little this rag of a master of yours and help him to understand the work he has to do, which he will bravely do, I ween, when he finds that to be my clerk is his career. Ha, ha! Sir Nightcap, the pirate of the pen and ink!"

Deeply sunk these words into Stede Bonnet's heart, but he made no sign.

When Blackbeard went back to the Revenge he took with him all of his own effects which he cared for, and he also took the ex-pirate's uniform, cocked hat and sword. "I may have use for them," he said, "and my clerk can wear common clothes like common people."

When her new commander reached the Revenge, Dickory immediately approached him and earnestly besought him that he might be sent to join Capt. Bonnet and Ben Greenway. "They are my friends," said Dickory, "and I have none here, and I have brought a message to Capt. Bonnet from his daughter, and it is urgently necessary that I return with one from him to her. I must instantly endeavor to find a ship which is bound for Jamaica and sail upon her. I have nothing to do with this ship, having come on board of her simply to carry my message, and it behooves me that I return quickly to those who sent me, else injury may come of it."

"I like your speech, my boy, I like your speech!" cried Blackbeard, and he roared out a big laugh. "'Urgently necessary' you must do this, you must do that. It is so long since I have heard such words that they come to me like wine from a cool vault."

At this Dickory flushed hot, but he shut his mouth.

"You are a brave fellow," cried Blackbeard, "and above the common, you are above the common. There is that in your eye that could never be seen in the eye of a sugar planter. You will make a good pirate."

"Pirate!" cried Dickory, losing all sense of prudence. "I would sooner be a wild beast in the forest than to be a pirate!"

Blackbeard laughed loudly. "A good fellow, a brave fellow!" he cried. "No man who has not the soul of a pirate within him could stand on his legs and speak those words to me. Sail to Jamaica to carry messages to girls? Never! You shall stay with me, you shall be a pirate. You shall be the head of all the pirates when I give up the business and take to sugar planting. Ha! ha! When I take to sugar planting and merrily make my own good rum!"

Dickory was dismayed. "But, Capt. Blackbeard," he said, with more deference than before, "I cannot."

"Cannot!" shouted the pirate, "you lie, you can. Say not cannot to me; you can do anything I tell you, and do it you shall. And now I am going to put you in your place, and see that you hold it and fill it. An' if you please me not, you carry no more messages in this world, nor receive them. Charter, I now make you the first officer of the Revenge under me. You cannot be mate because you know nothing of sailing a ship, and besides no mate nor any quartermaster is worthy to array himself as I shall array you. I make you first lieutenant, and you shall wear the uniform and the cocked hat which Sir Nightcap hath no further use for."

With that he went forward to speak to some of the men, leaving Dickory standing speechless, with the expression of an infuriated idiot. Black Paul stepped up to him.

"How now, youngster," said the ex-sailing-master, "first officer, eh? If you look sharp you may find yourself in fine feather."

"No, I will not," answered Dickory. "I will have nothing to do with this black pirate; I will not serve under him, I will not take charge of anything for him. I am ashamed to talk with him, to be on the same ship with him. I serve good people, the best and noblest in the world, and I will not enter any service under him."

"Hold ye, hold ye!" said Black Paul, "you will not serve the good people you speak of by going overboard with a bullet in your head; think of that,

WHEN HE SAW BITTERN HE ROARED AT HIM: "OUT OF THAT, YOU SEA-CAT, AND—"

youngster. It is a poor way of helping your friends by quitting the world and leaving them in the lurch."

SPEAR AND MRS. CHADWICK.

Grand Jury Returns Joint Indictments at Cleveland, O.

CLEVELAND, O., April 8.—The United States grand jury has returned an additional indictment against A. B. Spear, cashier of the closed Citizens' National bank of Oberlin, which failed because of Mrs. Chadwick's operations. The additional indictment was returned on account of alleged new facts in connection with the manner in which Spear is said to have made false entries and affidavits about the bank's funds.

The grand jury also returned a joint indictment against Cashier Spear and Mrs. Chadwick, in which the latter is charged with aiding and abetting Spear in making false entries. The specific charge against Spear is in making false oath to a report sent to the comptroller of the currency.

The jury also reported another indictment against President Ohlinger and Chairman of the Board of Directors Zimmerman of the failed National bank of Wooster, O. There are five counts in the indictment. It is charged that they made false entries in the bank's books and also false entries in a report to the comptroller of the currency.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Report of Business Outlook For Week.

NEW YORK, April 8.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Recent gains in the volume of business are fully maintained, but further improvement is somewhat retarded by unfavorable weather in some sections. Buyers are still arriving at the leading cities, placing additional spring orders, and most fall lines that have been opened are meeting with an encouraging reception. Despite occasional requests for extensions, collections are more prompt on the whole.

Manufacturing returns are all that could be desired, building operations expand as the season advances, and agricultural prospects are better than normal. There is little friction between capital and labor, most new wage scales being arranged on the old basis, and in some cases advances are granted, while the number of unemployed is steadily decreasing.

Commercial failures for the week in the United States were 232 against 244 last week, 255 the preceding week and 235 the corresponding week last year.

Agent Shot Dead by Thief.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 8.—Special Agent J. S. Webster of the Seaboard Air Line railroad was shot and seriously wounded by a negro thief at an early hour at the freight yard located at Honeymoon, about three miles west of this city.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

Don't "knock" the home team if an error is made. Rather cheer the louder.

Support the team by your attendance and show the management that you appreciate its efforts to give a first-class article and the best of attractions.

Teams from Plainfield, Newark, Jersey City, Elizabeth, Paterson and the Oranges will compose the league.

Several local players including Jimmie Montross and George Allen, who will form the battery, have been engaged by Manager Reilly, of the New Brunswick team, to play Sunday ball at Riverside Park. The opening game will be on Sunday with the Washington A. A., of Newark. Mr. Reilly has sixteen candidates to select from. Spent $3,000.00 on His Rheumatism.

This tremendous sum was paid to several different doctors whom he tried by Mr. E. D. Bassford, of Bassford & Coburn, of Kansas City, and yet he says "they accomplished no more than to ruin my digestive organs and make a first-class soft soap tub out of my stomach, with their salicylates and potashes of several varieties."

Fortunately, Mr. Bassford was prevailed upon to try Volta Powder—largely because it did not have to be swallowed—and he was most enthusiastic over his simple cure, after all that he had gone through with for nothing. His leg and foot pains disappeared, and he has no more rheumatism. And Volta Powder costs only $1.00. Sent by mail anywhere by the American Volta Co., 13 Astor place, New York city. Sold by L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street, John P. Powers, Somerset street and Craig place.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Mrs. Isaac L. Miller and Miss Miller, of Watchung avenue, are expected home next week. Mrs. Miller's health is greatly improved.

Mrs. William H. Sterling, of First place, has entirely recovered from the effects of an accident she had during the latter part of the winter by a fall on her way home from church.

Miss Huntington, of Franklin place, gave a "bridge" party yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Augustus Zerega Huntington. The decorations were yellow, spring flowers being used. There were seven tables. Mrs. Frank Bennett won first prize, Miss Mary Wells second prize, Miss Florence Waring third prize, while Mrs. Augustus Z. Huntington won the consolation prize. This afternoon Miss Huntington will give a euchre party for Mrs. Huntington.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Mary C. Moore and daughter, who have been spending the winter at Daytona, Fla., have returned home.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lindsay, of West Front street, accompanied by her daughter and granddaughter, sailed today on the Steamer Caledonian, for Glasgow, Scotland. They will be away all summer at least and their return is indefinite. They will also make a tour of England.

Cannon Cartridges Scared Cops.

A dynamite scare upset Findlay's saloon, East Second sreett, and police headquarters yesterday afternoon. Fred Moore, the barkeeper at the saloon, looked into a box of old blank cannon cartridges that Jack Hogan, who does odd jobs for a living, had left with him in the morning, and thought they were dynamite sticks. Findlay carried the stuff at arm's length to police headquarters. The cops on duty there lived in momentary dread of a bust-up until Doorman O'Gorman, who braved death to investigate the contents of the box, punctured the scare. Hogan got the cartridges while cleaning out an old cellar.

Recognition Services.

Charles W. McCutchen will preside at the recognition services at Faith Chapel tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, George H. Bachelor and Kenneth Robbie will make brief addresses. A special musical programme will be another attractive feature.

Military Crack Shots in Contest.

Captain Martin accompanied members of C. K left in his auto this morning for Princeton, where a five men team will compete with Co. L, of Princeton, this afternoon. These two Companies are at the head of all regiments in New Jersey for work at the Sea Girt range.

Brown Bailed.

Edmund Brown, colored, held for the Grand Jury three weeks ago for slashing his brother, James Brown, with a razor, was released under bail at Elizabeth yesterday, through the efforts of his lawyer, W. G. DeMeza.

LAST PAYMENT ON NEW COURT HOUSE

FREEHOLDERS AUTHORIZE IT AND ACT ON WEST END AVENUE BRIDGE.

The Board of Freeholders voted yesterday to pay the John H. Parker Company, of New York, the contractors who built the courthouse, a final payment on the job of $60,013.55, less 5 per cent. of the contract price, which will be retained for one year by County Collector Wood, so as to pay for any repairs that the structure might require in that period.

A committee of five was appointed to supervise the construction of a new bridge over Green brook at West End avenue, between Plainfield and North Plainfield.

The Elizabeth District Court was given temporary use of the smaller one of the two court rooms in the new county building. It was announced that before long this city would establish a District Court of its own here.

Because the Rahway Valley Railroad Company did, in the middle of a rainy night, recently, lay rails across Westfield avenue, about five miles from Elizabeth, Freeholder Meisell called the attention of the freeholders, at its meeting yesterday, to a gross violation of an agreement. In the opinion of County Attorney W. R. Coddington, the company had preceded in a high-handed manner. There appears to be no law to prevent railroads from crossing at grade in the county, and some action will be taken before the meeting next week.

P. H. S. OPENS SEASON

Wins From Erasmus Hall and Loses to Brooklyn High.

TWO CLOSE GAMES

Plainfield Lads Make a Good Showing—Rooters Gave Good Support.

After playing two games, the Plainfield High School nine returned from Brooklyn, Saturday night, accompanied by about forty ardent rooters. In the morning they played the Erasmus Hall aggregation at Flushing, L. I. The latter club was late in arriving, so it was agreed to play but seven innings. Burt, of P. H. S., opposed Erasmus' best twirler, Sibley. During the first four innings each team continued to keep even in runs, but in the fifth a couple of errors with Burt's failure to locate the plate put Erasmus a run ahead of the locals. In the next inning, however, Smith went in to pitch for P. H. S. and although he was too wild, he managed to keep his opponents from getting any more runs. The seventh inning came and still Erasmus was one run ahead. P. H. S. came to the bat and singles by Craig, Banks and Thompson together with Freeman's sacrifice hit gave the visitors two runs and put them one run ahead of the home team. As Erasmus was unable to find Smith's delivery in their half of the seventh inning, P. H. S. won the game by the score of 7 to 6.

After lunch the local team went to Brighton Oval and before a crowd of about 500 school boys was defeated by the Brooklyn High School team. This nine was last year's Eastern scholastic champions. In the first inning P. H. S. piled up six runs. In the next inning the Brooklyn team sent O'Connel, "the boy wonder," into the box, and although the fellows from this city did not hit him as frequently they managed to pile up five runs off his delivery during the remainder of the game.

COMPANY K TEAM BEATS PRINCETON MARKSMEN

WINS A MATCH SHOOT BY SCORE OF 693 TO 638.

A six-man team from Company K, of this city, went to Princeton Saturday afternoon and administered defeat in a match shoot to a similar team from Company L. The Plainfielders rolled up a total score of 693 against 638 made by their opponents, the range being at 200, 500 and 800 yards. The result came as a surprise to Company K's representatives as Company L had the pick of its shooters out and two of the Plainfield men had never tried their luck at 800 yards. The local team comprised Captain W. B. Martin, Sergeant A. I. Littell, Sergeant Nathaniel Hart, Corporals Arthur Phillips, James Conklin and Robert Goldsack.

Following the shoot, the teams were the guests at dinner of Sergeant Sylvester at the Instructors Bachelors Club at Princeton University. From there they adjourned to the armory of Company, where the Princeton militiamen entertained the Plainfielders. The trip to and from this city was made in Captain Martin's automobile.

A BURGLAR INVASION.

South Plainfield's Quietude Again Disturbed by Nocturnal Visitor.

Effecting an entrance by the breaking and removal of a window, a burglar invaded the home of Jeremiah TenEyck act South Plainfield, Friday night. He was evidently so anxious to get what he could in the least possible time that TenEyck and his daughter were awakened by the noise he made and rushed down stairs. The intruder heard them coming and made a flying leap through the window and disappeared on the run.

This is the first visit that the villagers have had from burglars in several months and they were beginning to feel that a long spell of quietude was due. The TenEyck affair has placed them on the alert again and the next one will undoubtedly receive a warm reception.

MONEY CAN BE TAINTED

Rev. C. E. Herring on Ethics of Church Benefactions.

APPLICATION APPARENT

If John D Has Quit Sinning and is Sorry His Money May be Good.

Had the members of the A. B. C. F. M., of the Congregational church of the United States been present at the First Presbyterian church during the sermon of Rev. C. E. Herring last night, they would have heard some comment on tainted money that might have helped them decide on the ethics involved in the $100,000 John D. Rockefeller gave them. Mr. Herring was careful to say that he preached only general principles of religion, and that his hearers might apply them as they saw fit in everyday life, but the chief application in current affairs was obvious.

"Money never talcted?" asked Mr. Herring, introducing the $100,000 thought after a reference to the benefactions of men of millions. "Well, I know of a church in Mexico City where a certain band of robbers goes to pray regularly before starting on a trip of brigandage. Then they go forth to rob—perhaps to murder—and return to give part of their spoil to the church.

"Now, I don't think I would want to receive any of that money.

"An editorial in a New York paper, last week, said 'When in doubt, take the trick.' That, I believe is a gambling term. Well, that may be good doctrine in gambling, but it is not good in religion. Scripture says that whatsoever is not of the faith is sin. When in doubt of the morality of a thing, religion teaches, let it alone.

"I am preaching generalities—you know to what they apply. They can be applied every day. I am preaching principles that I must preach until my last day.

"God's judgment of these things is based on the heart. A man gives millions. His motive I cannot judge, perhaps I cannot see. But God tells me he sees, and perhaps it is worse for the man because of his millions for they may be used to hide his heart.

"The woman who washed the feet of Jesus with ointment is said to have purchased that ointment with the result of her sin. She was not reproved, but do not think for a minute that the Lord condoned the sin. He looked, with the eyes of God, into her heart, and saw the evidence of sorrow for sin and contrition. He said, 'Go, and sin no more.'

"Quite different would be the case of brigands outside of Jerusalem, who gathered money by robbing travelers, perhaps murdering them. They might give to the Lord, paying the expenses of the Apostles who went out on missionary journeys, and continue their brigandage.

"Would it not matter how that money was got?"

FUNERAL OF WILLIAM NEWMAN.

Services at Mother's Home Attended by a Large Gathering.

Attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends, a funeral service over the body of William T. Newman was held yesterday afternoon a the home of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth DeForest, of West Second street. The gathering included delegations from the local fire department and Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., of both of which he had been a member. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss had charge of the service and during its progression, two solos were rendered by Mrs. John Manley. The floral tributes were numerous and included set pieces from the two organizations.

Interment was made in Evergreen cemetery, the pall bearers being Charles Graves, James McLean and Theodore Larew, from the firemen, and John Beekman, S. C. Terry and J. H. Adams from Benevolent Council.

Hotel Improvements Planned.

J. A. Staats, the new owner of the Hotel Iroquois property, has plans under consideration for improving the same when he secures possession of it. He proposes to make extensive alterations which will include the placing of two stores on the Park avenue side of the building, and the transfer of his dining-room and sleeping rooms above to an addition to be built on East Second street. The plans will call for a handsome dining-room with every convenience, while the stores will be modern in every respect.

INFURIATED HUSBAND HURLS MISSILES AT WIFE

SCALDS HER HANDS BY THROWING BOILING WATER UPON HER.

Frank Schaefer, of Duer street, who has already served a term at Somerville for wife beating, made a desperate attack on his spouse yesterday, following a heated quarrel which they had at their home. Infuriated almost to an insane degree, he threw boiling water upon her, hurled the stove lifter and other missiles in her direction and threatened to shoot her. The woman finlly made her escape and ran to Chief Marshall Weiss' home, with her husband closely pursuing her.

Schaefer fled before the officer could get him and remained away all afternoon. He returned to his home last night, and after barricading all the doors, hid himself in an upper room. Chief Weiss had been on the watch and gaining entrance to the cellar, made his way by degrees to Schaefer's retreat. He offered no resistance when caught and was locked up for trial tonight. The water he threw upon his wife, scalded her hands and she was badly bruised in addition.

NEWARK CONFERENCE WILL CLOSE TONIGHT

CO-OPERATE PLAN FOR FUND TO SUPPORT AGED MINISTERS.

The session of the Newark Conference on Saturday was held in secret, an effort being made to increase the fund for the support of the aged ministers. The plan suggested is that the active ministers contribute toward this fund in proportion to the size of their salaries. This, it is believed, will enable the old ministers to end their days in comfort.

Bishop E. G. Andrews presided at the afternoon session, which like the morning session, was open only to members of the conference. Yesterday a large number of meetings were held in the Methodist churches, in the interest of the various deparments of church work. The anniversary sermon was delivered by Bishop Berry in the morning. Rev. Albert B. Richardson, of Dover, preached the annual missionary sermon and there was the ordination of the elders received into full membership. The church societies held their anniversary services at which there were special preachers.

The conference is being continued today with the routine order, and it is expected that the session will close tonight with the appointments, which are of the greatest interest to both the pastors and the members in general.

Ireland's Own Band Tonight.

Ireland's Own Band, the famous musical organization brought to America expressly for the St. Louis Exposition, came to Plainfield today for two appearances at the Casino, this afternoon and tonight. Indications point to big attendances both times, as the fame of the musicians has preceded them. The band appeared at the New York theatre before several thousand people last night, and made one of the best hits of the season. The programme at the Casino will be almost the same as given there and will include the fascinating Irish jig and reel dancing by the Kelley trio, pipe selections by Pat Tenney, the world's champion, and vocal and instrumental soloists.

Brown Out on Bail.

Edward Brown, who slashed his brother William with a razor in a fight at their home on West Fourth street, several weeks ago, was released from the county jail, Saturday, on $300 bail, application for it having been made for it by his counsel, William G. DeMesa. His case will be considered by the next Grand Jury.

Church Society's All-Day Session.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will hold an all-day meeting in the church, tomorrow.

FAIL TO REACH MASSES

Churches Not in Touch With the People, Says Minister.

CONDITIONS IN THIS CITY

Rev. Phil A. Parsons Says 10,000 Good People Here Are Not in Sympathy With Churches.

Rev. Phil A. Parsons, pastor of the Christian Church, Disciples of Christ, preached a special sermon to non church goers last night, taking as his subject "Why Christianity is Ineffective." Incidently he said:

"One is in danger of being classed as a pessimist who questions the effectiveness of methods in practice, but the most optimistic of religious enthusiasts must acknowledge that in a large measure Christianity is failing to reach the masses for whom Christ died. Take for instance the so called irreligious classes of Plainfield. Out of the 26,000 inhabitants a most liberal estimate must draw the limit of actual church membership at 10,000. Possibly 6,000 would include all under the age for esponsibility and the truly irreligious. The remaining 10,000 are the upright, self-respecting men and women, whom we all honor and esteem, who are, nevertheless, not in sympathy with the churches of today. For this lack of support of Christian principles there must be reasons, many of which we fear lie within the churches themselves.

"Lack of harmony within the church body, which is supposed to be a sort of commonwealth of matters religious, wherein the members dwell together in brotherly love, is so prevalent that 'quarreling like church members' has become a common byword familiar to all.

"Insincerity of professing Christians is responsible to a very great extent. Too many leading forbidding lives and indulging in questionable business practices seek refuge from public opinion under the mantle of prominence in Christian work. The critical eye of the intelligent observer is quick to discern the dead men's bones within the whited sepulchre.

"Pride and formality in worship, and the lavish expenditure of wealth in the furnishing of places of worship and the apparel and equipage of the worshippers make our churches uncongenial for large masses of humble yet highly respectable persons. Selfishness among church members exists in striking contrast to the doctrines of fraternity which they profess to follow; while the degeneration of many places of worship into a form of social club has debarred many who sought the house of God in a spirit of devotion.

"The stamp of disfavor which the church has placed upon many forms of amusement has been a great stumbling block in the way of progress. It is gratifying to note that this is gradually being removed. We must refine our amusements and acknowledge them as respectable instead of seeking to prohibit them altogether.

"Lastly we wish to mention the disastrous influence exerted by the present aspect of the ministry as a profession. At any of our larger theological seminaries one finds many young men who have entered the ministry merely in a spirit of commercialism, instead of one of obedience to a divinely inspired call to the service of the lowly Nazarene, in the hope of doing something to better the lives of fallen humanity. We forget that Christ was with the rich only in his death, and the presence of poor and destitute in the midst of wealthy congregations is a mockery of the very principles upon which the church exists.

"But come, let us reason together. Is this the fault of Jesus Christ? Is his blood the less powerful to save? Is your duty to yourselves and to Christ nullified by these conditions? Is this an excuse to you for the neglect of your own soul's salvation? It is high time that the followers of Christ restored the pristine simplicity and usefulness of the faith, for a world is yet to be rescued from sin and crime and saved for God and truth."

First One of the Season.

While engaged in a practice game of ball at Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon, Elston Leonard, of Madison avenue, was struck on the head by a foul fly from "Jimmy" Beisel's bat. A deep gash was inflicted which necessitated a trip to Muhlenberg Hospital for treatment.

PLAINFIELD BOY WINS PRIZE AT PRINCETON

C. AMES BROOKS DISTANCES ALL COMPETITORS IN POETRY WRITING.

The only prize which went to a Jerseyman in the awards made at Princeton University, last week, was secured by C. Ames Brooks, of this city, son of Charles E. Brooks, of West Seventh street. In a competition of poem writing, with hundreds of students striving for the goal, his was declared the best, thus winning $50 and the honor so much sought.

Brooks is a graduate of the Plainfield High School and even in his younger days was regarded as a fine writer of poetry, a distinction which he still holds among the undergraduates at Princeton. He has been during the past year a member of the board of the Nassau Literary Magazine, contributing at frequent intervals, high class work, which has received very favorable mention from the faculty critics of the magazine. The contest for the poetry prize this year was keener than in many years past and Brooks has been highly complimented on his success.

BEEF STARTS SOARING TOWARD THE MOON AGAIN

RETAIL ADVANCE OF TWO CENTS ON THE POUND.

Skied prices came into fashion in the beef market again this morning. The beef company jumped the quotation three and a half cents a pound per hundredweight, and most of the retailers lost no time in following suit, although not quite so heavily. The average advance to the consumer is two cents a pound. The retailers who haven't put up the price yet wont hold off more than a day or two at the most.

According to a man at the Union Beef Company this morning, the advance is due to the scarcity of cattle in the West. Hints of the trouble to come was received by the consumer, through the retailer several days ago.

The whole blame for the advance, the retailers say, lies with the beef combine. The latter shoves the price up, and the retailer can only protect himself by advancing in the same ratio.

"Sure the price of meat will go up," said D. C. Smalley, of Smalley Bros., one of the firms that haven't put up the rate yet. "We haven't made the increase yet, but we must come to it. The beef company is making us pay three and a half cents a pound on the hundred weight, including fat, bone and everything else on which we can't get an increase at this end at all. The load is too much for us to carry."

"How long do you think the increase will last?"

"How can we tell? Until cattle get more plentiful."

He was standing on a ladder painting when his feet slipped and he fell a distance of twenty-five feet. He was removed to his home and Drs. Zeglio and Hughes were summoned. After an examination it was learned that no bones were broken, but the feet are badly sprained. Mr. Sutton will be detained at home some time.

TRIP COST HIM AN ARM

Philadelphia Youth Brought Here on Train, Badly Hurt.

JUMP FROM FREIGHT

Scared by Parting of Cars at Skillman—Companion Escaped Uninjured.

When the 2:17 train from Philadelphia stopped at the North Avenue station this morning, William Davidson, seventeen years old, who lives in Philadelphia, was taken from it with his left arm badly mangled and his head cut and bruised. With him was William Mitchell, sixteen years old, also of Philadelphia.

The latter said they boarded a freight train in Philadelphia at 10 o'clock for a trip to New York. At Skillman, this State, the train broke in two, and the boys became scared and jumped. Davidson plunged down an embankment, but Mitchell rolled along the level. His head was slightly cut, but he escaped other injury. The crew of the freight, which stopped when the train parted, flagged the passenger train and put the boys aboard.

Davidson was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, and his companion was taken to the police station. The doctors had to cut Davidson's arm off this morning, but they expect him to recover. Mitchell was released by Judge Runyon when he learned from the hospital that there was no danger of death in Davidson's case.

Davidson's parents were notified by the police soon after the boy was brought here, and his father came down from Philadelphia early this morning. Mitchell had money enough to return to Philadelphia, and went back there after seeing his chum at the hospital.

Bike on a Jag.

Roundsman Flynn, sent out in answer to a call from an outraged citizen, found Michael Garland lying in the roadway of West Front street yesterday afternoon, with a jag and a bicycle. Michael said he got the load in Dunellen, and bought the wheel after he got the load. He had never ridden a bicycle, but he felt equal to the task. The wheel had its own ideas on the subject, and put them into execution. When the cop found Michael he had been dumped from the saddle seventeen times, and felt no further desire to move. In court this morning he pleaded guilty to all counts, but Judge Runyon suspended sentence because he hadn't been in court for nine years.

Dr. Rush Rheese, president of Rochester University, which among the other speakers was Rev. Dr. T. E. Vassar, of Elizabeth, as well as Dr. Chambliss. There was a large attendance of Baptist ministers including many from New York and suburban towns.

THE FORUM.

Plainfield, N. J., April 5, 1905

Editor, The Daily Press:

An interesting feature of the new tax law for New Jersey, which effects municipalities of 50,000 people or less, will be that while the maximum rate will be $1.50 unless placed at a high amount by vote of the municipalities; the assessment on all personal property cannot be increased logically; it would be hard indeed to figure than because the rate is reduced by legislation that personal property becomes more valuable, so that those who pay on personal property will benefit by the new law. And it seems to point out the way for the total exemption of personal property at no distant date.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Already practice has been begun on music that will be used at the Easter exercises at the Plainfield H. S. Among the selections upon which the pupils are being drilled are the "Bison King," a cantata in four parts, "God Hath Appointed a Day," and "Break Forth Into Joy," by Barnaby. From the way in which the students are working on the music, the Easter exercises at the school promise to greatly surpass those of former years.

At the regular monthly meeting of the boys' athletic association Thursday morning some important business was transacted. Manager Lapsley placed the names of Joe Gavett and George Bentley before the board as assistant business managers of the baseball team. Gavett will act as first assistant manager and Bentley will be second assistant manager, besides acting as manager of the scrub team. P. Collier seems to be the most likely candidate for captain of that team, which will probably be a strong one. Many of the candidates of the first team who have failed to make good there will constitute the personnel of the scrub team. Among the candidates are: Bogart, Rockwell, Collier, VanDeventer, Walsh, Leichtentritt, Bently, Gavett, Leiseaux and Palmer. The team will probably enter the city junior league as in former years.

LITERARY.

Anticipating the coming camping season, the leading article in Recreation for April is "Summer Camps and Campers," by Arnold Bartlett Parker. The story is filled with illustrations and contains many practical hints for the tenderfoot and his wife in the woods and on the waters. "In the Country of the Black Sheep" is a story by B. H. Brown, covering a trip through British Columbia, after the Ovus Stonei, the so-called American black sheep discovered by Andrew J. Stone several years ago.

The pig iron produced in the United States in one year would make a column twice the height and size of the Eiffel Tower. The iron and steel rails, if made into one rail, would be eighty-one feet wide at the base, just as high, and a mile and a fifth long. The coke used in blast furnaces would form a column four hundred feet square and six thousand five hundred feet high, and the limestone used would make a column two hundred feet square and five thousand five hundred feet high.—From "Success Magazine."

A discussion of "American Politics" by Henry Litchfield West opens the April-June issue of The Forum. It is naturally concerned in the main with the policy and administration of President Roosevelt. A companion article on "Foreign Affairs" by A. Maurice Low touches upon several European problems, but lays special stress upon the internal and external fortunes of Russia. A. D. Noyes analyzes the most notable episodes of the last three months in "Finance," and is followed by a review of recent progress in "Applied Science" contributed by Henry Harrison Suplee. H. W. Herwill's paper on "Literature" reviews the most important recent biographies. Present tendencies in "Music" are critically considered by Joseph Bohn. "The Educational Outlook" is discussed by Ossian H. Lang.

A RUSSIAN ARMADA

Rojestvensky's Huge Fleet Passes Singapore.

JAPANESE SCOUTS IN OFFING.

Czar's War Squadrons Presented Magnificent Spectacle, but Bore Evidence of Long Voyage. Expect Togo's Attack.

SINGAPORE, April 10.—The Russian Baltic fleet passed here on Saturday afternoon, heading northeastward, and is supposed to be making for Saigon, French Cochin China. A Japanese squadron of twenty-two ships is believed to be off Horsburg light, thirty miles away.

The two fleets may get in touch any moment and begin a naval battle upon the outcome of which the fate of the war may depend. There is great excitement here and at Penang in anticipation of a naval combat in Malayan waters.

Upon hearing of the passage of the Baltic fleet the British China squadron at Hongkong prepared to put to sea.

Admiral Rojestvensky's squadron of fifty-one vessels was led by three converted former Hamburg-American line vessels. Then came the cruisers, colliers, battleships, etc. The colliers were mostly in the center of the fleet. The decks of the warships were coal laden, while the colliers and the former liners were light of draft.

The most important fighting vessels of the squadron, including the battleships Kniaz Souvaroff, Alexander II., Borodino and Orel, with their complement of cruisers, torpedo boat destroyers, etc., were not with the fleet, and their whereabout is totally unknown.

A French steamer came in here during the day with a sailor belonging to the battleship Admiral Nakhimoff, who fell overboard and was picked up off Mulacca after having been twelve hours in the water.

The fleet passed seven miles out, preceded by twelve warships, which probably were Admiral Toga's scouts. Nothing is known of Toga's base, but his full fleet must be somewhere in the vicinity.

The great ships, steaming slowly at eight knots an hour, four abreast, presented a striking spectacle.

The vessels, however, bore evidence of the effects of their long sea voyage and at the water line showed seaweed a foot long.

The Russian consul visited and gave dispatches to a torpedo boat.

The fleet consisted of six battleships, twelve cruisers, eight torpedo boat destroyers, three volunteer fleet vessels, sixteen colliers, one salvage ship and one hospital ship and four steamers.

The fleet did not stop to receive dispatches or to consult with the consul. Subsequently the consul visited Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's ship, talking to him from a launch. He did not board the vessel, but was cheered heartily on leaving the side of the ship. The consul gave to the fleet news of the fall of Mukden.

The vessels are burning soft coal, and a tremendous smoke was visible for miles. Gangways were not lowered, and nobody was permitted on board the vessels. No news was vouchsafed. The only launches allowed to approach the fleet were those of the Russian consul and of the Associated Press. Natives lined the sea front and were greatly excited.

Artillerymen and submarine miners were kept at their posts all day manning the guns and mines. As the fleet did not touch the harbor limits, no salutes were fired. The squadron disappeared about 5 o'clock in the afternoon amid great clouds of smoke on the eastern horizon.

STRIKE IN THE CAUCASUS.

Official Afraid to Run Troop Trains. Ambassador Meyer Arrives.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 10.—G. V. L. Meyer, the new American ambassador to St. Petersburg, made his first call yesterday on Foreign Minister Lamsdorff, who extended an unusually cordial greeting. The exchanges, however, were devoid of significance and neither war nor peace were mentioned. Emperor Nicholas probably will receive Mr. Meyer on Wednesday, when the latter will present his letters of credence.

Generals Linevitch and Kuropatkin have telegraphed Emperor Nicholas recording the events of the anniversary fete of the Immaculate Conception in Manchuria and the reviews of the troops there, who, the generals represent, are burning with the desire to maintain the glory of Russian arms. The dispatches conveyed messages of devotion and loyalty to the throne.

Dispatches from the Caucasus this morning paint the railway situation there in alarming colors. The authorities are afraid to run trains at night lest they might be wrecked. Striking section hands seize trains and travel up an down the line forcing other employees to cease work.

Cruisers Ordered to Sea.

LONDON, April 10.—St. Petersburg advices this morning say that Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's entrance into the China sea has been followed by orders for the cruisers Gromoboi, Rossia and Bogatyr, which have been ready for some time at Vladivostok, to put to sea. Whether it is the intention to send them south is not known. Naval experts express the opinion that Rojestvensky, having now safely navigated the straits, instead of sailing north to meet the Japanese he can afford to calmly await Vice Admiral Nebogatoff with his division of the squadron, who could arrive there in about three weeks.

"NO GRATITUDE TO RETURN."

Rev. Dr. Hillis Referred to Rockefeller Gift to Missions.

NEW YORK, April 10.—In the course of his sermon in Plymouth church, Brooklyn, the Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis referred to the gift of $100,000 made by John D. Rockefeller to the American board of foreign missions and to Mr. Rockefeller's son. He said in part:

"The saddest words that have been written in this generation were spoken before Brown university by a young man who is to inherit one of the greatest fortunes in this country. They were spoken in defense of the trusts. Listen to them. 'The American Beauty rose can be produced in all its splendor only by sacrificing the early buds that grow up around it.'

"The rose has 1,000 buds, and in order to produce the American Beauty the gardner goes around it with a knife and snips 999 in order that all the strength and beauty may be forced into one bloom. In his economic argument this young man tells the working classes brutally that 999 small business men must be snuffed out of existence in order that his American Beauty, the trust, may be produced. Listen to Christ. 'Let the strong bear the burdens of the weak," and again, 'Give and it shall be given unto you.'

"These words in defense of the trusts are the most heart breaking things in literature to those who know what is going to come in the future. Can you wonder that after that when a man gives gifts we have no gratitude to return."

RIOT AT SCHOENVILLE.

Three Men Shot When Detectives Clashed With Mob of 1,200.

PITTSBURG, April 10.—Three men were shot, one probably fatally, and one woman was injured in a riot at Schoenville, near McKees Rocks. The rioting was the result of a clash between fifteen detectives and about 1,200 foreign residents of Schoenville.

Mrs. Agnes Sadna, a Polish woman, over the arrest of whom the riot started, was bruised in the scuffle, but escaped arrest.

The riot was the climax of a series of smaller riots and fights which took place in Schoenville during the last two weeks. During the arrest of some coal pickers last Friday by the Lake Erie railroad detectives Mrs. Sadna interfered and caused a small riot. The detectives, four in number, were driven out of the town by a mob of Hungarians and Poles.

PRESIDENT IN CAMP

Hunting Party Bid Goodby to Civilization.

AT PANTHER SPRINGS, ON RED RIVER

Reception at Frederick a Great Ovation—Brief Speech In the Boomers' Paradise—Asks For Fair Show For Fun and Jack Rabbits.

FREDERICK, Okla., April 10.—President Roosevelt is now separated from civilization for a long hunting trip. He is in camp with his comrades in the chase at Panther Springs, on the Red river, fourteen miles east of Frederick.

Great preparations have been made for the hunt, which started this morning and will continue for some days.

Mr. Roosevelt was in a happy frame of mind when he left Frederick. He looked forward with keen pleasure to the outdoor life which he will lead for the next few days.

The president is accompanied on his expedition by General S. B. M. Young, Colonel Cecil Lyon, Captain Burke Burnett, an ex-Confederate; Sloan Simpson, a member of Roosevelt's rough rider regiment; Lieutenant G. R. Fortesque, Dr. Alexander Lambert of New York, J. R. Abernathy, a wolf catcher; Captain Patrick Dooling and Captain William McDonald, guides. Dooling was guide of General Grenville M. Dodge when the latter laid out the Texas Pacific railroad. McDonald is a captain of the Texas rangers. Both are familiar with the country hereabouts and know all about the game too. They were cordially received when they boarded the special at Fort Worth.

The president's camp was early astir. The party is hunting in the close tract of land thirty-six miles square leased by Captain Burnett from the Kiowa and the Comanche Indians. The party will not get into Texas. Mr. Roosevelt and his party were conveyed to Panther Springs in vehicles provided for the occasion, teams, saddle horses, greyhounds and staghounds awaiting them at camp.

At Frederick, Okla., President Roosevelt received a great ovation and spoke in part as follows:

"The next time I come to Oklahoma I trust I will come to a state, and it won't be my fault if this is not so. I greet the veterans of the civil war who came here to greet the president, because we are one people and one country and not to be divided forever. I am glad to see Quanah Parker, who has done so well with his farm. One thing of which I am proud is that I have tried to give a fair deal to every man.

"Give the red man the same chance as the white. This country is founded on the doctrine of giving each man a fair show to see what there is in him. I have traveled four days in Texas, and I am now in what will soon be a great state of the Union. There is nowhere I feel more at home than in a town like this. I have confidence in the character of the men and women who have come here. Ever since the Revolution we have been making new states. Now we are about at the close of this period. I do not feel that I have to explain my policies to the Oklahoma people. Now I want four days of play. I hear you have plenty of jack rabbits and coyotes here. Give me a fair show to have as much fun as even a president is entitled to. Goodby and good luck."

In a suit of rooms on the parlor floor of the Hotel Worth at Fort Worth the executive seat of the United States government has been temporarily established. Official mail intended for the eyes of President Roosevelt is directed to this apartment, and in the absence of the president on his hunting trip over the Kiowa and Comanche reservation in Oklahoma such mail is given attention by Secretary Loeb. Most of this business will be acted on by Secretary Loeb and directed to various departments in Washington, where it originated. That which requires the personal supervision of the president will have to wait until Thursday, for it is not until then that communication will be had with the hunting party.

After delivering the president at Frederick, Okla., into the hands of western friends, who have undertaken to furnish him with wholesome recreation for a few days, the official escort boarded the presidential special and returned to Fort Worth.

Secretary Loeb expects to receive word from the president to run the special train to Frederick on Thursday and on that day to start for western Colorado, whither the president will go to find larger game than abounds on the Red river, in Oklahoma.

According to present plans, the public part of the western trip is ended. It is not expected that any stops will be made until the president's train reaches Colorado Springs. There a stay of two hours is necessary, but the time is not for speechmaking.

The President has gone "back to the woods" but not as a defeated candidate.

Sure sign of the summer season—newspapers are discussing a Russian republic.

The cranks will be let loose for the season on Saturday. P. B. A. begins its schedule.

The Trenton State Gazette says that some newspaper men are determined to write Stokes's speeches for him. Probably they forget that Franklin Murphy is no longer Governor.

Dr. Osler, of Johns Hopkins University, has a rival in Dr. Taylor, of the Virginia Medical College, who declares that the soul dies with the brain. If some of these learned men would quit their nonsense and tell us what's the cause of cerebro-spinal meningitis and the cure for tuberculosis they would be of more service to mankind.

FAITH CHAPEL NOW FIRST BAPTIST BRANCH

FORMAL RECOGNITION AT SPECIAL SERVICES YESTERDAY.

Services in recognition of the re-organization of Faith chapel were held at the chapel, last night, when the members of the First Baptist church, of which it is a branch, joined in the exercises. The chapel was attractively decorated with palms, ferns and flowers.

Charles W. McCutchen, as president of the Board of Trustees of the chapel, was in charge, and after an organ voluntary by W. H. Conger, an anthem by the chorus choir, invocation by Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor of the chapel, Mr. McCutchen made a few appropriate remarks in which he reviewed the early history of the organization which began fourteen years ago. He referred pleasantly to Pastor Musson, who has endeared himself to the hearts of his people.

L. W. Randolph, superintendent of the Sunday-school, then read the Scripture selection, followed with prayer by H. E. Needham and an anthem by the choir. George H. Batcheler, superintendent of the First Baptist Sunday-school, made a short address, in which he referred to the substantial growth of the chapel, how the work started in a tent under the auspices of the Young People's League of the home church. His principal point was not to despise small beginnings. Kenneth Robbie, boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A., was expected to speak, but was detained.

The concluding address was made by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, who extended the greetings of his church to Pastor Musson and his people. He spoke especially of friendship and said that his church would do all that is possible to assist in the chapel work. He said that it was simply the establishing of another branch, that instead of there being one minister there would be two, and yet all would be identified with the home church.

Assisting in the musical part of the service was Frank Mahlen, who accompanied Mr. Conger on his violin in the voluntary and during the offertory. The services closed with the benediction by Dr. Chambliss.

Faith chapel will begin its work now under the new order of things with a membership of nearly seventy-five and there are a number waiting to unite with the congregation.

DR. SNODGRASS LEAVES

Farewell Sermon to First M. E. Church Congregation.

GOES TO PERTH AMBOY

Popular Divine Ends An Eight Years' Pastorate—Has Accomplished Much.

The large congregation that gathered at the First M. E. church yesterday morning to hear the farewell sermon by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, was visibly affected by his remarks which were full of tenderness and love. He took his text from Second Kings, 2:15:—"And when the sons of the prophets which were to view at Jerico saw him, they said, The Spirit of Elijah doth rest on Elisha. And they came to meet him, and bowed themselves to the ground before him."

Dr. Snodgrass remarked at the beginning of his discourse that he did not consider the service in the nature of a farewell, but rather the parting of relationship for a time. He referred to the harmonious feeling that has existed between pastor and people during his eight years' pastorate, adding that he would continue to love them and he hoped that he would be held in the same regard.

As Elisha took up the work of Elijah, so another would take up his work, continued Dr. Snodgrass. He spoke of the different work for which different persons are suited and of the fact that one prepares the foundation upon which others must build, and he hoped that his successor would be successful in this field of work.

Dr. Snodgrass said that he had not accomplished all that he had hoped to since coming to Plainfield, but that he was glad that he came here and was able to do what he could to advance and further the interests of God's Kingdom.

During the eight years' pastorate of Dr. Snodgrass at the First M. E. church, he has endeared himself to the hearts of his people as well as the people of the city generally. He has been an earnest and indefatigable worker and has increased the membership of the church, as well as the revenue, materially.

There was special music by the quartette choir during the service and at the close Rev. Dr. J. K. Bryan pronounced the benediction.

500 DOLLARS

is a fairly large amount of money. How to get it is a question, and how to take care of it after you do get it is another. The way to get it is to save, and deposit a certain sum each month. By allowing the interest to compound semi-annually, the principle is surprisingly increased. We take care of the large and small deposits and pay 3½ per cent. interest.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Active opposition from the W. C. T. U. backed by the church people, it is said, has developed against the application of Edward Carney, for a retail liquor license for his place on Chestnut street. The protest of those interested in keeping Mr. Carney's place from becoming an inn or saloon is said to have been laid before Judge Strong in such terms as to make it plain that the fight against the proposed barroom will be waged to a finish. Judge Strong is holding the license matter up until April 18. He put it over until that date, when arguments on it will be heard.

The Rev. H. N. Jordan, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, supplied the pulpit at the M. E. church yesterday. The congregation will know who their new pastor will be on Tuesday; Bishop Berry will announce the pastoral appointments Monday night.

Peter Apgar attended the meeting of the Laymen's Association at the Newark Conference Friday night. He was appointed a delegate from Dunellen by Rev. S. K. Doolittle.

The New Market baseball team is getting into shape rapidly. The players practice nearly every evening, and fast moves mark their work.

The annual meeting of the Building and Loan Association will be held Thursday night. Three directors and an auditor are to be elected.

Mrs. Lena Ryno, of South Plainfield, will make her home hereafter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Harris.

Miss Gertrude Sabine has returned from a visit to friends in Linden.

Emil Nelson has recovered from the injury to his hand.

Clement Dixon visited friends in Raritan Saturday.

Edward Limepeter is working in Port Reading.

A. A. Lake is recovering from his severe illness.

The Oakley property is to be improved.

Mrs. Jane Apgar is still very sick.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The automobile drivers are beginning the spring sport at a fast clip, many passing through town yesterday at a 30 and 40 mile clip. The corner at the hotel is a dangerous spot, hardly a Sunday passes during the season that there are not more than two or three narrow escapes for both pedestrians and horses. An arrest or two would do much towards putting an end to the reckless speeding.

"What Does Christ's Life Show Us About the Father?" was the topic discussed by the B. Y. P. U. members at the weekly meeting held last night in the church parlors. George L. Dunn was the leader of the meeting.

At the close of the morning service at the Baptist church yesterday, a meeting of the Ladies' Circle was held. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the regular monthly meeting of the Farther Light Society was held.

But few of the members of the gun club are out now to the Saturday afternoon shoots of the club. With the opening of the baseball season the weekly gatherings will be abandoned until fall again.

Beginning today, new scholars at the public school will only be admitted every quarter of the school term instead of at any time, as has been customary in the past.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meyers, of Bartle avenue, has been brightened by the arrival of a daughter, born Sunday morning.

Miss Nellie Hollingsworth had charge of an interesting meeting of the Epworth League held last night at the Methodist church.

Two fires within a week has led the residents of Alton to wonder if the firebugs of several years ago have resumed operations again.

Yesterday was hardly an ideal day for baseball, but a number of the cranks attended the game at Elizabethport just the same.

Miss Evelyn Buckley, of South avenue, spent Saturday with her cousin, Miss Anita Buckley, of Stout avenue.

The local bowling team rolls a return game tonight on Lee's alleys with the Bound Brook team.

Mrs. Charles Grant, of Front street, has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, Sr.

Anthony Alberts, of Bergman street, spent Sunday with relatives and friends in town.

Mrs. Arthur Lee and her two daughters returned Friday to her home in Santiago, Cuba, after spending a few months with relatives here. Mr. Lee, who accompanied his family north, returned to Santiago about a month ago.

"Ireland's Own Band" and vaudeville will be the attraction at the Casino tonight.

"Chick" Remond has returned from Perth Amboy and is again in the machine department at Pond's.

A large number of the men in Pond's molding shop who came from Philadelphia, have returned to the Quaker City.

Samuel Clouston, of the Manganese Steel Safe Company, has gone to Portland, Me., to install a vault for a large banking house.

The Pond shop is soon to do away with the check system of time keeping. It is to be done after this week by automatic registering clocks, one of which is to be placed in each department. The employes simply press a number going in and the same thing on quitting work, the registry thus made saving the clerks a great deal of time over the present method.

DISASTER AND RIOT

Spanish Troops Preserve Order at the Capital.

HUNDREDS KILLED AT RESERVOIR

Foundations of Waterworks Under Construction at Madrid Gave Way. Death Roll May Reach 250. Many Injured.

MADRID, April 10.—By the collapse of a new water reservoir just outside the city at least 150 workmen were killed and fully 100 injured, many of whom will die. There is a possibility that the death roll may reach 250, as 120 bodies have already been taken out. There were 400 at work at the time, and only seventy were taken out alive.

An exact estimate of the casualties is as yet impossible. It is stated that there were 236 men in the lower part of the reservoir, all of whom were killed.

The terrible accident started a riot, and troops were ordered to the scene to preserve peace.

The Prince of the Asturias, the war minister, the governor of Madrid and a representative of the king went to the spot to superintend the work of rescue. Troops sent to the scene engaged in helping the sufferers and recovering the bodies of the dead.

King Alfonso was shooting when he heard of the disaster and immediately repaired to the scene. His arrival was the signal for ovations from the crowds. The king was deeply moved and insisted upon personally supervising the relief measures.

It appears that underneath the foundation of the reservoir which gave way with such disastrous results were water pipes used to supply the palace and old Madrid. It is stated that this was the cause of the subsidence and not the surface of the ground, which, when tests were made, sank only eleven millimeters. The vault was built of cement, with iron girders, as were also the supporting columns. The first fall caused all the pillars to bend and the end of the ironwork to stretch, resulting in a general and uniform collapse.

Madrid newspapers publish assertions that the disaster had been foreseen by engineers as well as by workmen. It is now recalled that the bad condition of the soil on which the reservoir was constructed caused keen opposition and numerous criticisms when the scheme was discussed in the cortes.

Workmen who have been questioned say that they were compelled to build too rapidly with materials so defective that a disaster was bound to happen.

Many heartrending incidents and painful scenes are reported. Ten of those who were rescued alive have gone mad.

A huge crowd stood around the scene throughout the night watching the attempts at rescue in the light of huge electric lamps. Crowds of workmen and women carrying black flags have forced all the theaters to close.

King Alfonso had a telephone wire laid from the scene of the disaster to the palace and by that means was kept constantly informed. His majesty has visited the hospitals several times.

One body was recovered from the ruins during the night, but none later. Seven hundred workmen are engaged in clearing the debris.

EASTER MODES.

Timely Gossip of Interest to the Well Dressed Woman.

In Easter hats there are enough novelties to quite fill a page, and they are nearly if not quite as fearfully and wonderfully made as those of the brave days of old when women wore full rigged ships on their heads.

Probably the most striking and also becoming is the variation of the Louis shapes. The brim in these stands up sharply above the forehead, being made sometimes to come forward considerably beyond the forehead, and at other times they are worn so that they set up quite straight. A very handsome one had a brim of white chip with a band of black velvet close to the crown all around, and the crown itself was made of velvet with a pompon of black plumes standing forward in the front. There was no other trimming.

Next to these styles come the turban shapes and the flat chapeau, with the trimming so arranged that the hat can be worn at almost any angle and still be pretty. One of this style was made of pink panne velvet entirely overlaid with lace, and on the left side, drooping partly to the back and partly to the side, was a pink sweep. It was a very taking creation and was intended for a lady who will wear a cape to match to a swell function.

A hat for a young lady was made of damson colored velvet as to the flat brim and the crown, while around the crown was a perfect wreath of mauve silk mull made of loops; this stood up far beyond the crown. A small bunch of the loops was set just under the brim on the left side. Most flat hats are called sailors, even when the brim turns up, and they are garnished in various ways, some very plainly and others with much of fancy trimming. For instance, one had a standing quilling of velvet in iridescent browns and yellows, while the big shaded sweep in browns and yellows fell back from the left side. The hat itself was of smooth felt.

It is not necessary nowadays to set a fixed time for felt or straw, for during the whole winter we have seen fancy straws mingled with other material quite as often as we saw felt and chiffon folds as often as velvet. Woman, and particularly the fashionable modiste, can make laws to suit herself, and if a thing is novel and original the rest is all right.

And the way hats are worn, too, is a matter of personal taste and becomingness. One lady will have her hat tilted down over her eyes, while the next one will have hers standing aggressively upward; another will wear hers to one side or the other, and each is free to do as she pleases. Few hats refuse to lend themselves to the desire of the owner in this respect. I saw one hat where the brim was made of plaited pale blue chiffon, and the wide brim was faced with the chiffon, which was turned sharply off the face. Being wide, it would have made the wearer look like a very remarkable saint with such a halo, but the clever milliner just hit it in several places and dented it in and out so that the hard lines were broken, and the hat became beautiful with its unexpected curves and bends. The crown was of velvet in a much darker shade of blue, and for sole trimming there was a very large quill in gray and black.

In the illustration is one of the most pronounced of the Louis hats, the brim being made of shaded brown velvet and braid, with pretty fancy button-like ornaments set along the braid. A fancy gilt buckle holds the two shaded brown plumes which are drawn over the crown down quite to the neck in the back. Another striking hat is of dull blue felt faced with velvet of a lighter shade arranged so that it tilts up very high on the left side, while the crown is covered with a cock's plume in pale blue, reminding one of the Garibaldi guards. A new fancy is a hat of pale ecru shirred chiffon as to crown, with a narrow milliner's fold of black velvet. The upstanding brim is of the shirred chiffon, with a fall of lace graduated in the back, so that it almost reaches the neck. A pretty bunch of loops of black velvet is set along the left side, hanging even with the edge of the lace.

Still another distinct shape is the beefeater, with its bell shaped crown and tuft of plumes. This is made of fancy straw in almost any color. There is another shape, called by some "the boat shape." There is no back part, which reminds one of the people in some faroff land of fiction who had beautiful faces, but the rest of the head was gone entirely. So these are all front and nothing else, but they are pretty enough to pay for it. This one here is of fancy braid, with a flat bow at the side.

OLIVE HARPER.

Notable Women

A Nonagenarian Younger Than Many Women of Sixty

The tendency of civilized people today is to live longer than their ancestors did and at the same time preserve their powers in full vigor. A remarkable example of this is Mrs. Lemuel Bangs, president of the Methodist Episcopal Church Home For Aged Women in New York city.

Mrs. Bangs is now well into the ninety-second year of her age, yet many a woman of sixty is far more decrepit and, so far as all the real activities of life go, is generations older than she. This wonderful nonagenarian does all the marketing and catering for her family, because she likes to be certain they are well fed and cared for. She keeps abreast of current events and literature and delights in reading aloud to others. Whenever a picnic or party of any kind is on Mrs. Bangs is counted in as much as the youngest member of the family.

Perhaps the main thing that keeps Mrs. Bangs alive and young is the fact that she is and has always been interested in all that goes on in the world. She does not even have her daughter write her letters for her, as so many mothers do, but attends to her correspondence herself. She takes a daily bath in cold water like a young athlete and simply eats what is set before her, making no to do about it.

No doubt much of this venerable lady's vigor and genuine youthfulness is hers because she does not live among the dead, as so many old women do and actually take credit to themselves for it.

Sixth Sense Development.

A young lady of Utica, Miss Ella Hopkins, blind, deaf and dumb, has recently come into the public eye by reason of the remarkable perceptive faculty she has displayed. She is entirely deaf and cannot distinguish light from darkness, yet this wonderful girl in some way understands what people are talking about ten feet away from her. She cannot always do this, but has done so repeatedly. She converses in the sign language, like all deaf mutes, yet her perceptive faculty, whatever it is, catches a question asked her by pressing her hands and answers it before it is finished, even when it is scarcely begun.

How can she do it?

Psychologists have said that, besides our five specialized senses, there exists in us all a general sense of perception, by which we may know things unannounced to us by either sight or hearing. Sometimes this power is called the sixth sense, or intuition, and the more highly it is developed the more one can cognize happenings independently of the other senses.

Besides her so called sixth sense, Miss Hopkins appears to have both ears and eyes in her finger tips. She is now seventeen years old. Up to her ninth year she could see and hear, but an attack of scarlet fever left her deaf and blind.

Scientists in many places are investigating the so called sixth or psychic sense, which seems to be developing here and there in the human race. At a sanitarium on the Hudson river one of the employees is an estimable young woman who is able by her intuitive sense to find lost articles and diagnose obscure diseases. Resting in a dimly lighted room, she perceives objects and events hidden from material perception.

A Girl of Grit.

Miss Alma Marie Boynton and her mother conduct a stationery store in Brooklyn. One day when Miss Alma was behind the counter a gentlemanly looking individual stepped up and asked to buy three sheets of music paper. She went to the back of the store to get it. When she returned the gentlemanly looking person leveled at her a large revolver and said in commanding tones:

"I want that diamond heart and those rings. Hand them over, quick."

"I'll do nothing of the kind," replied the girl in tones quite as emphatic as his. Then, before he could get over his surprise at this defiance in a mere girl, she jumped across the counter, ran to the front door, slammed it to and held it and called for the police.

She could because she thought she could.

MARCIA WILLIS CAMPBELL

Kate Bonnet

The Romance of a Pirate's Daughter

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

At this moment Blackbeard returned, and when he saw Bittern he roared at him: "Out of that, you sea-cat, and if I see you again speaking to my lieutenant, I'll slash your ears for you. In the next boat which leaves this ship I shall send you to one of the others; I will have no sneaking schemer on board the Revenge. Get ye for'ad, get ye for'ad, or I shall help ye with my cutlass!"

And the man who had safely brought two good ships, richly laden, into the harbor of Belize, and who had given Blackbeard the information which made him understand the character of Capt. Bonnet and how easy it would be to take possession of his person and his vessels, and who had done everything in his power to enable the black-hearted pirate to secure to himself Bonnet's property and crews, and who had only asked in return an actual command where before he had commanded in fact, though not in name, fled away from the false freebooter to whom he had just given wealth and increased prestige.

"And so you are to be my first lieutenant," said Blackbeard, his face relaxing. "I am glad of that. There was nothing needed on this ship but a decent man. I have put one on my old vessel, and if there were another to be found in the Gulf of Honduras I'd clap him on that goodly bark. Now, sir, down to your berth and don your naval finery. You're always to wear it; you're not fit to wear the clothes of a real sailor, and I have no landsman's toggery on this ship."

Dickory bowed—he could not speak—and went below. When next he appeared on deck he wore ex-Capt. Bonnet's uniform and the tall plumed hat.

"It is for Kate's sweet sake," he said to himself as he mounted the companionway; "for her sake I'd wear anything, I'd do anything, if only I may see her again."

When the new first lieutenant showed himself upon the quarter-deck there was a general howl from the crew and peal after peal of derisive laughter rent the air.

Then Blackbeard stepped quietly forward and ordered eight of the jeerers to be strung up and flogged.

"I would like you all to remember," said the master pirate, "that when I appoint an officer on this ship there is to be no sneering at him nor any want of respect, and it strikes me that I shall not have to say anything more on the subject—to this precious crew, at any rate."

The next day lively times began on board the two rich prizes which the pirate Blackbeard had lately taken. There had been scarcely more hard work and excitement, cursing and swearing when the rich freight had been taken from the merchantmen which had originally carried it. Poor Bonnet's pen worked hard at lists and calculations, for Blackbeard was a practical man, and not disposed to loose and liberal dealings with either his men or the tradefolk ashore.

CHAPTER XIX.

ONE NORTH, ONE SOUTH.

If our dear Kate Bonnet had really imagined, in her inexperienced mind, that it would be a matter of days, and perhaps weeks, to procure a vessel in which she, with her uncle and good Dame Charter, could sail forth to save her father, she was wonderfully mistaken. Not a free-footed vessel of any class came into the harbor of Kingston. Sloops and barks and ships in general arrived and departed, but they were all bound by one contract or another, and were not free to sail away, here and there, for a short time or a long time, at the word of a maiden's will.

Mr. Delaplaine was a rich man, but he was a prudent one, and he had not the money to waste in wild rewards, even if there had been an opportunity for him to offer them. Kate was disconcerted, disappointed and greatly cast down.

Day after day Kate waited for notice of a craft, not only one which might bring Dickory back, but one which might carry her away.

The optimism of Dame Charter would not now bear her up, the load which had been put upon it was too big. Everything about her was melancholy and depressed, and Dickory had not come back. So many things had happened since he went away, and so many days had passed, and she had entirely exhausted her plentiful stock of very good reasons why her son had not been able to return to her.

In the midst of all this uncertainty, this anxiety, this foreboding, almost this despair, there came a sunburst which lighted up the souls of these three good people, which made their eyes sparkle and their hearts swell with thankfulness. This happiness came in the shape of a letter from Martin Newcombe.

The letter was a long one and told many things. The first part of it Kate read to herself and kept to herself, for in burning words it assured her that he loved her and would always love her, and that no misfortune of her own nor wrongdoings of others could prevent him from offering her his most ardent and unchangeable affection. Moreover, he begged and implored her to accept that affection, to accept it now that it might belong to her forever. Happiness, he said, seemed opening before her; he implored her to allow him to share that happiness with her. The rest of the letter was read most jubilantly aloud. It told of news which had come to Newcombe from Honduras gulf—great news, wonderful news, which would make the heart sing. Maj. Bonnet was at Belize. He had given up all connection with piracy and was now engaged in mercantile pursuits. This was positively true, for the person who had sent the news to Bridgetown had seen Maj. Bonnet and had talked to him, and had been informed by him that he had given up his ship and was now an accountant and commission agent doing business at that place.

The sender of this great news also stated that Ben Greenway was with Maj. Bonnet, working as his assistant—and here Dame Charter sat open-mouthed and her heart nearly stopped beating—young Dickory Charter had also been in the port and had gone away, but was expected ere long to return.

Kate stood on her tip-toes and waved the letter over her head.

"To Belize, my dear uncle, to Belize! If we cannot get there any other way we must go in a boat with oars. We must fly, we must not wait."

The opportunities for figurative flying were not wanting. There were no craft in the port which might be engaged for an indeterminate voyage, but there was a goodly sloop about to sail in ballast for Belize. Before sunset three passages were engaged upon this sloop.

It was a bright morning when, with a fair wind upon her starboard bow, the sloop Belinda, bearing the jubilant three, sailed southward on her course to the coast of Honduras; and it was upon that same morning that the good ship Revenge, bearing the pirate Blackbeard and his handsomely uniformed lieutenant, sailed northward, the same fair wind upon her port bow.

CHAPTER XX.

A PROJECTED MARRIAGE.

STRANGE as it may appear, Dickory Charter was not a very unhappy young fellow as he stood in his fine uniform on the quarter-deck of the Revenge, the fresh breeze ruffling his brown curls when he lifted his heavy cocked hat.

True, he was leaving behind him his friends, Capt. Bonnet and Ben Greenway, with whom the wayward Blackbeard would allow no word of leave-taking; true, he was going, he knew not where, and in the power of a man noted the new world over for his savage eccentricities; and true, he might soon be sailing, hour by hour, farther and farther away from the island on which dwelt the angel Kate—that angel Kate and his mother. But none of these considerations could keep down the glad feeling that he was going, that he was moving. Moreover, in answer to one of his impassioned appeals to be set ashore at Jamaica, Blackbeard had said to him that if he should get tired of him he did not see, at that moment, any reason why he should not put him on board some convenient vessel and have him landed at Kingston.

Dickory did not believe very much in the black-bearded pirate, with his wild tricks and inhuman high spirits, but Jamaica lay to the east, and he was going eastward.

SHIRLEY MYSTERY SOLVED.

Body of Albert R. Pemberton Taken From White Mill Pond.

WORCESTER, Mass., April 10.—A special from Shirley village says that the body of Albert R. Pemberton, missing since April 1, was taken from the White mill pond, near there, in the presence of 2,000 people and has been removed to Ayer, where an autopsy will be performed by Dr. W. J. Sleeper of Westford.

Pemberton was nearly forty-eight years old. He was employed as an expert strapper in the C. A. Edgerton & Co. suspender factory in Shirley village.

The night of April 1 he, with John La Poer, Thomas Gately, Harvey Smith, Thomas Shea and Edward Shea, was at the place of Charles Trimbly in Lunenburg. The story of his companions is that Pemberton strayed from them about midnight and got lost in Tophet swamp, a waste covering several square miles in Shirley, Lancaster and Lunenburg.

Searching parties have been out several days, and the White mill pond was drawn down. There were abrasions about Pemberton's forehead and nose. No money or valuables were found in his clothes.

La Poer was arrested Friday pending an investigation, but was released.

OVATION FOR MISS ANTHONY.

Fifth Triennial Congress of National Council of Women.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Many women internationally prominent in the movement for the betterment of womanhood and childhood assembled at the First Congregational church here yesterday when the fifth triennial meeting of the National Councils of Women of the United States was called to order by the president, Mrs. Mary Wood Swift. Miss Susan B. Anthony, one of the pioneers of the woman suffrage movement, received an ovation. Addresses outlining the purposes of the council were made by Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, Mrs. Mary Church Terrell, Mrs. Kate Waller Barrett, Mrs. Hannah C. Soloman and Mrs. May Wright Sewall.

Mrs. Foster said the legend of the council was "Lead, Kindly Light." This, she said, means not a standing still, but a moving forward. Every creed, she added, is here in the council, and every woman may stand for her own. In no non-Christian country could such an organization have been born nor in any country except a republic.

She criticised the convict camp system of the south and said that many good people sympathize deeply with the prisoners held in them.

Miss Babcock's Body Found.

MILFORD, N. H., April 10.—The body of Miss Susan P. Babcock, the daughter of Dr. D. C. Babcock, pastor of the Methodist church here, who disappeared from her home on Sunday last, has been found in the meadows just off the Mount Vernon road and about a mile and a half from the parsonage. ALL FAVOR A DISTRICT COURT

Lawyers Say They Are Anxious to See One Established in Plainfield.

MR. ANGLEMAN'S VIEWS

All Civil Cases Should be Tried by a Law Judge—Tribunal Seems to be Very Near.

Reference by County Attorney W. R. Codington at the meeting of the Board of Freeholders to the probability that Plainfield will establish a district court as soon after the taking of the State census as possible, has awakened renewed interest in the subject. The lawyers of the city, always interested in the possibility of a law court for minor cases in this city, have started active propaganda in favor of the project again, and the establishment of a district court is beginning to look like an assured thing.

According to the State law, a district court may be established in any city where the population is seventeen thousand or over. Plainfield will undoubtedly pass the required mark in the census to be taken this year by the State, work on which will begin in May.

The Council has the power to create the court, by passing an ordinance. Among the lawyers there is no doubt that it would be a good thing for the Council to pass such an ordinance, and among the general citizenry the only doubt in connection with the matter hinges on the cost of sustaining the tribunal. All the expenses of the court would be borne by the city—the judge's salary, the salaries of the court officers, cost of fuel, light, and other incidentals. It is doubtful if Plainfield would turn out business enough to make the court self-sustaining. Elizabeth's district court, with the litigation from a city of sixty thousand, helped out by Plainfield and Rahway cases, is not self-sustaining. There are features of the court, however, that counterbalance the expense on the city.

Counsellor W. S. Angleman, who has given the matter of the establishment of the court much thought, is in common with practically all his legal brethren here, warmly in favor of it. Speaking in reference to it yesterday to a reporter for The Daily Press, he said:

"Since the failure of the Constitutional amendments to provide for a separate Court of Appeals in order to relieve the higher courts from the pressure of business, the tendency throughout the State has been toward the establishment of more courts of first instance. This tendency owes its existence to the fact that the public at large realizes the necessity of giving the small suitor speedier justice than is possible in the present crowded conditions of the circuit and supreme court lists. The district court as at present constituted is admirably adopted to relieve the higher courts of the smaller cases and also to give speedier justice. The desire for a district court in Plainfield is the outgrowth of this tendency throughout the State, and that, should a court be established here, it will be of great benefit, not only to the city but also to the county, cannot be doubted. The fact that it may cost the city some money, is offset by the fact that it will relieve the county of some of the present burden of the county court expenses. When the many merits of having a district court are fully understood, the mere fact of a slight additional expense will not count in the minds of thinking people.

"For my own part, I believe that a law judge, such as the district court provides, should preside at the hearing of every civil case, no matter how small. The small case of a poor man involving only a few dollars is just as important, and, in fact, frequently seems more important to the suitor, than does a large case to a man with considerable money. The fact that a man who lives in a small town must have his case tried by a different sort of a tribunal from that of a man who lives in a large city, can have no sound basis of right to support it. This matter is very well handled in Canada where every civil case is tried by a law judge. The law judge travels around the country stopping at

RESTRAINING ORDER AGAINST DRY DOCK

DUNELLEN MAN WANTS JERSEY CITY CONCERN TO TRANSFER PLANT.

Vice Chancellor Stevenson at Trenton has granted a rule to show cause in Jersey City, April 17, why the officers of the Brown Dock Company, of Jersey City, should not give a bill of sale for the premises of the corporation located at the foot of Essex street to William Brown, of Dunellen, and perform a contract entered into March 31 whereby the board of directors of the corporation directed the disposal of the assets to William Brown for $12,500 in cash, six notes aggregating $30,000 and 180 shares of the Hart Mitchell Company.

William Brown, the complainant, says that he called at the office of the corporation and tendered the money and notes as well as the stock, but that Joel W. Brown president, refused to execute the agreement.

Accompanying the order to show cause is an injunction restraining the officers of the corporation from transferring any of the assets until the rule has been heard.

IRELAND'S OWN BAND DELIGHTS LARGE CROWD

FAMOUS MUSICAL ORGANIZATION AT CASINO LAST NIGHT.

Ireland's Own Band, the famous musical organization dear to all Erin as the winner and holder of the Freeman's Journal Challenge cup and captor of the grand prize at the St. Louis Exposition, delighted a large crowd at the Casino, last night, when it presented a superior programme of Irish and American selections. The rendition of every number was faultless and the familiar airs of the Emerald isle caused feet and voices in the audience to respond to the swing of Conductor George Drum's baton. There were cornet and vocal solos by Stephen Heeney and Arthur Walker that won prolonged applause, but when Pat Touhy, the world's champion, appeared with his Irish pipes, the demonstration he received was one of the most enthusiastic the Casino has witnessed in many months. He was recalled three times and his admirers were then loath to let him go.

An added feature of the programme was the Kelly trio consisting of Jerry, Sydney and Miss Sheila Kelly, which gave traditional Irish jig and reel dances, the graceful steps that have been handed down through generations. The three are exceedingly clever and they were applauded continuously.

MEN'S CLUB ENTERTAINED.

First Baptist Organization Hears Good Music.

Under the auspices of the Men's Club, of the First Baptist church, a musical and literary entertainment was given last night. There were over one hundred members and friends present. An orchestra of fourteen pieces, under the direction of Kenneth Shupp was a feature. Another feature was the humorous recitations by John Manley.

President Norman H. Probasco was in charge of the programme, and after its rendition, ice cream was served and a social time was had. The next meeting of the club, Monday night, May 9, will be the last one for the season. The men's clubs connected with the various churches in the city, will be invited, as will also the women, wives and friends of the members. The entertainment will be furnished almost entirely by outside talent, and if possible the orchestra which played last night will be secured.

Rev. S. K. Doolittle was returned to the Dunellen church, and no changes were made at Westfield, Bound Brook or Somerville.

Y., for five years, goes to Stony Brook, five miles above Piermont on the Hudson. The closing session of the conference was of a routine nature and of ordinary interest, aside from the appointments.

Rev. Mr. McCrea and Rev. Mr. Parsons were in town today making plans to take up their residence here. They are both expected to occupy their respective pulpits here on Sunday.

Rev. Mr. McCrea was born in Maryland and took his preparatory course at Dover Academy. After completing his studies at Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., he entered Drew Theological Seminary, at Madison, and was ordained in 1895. His first appointment was to Roselle, where he spent two years, leaving there to take charge of Grace church, Port Richmond, S. I., remaining for six years. In 1903 he was assigned to Ridgewood. He is a man of pleasing personality and besides being gifted as a preacher is a congregation builder.

BIG SIGN BLEW ACROSS PARK AVE. IN THE GALE

LANDED ON HOUSE ROOF AND SMASHED THINGS.

One of F. L. C. Martin's big canvas signs blew from the roof of the building in which he conducts his automobile and bicycle store on Park avenue during the brief but lusty little gale that blew late yesterday afternoon, and landed on the roof of Constable John Manley's house opposite. The sign is twenty-five feet long, and weighs about 200 pounds, and the things it did to the upper part of the Manley house were numerous and exciting.

It smashed the slating to a considerable extent, broke the gutter, the snow guard and a window in the top floor. The bump it made in landing scared Mrs. Manley almost into hysterics.

It is said that the sign was not fastened to the roof from which it blew, and Mr. Manley will seek to hold Mr. Martin responsible for the damage done. The canvas was stretched over a V-shaped frame, and the wind found it easy to carry.

Marshall Property Sold.

William H. Ahlgren, trustee for the heirs of the D. J. Marshall estate on Park avenue, has sold that property to John Manley, one of the tenants. The price, it is understood, was between $8,000 and $10,000. Several parties have been trying to get possession of the property with a view to improving the same with modern buildings. Mr. Manley has not announced his plans. The tract measures 77 by 143 feet.

Sewing Class Meeting.

The last meeting of the Lenten Sewing Class of Grace church, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. F. O. Herring, of Park avenue. Final arrangements will be made for the entertainment to be given at the Casino Saturday afternoon and evening, May 6.

REBUKED THE HEPTASOPHS

Speaker Objects to Boy Singing at Conclave Smoker.

ETHICS FROM EDITOR

Doesn't Think Nine-Year-Old Should Carol "I'm On the Water Wagon."

Among the speakers at the smoker held by Protective Conclave, I. O. H., last night, was J. H. H. Pugh, one of the editors of the New York Globe. Mr. Pugh has some ideas on the ethics involved in using juveniles at public entertainment, and he found a chance to let them out when Harold Willard, nine years old, son of A. E. Willard, of East Front street, sang. He took the chance.

Harold sang "Just for the Sake of Society," "I'm on the Water Wagon Now." That was at about 10 o'clock, when the room was pretty smoky. When Harold finished Mr. Pugh was introduced.

He learned over toward Harold.

"How old are you?" he asked.

"Nine," answered the boy.

"Hm," said Mr. Pugh. He straightened up and turned to the smokers.

"I have a few knocks to make," he said, "and this is one of them: Is isn't right to make a boy of such tender years come out at an affair like this and sing. I don't believe it is right to make him sing a music hall song like "I Am on the Water Wagon," especially at an affair like this.

"As a Heptasoph—a man who is supposed to be governed by wisdom—I must protest against having this boy at a smoker, and at such an hour. He ought to be home and in bed."

Mr. Pugh's remarks were received without comment, although a number of members said after the affair that they wished they had been in the chairman's place, and so in a position to give the editorial moralist something to think about.

A. E. Willard, the boy's father, was present only as a paid performer, and his son had the same status. Mr. Willard is not a member of the order. Some of the members think Mr. Pugh didn't know these things.

Apart from the display of the Pugh hammer, the smoker was one of the most pleasant affairs of the lodge social season. It was the most enthusiastic and successful affair the local Heps have ever held.

Delegations were present from Newark, Orange and Elizabeth, and a lot of Plainfielders not in the order were present. Among the visitors from Newark was the good of the order committee from the Newark Lodge. Its members got busy among the non-members present without delay, and gathered in six applications. They have been told that they can have the run of the place whenever they happen in this neighborhood.

Entertainment was furnished by A. M. Willard, instrumental music, and a rube monologue; Harold Willard, songs; J. C. Martin, L. H. Schmerhorn, Alock Muir, songs; and Harold Cook, piano playing. Speeches were made by V. W. Nash, of this city; Mark Weinberger, and Dr. Hopkins, of Newark, besides Mr. Pugh.

The committee in charge of the smoker consisted of F. G. Spellmeyer, M. Armstrong and John Greene.

FATALLY INJURED ON LEHIGH VALLEY TRACKS

FAST EXPRESS HITS SECTION HAND AT CLINTON AVENUE CROSSING.

J. R. Hartiskie, twenty-five years old, died in St. Michael's Hospital, Newark, this morning, the result of injuries received on the Lehigh Valley Railroad at Samptown, yesterday afternoon. He was a member of a section gang which was working near the lower Clinton avenue crossing and started to cross the tracks to get a drink. The curve at the Samptown burying ground hid a fast east-bound express from his sight and it was upon him before he realized his danger. The engine struck him and crushed him about the upper part of the body.

Hartiskie lived at South Plainfield, coming there from South Amboy about a year ago. He was a single man and so far as known most of his relatives are at Perth and South Amboy.

YOUTH AND GIRL ELOPE TO DUNELLEN AND MARRY

OREN BAKER AND IRENE KITCHEN WOULDN'T WAIT LONGER.

Oren Baker, twenty years old, and Miss Irene Kitchen, eighteen years old, were married last Saturday night in Dunellen, by Rev. S. K. Doolittle, pastor of the Methodist church there. The announcement of the wedding was made yesterday.

Neither the groom's nor the bride's family knew anything of the marriage until the young people told them. It was known that they were interested in one another, but their parents expected them to wait a few years before launching on the matrimonial sea. There was no opposition to the marriage except on this ground, but the young people couldn't see any reason for waiting.

The groom is the son of G. S. Baker, of Everett place, and the bride is the daughter of William Kitchen. The groom works in the Washing Silk Mill, where his bride also worked until the wedding. They met during working hours, and the romance followed.

VETERANS' REUNION AT NEW BRUNSWICK

PLAINFIELDERS AT SECOND NEW JERSEY BRIGADE MEETING.

T. O. Deane, William Hand, Henry Melleson, T. B. Titsworth and John Goodman, were among the members attending the reunion of the Second N. J. Brigade at New Brunswick yesterday. There were about forty vets in attendance. It was the first time in forty years that some of the members had seen each other and there were many genuine hand-shakes.

In the election of officers, John A. Goodwin, of the Eleventh Regiment, was made a member of the memorial committee. The entertainment provided by the New Brunswick members was highly praised. Charles M. Raybert, of this city, accompanying the local members, made an address as did also T. O. Deane and John Goodwin. Captain Walter A. Barrows, corporation counsel of Jersey City, presided at the reunion as president of the association and Surrogate Peter F. Daly, on behalf of New Brunswick, welcomed the soldiers.

Randolph, of East Front street, president of the New York Consolidated Exchange, will be one of the principal speakers at the reunion of the Veterans Association, Department of the South, South Atlantic Blockading Squadron, at the Hotel Vendome, in New York, Thursday night. Many distinguished men, who served in the Civil War, will be present at the banquet.

KEEPING UP THE WORK

More Park Avenue Structures to be Demolished.

ALEX. KANE TO BID

Unique Business Which This Contractor Has Developed Through Numerous Realty Deals.

In order to continue the work of demolishing the old buildings on Park avenue at Second street and running south, to make room for handsome new structures, Contractor Alex. Kane, yesterday made a tour of these next the Trust Company's site previous to submitting a bid for their purchase. They include the brick building formerly occupied by Charles Schaan, the double frame structure adjoining and the smaller affairs running as far as M. C. Dobbins' cigar store. They are owned by Charles W. McCutchen, who intends putting up a large building to conform with the Trust Company's, and should he accept Contractor Kane's bid, the work of tearing them down will start within a week or ten days.

But little remains of the old frame dwellings that stood on the former Randolph site and the last timber will be taken away by Thursday morning. Contractor Kane has had a large gang of men at work and they have made a quick job of it. The next few weeks will witness the start of excavating for the cellar of what will be one of the handsomest buildings in the city.

Through the many important real estate deals that have been consummated in the business section recently, removing old buildings has become quite an industry and so far all of it has been done under the supervision of Alex. Kane. When a structure is to be torn down, he makes a bid for it and does the work, deriving his profit from the sale of the old lumber. With the aid of DeWitt C. Ivins, he entered the business a year ago and in that time has handled some big contracts throughout the city and county. The remuneration is not large, but by close figuring and honest dealings, Contractor Kane has made a success of it and is rapidly gaining a reputation throughout the State. A large part of the material he has secured from old buildings has been shipped to distant points and there is always a demand for more.

In addition to looking after the razing of the Park avenue structures, Contractor Kane yesterday bought of George Schuck the frame dwelling at Sixth street and Arlington avenue and will tear it down at once to make room for two new houses. Last week he secured the old house between Woodhull & Martin's store and Powlison & Jones', which will also be a thing of the past within a week. The site is to be cleared for a new brick structure which Woodhull & Martin will have built.

EASY ON BRIDGET.

Only Gets Same As Last Time, Forty Days.

Bridget Coleman, old in years and old in boozing, was picked up on the street by Officer McKeon yesterday afternoon, suffering from her old complaint.

"Be easy on me, your honor," said Bridget in the city court this morning.

"How much did I give you last time?" asked Judge Runyon.

"Forty days."

"Well, just to show that we are not trying to rub it in we went make it any more this time. Forty again."

Celebrated His Birthday.

A pretty gathering took place at the home of G. Elston Lourie, in Dunellen last evening, the occasion being the eighteenth anniversary of his son, Robert Lourie. About twenty-five young people were present and an enjoyable evening was spent in dancing, games, etc.

SUNSHINE SOCIETY READY

Plans Complete for Its Entertainment at Casino April 13.

A WORTHY CAUSE

The Organization Desires to Secure Funds for Establishment of Perpetual Scholarships.

Plans are about completed for the entertainment to be held at the Casino on Thursday night, April 13, under the auspices of the International Sunshine Society, and there is every indication that there will be a large attendance of persons interested in this work. The society has the support of the press and clergy as well as the best people throughout the country, and Mrs. Harriet I. Macdonald, who has charge of the arrangements for the meeting and entertainment, has been very successful in interesting a number of prominent Plainfielders in it.

As previously stated the object is to interest Plainfielders in the establishment of perpetual scholarships at Alfred University, and it is hoped that at least one representative can be secured here. Pledges of any amount from $100 up are gratefully received toward providing a perpetual scholarship which costs $1,000. There is absolutely no expense attached to the people of Plainfield for the entertainment to be held here, except that they are asked to attend the affair. An admission fee of fifty cents will be asked, and the proceeds thus obtained will go toward the sunshine scholarships.

Mrs. Macdonald has arranged an attractive entertainment which will include vocal and instrumental music by well-known artists, short addresses by Robert Mackay, Mrs. Macdonald, Henry M. Maxson, a graduate of Alfred University, and others, and in addition there will be a fine illustrated lecture on Niagara Falls and Alfred University. It is also expected that Kenneth Robbie, boys' secretary at the Y. M. C. A., will make a few remarks.

Sixty-eight years of history, with one dominant idea of giving, free, or nearly free, collegiate education to the boys and girls of the country, has made Alfred University a landmark of education. Her founders and benefactors have held that benevolence could not be so richly rewarded in any other line as in helping struggling, ambitious young people who are destitute of means to secure an education. It is a glorious record, 10,000 such young people have been helped, inspired and trained here. Its work has grown steadily in extent and proficiency—its campus and equipments have enlarged, and its endowments have been steadily enhanced by the gifts of people whose hearts are in this work.

One thousand dollars endows a scholarship and insures free tuition to one student each term forever. One hundred dollars establishes conditionally a one thousand dollar scholarship; and it may be kept alive by the payment of not less than $25 a year until one thousand dollars is paid. The income is applied toward the tuition of the beneficiary. Founders of scholarships may name beneficiaries and individuals, churches and societies are founding them.

Some of the most prominent graduates of Alfred University who are known here include H. M. Maxson, superintendent of the Plainfield Public Schools; Professor James B. Stillman, of Stevens Institute; Professor Edwin H. Lewis, department of English, Lewis University; Henry M. Teller, United States Senator from Denver; Weston Flint, formerly Consul to China, and Thomas Edgar Stillman.

The majority of the Alfred University campus buildings are dedicated. Two of them are, however, remarkable for such affiliation. One of these is Babcock Hall of Physics—gratefully named for the late George H. Babcock, far-famed in records of mechanical and scientific development, who was the largest financial contributor to the university. Every department in the university is maintained to a high degree of excellence and it has the endorsement of Prof. Maxson as one of the best institutions in the country. These scholarships can be established as memorials, many persons being willing and glad to assist in this way.

It is hoped to have soon an International Sunshine Dormitory and Dining Hall at the university, which will accommodate twenty-five boys, various materials for the construction having already been donated. The university is absolutely non-sectarian and is conducted on the most liberal lines.

Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert will undoubtedly preside at the meeting and entertainment on Thursday night, and these persons have identified themselves with the affair by becoming patronesses: Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, Mrs. Frederick G. Mead, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Zelie, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, Prof. and Mrs. H. M. Maxson, Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. Charles A. Reed, Mrs. Francis deLacy Hyde, Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers, Mrs. James R. Joy, Mrs. John Gray Foster, Mrs. S. St. J. McCutchen, Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mrs. E. T. Barrows, Mrs. Charles F. Abbott, Mrs. Chapman Fisk and Mrs. D. H. Rowland, Mrs. A. V. Healy, Mrs. George D. Halleck, Mrs. George T. Rogers, Mrs. James O. Peck and Mrs. Frank H. Ball.

Mrs. Redhead, of New York, whose daughter is now completing a course at Packard Commercial School, preparatory to going to Alfred University, made possible by a Sunshine Scholarship, is in this city for two or three days interesting people in the entertainment to be held at the Casino. Thus far she has been very successful.

Mrs. Macdonald will be at Truell Inn on Thursday next where in the afternoon she will be pleased to receive any one who may want to know more about the work she represents.

SANDY HOOK BOATS TO BE RUNNING NEXT MONTH

THEIR NEW YORK PIER CHANGED TO MEET TRAFFIC DEMANDS.

Commencing May 1 the New Jersey Central expects to begin the operation of its Sandy Hook boats between the seashore resorts on the Jersey coast and the Forty-second street pier, New York. Extensive improvements have been made at Forty-second street and it is anticipated that with the opening of this new pier there will be a very large increase in travel. This change means the giving up of Pier 8, downtown, and the use of Pier 10.

These boats will connect at the uptown pier with the Albany Day Line boats as well as make it convenient for connection with trains on the New York Central for points in the mountains touched by that road. The change is a welcome one to families living in the upper part of New York for it will save them the tiresome journey to the downtown pier in making their journey to the seashore. The business men will be able to catch the boats at Pier 10. The company plans to operate three and possibly four boats on this line, as the traffic demands.

The company is anxious to complete the work at its new Twenty-third street ferry, and as soon as this is done the Whitehall ferry will probably be given up for the use of the Staten Island ferry boats. The uptown ferry will be a great convenience to many patrons of the road bringing them right in the shopping district, without the trouble of making the trip by elevated, subway or surface cars. The Whitehall ferry has been a matter of legal contention for a long time, the city of New York several times threatening to stop the company from operating its ferry boats there. There is little likelihood, however, of the company getting out until the Twenty-third street ferry is completed.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Emmons, of East Sixth street, are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a daughter.

Miss Kate Finn, who has been spending the winter touring in Ireland and other countries of Europe, returned Friday. She enjoyed the trip very much and found everyone well whom she visited. On the return trip she brought her sister, Annie Finn, to America for the first time.

The National Capital.

Every American is proud of the nation's Capitol and in Washington wonderful and beautiful as it is the tourist finds a city than which no other is more interesting or grand. The great public buildings massive in their structure and imposing in appearance are gold mines of interest and curiosity. The city which is now blossoming in its bright spring garb is most perfect in its arrangement and its finely kept streets, its innumerable parks and pleasure places offer no end of amusement and instruction to the tourist and traveler. Much time can be profitably spent visiting the Treasury Building, the Congressional Library, Washington Monument, the Pension Building, Cochran Art Gallery, Smithsonian Institute, Public Printing Office and the like, while the side trips to Mt. Vernon, Georgetown and the National Cemetery are productive and valuable and interesting sights. Every American should visit the Capitol City and an opportunity to enjoy such a trip is offered by the New Jersey Central's popular spring excursion to Washington on April 18, 1905, when the rate including hotel and other expenses is $12. The trip is made on the famous Royal Limited trains and the intervening country traversed is unsurpassed from a scenic standpoint. The tickets include stopover privileges at Baltimore and Philadelphia, both of which places have many historic interests. The New Jersey Central has issued an itinerary of the trip, which is sent free to any applicant by C. M. Burt, G. P. A., New York city.

MORTGAGE TAX BILL

Governor Higgins Gives Private Hearing to Protestants.

WOULD ABOLISH FOUR PER CENT RATE

Committee Asked That Governor Withhold His Approval of Measure Pending Report of Investigating Commission.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 11.—Governor Higgins gave a private hearing here on the mortgage tax bill, which is now in his hands awaiting his signature, to a committee of five, representing the "allied real estate interests" of the state. These five were Edward Van Ingen, B. Aymer Sands, Alfred E. Marlin, Ed L. Bayliss and former Assemblyman Charles T. Bostwick.

This committee appeared in opposition to the mortgage tax bill and presented to the governor substantially the same arguments which were urged against the bill before the legislative committees.

Principal weight was laid upon the effect which, it was contended, it would have upon the rate of interest for loans on real estate. Mr. Bayliss declared that the 5 mill mortgage tax would practically abolish the 4 per cent rate now generally prevailing in New York city for loans on real estate.

Mr. Sands voiced the request of the committee that Governor Higgins should withhold his approval of the mortgage tax bill pending the report of the proposed tax investigating commission, of which they were in favor. Meanwhile he argued in favor of a 40 per cent recording tax, without exceptions, which, he contended, would raise more money and do far less harm.

ONLY GRATEFUL FOR GIFT.

John D. Rockefeller Gives $200,000 For Baptist Union Work.

BOSTON, April 11.—A gift of $200,000 from John D. Rockefeller to the American Baptist Missionary union is announced by Treasurer Charles W. Perkins.

One-half of the amount was received last Friday, and the receipt of the donation was made public at that time. At a meeting Treasurer Perkins stated that an additional $100,000 from the same source was at its deposal, to be used exclusively for the construction of mission buildings in foreign lands. This money has not yet been received, but will be available whenever the demands of the work contemplated require it. Neither gift, the treasurer stated, was voluntarily contributed by Mr. Rockefeller, both having been solicited by officers of the union, who were desirous of raising funds to meet the growing needs of the work in which the union is engaged.

Mr. Perkins made the following statement after the meeting:

"No action is ever taken in regard to the acceptance of gifts, and the usual course has been adopted in this instance. No one suggested that the gift ought not to be accepted. Every one seems grateful for such generous contributions.

"It is not likely that the money for building purposes will be called for immediately. We shall ask for it as we need it."

Mansfield In "The Misanthrope."

NEW YORK, April 11.—Before an audience that completely filled the New Amsterdam theater Richard Mansfield crowned his season last night by the production of Moliere's "The Misanthrope." It was the first time that the French writer's masterpiece had been played on the English speaking stage. The personality of the chief actor in the production and the play itself, therefore, provided an occasion of uncommon theatrical interest. The curtain calls for Mr. Mansfield and his associates began with the end of the first act and increased in warmth and insistency as the play progressed.

Will Fight For Entrance.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., April 11.—Thirty immigrants alleged to be from Brazil, who were refused admission here by immigration inspectors, have camped on the Canadian border and have begun a legal fight for admittance. They have naturalization papers issued in West Virginia. The inspectors claim the party are gypsies and say the papers are not theirs. The question of the validity of the papers has been referred to the Washington authorities.

AT CAMP ROOSEVELT

President Hunting Wolves In Deep Red Creek Timber.

MILITARY GUARD FROM FORT SILL

Citizens of Newcastle Plan a Novel Reception In Way of a Bear Hunt as Official Start to Great Hunt In Colorado.

FREDERICK, Okla., April 11.—President Roosevelt and party started during the morning on a wolf hunt from Camp Roosevelt, nestled in timber fringing the bank of Deep Red creek in a picturesque spot seventeen miles from Frederick. When the president beheld the vast panorama of virgin soil without a sign of civilization except the camp he said he felt at home.

A detail of twenty troopers from Fort Sill is keeping trespassers from this part of the reservation. Their camp is about a hundred yards from that of Camp Roosevelt. Residents appreciate the fact that the president is on an outing and are remaining away from the pasture.

It is said now that President Roosevelt intends to visit Fort Sill tomorrow. The soldiers of the Eighth cavalry of Fort Sill, under the command of Major Murchert of the Texas national guard, who are now guarding the president's camp in Big pasture, will, it is said, escort the president to Fort Sill.

The president surprised cowboys and cattlemen by his knowledge of horses and their management.

The big pack train and camp outfit for President Roosevelt's hunting party in Colorado has received hurry up orders to move, and Guides Jake Borah and John Goff headed the procession of nearly a hundred horses and sixty dogs, which started for the Johnson ranch, twenty miles south of Newcastle, where camp will be pitched for a week or ten days. As soon as the camp is well established the extra men as well as several ranchmen and trappers will scour the country in search of bear tracks. They will carefully note all the signs and general locations, so that when the president starts out there will be no delay in finding a good supply of large game.

Citizens of Newcastle are planning a novel reception to the president next Saturday morning, which will be subject to his approval. It is proposed that a grand parade be held, in which President Roosevelt shall ride so he can be seen by the citizens. At the head of the procession will be a large brown bear in a cage. This animal was recently captured, and he is now at the home of Frank Hilliard, where he has killed at least a dozen dogs and injured several men who ventured too near him.

Goff and Borah will put their pack of hounds in a corral, and the bear will be given an hour's start for the hills. Then the packs will be set on the trail, and President Roosevelt, Dr. Lambert, Philip P. Stewart and the guides will follow in hot pursuit. This is planned to be the official start of the hunt.

Secretary Loeb and his assistants at Fort Worth are confident that President Roosevelt and his party are enjoying to the fullest possible extent their wolf and jack rabbit hunt on the Deep Red creek in Oklahoma.

No concern is entertained because of the report that a windstorm passed over Oklahoma. Secretary Loeb was told that one of the president's tents had been blown down. "Well, I guess he has it up again by this time," the secretary replied. From reports it is not believed the storm touched Panther springs, where the party is said to be in camp.

There has been no alteration in the plans for the Colorado trip, which will begin on Thursday. The White House staff in charge of the temporary office in Forth Worth will arrive in Frederick, Okla., Thursday night and join the president and those of his hunting companions who are to be members of the Colorado party. Citizens of Trinidad, Colo., and of Denver are preparing to give the president a warm welcome if he can be induced to stop on the way to or from Colorado Springs. It is probable that both Trinidad and Denver will be disappointed. Some stops may be made in returning to Washington late in May, but no programme has been arranged definitely.

Plainfield, N. J., April 11, 1905.

Some apologists for the Legislature, which by the by—the by has been rated by some of the leading Republican papers of the State, as one of the worst, have been explaining what real good was accomplished before the session closed. An exchange publishes, on the other hand, many recommendations in the Governor's message, which were unheeded by the law-makers. Among the many, it cites a sunset election law, a constitutional convention, a reduction of the State treasury surplus, an additional wing for the Rahway Reformatory, increase of the sessional appropriation—out of the State treasury surplus to the counties for public school tax from 35 to 50 per cent.

When there is assurance that Plainfield has the required population the time will be ripe for the Common Council to consider the advisability of establishing a district court in this city which is now being agitated by members of the bar generally. Of course the only obstacle to the institution and maintenance of such a court is the cost which will fall upon the city but it is pointed out that in very few instances do the district courts clear expenses. Elizabeth, which is a far larger municipality, has not been able to make its court pay, but notwithstanding it would be hard indeed to convince the lawyers and people of that city that the expense is unnecessary. Its chief advantage lies in the fact that a man read in law sits as judge and it is argued that the decisions given are more apt to be sound. The lawyers advance a number of reasons where such a court is a distinct benefit to litigants and they seem to be earnest in their efforts to have one established at the earliest opportunity. Perth Amboy, Elizabeth, New Brunswick and other nearby towns have district courts and this will probably be used as an argument for the establishment of one here.

When the annual general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America meets at Winona Park, Indiana, May 18, a matter of importance, not only to members of that influential religious body but to the ecclesiastical world at large, will be considered. It has for its object the unification of seventeen distinct religious organizations. The primary move planned is for the Presbyterian church in the United States of America to absorb the Cumberland Presbyterian church, which has 2,960 churches. If this is done, and there is every reason to believe it will, steps will be taken as soon as possible to consolidate the other fifteen bodies holding Presbyterian faith, among which are the Presbyterian church in the United States, popularly known as the Southern Presbyterian church; the Cumberland Presbyterian church, the Reformed church in America, the Reformed church in the United States, the United Presbyterian church, the Reformed Presbyterian church, General Synod, the Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian church, the Associate Reformed Synod of the South. Should this be accomplished the Presbyterian church would then represent 15,000 ministers, 18,000 churches and over 2,000,000 communicants and the sum total would be a great advance towards the much desired universal Christian unity.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Although this section was visited by a drenching rain storm for three days last week, the Watchung Mountains north of here were again on fire Sunday afternoon, night and Monday. Many farmers living in the Washington Valley district had great difficulty in keeping the flames from reaching their homes. Large quantities of timber has been destroyed and as a precaution against forest fires the farmers are ploughing up the grass fields surrounding their homes and outbuildings. This is the second time in less than a month that the timber lands have been on fire. The fire is thought to have started from the burning brush heaps at the base of the mountain.

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

It might be interesting to those who do not know how the "Proposed Annual Mortgage Tax" in New York will work; to know that if the bill becomes a law in its present form many real estate owners will be in a serious fix. Here is an actual case, Jones has contracted to sell some property to Smith in four months time the contract stipulates that Smith is to give a purchase money mortgage to Jones for $3,000 and will pay any taxes assessed against the mortgage; which mortgage is to be recorded at the time the sale is effected. The bill takes effect July 1, and will govern this case; under the terms of the bill if there is an agreement or understanding by which Smith pays the taxes, the courts are forbidden to entertain foreclosure proceedings; this being so Jones is in this position, having agreed to sell the property and take the mortgage, he will not be able to foreclosure it, and if he refuses to sell the property Smith can certainly sue for damages, or specific performance, because there is nothing in the bill which makes an agreement to pay the tax, such an obstacle as to cause the courts to refrain from enforcing the contract on the grounds of public policy; besides the contract is perfectly valid since there is no law forbidding an agreement to pay the tax. If Smith chooses to be tricky, it looks as though Jones would loose the amount to be incurred by Smith. William Jeffery.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

With a plan to improve the general appearance of the P. H. S. school paper, The Oracle, the management has introduced a novel scheme. A competition is in order among the pupils of the school, drawing free-hand headings for the several departments of the paper. To the pupils who succeed in having their attempts accepted, a year's subscription to the paper will be given for each heading.

All the candidates for the P. H. S. scrub team assembled in the laboratory yesterday morning to vote for a captain. Collier, last year's first baseman of the first team, was elected by a large majority. The first practice was held yesterday on Crescent Oval. About twenty fellows responded to the first call, among whom were Rockwell, Bogart, Collier, Gavett, VanDeventer, Russell, Walsh, Rugen, Jahn and Strong. The prospects for this year's team in winning the juvenile league is bright.

FLEET AT ANAMBAS

Hongkong Reports Naval Battle Off Singapore.

TOGO SAID TO HAVE LOST FIVE SHIPS

Russian Armada at Anchor Off Northeast Coast of Manki, 150 Miles From Singapore—Plans of the Admiral Not Known.

LONDON, April 11.—A special dispatch from Hongkong says:

"It is reported here that two sections of the hostile Japanese and Russian fleets had a heavy engagement near Singapore yesterday and that Admiral Togo, the Japanese commander, lost five of his vessels."

Some Russian naval officers conjecture that Rojestvensky's four battleships are delaying in order to effect a junction with Vice Admiral Nebogatoff's division from the Red sea, but generally credence is given to the report that the battleships are taking a southern route through the Sunda strait, the selection of the Singapore route being regarded as in the nature of a feint and to minimize the danger of a torpedo boat attack on the mainstays of the fleet.

The ships of the Russian Baltic fleet that passed Singapore Saturday afternoon have been sighted by a British steamer at anchor northeast of Manki, one of the Anambas islands, about 150 miles north-northeast of Singapore.

A dispatch from Batavia, island of Java, says that a Russian squadron was near Muntok, on the island of Banka, off the southeast coast of Sumatra, and that it was en route to Batavia. A subsequent dispatch from Weltevreden, Java, however, said these warships are vessels of the Dutch squadron.

No news has yet been received of the Russian battleships under Admiral Rojestvensky which are not with the squadron that passed Singapore. It is conjectured that they are following as a second division, and the Russian admiralty shows no anxiety respecting them.

In Tokyo it is believed that Rojestvensky does not seek an immediate battle and that he will attempt to reach Vladivostok. It is also thought he may have a rendezvous in the Pacific and that he will try to go east of the Philippines.

Four warships, apparently Japanese, have been seen off Cape St. James, near Saigon. Nothing is known as to the whereabouts of the main Japanese fleet, and Admiral Togo's plans to meet and destroy the Russian warships are open as yet to wide conjecture.

A St. Petersburg dispatch says that during morning prayers at the high school of Romny, government of Poltava, a portrait of Emperor Nicholas was destroyed by an explosive which was let off behind the picture. Four pupils were injured.

Chicago Teamsters Strike.

CHICAGO, April 11.—There is nothing in developments that would indicate that there is to be a near settlement of the sympathetic strike of union teamsters against the mail order house of Montgomery Ward & Co. Wagons and vans manned by nonunion men made several turbulent trips, delivering goods to railroad depots. Although noisy crowds followed the caravans and the police were forced to break a number of blockades, deliveries to the railroads were declared by managers of Ward & Co. to have been a great deal more successful than last week's efforts.

H. Rider Haggard's Programme.

CLEVELAND, O., April 11.—H. Rider Haggard and Commissioner Tucker, who spent the day visiting the Salvation Army's farm colony at Mentor, O., left over the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railroad this morning for Toronto, Ont., where tomorrow Mr. Haggard will address the Canadian club at noon. Mr. Haggard will on Thursday confer with Governor General Grey at Ottawa. From Ottawa the party will go to New York and will sail for England April 19.

Smith Couple Leave For New York.

CINCINNATI, O., April 11.—J. Morgan Smith and wife, in charge of Assistant District Attorney Garvan and Detectives McNaught, Quinn and Ward, left for New York over the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railroad at 6:30 o'clock last night. The couple have agreed to drop all opposition to the extradition proceedings under the agreement that they are to answer at New York only to the conspiracy charges.

New Light on Maine Coast.

PORTLAND, Me., April 11.—The new lighthouse on Ram island ledge at the entrance to the harbor was lighted for the first time last night. The light can be seen a distance of twenty miles in clear weather. The United States lighthouse steamer Lilac has been quarantined and the crew vaccinated because of a suspected case of smallpox.

Gamblers Pleaded Guilty.

ITHACA, N. Y., April 11.—Three of the men indicted by the grand jury for conducting gambling rooms here changed their pleas to guilty in the supreme court here. Phil Ford and James Dunlavey were fined $250 each and Harry Potter $75.

Representative Howard Shot Dead.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 11.—A special from London, Ky., says that J. J. Howard, representative in the legislature from the Seventy-first district, was shot and killed in a saloon in Clay county by Tilford Benge. The men had quarreled.

Why Lots in These Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

SIR RALPH WON.

At Bennings Track the First Race Far the Best of the Day.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Sir Ralph was the only winning favorite here. The first was the best race of the day. Preen, always the favorite, made the running into the stretch, where he was challenged by Race King. It was the latter's first time out this year, but under Fuller's excellent guidance he nipped the favorite in the last fifty yards by a short neck. The third race was won by Yorkshire Lad, with Amberjack second and Jane Holly third. The winner was disqualified by the judges, however, for fouling Amberjack in front of the grand stand, Amberjack being given the race, with Jane Holly second and Flinders, the favorite, third. Summaries:

First Race.—Race King, first; Preen, second; Royal Window, third.

Second Race.—Crossways, first; T. S Martin, second; Tickle, third.

Third Race.—Amberjack, first; Jane Holly, second; Flinders, third.

Fourth Race. — Gansevoort, first; Champs Elysees, second; Caloorahatchie, third.

Fifth Race. — Fritzi Scheff, first; Northville, second; Oleroso, third.

Sixth Race.—Sir Ralph, first; Panique, second; Cantaloupe, third.

Miss Inez Broke a Blood Vessel.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 11.—An accident at Montgomery park, at the head of the stretch, where Miss Inez pacemaker, fell and broke her neck, cleared the track for the fast coming favorite, Lady Savoy, in the running of the Tennessee Oaks, and the brown filly of William Gerst won the race with ease. Miss Jordan, who was running close behind Miss Inez, was thrown out of her stride, permitting Siss Lee and Druid, the remaining contenders, to secure second and third money respectively. Miss Inez had been leading the field from the start, and the terrific pace she maintained caused the bursting of a blood vessel and she dropped dead. Jockey H. Phillips was not hurt. The Oaks was a mile race for three-year-old fillies and worth $4,780.

Boston Players In Tennis Finals.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Miss Eleanor Sears and Miss Marion Fenno, both of Boston and paired with the Wrenn brothers, won their places in the final round of the championship mixed doubles on the indoor lawn tennis courts of the St. Nicholas rink here. Miss Sears and her partner, Robert D. Wrenn, defeated Miss Beatrice Morgan and Theodore Roosevelt Pell in straight sets by the score of 6—2, 6—4.

Baltimore Won In the Stretch.

BALTIMORE, April 11.—After eight innings, in which they failed to score, the Baltimore Eastern league team made a fierce batting onslaught on Eason and piled up five runs, enough to win the game twice over. The Brooklyn National league nine scored both their two runs in the first inning off Phillips, a Brooklyn pitcher loaned to the Baltimore team. Score—5 to 2.

Georgetown Defeated Quakers.

WASHINGTON, April 11. — Heavy and opportune hitting by the Georgetown team in a game with the University of Pennsylvania gave the home club a lead which the visitors could not overcome. The visitors' fielding was at times loose and their pitchers ineffective. Score—11 to 6.

Boxing Matches at Webster.

WEBSTER, Mass., April 11.—Before the Lakeside Athletic club last night Guy Ashley of Fall River got the decision over Patsy Fenton of Norwich, Conn., in the sixth round and Kid Paull of Fall River over Tommy English of Cambridge at the beginning of the seventh round.

Chantilly Won In a Canter.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11.—Favorites broke even with the field and captured honors in half the events at Oakland. Chantilly, picked to win the initial race, was started for the first time and won in a canter.

Nationals Won by Twenty Runs.

NEW YORK, April 11.—In an eight inning game the New York Nationals defeated the Jersey City team here by the score of 23 to 3. The game was called at the end of the eighth inning on account of darkness.

Americans Downed Newark.

NEW YORK, April 11.—The Newark Eastern league baseball team was defeated by the New York Americans here by the score of 5 to 1.

Senate Honored Worth's Memory.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 11.—The opening of the senate session last night was devoted to a service in honor of the memory of Senator Jacob Worth, late of Brooklyn. Senator McCarren presented a memorial resolution on behalf of the special committee, and Senator Coggeshall of Oneida, who entered the assembly with Mr. Worth in 1873, pronounced an affectionate eulogy.

Admiral Goodrich Denies Story.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 11.—Rear Admiral Goodrich, commanding the Pacific squadron, now at Long Beach, denies the published story of an alleged attempt by Richard Starr, a sailor on the cruiser Chicago, to assault him. The sailor, it is said, was arrested for overindulgence in liquor.

Vote Against Overtime Bill.

BOSTON, April 11.—The state senate has refused to reconsider its action of last week in rejecting the so called overtime bill, which prohibits the employment of women and minors in factories at night.

New Yorker Dead at Taormina.

TAORMINA, Sicily, April 11.—F. A Constable of New York died suddenly here at the Hotel San Domenico.

Kate Bonnet

The Romance of a Pirate's Daughter

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

Incited, perhaps, by the possession of a fine ship, manned by a crew picked from his old vessel and from the men who had formed the crew of the Revenge, Blackbeard was in better spirits than was his wont, and so far as his nature would allow he treated Dickory with fair good humor. But no matter what happened, his unrestrained imagination never failed him. Having taken the fancy to see Dickory always in full uniform, he allowed him to assume no other clothes; he was always in naval full-dress and cocked hat, and his duties were those of a private secretary.

"The only shrewd thing I ever knew your Sir Nightcap to do," he said, "was to tell me you could not read nor write. He spoke so glibly that I believed him. Had it not been so I should have sent you to the town to help with the shore end of my affairs, and then you would have been there still and I should have had no admiral to write my log and straighten my accounts."

Sometimes, in his quieter moods, when there was no provocation to send pistol balls between two sailors quietly conversing, or to perform some other demoniac trick, Blackbeard would talk to Dickory and ask all manner of questions, some of which the young man answered, while some he tried not to answer. Thus it was that the pirate found out a great deal more about Dickory's life, hope and sorrows than the young fellow imagined that he made known. He discovered that Dickory was greatly interested in Bonnet's daughter, and wished above all other things in this world to get to her and to be with her.

This was a little out of the common run of things among the brotherhood; it was their fashion to forget, so far as they were able, the family ties which already belonged to them, and to make no plans for any future ties of that sort which they might be able to make. Such a thing amused the generally rampant Blackbeard, but if this Dickory boy whom they had on board really did wish to marry some one, the idea came into the crafty mind of Blackbeard that he would like to attend to that marrying himself. It pleased him to have a finger in every pie, and now here was a pie in the fingering of which he might take a novel interest.

This renowned desperado, this bloody cutthroat, this merciless pirate possessed a home—a quiet little English home on the Cornwall coast, where the cheerful woods and fields stretched down almost in reach of the sullen sea. Here dwelt his wife, quiet Mistress Thatch, and here his brawny daughter. Seldom a word came to this rural home from the father, burning and robbing, sinking and slaying out upon the western seas. But from the stores of pelf which so often slipped so easily into his great arms, and which so often slipped just as easily out of them, came now and then something to help the brawn grow upon his daughter's bones and to ease the labors of his wife.

Eliza Thatch bore no resemblance to a houri; her hair was red, her face was freckled; she had enough teeth left to do good eating with when she had a chance, and her step shook the timbers of her little home.

Her father had heard from her a little while ago by a letter she had had conveyed to Belize. His parental feelings, notwithstanding he had told Bonnet he knew no such sentiments, were stirred. When he had finished her letter he would have been well pleased to burn a vessel and make a dozen passengers walk the plank as a memorial to his girl. But this not being convenient, it had come to him that he would marry the wench to the finely bedecked young fellow he had captured, and it filled his reckless heart with a wild delight. He drew his cutlass, and with a great oath he drove the heavy blade into the top of the table, and he swore by this mark that his grand plan should be carried out.

He would sail over to England; this would be a happy chance, for his vessel was unladen and ready for any adventure. He would drop anchor in the quiet cove he knew of; he would go ashore by night; he would be at home again. To be at home again made him shout with profane laughter, the little home he remembered would be so ridiculous to him now. He would see again his poor little trembling wife—she must be gray by now—and he was sure that she would tremble more than ever she did when she heard the great sea oaths which he was accustomed to pour forth now. And his daughter, she must be a strapping wench by this time; he was sure she could stand a slap on the back which would kill her mother.

Yes, there should be a wedding, a fine wedding, and good old rum should water the earth. And he would detail a boat's crew of jolly good fellows from the Revenge to help make things uproarious. This Charter boy and Eliza should have a house of their own, with plenty of money—he had more funds in hand than ever in his life before—and his respectable son-in-law should go to London and deposit his fortune in a bank. It would be royal fun to think of him and Eliza highly respectable and with money in the bank. A quart of the best rum could scarcely have made Blackbeard more hilarious than did this glorious notion. He danced among his crew; he singed beards; he whacked with capstan bars; he pushed men down hatchways; he was in lordly spirits, and his crew expected some great adventure, some startling piece of devilry.

Of course he did not keep his great design from Dickory—it was too glorious, too transcendent. He took his young admiral into his cabin and laid before him his dazzling future.

Dickory sat speechless, almost breathless. As he listened he could feel himself turn cold. Had anyone else been talking to him in this strain he would have shouted with laughter, but people did not laugh at Blackbeard.

When the pirate had said all and was gazing triumphantly at poor Dickory, the young man gasped a word in answer; he could not accept this awful fate without as much as a wave of the hand in protest.

"But, sir," said he, "if—"

Blackbeard's face grew black; he bent his head and lowered upon the pale Dickory; then, with a tremendous blow, he brought down his fist upon the table.

"If Eliza will not have you," he roared; "if that girl will not take you when I offer you to her; if she or her mother as much as winks an eyelash in disobedience of my commands, I will take them by the hair of their heads and I will throw them into the sea. If she will not have you," he repeated, roaring as if he were shouting through a speaking trumpet in a storm, "if I thought that, youngster, I would burn the house with both of them in it, and the rum I had bought to make a jolly wedding should be poured on the timbers to make them blaze. Let no notions like that enter your mind, my boy. If she disobeys me, I will cook her and you shall eat her. Disobey me!" And he swore at such a rate that he panted for fresh air and mounted to the deck.

It was not a time for Dickory to make remarks indicating his disapproval of the proposed arrangement.

FIVE DROWNED IN HUDSON.

James Malloy of Barrytown and Four Polanders Go Under.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., April 11.—James Malloy, a well known fisherman of Barrytown, started across the Hudson river in a rowboat at that place last night with six Polanders and before reaching the other shore the boat capsized, and Malloy and four of the Polanders were drowned.

The party of Polanders arrived at Barrytown from Albany and were bound for Ulster Landing, directly opposite Barrytown. The little steamer that was to have conveyed them across the river had departed, and as there were no large boats in the water Malloy offered to take them to their destination in his skiff, a small boat that was not capable of carrying three men without danger of being sunk.

The Polanders accepted the invitation of Malloy, and all six got in the little skiff, making a crew of seven men. A strong flood tide was running and a heavy wind blowing from the north, making the river exceptionally rough. When the boat was about two-thirds across the river the people on the Barrytown shore heard cries and shrieks for help and immediately realized that something had happened. Two young men, sons of Nathan Griffin of Ulster Landing, put out in a rowboat and succeeded in rescuing two of the Polanders, who were found clinging to the keel of the overturned skiff. They were taken ashore and stated that four of their countrymen and an American had been drowned.

The rescued men were unable to give the names of the drowned persons. One of the survivors is in a critical condition.

JUDGE WELDON DEAD.

Was an Intimate Friend of President Lincoln.

WASHINGTON, April 11. — Judge Lawrence Weldon of the United States court of claims died here last night from pneumonia after an illness of about a week. He leaves a widow, a son and a married daughter, Mrs. Hanna, who lives in Illinois. The body will be taken to Bloomington, Ill., for interment, but the final arrangements for the funeral will be deferred until the arrival of the son and daughter in Washington.

Judge Weldon was a native of Ohio, where he was born in 1829 and where he was admitted to the bar, but in 1854 he moved to Clinton, Ill. He held several offices in that state and in 1883 was appointed by President Arthur to the court of claims. He was an intimate friend of President Lincoln and is believed to have been the only lawyer who traveled with him in the judicial district of which David Davis was judge.

CURED MENINGITIS.

Kingston Physicians, by Trephining the Skull, Save Miss Rubbley.

KINGSTON, N. Y., April 11.—Kingston physicians believe that by an operation of trephining the skull they have effectively treated a case of cerebro spinal meningitis here.

Miss Fannie Rubbley, twenty-seven years old, was seized with spasms Saturday night, up to which time she had enjoyed perfect health. The spasms continued until midnight, and physicians pronounced her case as one of meningitis.

Sunday afternoon Drs. R. R. Thompson, Chanler and Basch trephined her skull to remove the accumulations of serum. Since the operation Miss Rubbley has recovered consciousness and is getting better rapidly. The surgeons feel positive she will recover.

Striking Italians on Rampage.

LANCASTER, Pa., April 11. — One hundred Italians employed on the new line of railroad which the Pennsylvania Railroad company is building through the southern end of this county, struck for higher wages and, headed by a man carrying a red flag, marched along the four miles of work east of Quarryville and compelled the other men to quit. They attacked two gangs of Austrians who attempted to continue at work and beat several of them severely.

Carlos Ciardi Guilty of Murder.

ITHACA, N. Y., April 11.—After an hour's deliberation the jury in the case of Carlos Ciardi, which has been in progress for a week, returned a verdict last night of guilty of murder in the first degree. Ciardi is an Italian, and he is alleged to have choked Luigi Porzi, a fellow countryman, to death with a belt strap in order to rob his victim of $82.

Expelled All Jap Miners.

MARYSVILLE, Cal., April 11.—All Japanese miners at Browns Valley, twenty miles east of Marysville, have been summarily expelled from the camp without violence. A few of them went there recently to work on the dumps at the mines, but the American miners objected to their presence.

Stephen M. Long Dead at Orange.

ORANGE, N. J., April 11.—Stephen M. Long, past department commander of New Jersey, Grand Army of the Republic, and well known throughout the state, is dead at his home here. He served with distinction throughout the civil war and had held a number of public offices.

Lost an Arm From Cancer.

ROME, April 11. — Father Martin, general of the Society of Jesus, sustained the amputation of his right arm. The limb had been affected with a cancer. Father Martin withstood well the shock of the operation.

Morgan at Messina.

MESSINA, April 11.—The American steam yacht Corsair, with her owner, J. P. Morgan, on board, left Taormina for Naples, but because of bad weather stopped here.

DIAMOND DUST.

Allan Wilson will be in the box-office at Crescent Oval this season to receive the cash.

The New York Americans defeated Jersey City on Saturday by a score of 7 to 1. Three thousand fans saw the game.

George Wiltse, of the New York Nationals, was the guest on Sunday of his brother, Louis Wiltse, of the New Madison.

Jimmie Beisel was out with the Y. M. C. A. team on Saturday for practice and he occupied the box for several innings in a scrub game.

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, is organizing a baseball team from its members. The committee having the plans in charge will meet tonight and assign positons.

McCormick, who was drafted by the Philadelphia National League management this season, is unable to secure his release, and as a result he cannot play with Hoboken on Sunday.

Manager Daab, of the Hobokens, has signed Cosgrove, the former Princeton 'Varsity player, for an outfield position and he will take McCormick's position in the Sunday games.

With the most favorable baseball weather, the P. H. S. team and the Leal's School nine will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 p. m. at Crescent Oval, in the first of a series of games for the city scholastic championship. Although the Leal's School team has not yet had a chance in a game to show its ability, its practises have been lively and the team seems to be the best the school has produced in recent years. Of the High School's ability, one may judge by their showing against the representative teams of Brooklyn last Saturday. The P. H. S. line up will be as follows: Pitchers, Burt and Smith; catcher, Davis; 1b, B. Doane; 2b, B. Thompson, ss, Uralz; 3b, Conway; lf, Banks; cf, Brakeley; rf, Freeman.

Oberly, rector of Christ church, Elizabeth, will preach, and on Friday night, April 21, (Good Friday), Rev. E. G. Bowers, also of Christ church, Elizabeth, will preach.

Newspaper Guessing Contests.

Guessing contests in the newspapers have become so numerous that the Treasury Department has been compelled to take official notice of them. Many of the contests are based on questions relating to the business of the Treasury Department, such as the total receipts for a certain day, or the number of cigars made in a certain month. There have recently been so many of these requests that Assistant Secretary of the Treasury O. H. Keep has found it necessary to issue a circular, in which it is pointed out that "such guessing contests are regarded as lottery schemes, and the department cannot furnish information to enable persons to engage therein."

ALL FAVOR DISTRICT COURT

each place once a week, once in two weeks, or once a month, as may be necessary, and expeditiously and conscientiously deals out justice. Such a system in New Jersey would do away with the often heard complaints against the justices of the peace. The establishment of district court in small cities like Plainfield is a movement in the right direction."

All of the other lawyers seen by the reporter in connection with the matter, constituting the great majority of the legal profession here, spoke unhesitatingly in its favor. Some of the expressions of opinion follow:

F. J. Blatz—I think there would be enough business to sustain it. It would be better for the client because every case would not be appealed. It is advantageous to counsel because he knows his case is being decided by one learned in the law. It would give our city standing. The county would be relieved of the expense of a large percentage of appeal cases.

William N. Runyon—I think it would be a good thing. A district court would be for the benefit of litigants, but I don't know about what it would cost the city.

W. L. Hetfield, Sr.—I am in favor of a district court here; I have always been in favor of it.

Walter L. Hetfield, Jr.—It would simplify practice for Plainfield lawyers. When they have cases where the amount involved does not exceed $300—which covers the majority of cases—the district court would save the necessity of trying cases twice, as most of the justice cases tried here are appealed and tried again before Court of Common Pleas at Elizabeth, which, under a circuit court ruling, could not be done.

N. D. Drake—It is a good idea. It is something all the Plainfield lawyers have left the need of for some time. I will be very glad when it is established.

Vincent W. Nash—Plainfield needs it. Justices' courts are antique—they are out of date. A district court is governed by a judge who knows the law, and rules on evidence and not according to prejudice.

William G. DeMeza—We ought to have such a court. We certainly do need it. Why Elizabeth, New Brunswick, Perth Amboy and a lot of other nearby towns have a district court, and we are certainly more progressive as a rule than any of them.

SCHAEFER CAN'T RETURN TO SOMERSET COUNTY

RECORDER DOUD'S EDICT IN WIFE SCALDING CASE.

Banishment from the whole of Somerset County was the punishment dealt out by Recorder Doud last night, to Frank Schaefer, the Duer street man who scalded his wife and hurled iron pokers and other missiles at her during a quarrel. When the prisoner was arraigned, Mrs. Schaefer seemed anxious to have him sent to prison as she had about seven distinct charges in preparation and wanted him punished for each. They included disorderly conduct, using profane language, scalding her, throwing things at her and threatening to take her life.

The evidence showed that man and wife are of a high temperament and that both were partially to blame for Sunday's quarrel. The Recorder made a proposition to Schaefer to get out of the county for pay $20 and go to jail for thirty days in addition. He took the former and will remain at Cranford, where he has a position.

CROSS NOW JUDGE.

Lanning, and members of the bar who were present.

Judge Cross has not made any definite plans about his work. He will take up at once the equity cases on the calendar, which have been referred to him, and after that will preside where his services may be required, in Trenton or Newark. Later he and Judge Lanning will arrange their work.

Firstbrook and will included the following; Interlocuter, Alexander Muir; end men, John H. Case, B. C. Firstbrook, Thomas M. Muir, William Doud, Harry Blim and George B. Case; soloists and special artists, Elmer D. Cutting, William Tunison, George Pope, Jack Todd, J. P. Hall and William Schorb.

Spotting the Spitters.

All the police officers carry little bundles of yellow slips on which a warning against expectorating on the sidewalk, which is forbidden by a Health Board regulation, is printed. Whenever a cop sees a pedestrian or lounger spit on the walk he hands him one of the slips. The warning includes the penalty to which a violation of the regulation holds the offender open, and it is very effective. The officer notes the man to whom the warning is given. If the offense were repeated then or a month later the offender would be arrested without further consideration.

Going to Washington.

Arrangements have been completed by Boys' Secretary Robbie for the part the local Y. M. C. A. boys are to have in the annual trip of the association juniors to Washington. About fifteen Plainfield boys will take the trip, leaving here April 24, returning from Washington three days later. They will not see the President this year, because he will not have returned from his hunting trip by that time, but arrangements have been made to introduce the party to some of the cabinet officers and other national dignitaries.

LAWYER CHASES TREES

W. L. Hetfield, Sr., Making Nursery Firm Pay Up.

TRIO OF ATTACHMENT

Treelets Seized in Three Counties in a Two Years' Effort to Collect a $25 Fee.

In an effort to collect a fee of $25 that a New York nursery firm owes him, Lawyer Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., has been attaching trees in three counties, at various times, during the past two years. The last attachment, and the one he hopes will wipe out the indebtedness, was slapped on a shipment of immature trees at the freight house yesterday.

The bill was incurred by the nursery people about two years ago. There was a hitch in the settlement, and Mr. Hetfield kept his legal eye open for a chance to get the money due him whether the nursery firm was willing or not. A short time after that he learned that the firm had some treelets belonging to the company were in North Plainfield township, and he clapped an attachment on them. They brought hardly enough money to pay the expenses of the attachment proceedings.

About a year later Mr. Hetfield heard that the company had shipped some trees to Metuchen. Mr. Hetfield lost no time in putting his mark on the shipment. They netted him a little on the debt, and hope that he might possibly get what was due him before death stopped his activities arose in his bosom.

He waited for another chance, and his patience was rewarded yesterday, when he learned that a lot of treelets belonging to his reluctant debtors were at the freight house. He got out an attachment in Justice Smalley's court without delay, and had it endorsed by Justice Hand for operative purposes in Union County. Deputy Sheriff Weaver served the paper and gathered in four boxes of trees.

Unless the company settles up in full within five days, the trees will be sold. Mr. Hetfield is hopeful that this shipment will bring in enough to wipe out the debt.

STREET SPRINKLING CONTRACT CHANGED

NEW FORM OF AGREEMENT ONLY COVERS FOUR MONTHS.

The municipal street sprinkling matter was the principal business considered at a meeting of the street committee, last night, an effort being made to come to some agreement so that a contract can be awarded for the work. It is understood that the committee will recommend that a contract for four months, May 15 to September 15, be given to John M. Keely. This would conform to the ordinance governing the sprinkling by the Public Service Corporation. It is said that some of the members of the committee favor the former plan of sprinkling the streets from the time the work is needed until later in the fall when the streets are apt to be very dusty.

During the time before and after the contract is in effect, Mr. Keely is asked to do the work as the committee directs, receiving in return a certain sum per day for each wagon actually in use. Councilmen Tolles and Gloak argued vigorously against making a change, alleging that it was unjust in view of the fact that Mr. Keely's bid was accepted the last meeting and he having filed the required guarantee and fulfilled the terms of the specifications submitted when bids for the work were regularly requested. Councilmen Wilson, Tyler and Higham favored the new contract.

By the proposed arrangement the contract would mean a loss of about $800 to Mr. Keely, should he be successful in getting it.

The committee also considered a number of petitions for macadamizing, received at the last meeting of the Common Council, and a report will be made on them at the adjourned meeting on Friday night. The committee also decided to go ahead with the work of widening Sycamore street and a report will be made on this at the next meeting. The other business of the evening was of a routine nature.

Parish Meeting Postponed.

Owing to the small attendance, the annual parish meeting of the First Baptist church was adjourned last night to Tuesday night, April 18.

FAMILY IS ABSENT, HOME BURNED DOWN

DAVID DRAKE'S HOUSE DESTROYED BY FIRE.

While the entire family of David Drake was absent from home, last night, his home on Jefferson avenue, in the Prideville section of the borough, caught fire mysteriously and was burned to the ground. An alarm was turned in by a neighbor at 10:30 but the structure was beyond all hope of saving long before the department arrived. The structure was valued at $3,000 and was insured for but $1,000. There is an additional heavy loss on the furniture which was also but lightly insured.

The various members of the family had been away during the day and Mrs. Drake left home late in the afternoon to visit a sick daughter at Garwood. All the fires in the house had been extinguished with the exception of one in the kitchen, but it is almost certain that the conflagration did not start from that, as flames were coming from the front part of the structure when first seen.

The firemen were handicapped in their work by the long distance from the hydrant to the house, this requiring the use of 1,250 feet of hose. Neighbors saved a small part of the furniture but the greater part was destroyed, including a valuable piano. It was not until shortly before 12 o'clock that the blaze was entirely put out.

David Drake, the owner, was at the Maple avenue brick yard when the alarm was turned in, and Mrs. Drake knew nothing of the loss until she returned from Garwood this morning.

WAITING FOR THE BELL

Plainfield's Crack Baseball Team Ready for Saturday.

GOOD GAME CERTAIN

Manager Daab's Aggregation Sure to Please Local Fandom and Annihilate Jersey City.

Manager Philip Daab, of the Plainfield Baseball Association, spent yesterday in town completing arrangements for the opening of the season on Saturday. When asked what he thought of the prospects for the Plainfield team in the initial contest, he replied: "I believe that we will beat Jersey City." The Hudson county leaguers will be greatly strengthened when they come to town and it will not be the same lineup that appeared against the New York Giants on Monday. In fact Manager Murray will have his strongest team out and the locals will have to play ball all the time.

Definite announcement was made yesterday that McCormick will not play here this season. As Manager Daab wants to play an occasional league team here during the season he cannot afford to have a player who is under the ban, and it would mean a big monetary loss to retain McCormick. In his place Cosgrove, the former star Princeton player, has been secured to play right field. Without a doubt he is sure to become one of the most popular members of the team. Those who saw him play during the past four seasons at Princeton know his ability as a fielder and batsman. He is continually putting life in the game by his fine coaching.

Linderman and Lamar will probably be the battery for the locals in the opening contest, with Driscoll on first, Kiernan at second, Oldring at short, Leonard on third, and with Oregan, Cosgrove and Connelly in the field. With this lineup the fans should certainly see very fast ball and it is predicted that they will.

Jimmie Beisel will be out and he may possibly get a chance to do something. In addition Manager Daab will fortify his pitching department so that he will not be obliged to take any chances. He is absolutely certain that the team will please fandom and that when the clash comes with Westfield there will be a different story than usual to tell. The improvements at the grounds are about completed and before Saturday the work on the oval will receive its finishing touches, so that when the bell rings at 3:30, everything will be in readiness for the contest.

ROMANCE PUNCTURED BY A FAINT HEART

DASHING YOUNG STRANGER TRIED TO RUN AWAY WITH A CRANFORD BELLE.

Annie Smalley lives in Cranford with her married sister, Mrs. Knapp. She is just 16, unsophisticated and pretty. Some time ago she met a dashing young man who lives out of town. The stranger, it is said, at once captivated the fair Cranford miss. Miss Smalley was asked by the young man, it is alleged, to say the word that would make him happy, but because of sisterly restrictions she demurred.

He finally persuaded her to flee with him, according to the story. She left her home Monday morning about 9:30, and before going dropped some hint of her intent. Her sister, knowing something of her intentions, left the house immediately after her, and meeting Officer Hennessey, who constitutes Cranford's police department, told him of her sister's flight. He at once telephoned to the several cities of the State and to New York, giving a description of the romantic maid. In the meantime Annie had seen her sister in conversation with the officer. She decided that discretion was the better part of valor and returned home, disappointed and repentant. She would not explain any of the circumstances which led her to attempt flight. The young man has not been seen in Cranford of late.

REINHART AT PRINCETON

Plainfielder Organizing a Strong 'Varsity Golf Team.

HIS FINE RECORD

Son of J. W. Reinhart Has Made a Reputation for Himself on the Links in the East.

Frank Ormond Reinhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Reinhart, of Belvidere avenue, says that the prospects for a strong golf team at Princeton University are very good, and that some valuable material has been found among the freshman class. Among the candidates for a place on the team is D. H. Barrows, '07, a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Barrows, of West Eighth street. Captain Reinhart himself is an experienced player, and has long been prominent among scholastic and college players. In 1900 Reinhart won the championship of the St. Paul's School and was runner-up in the interscholastic championship at Meadowbrook the same year. The next year, 1901, he won the championship of Princeton, being one of the few freshmen who ever earned this title, and in the fall of 1903 distinguished himself by winning the intercollegiate championship.

Besides his work as a member of golf teams which have represented Princeton during the past three years, Captain Reinhart has demonstrated his ability to handle the sticks in amateur tournaments in various parts of the country. In 1903 he defeated Mabie at the Morris County Club and was runner-up in the tournament, and in the same year got as far as the semi-finals in the amateur championship tournament of the United States, being defeated by James. In August of the same year he defeated Findlay Douglas at Manchester, Vt., and won the Westbrook tournament in September. The following year Reinhart won the Garden City tournament, the championship of the Baltusrol and Hillside Golf Clubs, and again reached the semi-finals in the amateur championship of the United States, Mabie defeating him. He also won the medal round in the Morris County tournament, and the low score medal prize at the Shinnecock Hills tournament in August.

Reinhart holds the record round at Plainfield and at the Baltusrol links, having done the former in sixty-five strokes and the latter in seventy-five. Besides this the Tiger captain played in the following matches against the English team in the summer of 1903, the Intercollegiate team, the New Jersey team, the all-Eastern team, the Shinnecock Hills team and the United States team, winning his matches on the Intercollegiate and New Jersey teams.

Acid Burned His Eye.

The engineer of the Stirling silk mill was drawing the cork from a bottle of carbolic acid near a window Monday, when a breeze blew some of the stuff that flew out of the bottle with the jerk of his arm into the left eye of Louis Rammunger, well known here, who stood nearby, damaging it so that it is feared the sight has been destroyed.

—The nineteenth concert of the Y. M. C. A. orchestra will be given on April 24. A chorus of forty voices will sing "Belshazzar" and Eva Wells, the eight-year-old child soloist, will also assist.

RUSSIA BAD MORALLY

Missionary Tells of Evil Conditions in the Czar's Domain.

LITTLE CHRISTIANITY

Several Interesting Addresses at Session of Presbyterian Women's Foreign Missionary Society.

Two very interesting addresses and the election of officers were the features of the afternoon session of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbytery of Elizabeth held in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, yesterday. The attendance was much larger than at the morning session and a deep interest was manifested in foreign missions.

The first address was by Mrs. H. M. Andrews, of Woodstock, India, who told of the work in the mission schools in that city. She described the habits and customs of the people, and how difficult it is to teach them. She said that thus far it has been impossible to secure more than 150 children to attend the schools, yet she said that the work has its encouraging features through the conversion of many. She urged larger contributions to the work, stating that new buildings, scholarships and new bedsteads are needed at once.

Perhaps the greatest interest was manifested in the address by Rev. Dr. Arthur J. Brown, who has just returned from a missionary trip around the world. He spoke on "The Moral Significance of the Russia-Japan War."

Dr. Brown said that the war is of moral and not political significance, that it is an issue as to whether Christians shall be permitted to carry the Gospel to all parts of the world. He compared the government of Russia with that of Japan for the purpose of showing why a Russian victory would not be helpful to the Christian church. He described Russia as an absolute despotism, semi-intelligent and semi-enlightened, with no free press or thought. Out of a population of 140,000,000 there are only 4,484,000 children attending schools.

Referring to Dalny and Port Arthur he said that they were two of the vilest places on the face of the earth. In his sixteen months' journey he saw nothing that compared with them. He said that it is impossible to preach or live according to the dictates of one's conscience in that country and that Russia is doing all that is possible to shut her people off from Christian influence.

"A victory for Russia is a triumph of absolutism," continued Dr. Brown. "On the contrary Japan welcomes Christianity. Japan has a population of 43,000,000, of which 5,358,000 children are in schools, almost 60 per cent. Japan has been more progressive in the last half century that Russia in five centuries. While her religion is that of the Buddhist, she is tolerant of other religions and missionaries are free to preach Christ in Japan as in New Jersey."

Dr. Brown referred to the fact that Gens. Oku and Nodzu and Kuroke are Presbyterians, as is also the wife of Field Marshal Oyama, and while Japan is far from being a Christian nation he said that the progress of Christianity is remarkable.

He said that the need of Japan is a new basis of morals for she has moved away from the old faith and has not found a new one. He thought it was highly important that the missionary work should be carried forward. While a Russian victory would mean despotism, a Japanese victory means the victory of a county not yet thoroughly permeated with Christ.

At the close of the addresses, Mrs. W. I. Steams, of Westfield, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following list of officers for the coming year and the choice was unanimous:

President, Mrs. John T. Kerr; vice presidents, Mrs. J. G. Mason, Mrs. J. H. Lewis, Mrs. S. J. Bowland, Mrs. Samuel Milliken, Mrs. Henry Mott, Mrs. A. S. Crane, Mrs. John Gillespie, Mrs. E. B. Cobb, Mrs. William Scribner, Mrs. C. E. Archer, Mrs. J. A. Fraser, Mrs. G. S. Campbell; corresponding secretary, Mrs. V. O. Burtis; recording secretary, Miss M. M. Colton; Young People's secretary, Miss L. R. Allen; secretary of literature, Mrs. Wilbur Lalice; treasurer, Mrs. E. P. Tenney; assistant treasurer, Mrs. W. P. Stevenson.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Westfield on April 11, 1906. The session closed with a prayer and benediction by Rev. W. I. Steams, of Westfield.

John Apgar and family, of Elizabeth, have been visiting Oliver Veerhees, of Stone street.

REV. A. H. McCREA.

Rev. A. H. McCrea, who has been appointed to the pastorate of the First M. E. church, to succeed Rev. Dr. W. O. Snedgrass, has been pastor of the M. E. church at Ridgewood, where his work has been very successful. He is a genial person and is sure to become popular with his new congregation. He will preach here on Sunday for the first.

MRS. G. L. HOWARD SERIOUSLY INJURED

BADLY HURT IN A RUNAWAY AT ATLANTIC CITY TODAY.

While riding to the station at Atlantic City this morning, Mrs. George L. Howard, of Mercer avenue, was seriously injured in a runaway accident. She suffered internal injuries, but the physicians are not able to determine just how seriously they will result.

Mrs. Howard was hurrying to the station in a bus from the Hotel Rudolph when the horse became frightened by a passing automobile and dashed down the road at a terrific speed. With presence of mind Mrs. Howard grasped the reins and attempted to stop the animal's mad flight, but she was thrown from the vehicle.

Mrs. Howard is well known in the city. Her husband is a New York stock broker and they have a handsome home in the borough.

REGER IS SWORN IN AS CO. PROSECUTOR

SOMERSET MAY SAVE COST OF REGULAR COUNTY DETECTIVE.

John F. Reger, recently appointed prosecutor of Somerset County, received his commission this morning and at noon he was sworn into office by County Clerk Anderson in the presence of several members of the Bar. Congratulations were offered immediately afterward.

It was announced today that the term of Assistant Prosecutor F. A. Pope does not expire until next September. There was considerable interest in a well-founded report that Prosecutor Reger will not engage a county detective regularly, but only as the occasion requires and that he will engage no one in particular for the work, as was the case during the term of Prosecutor Griggs.

TOLD OF MEXICO.

Hope Chapel Audience Entertained by G. Stuart Simons.

A large audience in the Sunday-school room at Hope chapel, last night, was delightfully entertained by G. Stuart Simons, of this city, who related interesting details of his recent trip through Mexico. He touched upon points which have a historical value and related the life and customs of the people in the large cities. He also described scenes in Texas, the whole lecture being illustrated with slides secured by himself.

The proceeds from the affair will be added to the fund for the erection of a new primary room.

Surprise Party.

In honor of the eleventh anniversary of his birthday, fifty friends of Frank O'Brien gave him a surprise party at his home, 215 Grant avenue, last night. There were guests from New York, South Amboy and this city. Music and games helped to make the evening one of pleasure to all and at midnight refreshments were served. The guests were Miss Katharine O'Brien, Mrs. Young, Miss Mary O'Brien, Miss Carrie Bender, Miss Margaret Watson, Miss Eada Monge, Miss Mary Avis, Miss Bertha Bender, Miss Grace Brunn, Miss Margaret Penny, Miss Lizzie Driscoll, Frank O'Brien, Leslie Randolph, John Williams, Henry Bender, John Driscoll.

RESIGNED AS RECTOR

Rev. W. Montgomery Downey to Leave Holy Cross Church.

TAKES EFFECT JUNE 1

Popular Clergyman Has Served the Parish for Seven Years—Came Here From Harlem.

Rev. W. Montgomery Downey, for the past five years rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, has tendered his resignation to the wardens and vestrymen, the same to take effect June 1. Action upon it will be taken in a short time and his successor will be appointed as soon as convenient.

When spoken to this morning, Mr. Downey said that a desire for a change had impelled his course, but that he had not yet completed his plans. He has been in Plainfield seven years, coming first from Holy Trinity church, Harlem, as rector of the Church of the Redeemer.

When the parish consolidated with Holy Cross, he assumed the rectorship. Under him the congregation has prospered to an unusual extent and at the present time is in better condition, numerically and otherwise, than it ever was before.

Mr. Downey is a native of Merrick, L. I.

PITTSBURG GIRL AND BROOKLYNITE WED HERE

MARRIAGE AT THE HOME OF BRIDE'S COUSIN, MRS. C. L. LEWIS.

At the home of the bride's cousin, Mrs. Charles L. Lewis, of Belvidere avenue, Miss Carrie Lee Moore, of Pittsburg, and Clarence Edward Swanson, of Brooklyn, were married at 6:30 o'clock last evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Olin Swanson, father of the groom, and pastor of the Swedish M. E. church, of Brooklyn.

The wedding was attended by about fifty friends and relatives. There were guests from New York, Brooklyn, Trenton, Pittsburg and Newark.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Frank Ericsen, of New York, as matron-of-honor; and Miss Esther Swanson and Miss Frances McGarvey, both of New York, as bridesmaids. The best man was Foster D. Garretson, of Elizabeth. Lyle Rudell Smith and Charles Leonard Lewis, Jr., small cousins of the bride, were flower boys.

The bride was gowned in white crepe de chine and chiffon, with a collar of white lace, and wore a tulle veil; she carried white roses and lilies of the valley. The matron of honor wore a dress of white silk mulle and Liberty satin, trimmed with ribbons; she carried pink roses. The bridesmaids both were gowned in white chiffon; they carried pink roses.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Lewis and Miss Lampson, violinist. A reception to the guests followed the ceremony. The house was decorated with palms and potted plants. The table decorations were white tulips and smilax.

After their honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Swanson will make their residence in Brooklyn.

BASEBALL CONCERT.

First of Series for Benefit of Y. M. C. A. Team Held.

Supplemental to the regular Star Course, the first of a series of three concerts for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. baseball team was given at Y. M. C. A. Hall last night. It was largely attended and well received.

The programme included William VanNps, of this city, mandolin player, accompanied by Miss Alberta Waterbury; Miss Helen Marr Wilson, reader, and Miss Catherine Lane, soprano soloist. All the numbers were of a most enjoyable character.

The second concert will be given April 27. The committee in charge is made up of Arthur Humble, chairman, Fred Armstrong and Arthur Jeffery. They are assisted by a staff of ushers made up of E. W. Overton, Harry Woodland, Hervey Marsh and Bert Leggett.

Starting New Lumber Yard.

McDonough Brothers, the coal dealers, have started the work of digging the cellar for their new lumber yard on West Third street, which they hope to have completed at an early date. The building will be about twenty-five feet front by one hundred deep, with a height of about fourteen feet. Surrounding it will be a monolithic wall which will eventually be covered with vines.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Thorp's celebrated foot relief is now a household remedy. Try it and be convinced of its merits.

Fresh fruits of the finest quality are always obtainable at the store of Alex. Lusardi, West Front street.

That spring suit will be made properly by H. Solomon, tailor, of Somerset street. The price will be right, too.

Henry Wierenga, the expressman, has just purchased a handsome new truck to meet the increasing demands of his business.

I. N. Wyckoff, the West Front street painter and paper-hanger, is now prepared to close contracts for the season. Best material and right prices.

Give that electric wiring contract to William H. Pope, of North avenue. He understands the business thoroughly and will guarantee a good job.

When you decide to move, consult William Hand & Sons, of East Second street, and they will contract to move you anywhere at prices that will suit you.

No place handles dyeing and cleaning work more experly or at more reasonable rates than G. O. Keller's, on Park avenue. No crocking of goods is to be feared.

Painting and decorating are not to be ordered off-hand, without regard to cost and workmanship. Put your contract in the hands of J. C. Hansen, East Front street.

All the cigars sold by Henry Eggerding are made in his store. Only the best tobacco leaf is used in their make-up and that is why he recommends them so highly.

A. M. Griffen, the hardware merchant, is prepared for the spring and summer season with a full line of garden and farm implements, also builders' materials. Anything in the plumbing and tinning line Mr. Griffen will do at short notice.

No matter how well dressed a man may be, if his shoes are out of shape, his appearance is marred. The Sorosis shoe sold by A. E. & A. L. Giddes at Madison avenue and Front street, is one that always looks natty, no matter how long it is worn.

Woodhull & Martin, the dry goods merchants, are showing the finest line of spring and summer goods to be found in the State and especially attractive is the line of dress goods of the latest patterns. The housefurnishing goods department is just brimful of everything needed in that line and intending purchasers should inspect the stock before going elsewhere.

Makes no difference whether it is spring, summer, autumn or winter, I. H. Boehm always has seasonable goods at seasonable prices. Just at present spring is holding forth and it is well worth the time to visit the store and see the spring novelties. The millinery department is especially attractive and women who contemplate getting a new bonnet should see Boehm's styles.

SNAP SHOTS.

Far more important than the Morris Canal abandonment act, or the equalization of taxes, is the cradle question that has arisen between Hon. James E. Martine, the "farmer orator" of Cedar Brook and a lady in Plainfield, who wields a trenchant pen. It needs to be explained that Mr. Martine, in a recent impassioned oration on politics, delivered before the Men's Club of Trinity Reformed church, expressed his views on women suffrage. He declared that "the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world," that "politics is not the realm of woman," but that "her true place is at home inculcating true virtue and statesmanship in the child, etc." All this seems like plain sailing, but just at this very point the woman in the case comes long like a swift, sudden, unexpected breeze and almost upsets his craft. Mr. Martine is what she calls an "irresponsible bachelor," and she asks him what the woman is to do if there is no child handy in which to inculcate virtue or anything else; and how can the woman inculcate statesmanship if the female inculcater is not inculcated? Cradles, she insists, are excellent institutions, "but those cradles cannot be rocked unless they are occupied cradles," and a confirmed bachelor's recommendation in that direction is entirely gratuitous. "Farmer Orator" Martine has many times been defeated as a candidate, and has taken his defeats like a gentleman and a philosopher; but he has never been beaten in speechmaking. His reply to his feminine critic will be awaited with greater interest than the usual election returns.—Newark News.

Mrs. W. C. O'Donnell and son, of Jersey City, have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Bowers, of Franklin place.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Little, of Elizabeth, and James Quackenbos and William McGinnis, of New Brunswick, spent Sunday at the home of George McGinnis, of Somerset street.

JOURNALISTIC OPINION.

Fisk Next Senator.

"The mantle of Senator Cross will fall upon the shoulders of Charles J. Fisk, of Plainfield, of the banking firm of Harvey Fisk & Sons, of New York, if he desires to wear it. That is the feeling among the politicians now. Should Mr Fisk decline, William N. Runyon, who has been a candidate for the honor in the past, is not an unlikely choice. In fact, after Mr. Fisk, Mr. Runyon and Ernest H. Ackerman of Plainfield, are the favorites, and it may be up to Plainfield to decide who will be the selection of the next convention.

At any rate, the next State Senator from Union county will be a Plainfield man. A situation is shaping itself on account of the shrievalty nominations. There are two men spoken of as the successor to H. Frank Coriell. One is Captain Robert J. Kirkland, of this city, and the other is Dr. William H. Lawrence, of Summit. It will be either one or the other, with chances favoring Kirkland."—Elizabeth Journal.

William Wierenga, of Crescent avenue, who sprained his ankle some time ago, is able to be out again.

In honor of her engagement to Edward Mackay, of Cleveland, Ohio, Miss Louise Patton gave a luncheon at Tracii Inn, Monday afternoon. Covers were laid for twelve.

AMUSEMENTS.

David Warfield continues with uninterrupted prosperity at the Bijou Theatre, New York, where he turns away more people at each performance of "The Music Master" than the playhouse can accommodate. Having successfully passed his 200th performance a fortnight ago, he is now speeding rapidly toward his 250th, which will take place on Monday, May 1. Meantime, the demand from suburban patrons unable to secure seats for Saturday afternoons has influenced Mr. Belasco to announce two more extra midweek matinees. The first will occur on Thursday, April 13, and the second on Easter Thursday, April 27. These probably will be Warfield's last extra performances of the season, though there is no limit to the probable extent of his run. The popularity of his performance, so happily blending the laughs with the tears, will assuredly give him the season's record.

The success of "London Assurance" at the Knickerbocker Theatre warrants Liebler & Co., in the belief that the production of "She Stoops to Conquer," which this firm will put on at the New Amsterdam Theatre, on Monday, April 17, will also evoke public interest. Miss Eleanor Robson and Kyrle Bellew will head the cast of the famous Goldsmith comedy, Miss Robson appearing as Kate Hardcastle and Mr. Bellew as Young Marlow. The role of the young lady of quality in "She Stoops to Conquer" should fit to a nicety the personality of Miss Robson whose Juliet, Constance, Benita and Merely Mary Ann have so won public favor. Kyrle Bellew, who is known on the stage as the dashing and debonair young lover, should not fail to please in the character of Young Marlow. The comedy role of Tony Lumpkin has been given to Sidney Drew, a member of the famous Drew family. Mr. Drew played the role before in the company with his mother, Mrs. John Drew. Louis James, one of the most capable and sterling all around good old actors on the stage today, has been cast for the part of Hardcastle.

LITERARY.

In the Architectural Record for April, Herbert Croly, under the title of "A New Use of Old Forms," describes a candid and thorough treatment of two special problems of design, taking for illustration two houses by John Russell Pope. An article on "Rookwood Pottery," by A. O. Eisner (with many illustrations,) considers a distinctive novelty in the world's ceramics. "A Modern Instance of Colonial Architecture" (the house of E. W. Arnold at Albany), by A. C. David, with numerous illustrations, shows how McKim, Mead and White have adapted the Georgian type to a contemporary American owner and site. An architectural lion of the year in New York is the New National Park Bank. You can see many pictures of it in this month's number. "Socialism and the Architect" is a clever study by Charles H. Israels, of New York. The magazine is profusely illustrated as usual. The Architectural Record Co., 14-16 Vesey street, New York.

CASTRO IS INSOLENT

Washington Stirred by Report From Caracas.

WILL AWAIT ROOSEVELT'S RETURN

President of Little Republic Said to Have Used Words In Regard to This Country Which Were Undiplomatic and Threatening.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Throughout the diplomatic corps keen interest exists regarding the sensational answer which President Castro is said to have made to Minister Bowen's latest request for the arbitration of the pending questions between the United States and Venezuela.

Although Venezuelan legation officials say the text of the dispatch was not included in the mail that has reached the legation here and which left Caracas after the answer was delivered to Mr. Bowen, it has become noised among diplomats that the answer was undiplomatic and almost threatening in wording.

Diplomats who have inquired at the state department have been informed that practically no action will be taken regarding Venezuela until President Roosevelt returns from his western trip.

DEFIES UNCLE SAM.

Venezuela Will Not Submit Even to Our Army and Navy.

CARACAS, Venezuela, April 12.—"President Castro will not withdraw the New York and Bermudez Asphalt company case from the Venezuelan courts and will not resubmit the Olcott case to arbitration if the whole American army and navy come to Venezuela."

This emphatic statement of General Alejandro Ybarra, the Venezuelan secretary of foreign affairs, reflects the spirit of the reply which President Castro made to the recent proposal of the American state department for the arbitration of the Bermudez and Olcott cases.

It was generally rumored throughout Venezuela that the demand of the United States was little less than an ultimatum to General Castro, and the reply of the Venezuelan president was awaited with interest. Predictions of intervention following the refusal of Castro to yield were freely made, and there was much uneasiness when it was announced that the Venezuelan government had not only refused the demand to arbitrate the case, but had supplemented its refusal with a request that the United States declare whether it has any respect for the sovereignty and the courts of Venezuela.

Castro has made his reply, and no action has been taken by the United States, and no further demands have been made, so that the last demand of the United States has gone the way of many previous requests for arbitration, and the incident is practically closed as far as its discussion in Caracas is concerned.

It is emphatically denied in the reply of President Castro that there are any claims pending between the United States and Venezuela. He again reiterates that the New York and Bermudez asphalt case, now in the Venezuelan courts, is a national and not an international one.

President Castro and the members of his cabinet take the ground that, while the government stands for the general principle of arbitration, it will not have a case wrested from its courts to be carried before a board of arbitration.

The charges that Venezuela is not paying its obligations to creditor nations under the Washington protocols are denied by administration officials.

President Castro has published an edict announcing that interest on the interior debt of Venezuela for seven years has been canceled and that scrip bearing interest at 3 per cent will be issued to replace the 6 per cent scrip which now represents the indebtedness.

President Castro's recent declaration that the Venezuelan debts aggregate only about $35,000,000 has caused much comment among South American financiers and diplomats.

It is alleged by bankers who have studied the finances of Venezuela that President Castro has underestimated the obligations of his nation by at least $19,000,000.

The presence in Curacao of J. H. de Reus, the Netherlands charge d'affaires at Caracas, has revived rumors of probable Dutch interference in Venezuela to force President Castro to release five Dutch sailors who are said to be imprisoned unjustly at Puerto Cabello and Maracaibo. Mr. de Reus has been in conference with the officers of the Dutch warship Kortenaer, and it is reported that shortly additional Dutch warships will reach Curacao.

Repeated demands have been made by Holland for the release of the sailors, and coercive action was recommended by the charge d'affaires some weeks ago.

Kaiser at Corfu.

CORFU, Ionian Islands, April 12.—The German emperor has landed here amid the thunder of the guns of the British and German warships in the harbor and was greeted by King George, who introduced local officials conveying an address of welcome. A state banquet and fireworks display were held last night. Emperor William conferred upon King George a German admiralship.

Cretans Cheered the Rebels.

CANEA, Crete, April 12.—The arrival here of the British cruiser Juno, bringing twelve insurgent prisoners from Candanos, was the occasion of a riotous demonstration in favor of the insurgents.

BATTLE AT FORMOSA?

Admiral Togo Expected to Stop Russian Fleet There.

ROJESTVENSKY IS IN THE CHINA SEA

Russian Commander, With Fighting Ships, Moving to Join Large Squadron Before Proceeding Toward Vladivostok.

LONDON, April 12.—A special from Batavia, Java, says:

"There has been no movement on the part of Rear Admiral Enquist's section of the Russian Pacific squadron, which arrived off the Anambas group Sunday. The vessels are still at anchor to the west of Pulo Manki, one of the islands of the group. It is supposed that they are coaling."

A dispatch from Jibutil, on the gulf of Aden, says: "Vice Admiral Nebogatoff's squadron has been seen cruising near Socotra. It is reported to be awaiting re-enforcement from the Black sea fleet."

A battle at any time between the great fleets of Japan and Russia may be expected.

St. Petersburg advices say that Togo's and Rojestvensky's ships are in touch and that all the movements of each are known to the other.

With Japanese scout ships steaming about in various directions in the vicinity of the China sea a clash is quite certain, and it may come at any moment.

The German steamer Struve, which has arrived at Manila, sighted two Japanese cruisers headed straight for the division of Rojestvensky's ships under command of Admiral Enquist, anchored north of Singapore.

The real battle between the fleets is expected to occur in the strait of Formosa.

According to Russian admiralty information, the Japanese have had an observation squadron in the waters off Labuan, British Borneo, where they took the same advantage of British neutrality as Rojestvensky did of French neutrality at Madagascar, and this squadron is believed to have been summoned by Japanese scouts to remain in touch with the Russians until they go north to the strait of Formosa, where, it is believed, a battle will occur.

Considering the vital nature of the issue, the admiralty is inclined to think that Admiral Togo will not dare to send ships to Vladivostok or leave vessels behind him to cope with the Russian ships at that port and that the Japanese coasts and the transport fleet will practically have to shift for themselves until the naval battle is fought.

Whether Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's battleship division passed through the strait of Sunda or the strait of Malacca, it is practically certain now that he is moving to effect a juncture with the division which lately sailed from Singapore.

It is possible that this may not take place until the two divisions reach Cape Padaran, on the east coast of Cochin China.

A dispatch from Gunshu pass says that a portion of the Fifth rifle regiment, which was cut off at Mukden, has just arrived at Kirin, having succeeded in penetrating the Japanese lines.

Chinese state with great positiveness that General Kawamura's army, supported by General Nogi's army, is moving in a northeasterly direction, aiming to cut Russian communications with Vladivostok.

According to the same sources, 30,000 Japanese have landed at Dalny, and it is reported that six additional divisions are forming in Japan to operate against Vladivostok and Sakhalin.

The Manchurian Chinese have adopted an attitude of positive hostility to the Russians.

The Japanese now occupy the line of Sytzyatji, Changtufu and Katpangomu, and the impression prevails here that the direct advance from the south has halted for the present at that line.

"Blue Law" In St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, April 12.—Announcement is made here by President Stewart of the board of police commissioners that the Sunday closing law, commonly termed the "blue law," would be enforced in St. Louis and that the enforcement is expected to begin next Sunday. According to the law, it is a misdemeanor to perform on Sunday other labor than household work and works of charity. The law forbids games, exposing for sale on Sunday any goods or liquors, keeping open saloons or carrying on the business of barbering. Judge Marshall of the supreme court has decided, however, that Sunday baseball is a recreation and is not prohibited.

Scotch Councilman Visits Dunne.

CHICAGO, April 12.—Hon. Michael Simons, a member of the city council of Glasgow, Scotland, who is traveling through the United States, was a visitor at Mayor Dunne's office here. Mr. Simons expressed an opinion that municipal ownership of the street car system of Chicago would be a great success if managed on similar lines to the Glasgow system, which, he said, had been profitable to a degree beyond expectation.

Tornado at Paoli, Ind.

PAOLI, Ind., April 12.—A tornado wrecked the Friends' church near here, twisted a schoolhouse and turned a dwelling completely around. Other buildings were unroofed and many trees uprooted.

ROME, April 12.—Sir Charles Wyndham and Colonel J. B. MacLean, the latter of Toronto, have been received by Pope Pius X.

STATIONERY IS TALKATIVE!

Business stationery is never mute.
The cheap kind talks about you—and libels you.
The right kind talks about you—and praises you.
The cheap kind costs you more—if you consider it expensive to lose "caste" in a business way.
The right kind costs you less—if you consider "prestige" worth anything.

A GREAT SYNDICATE

Belasco Suit at New York Reveals Big Theater Control.

OVER THIRTY OPERA HOUSES IN IT

Agreement Read In Court Shows Methods of So Called Theatrical Trust—Competition Is Barred and Profits Pooled.

NEW YORK, April 12.—During the trial here of the suit of David Belasco, the theatrical manager, against Joseph Brooks in connection with the production of "The Auctioneer" and involving the control of the principal theaters of the country by a syndicate, so called, the text of the "syndicate agreement" was offered in evidence. Its reading was one of the striking features of a trial replete with interesting incidents.

The parties to the agreement, which became effective Aug. 31, 1901, and runs for five years, are shown to be Al Hayman, Charles Frohman, Marc Klaw and A. L. Erlanger as parties of the first part and Samuel F. Niedlinger and J. Fred Zimmerman, trading as Nixon & Zimmerman, parties of the second part. The preamble to the agreement recites that theatrical interests in all the large cities had suffered as a result of the indiscriminate "booking" of attractions, necessitating some agreement between the interests whereby long "jumps" would be avoided and tours so arranged that there would be no conflict of similar attractions in the same city.

The list of theaters announced as under control of the parties to the agreement and which was to be supplemented by any theaters subsequently passing under control of any of the parties is set out as follows:

Knickerbocker theater, New York; Hollis theater, Colonial theater and Boston museum, Boston; Providence Opera House, Providence; Chestnut Street theater, Chestnut Street Opera House, Broad Street theater, Walnut Street theater and People's theater, Philadelphia; Academy of Music and Ford's Opera House, Baltimore; National theater and Columbia theater, Washington; Alvin theater, Pittsburg; Euclid Avenue Opera House, Cleveland; Grand Opera House, Cincinnati; Macauley's theater, Louisville; Olympic theater and Century theater, St. Louis; Powers theater and Illinois theater, Chicago; Grand Southern theater, Columbus; Victoria theater, Dayton; Valentine theater, Toledo; English Opera House, Indianapolis; Star theater, Buffalo; Princess theater, Toronto; Boyd's theater, Omaha; Broadway theater and Tabor Grand Opera House, Denver; Columbia theater, San Francisco; Tulane theater, New Orleans.

"All of which," the agreement continues, "shall be booked with attractions in conjunction with each other—that is to say, no attractions shall be booked in any of the said theaters or places of amusement (or in any which may be hereafter acquired as aforesaid) which will insist in playing an opposition theater or place of amusement in any of the cities above named (or any which may hereafter come under this agreement) unless the party hereto having the theater or place of amusement in said competition point shall give his or their consent in writing to permit said attraction to play in the opposition theater or place of amusement."

An agreement to pool all profits is set out in the fourth clause of the instrument, and of the net profits it is stipulated Messrs. Hayman, Frohman, Klaw & Erlanger shall receive 75 per cent and the firm of Nixon & Zimmerman 25 per cent from all the theaters enumerated. Nixon & Zimmerman in return are to turn over from 33 1-3 to 50 per cent of the net profits of the theaters owned by them in Pittsburg, Philadelphia and Baltimore. Klaw & Erlanger are given control of all bookings, while Nixon & Zimmerman are designated as the holding representatives.

Fatal Meningitis at Wilkesbarre.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., April 12.—Mrs. William C. Herring, wife of Superintendent Herring of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company in this city, is dead here of cerebro spinal meningitis, or spotted fever. She was taken ill on Sunday with severe pain in the head, but the symptoms of the disease were not discovered until late Monday night. Physicians say a pecular feature of the death of Mrs. Herring is that no spots were visible on the body, the case being one out of fifty that spots did not show.

Plainfield, N. J., April 12, 1905.

Judge Strong, of the Middlesex County court, last week granted thirty-eight liquor licenses for South Amboy. The municipality has a population of about 7000. Plainfield, whose population is approximately 18,000, has twelve licensed places—and it doesn't need any more.

The new maximum tax law, which provides a rate of not more than $1.70 on the $100 in all cities of over 50,000 inhabitants and of not more than $1.50 in all smaller cities, boroughs, villages, towns and townships, has caused much interesting discussion on tax rates in general. The watch-word of Governor Stokes' administration is "economy" and the passage of this law shows that his policy extends to the government of municipalities. During the last twenty years tax rates have necessarily taken a big jump. An exchange cites some instances worthy of note. In this city the rate two decades ago was $1.74 and now it is $2.50. In Trenton it was $1.50 whereas it is now $2.35 and in Burlington it was seventy-seven cents and has advanced to $2.75. The most costly form of government has proven to be those of townships and boroughs strange as it may seem. But the decided increase in rates does not prove conclusively that extravagant governments have been maintained for as a rule Jersey cities, boroughs, villages, towns and townships are run economically and well and the taxpayers get full value for their money.

Several new faces will be seen among those in charge of the local churches on Sunday. Rev. B. M. Bogan, of Rahway, whose personality is sure to endear him to the parish, will say mass for the first time as rector of St. Mary's, to which he has been assigned by Bishop O'Connor as successor to that popular priest, Father Egan, who is now stationed at Bayonne. At the First M. E. church, Rev. A. H. McCrea will take the place of Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, who served that congregation ably for eight years. The Newark Conference has transferred Rev. Mr. McCrea from Ridgewood and a hearty reception awaits him. Across the brook, Rev. A. W. Parsons, now of Newark, will assume the pastorate of Grace M. E. church, which has been without a regular minister since Rev. Dr. E. L. Earp resigned, and the members of that church are congratulating themselves that the new pastor is an admirable man to take up the work. Today brings the announcement that Rev. W. Montgomery Downey, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, has resigned. Of course it will be sometime before his successor is chosen by the vestry. Rev. Mr. Downey's decision to leave is a severe blow to that parish. He has labored hard for a number of years to build up a strong congregation of Episcopalians in North Plainfield and has succeeded better than could be expected considering the fact that there is an influential congregation in this city.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Fred'k J. Pope, representing the Prudential Insurance Company, has engaged more commodious quarters in the Babcock building.

—The Young Women's Kaffee Klatsch will be entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Haurand, of Somerset street, tomorrow night.

—August Windham, of Fairview avenue, who recently passed the letter carrier examination, is being taught the business district route by Charles Gisentzer.

—The work on Voorhees & VanZandt's new building on Park avenue is progressing rapidly. The contractors expect to have the structure enclosed within a short time.

—There is not one superfluous want ad. in today's paper—not one but that appeals to the interest of someone—not one that will not benefit either the reader or the advertiser—or both of them.

—Westfield's police are endeavoring to make the place unpopular to begging tramps. The trains are watched, and when the tramps jump off they are rounded up and requested to keep moving.

THE FORUM.

W. L. Hetfield, Sr., Explains.

Editor, The Daily Press:

When interviewed yesterday by your reporter, regarding establishing a district court here, I said, under certain conditions, I favored a district court, but did not think that now was the proper time to establish one, as it would necessitate an increase in our tax rate, as the fees of the court would not near pay the expenses of the same. We are now entitled to the full use of the district court at Elizabeth, and which has been taken advantage of by a great many lawyers here, besides Elizabeth with her 60,000 inhabitants, cannot make the fees of the court run itself and is making a kick, because she is paying the running expenses of a court for outside litigants, which she thinks the county ought to pay. There is another thing I mentioned to the reporter, that the Common Council were considering the question of the city collecting and disposing of the garbage which I thought ought to be considered long and carefully, as that would necessitate another growing increase in our already high tax rate.

Yours truly,
Walter L. Hetfield.

Objects to Mr. Pugh's Talk.

Plainfield, N. J., April 11, 1905.

Editor, The Daily Press:

As a supreme officer of the Improved Order Heptasophs, I take exception to the remarks of T. J. G. Pugh, of Orange, as quoted in an article in last night's paper, headed, "Rebuked the Heptasophs." These remarks were entirely out of order and uncalled for, and had I been to the meeting at the time I certainly would have entered a vigorous protest against them.

He was here as the guest of Protective Conclave and was called upon to say something in reference to the order, but instead of that he proceeded to criticize, not only the entertainment provided, but our railroad facilities and things in general, which showed very bad taste on his part. Among other things he is quoted as saying that he, as a Heptasoph, was a man supposed to be governed by wisdom, but in this instance he lacked the wisdom he ought to have had and also good common sense.

The Conclave engaged Mr. Willard to provide entertainment for the evening, which was highly satisfactory to its members and friends present, and there was no part of that entertainment that any one could honestly take exception to.

The boy's father was with him and was fully capable of caring for him, and in justice to Mr. Willard I ask you to kindly give as much prominence to this article as you did to the one referred to.

Deputy Supreme Archon,

ORGAN RECITAL.

Wm. E. MacClymont; Pleases a Large Audience at Grace P. M. Church.

W. E. MacClymont's Lenten organ recital at Grace P. E. church pleased a good-sized audience last night. The programme was well chosen, and its rendition deserves the warmest praise. Mr. MacClymont demonstrated again that he is a master of organ music.

He was assisted by Miss Millie E. Pottgieser, contralto soloist of Holy Trinity church (Harlem), New York, and Charles S. Jones, bass soloist of St. John's P. E. church, Yonkers, N. Y. Both of them sang with unusually fine effect, and their work was a decided treat to Plainfielders.

F. H. Andrews at P. H. S.

Having returned from a visit to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, F. H. Andrews, of Central avenue, spoke to the pupils at the Plainfield High School, this morning. He referred briefly of the good work of Fred T. VanAuken, the former High School boy, both in his studies and especially in athletics at the institution. But Mr. Andrews' words were directed chiefly to the subject of "failures." He said that there were several ways to look at a failure, but the best way that he knew how to take it was to make a resolution to do better in the future and to set to work with the "square jaw."

President Extends His Outing at Lawton Two Days.

BANQUET AT FREDERICK TONIGHT

Roosevelt Sees Wolf Catcher Abernathy's Methods and Then Captures a Coyote Himself—Feasted on Pork and Beans.

LAWTON, Okla., April 12.—President Roosevelt has seen John Abernathy, the well known wolf catcher, in his unique way kill a coyote. Abernathy's favorite dog captured the first wolf in the chase. Abernathy leaped from his horse and with heavily gloved hands seized the prostrate animal's jaws, lifted it in his arms and smilingly delivered it to the president, who, forty feet away, had dismounted and walked to Abernathy's side.

That the president is enjoying every hour of his recreation is evident by the fact that he has expressed a desire to remain in the pasture until Saturday evening, thus extending his allotted time two days.

A lessee of a portion of the pasture has arrived in Lawton and reports that the president himself captured a coyote. The president ate his first dinner in the reservation at the cow camp of Waggoner & Burnett Sunday. The party feasted on beef and beans. While the president was exercising early Sunday morning he killed a large rattlesnake with his riding quirt. A report from Frederick says that arrangements have been completed for the banquet to be given at that place tonight, in which the presidential party, Governor Ferguson and the Hon. Dennis Flynn will participate.

A Fort Sill officer said that arrangements were being made for the reception of the president at that post, but he was not certain that the president would come.

MRS. SMITH TALKS.

Couple Charged With Conspiracy at New York.

NEW YORK, April 12.—J. Morgan Smith and his wife arrived at the Grand Central station about 6 o'clock last night.

A special guard of police was needed to keep the crowds back from the barrier to the arrival platform.

They were taken directly to police headquarters.

Today they were taken before Judge Foster in part one, general sessions, where bail was fixed.

When asked about the case Mrs. Smith said:

"We are here to help poor Nan celebrate her freedom. Why, the letters found were nothing but personal letters, and they have nothing whatever to do with the case. What does Mr. Garvan want with them? They certainly will not be of any service to him in attacking Nan's defense.

"I really do not know what they are going to do with us now that we are back in New York. We, Morgan and I, know absolutely nothing about this affair, and this charge of conspiracy that has been brought against us is all rubbish. There is nothing to it all."

All proposals to be endorsed "Proposals for Coal," and addressed to the Committee on Fuel and left at the office of the Board of Education, at or before the hour mentioned for such meeting to be held.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals, the Board will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding, or their agents, provided such parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

An Ideal Location

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in These Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FORECAST OF FASHION.

Percales Are Among the Novelty Cotton Fabrics of Spring.

Flowered percales are among the new offerings and are a nice innovation.

Any girl handy with her needle can make a Du Barry hood. This hood is the furore now and is made of gauze lined with soft silk.

On many of the dressy green spring gowns will be applied a band of ivy leaves. These leaves are made of silk and formed into bands, each leaf having around it a delicate tracery of braid.

Foulard silk is not the top notch of fashion, but so serviceable and dainty is a gown of this material that few women will be without at least one dress of this kind for summer wear.

Madras for shirt waist material will take the place of the heavy cheviots of last year. The new tailor made shirt waists have sleeves quite full at the top, but at the bottom they fit into the cuff perfectly plain.

A lovely tea gown is of tomato colored chiffon taffeta. A high draped band of taffeta in a paler shade passes under an overcoat of lace. The terminations of this resemble stole ends in front, and quite a Louis effect is gained in this way. The sleeves are rather small, finished just below the elbow with ruffles of lace.

A Parisian model gown is here illustrated. It is made of a new shade of cloth called coral pastel, which is a somber shade of coral pink. The long redingote of plain cloth is of this color, while the plaited skirt is of dull coral and white check. Black taffeta composes the revers, collar and deep waist belt.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

VANITY'S VISIONS.

Tailored Gowns to Have a Touch of Lace About Them.

All the smart tailored gowns will have a touch of lace about them, especially the collars and cuffs. A pretty innovation for the tailored dresses are the lace cuffs, which are deep and bordered with frills of mull both top and bottom.

There is a new material for the lingerie shirt waist called Paris muslin, which, together with organdie, will be very much used. China silk is another favorite material, and the new designs are blurred and striped very like the chine silks. Korean pongee is a smart fabric for thin silk waists, and under these will be worn colored silk slips.

The dressy waists will all have short sleeves, which is sad news for the woman with a badly turned waist.

The festoon idea of trimming made famous by Marie Antoinette is reproduced in trimmings made of braid and lace.

Lace will be everywhere on dresses. Irish crochet and valenciennes are the favorite makes. On many frocks the two laces are mingled. A new way of applying all over lace is to use it in bands edged top and bottom with a narrow ruffle of val lace.

The waist pictured is of pale mauve crepe de chine. A deep V shaped yoke of lace filled in with a chemisette of embroidered mull is introduced back and front. The full sleeves are gathered into tight cuffs of lace.

Kate Bonnet

The Romance of a Pirate's Daughter

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

CHAPTER XXI.

BELIZE.

THERE were not many captains of merchantmen in the early part of the eighteenth century who cared to sail into the Gulf of Honduras, that body of water being such a favorite resort of pirates.

But no such fears troubled the mind of the skipper of the brig Belinda, which was now making the best of her way towards the port of Belize. She was a sturdy vessel and carried no prejudices. Sometimes she was laden with goods bought from the pirates and destined to be sold to honest people; and, again, she carried commodities purchased from those who were their legal owners and intended for the use of the bold rascals who sailed under the Jolly Roger. Then, as now, it was impossible for thieves to steal all the commodities they desired; some things must be bought. Thus, serving the pirates as well as honest traders, the sloop Belinda feared not to sail the Gulf of Honduras or to cast anchor by the town of Belize.

As the good ship approached her port Kate Bonnet kept steadfastly on deck during most of the daylight, her eyes searching the surface of the water for something which looked like her father's ship, the Revenge. True, Mr. Newcombe had written her that Maj. Bonnet had given up piracy and was now engaged in commercial business in the town, but still, if she should see the Revenge, the sight would be of absorbing interest to her. She was a girl of quick observation and good memory, but the town came in view and she had seen no vessel which reminded her of the Revenge.

As soon as the anchor was dropped Kate wished to go ashore, but her uncle would not hear of that. He must know something definite before he trusted Kate or himself in such a lawless town as Belize. The captain, who was going ashore, could make inquiries, and Kate must wait.

In a little room at the back of a large, low storehouse, not far from the pier, sat Stede Bonnet and his faithful friend and servitor, Ben Greenway. The storehouse was crowded with goods of almost every imaginable description, and even the room back of it contained an overflow of bales, boxes and barrels. At a small table near a window sat the Scotchman and Bonnet, the latter reading some roughly written lists, descriptions and quantities of goods, the value of each item being estimated by the canny Scotchman, who set down the figures upon another list. Presently Bonnet put down his papers and heaved a heavy sigh, which sigh seemed to harmonize very well with his general appearance. He carried no longer upon him the countenance of the bold officer who, in uniform and plowing feather, trod the quarter-deck of the Revenge, but bore the expression of a man who knew adversity, yet was not able to humble himself under it. He was bent and borne down, although not yet broken. Had he been broken he could better have accommodated himself to his present case. His clothes were those of the common class of civilian, and there was that about him which indicated that he cared no more for neatness or good looks.

"Ben Greenway," he said, "this is too much! Now have I reached the depth in my sorrow at which all my strength leaves me. I cannot read these lists."

The Scotchman looked up. "Is there no' light enow?" he asked.

"Light!" said Bonnet; "there is no light anywhere; all is murkiness and gloom. The goods which you have been lately estimating are all my own, taken from my own ship by that arch traitor and chief devil, Blackbeard. I have read the names of them to you and I have remembered many of them and I have not weakened, but now comes a task which is too great for me. These things which follow were all intended for my daughter Kate. Silks and satins and cloth of gold, ribbons and fine linen, laces and ornaments, all these I selected for my dear daughter, and by day and by night I have thought of her appareled in fine raiment, more richly dressed than any lady in Barbadoes. My daughter, my beautiful, my proud Kate! And now what has it all come to? All these are gone, basely stolen from me by that Blackbeard."

Ben Greenway looked up. "Wha stole from ye," he said, "what ye had already stolen from its rightful owners. An' think ye," he continued, "that your honest daughter Kate would deign to array herse'f in stolen goods, no matter how rich they might happen to be! An' think ye she could hold up her head if the good people o' Bridgetown could point at her an' say: 'Look at the thief's daughter; how fine she is!' An' think ye that Mr. Martin Newcombe would tak' into his house an' hame a wife wha hadna come honestly by her clothes! I tell ye, Master Bonnet, that ye should exalt your soul in thankfulness that ye are no longer a dishonest man, an' that whatever raiment your daughter may now wear, no' a sleeve or button o' it was purloined an' stolen by her father."

At this moment there was a knock at the door and the captain of the Belinda came in.

"Good day, sir!" said that burly seaman. "And this is Capt. Bonnet, I am sure, for I have seen him before, though garbed in another fashion, and I come to bring you news. I have just arrived at this port in my sloop, and I bring with me from Kingston your daughter, Mistress Kate Bonnet, her uncle, Mr. Delaplaine, and a good dame named Charter."

Stede Bonnet turned pale as he had never turned pale before.

"My daughter!" he gasped. "My daughter Kate?"

"Yes," said the captain; "she is on my ship, yearning and moaning to see you."

"From Kingston?" murmured Bonnet.

"Yes," said the other, "and on fire to see you since she heard you were here."

"Master Bonnet," exclaimed Ben Greenway, rising, "we must hasten to that vessel; perhaps this good captain will now tak' us there in his boat."

Bonnet fixed his eyes upon the floor. "Ben Greenway," he said, "I cannot. How I have longed to see my daughter; and how, time and again and time and again, I have pictured our meeting! I have seen her throw herself into the arms of that noble officer, her father; I have heard her, bathed in filial tears, forgive me everything because of the proud joy with which she looked on me and knew I was her father. Greenway, I cannot go! I have dropped too low, and I am ashamed to meet her."

"Ashamed that ye are honest?" cried the Scotchman. "Ashamed that sin nae longer besets ye, an' that ye are lifted above the thief an' the cutpurse? Master Bonnet, Master Bonnet, in good truth I am ashamed o' ye."

"Very well," said the captain of the Belinda, "I have no time to waste; if you will not go to her, she e'en must come to you. I will send my boat for her and the others, and you shall wait for them here."

"I will not wait!" exclaimed Bonnet. "I don't dare to look into her eyes. Behold these clothes, consider my mean employment. Shall I abash myself before my daughter?"

"Master Bonnet," exclaimed Greenway, hastily stepping to the doorway through which the captain had departed, "ye shallna tie yoursel' to the skirts o' the de'il; ye shallna run awa' an' hide yoursel' from your daughter wha seeks, in tears an' groans, for her unworthy father. Sit down, Master Bonnet, an' wait here until your good daughter comes."

The Belinda's captain had intended to send his boat back to his vessel, but now he determined to take her himself. This was such a strange situation that it might need explanation.

Kate screamed when he made known his errand. "What!" she cried, "my father in the town, and did he not come back with you? Is he sick? Is he wounded? Is he in chains?"

STEEPLECHASE AT BENNINGS.

Montrip Won With Ease From Twilight and Emigrant.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—One of the most attractive cards of the meeting was offered by the Washington Jockey club. It included the third running of the Southern steeplechase for registered hunters to be ridden by members of hunt clubs and the fourth running of the Amateur cup, the horses to be ridden by members of clubs or university students approved by the committee. Four horses started in the steeplechase, with Montrip a heavy favorite. Twilight and Emigrant were well played, and Again had a good Virginia following. The running was made by Montrip and Twilight, the former winning with comparative ease, while Twilight beat out Emigrant for the place. Again fell at the second jump, but Mr. Hayes remounted and continued the race. The horse fell at the fourth jump, giving Mr. Hayes a hard fall, but he pluckily remounted and started again. After the horse fell a third time his rider gave up the race. The race for the Amateur cup was one of the best of the day, Trapezist finally winning, with Port Arthur second and Wild Irishman third. In the first race Step Away, a six-year-old, managed to get out of the maiden class, while in the sixth Winchester, an outsider in the betting, won handily. Summaries:

First Race.—Step Away, first; Lilac, second; Berry Waddell, third.

Second Race. — Ambitious, first; Away, second; Moonshine, third.

Third Race. — Santa Catalina, first; Toi San, second; Fondness, third.

Fourth Race. — Montrip, first; Twilight, second; Emigrant, third.

Fifth Race. — Trapezist, first; Port Arthur, second; Wild Irishman, third.

Sixth Race.—Winchester, first; Gold Dome, second; Phantom, third.

Racing at Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 12. — The withdrawal of Colonial Girl in the Chickashaw club purse at Montgomery park turned the public's preference to Gus Heidorn, and he was installed favorite at 3 to 2. Stroller, second choice in the betting at 5 to 2, was well played. The favorite finished a poor second to Stroller, who assumed the lead at the half mile post and was never afterward headed. Nannie Hodge, George Leiper and Uncle Charlie were the winning favorites.

President Harper Back at Work.

CHICAGO, April 12.—President W. R. Harper of the University of Chicago took up again his university work interrupted by his recent illness and the following period of convalescence at Lakewood, N. J. President Harper was given a hearty greeting by the students. He not only resumed his place as administrative head of the university, but received such of his classes as were scheduled for the day.

Boston Won Six Inning Game.

BALTIMORE, April 12.—A thunderstorm made it a six inning game between the Boston National league team and that of the Baltimore Eastern league, the former winning by a score of 7 to 1. Adkins' ineffectiveness and Pease's errors gave the Bostonians their runs, while the Baltimore batters could do nothing with Young.

Blue Blaze at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, April 12.—A rainstorm made the City Park track heavy. Five favorites won, and the single nonfavorite winner was a 6 to 1 chance. James Lee, the colored jockey, carried off the riding honors, winning with Blue Blaze, the only outsider to win, and with Dr. Stephens, the favorite in the last race.

Honiton at Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—Favorites again won honors in half the events at Oakland. The fifth race was won by Honiton, the favorite, after a sharp brush with Americano. The field was large in the second, but F. E. Shaw won easily. In the last event Telephone won.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

The Y. M. C. A. boys' department will organize a nine. The plans are in an embryonic state as yet.

William Briggs, manager of Whittier School team, would like to arrange games with teams from 16 to 18 years.

This week workmen are employed in putting the oval in shape for Saturday's opening contest with the Jersey City Club.

The Y. M. C. A. nine will open its season with a practice game with the Camp Bowser team on April 22. The game will be played on Hope Common.

Only a few more days and the baseball season for 1905 will open here. That it may be an auspicious opening and a successful season is the wish of the fans.

The Y. M. C. A. candidates will meet for practice tomorrow night back of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, at 6 o'clock. This will take the place of practice at the ball field.

"Warry" McLaughlin will begin his season with New London next Monday at New London. "Warry" is New London's chief slab artist and indications are that he will be worked for all his arm can stand this year.

As the baseball season comes on apace the prospect of Somerville being represented on the diamond this summer by a high class or even a mediocre nine is very slim. Although a number of sports, including some of the old bloods as well as the later enthusiasts, met sometime ago and formed an organization, nothing further seems to have developed. The only thing that seems to stand in the way of the project is the fact that no cash is forthcoming to maintain the expenses of a team such as would properly uphold Somerville's supremacy on the baseball field. It is rumored that an effort was made to have the business men of the town contribute toward supporting a nine, but refused. So it looks very much as if Somervillians will spend their Saturday afternoons this summer in shady nooks instead of sweating on the bleachers or jailing in the grandstand watching their baseball favorites battling for supremacy.

CO. K TO PARADE ON MEMORIAL DAY

ALSO ARRANGE FOR DINNER, RIFLE CONTEST AND SEA GIRT TRIP.

The members of Co. K, at a meeting held on Monday night, decided to parade with Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., on Memorial Day, as has been the annual custom. Arrangements for a return match with Co. M, of Princeton, are now under way and the Mercer County boys will visit here either on May 6 or 20. Final arrangements have been made for the company dinner at Truell Inn on Monday night, April 17, when several addresses will be made by both military officers and others prominent in the city and State.

There is a possibility that the company may go to Sea Girt for a week during July. There is a rumor that Gen. Gilmore will allow the boys to spend a week in camp if the consent of Governor Stokes can be secured, provided they agree to provide for the expense of cooking and transportation, so that the outing will not be any expense to the State. This is not Co. K's year to go in camp, but a majority of the members express a desire to spend a week at Sea Girt if arrangements can be made for it.

War on Mosquitoes.

The Elizabeth Board of Health took up the question of the extermination of mosquitoes at an adjourned meeting Monday night and passed a resolution asking Council for $3,000 with which to continue its campaign against the pest. A report was received from John Smith, State entomologist, regarding the conditions existing here, in which he said that the entire drainage planned in and about Elizabeth could be done for $7,000. The greater part of the work, he said, will have to be done by the Central Railroad Company, and he made reference to the fact that Newark had not yet finished her work because that part left undone was an especial annoyance to Newark.

Crescent Avenue Presbyterians Review Year's Remarkable Work.

IN OTHER CHURCHES

First Presbyterians and Park Avenue Baptists Also Hold Their Annual Meetings.

The meeting of the Crescent Avenue church congregation was held in the church chapel and was very largely attended. The reports presented included every department of the organization, comprising the home church and Sunday-school and those of Hope, Warren and Bethel chapels. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie acted as moderator and Dr. Ellis W. Hedges as clerk.

Probably the most important of the reports was the one read by the clerk, detailing the financial side of the year's work. It showed that the congregation in the twelve months had raised a total of $33,672.25, for all purposes. This was expended as follows: For home missions and the support of chapels, $6,492.96; foreign missions, $5,826.12; miscellaneous, $629.97; ministerial relief, $886.68; education, $625; church erection, $750; aid for colleges, $488.92; freedmen, $181.98; publication and Sabbath-school work, $108.30; Bible Society, $65; synodical aid, $601.19; Plainfield charities, $611.19; temperance, $10; general assembly, $127.50; deacons' fund, $1,455.91. The total benevolences were $19,289.79, an increase of $1,400 over last year, while the congregational expenses were $14,382 46.

Another report read by the clerk showed that the total membership of the home church and its branches is 1,628 divided as follows: Crescent Avenue, 918; Bethel chapel, 75; Hope chapel, 371; Warren chapel, 264. The total Sunday-school membership is 1,696, the home school having 894, Bethel chapel, 269; Hope chapel, 618 and Warren chapel, 415.

Each of the chapels was represented by the pastor and the superintendent of the Sunday-school, each of whom detailed the work in his care. For Hope chapel the speakers were Henry C. Squires and Rev. L. R. Howard; for Warren chapel, Frederick H Andrews and Rev. J. O. McKelvey; for Bethel chapel, A. W. Duxbury and Rev. F. J. Tilden. All spoke of having had an encouraging year and of bright prospects for the future.

The home departments were reported for as follows: Sunday-school, George A. Strong, membership 894, receipts, $405.45, for missions, $518.84; deacons' report, S. H. Whitney; trustees' report, Charles F. Abbott; Ladies' Aid Society, Foreign Mission Society, Home Mission Society and the Sunshine Mission Band were all reported for by Dr. Zelie. These organizations raised during the year a total of $3,990.

The only other business of the evening was the election of Leander N. Lovell, Henry C. Squires and Dr. S. VanD. Hedges as elders and Dr. William H. Murray and T. F. Budlong as deacons, the latter succeeding James F. Kimball, resigned.

Park Avenue Baptist.

Very complete reports showing a gratifying condition spiritually and financially were presented at the annual parish meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church, last night, and trustees for the coming year were elected. Rev. A. M. Finn, pastor, was chosen moderator, and Harry C. Runyon, as clerk, occupied his position. The terms of John H. Doane, L. R. Schofield and C. K. Compton as trustees, expired, and Mr. Doane and Mr. Schofield were re-elected. Mr. Compton declined the office owing to a pressure of other matters, and it was with sincere regret that his resignation was accepted after many years of faithful service.

A very comprehensive report was presented by Roland C. Treadwell, as president of the Board of Trustees. During the past year a special effort has been made to increase the revenue of the church. The result has been quite satisfactory, there being a net increase of about $600. The arduous duties of Mr. Treadwell have been appreciated as was shown in an expression of thanks by all those present.

REV. DR. C. W. PARSONS IS COMING ON SUNDAY

ELOQUENT DIVINE TO TAKE CHARGE OF GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

Rev. Dr. Charles Wesley Parsons, appointed by the last Newark Conference to assume the pastorate of Grace

Dr. Charles Wesley Parsons.

M. E. church as the successor of Rev. Dr. Edwin L. Earp, is a native of New York State. He was educated at Casenovia Seminary, Casenovia, N. Y., and Wyoming Seminary, Kingston, Pa. He afterward prepared himself for the ministry at Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, graduating from there in the class of 1874.

He was first appointed to the Northern New York Conference and held pastorates at Rome, Watertown and Utica. He was next transferred to Kansas City and after accomplishing an excellent work was made pastor of St. Paul's church, Newark. From there he went to the Hanson place church, Brooklyn, where he remained three years, then to the Chestnut Street church, Portland, Me. Poor health compelled him to resign and he spent five years in recuperating, holding no charge. Two years ago he again took up active work and was appointed pastor of the First M. E. church, Minneapolis, where he remained until a short time ago.

He is now at Newark but will come to Plainfield Saturday and occupy the pulpit at Grace church for the first Sunday. Dr. Parsons is married and his wife and two of his four children will come to Plainfield with him.

Entertained at Euchre.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Clark, of Putnam avenue, entertained the card club, of which they are members, last night. It was the last meeting of the club for the season and there were many pleasant features. Mrs. Marcus L. Clawson was awarded the prize for the women and William Burnett the prize for the men. After the play refreshments were served and the members decided to maintain the organization next season.

DIVIDE ON PEW RENTS

Lively Discussion at Meeting of Congregational Church.

WILL RENT SITTINGS

President of the Board of Trustees Opposes Plan to Charge for Seats.

Pew renting was established at the Congregational church by a divided vote of the Congregational Society, in annual session last night. This is the first time in the history of the church, which was started twenty-five years ago, that a rule setting a price on the sittings has been put in force. The proposition to establish the renting system was vigorously opposed by J. E. Morse, president of the Board of Trustees and a third of those who voted on it supported him when the ballot was taken.

The proposition to rent the seatings was embodied in a report made by the committee appointed last year to put the finances of the church society on a basis of firmer character. Alexander Millar, chairman of the committee, read the report. It recommended that the society "place a reasonable valuation on all sittings in the church," because that seemed the best way of providing an adequate income of steady character. For several years, Mr. Millar explained in expatiating on the report and its recommendations, the Board of Trustees have had to face a deficit before each yearly meeting, and it was felt that something should be done to bring the regular receipts up.

"Before we go any further," said Mr. Morse, after Mr. Millar had paused for questions, "let us get one of the rules of this church out of the way. In 1895 the first rule put on the list prepared then read 'No pews shall be rented in this church.' That hasn't been repealed, and I don't see how you can consider this proposition until it is."

J. M Whiton, in the chair, ruled that the adoption of the recommendation would, or could easily be made to wipe out the rule.

To draw discussion on the proposition, Mr. Millar moved the adoption of the recommendation.

"Well, I for one am opposed to the committee in this thing," said Mr. Morse. "I am opposed to pew renting on principle. In this case I can see no reason for it. I don't think the proposition to establish renting is fair to the Board of Trustees. If they can't be trusted to manage the finances of a little $3,000 corperation turn them out and put in others. But don't call in seven or eight different members of the congregation to 'assist' them."

W. B. Wadsworth spoke after Mr. Morse, in a conciliatory strain. He said he felt it was ethically right to keep the sittings unpriced, but consideration of the difficulties which faced the church society in in its yearly financing compelled him to side with the committee. He begged the congregation to consider the question in a spirit of harmony, and accept the result of the vote without bitter feelings.

M. L. Suffern spoke in a similar

SUBPOENA "BOXING BOUT" SPECTATORS

Some City and Borough Officials to Appear Before the Grand Jury.

ON TUESDAY NEXT

To Tell What They Know of That "Musical and Athletic Entertainment" in North Plainfield.

Despite their protestations that nothing would come of it, the city and borough officials who attended the "musical and athletic entertainment" in Saengerbund Hall, last month, have a panicky feeling today through a visit to town from George Totten, Somerset County's official detective. In his usual quiet way he began calling at local offices and at nearly every one he left a subpoena asking Mr. Blank to make it a point to be at Somerville next Tuesday, when the April term of court begins. There was no getting out of it—it was the official summons from Prosecutor J. V. Reger, who proposes to let the Grand Jury know all about the affair over which opinions differ.

The majority of those who were "put wise" on that memorable Monday night and paid a dollar to get in Saengerbund Hall, have had lapses of memory over just what occurred while others have found that they were mistaken in what they saw. The morning after the "entertainment" they were positive it was "a bully good fight" but since then most of them have come to the conclusion that the men on the platform were playing a new parlor game, something like ping-pong or Puss-in-the corner. A young fellow named Klein, so they say, got over enthusiastic and gave Willie Ferris a rough shove that made him fall. He did hit his head a hard crack, to be sure, and the blood spurted and he cried just like other ping pong and tennis players do but, pshaw, it really wasn't much to talk about. Prosecutor Reger is anxious to know just exactly what it was and that is why he has asked the city officials and prominent residents to be on hand, in order that he might get the real facts.

It is expected that Judge Schenck may make the "entertainment" the basis of his charge to the jury before it retires and some of the authorities in North Plainfield—and Plainfield as well—will have to tell their story of the "entertainment."

MERCHANTS' BAN ON "ADV." GRAFT

Agree Not to Take Space in Programmes, Circulars, Cards, Etc.

USE NEWSPAPERS ONLY

Druggists and Lumber and Coal Dealers Lead in Crusade Against "X. G."

Advs.

Firmly convinced that they derive no benefit from the practice, local druggists and the dealers in lumber and coal have agreed among themselves to "taboo" all advertising schemes that practically amount to graft for organizations or individuals. Hereafter they will discard all programmes, circulars, cards and similar affairs and depend upon the newspapers alone to keep their business before the public eye. Their action will undoubtedly be followed by many local merchants in other lines as they have it under consideration.

The programme and circular form of so-called advertising has gone almost to extremes in this city and it has become so costly that it demanded attention. Almost every society or organization that plan an entertainment or dance arranges to have part of the expense borne by the merchants by having friends of the different ones secure an "ad" from them for a programme. It is always stated that there will be so many hundred or so many thousand of the programmes printed but nine times out of ten a few dozen is all that is gotten before the public. In nearly every instance the merchant is unable to refuse as it is generally a customer who makes the request for the ad, and to say "no" would be to lose that much trade.

The druggists have been especially bothered in this way and the soliciting of advertisements became such an expensive nuisance that the matter was taken up at their last meeting.

All agreed to have nothing more to do with these floating schemes and to devote the money thus saved to legitimate newspaper space. The coal and lumber dealers followed suit and every line of trade will be included before many months.

I. L. LARUE BUYS EAST 2D ST. PROPERTY

ANOTHER IMPORTANT REALTY DEAL IN THE BOOM CENTRE.

Ira L. LaRue, the real estate dealer, yesterday purchased of Fred W. Hand the valuable property on East Second street, extending between the property of the Plainfield Cab Company and the house occupied by William Townley. The tract measures 60x100. Anticipating the trend of the business boom in the heart of the city and especially the erection of the handsome building by The Plainfield Trust Company, as well as other building operations, Mr. LaRue secured this property, paying the highest price yet recorded for city land in a long time. Mr. LaRue may erect a handsome business block on the property.

Other realty deals made by Mr. La Rue yesterday included the selling of Miss Gertrude Jackson's property at 409 East Sixth street to Charles L. Moffett; three lots in Cedar street, North Plainfield, to a Newark party, and Cormick Caulfield's lot on South Second street to Christopher H. Lee, of New York, who will erect a modern dwelling. Mr. LaRue, who owns the building on North avenue, occupied by Stephenson, the caterer, has decided to remodel the entire front of the store.

Council Meets Tomorrow Night.

The Common Council will hold an adjourned meeting tomorrow night and among the principal business to be taken up will be that the street sprinkling master and the tax ordinance. The finance committee has held several meetings and will probably be prepared to make a report. Chairman Wilson, of the street committee, will also report on the contract for street sprinkling. Several other matters of minor importance will also be taken up.

CONDUCTOR WAS OVER-ZEALOUS

Confiscated Mrs. Zelia Turpin's Commutation Ticket Despite Her Protest.

R. R. FACES SUIT

Probable Costly Incident of Crusade Against Those Who Ride on Other's Monthly Trip Card.

Over-zealousness on the part of one of the New Jersey Central's conductors to add his little mite in the crusade against the letting out of commutation tickets, has involved the company in a legal tangle that promises to cost it a good part of the local station's monthly earnings. The action has been brought by Winfield S. Angleman as counsel for Mrs. Zelia Turpin, wife of Jacob Turpin, a tailor in the employ of Robert Gardner, of Watchung avenue, who asks damages for the taking up of her monthly ticket and the humiliation to which she was subjected as a consequence.

Mrs. Turpin, who is an attractive young matron, has been having some dental work done in New York and during March found that her car fare at a dollar a trip was proving costly. On the last day of the month she purchased a commutation ticket and took an early train, the 7:55, the next morning. She occupied a seat in the last coach next the club cars and there was nothing to indicate that she was using someone else's ticket when she presented here to Conductor Johnson, yet the man in blue cloth and brass buttons became suspicious.

He punched a ride out, looked at Mrs. Turpin, who returned his gaze unflinchingly, then without another word, placed the ticket in his pocket and walked on. Naturally enough the owner became excited and called to Johnson to return the ticket, but she was ignored. She speaks with a foreign accent and as she pleaded for her property, many of the young men in the car took up her call in a derisive way to her and she was practically overcome by humiliation. She was allowed to continue her ride to New York but returned immediately and acquainted her husband with the facts.

The matter was at once placed in Counsellor Angleman's hands and in today's Daily Press, he advertises for witnesses to the affair. Mrs. Turpin has identified Johnson as the conductor who took the ticket and the company officials have been advised to that effect with notice of her demands for settlement. In the event of their refusal, the matter will be taken to the courts at the next term.

Lawyers Will Have to Shout.

Despite all the study and forethought spent upon the plans of Union County's court house, just completed, it has been found that the acoustic properties are very poor in the rooms where the courts are to hold sessions. It has been apparent from the time the walls were enclosed and it will require something akin to stentorian tones for a plea or an address to be heard. The architects are now considering plans to remedy the trouble.

Baby's Face Badly Gashed.

Attracted by a pet dog running across the floor, Marjorie, the one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Martin, of Duer street, leaned over in a high chair, yesterday, and losing her balance, fell to the floor. Her face struck a projection and a long gash was inflicted that made it necessary for Dr. Buchanan to be called. It required twelve stitches to close the wound.

Lecture on the Federal Constitution.

David Prescott Hall, of the New York Bar Association, will give a lecture on "The Origin and Nature of the Federal Constitution," at Tusell Inn, Park avenue, on Monday afternoon, April 24, at 4 o'clock, under the auspices of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield. The annual meeting of the League will be held at the same place at 3 o'clock.

Relief Association Fills Vacancy.

At a meeting of the Firemen's Relief Association, last night, Guillermo Thorn was elected treasurer to fill the vacancy caused by the death of William Newman. The association will hold its annual meeting Wednesday, May 3.

EDMUND YOUNG WEDS MISS FLORENCE BENNETT

CEREMONY TAKES PLACE AT THE HOME OF THE BRIDE'S PARENTS.

With only relatives and near friends in attendance, Miss Florence Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bennett, of Norwood avenue, and Edmund D. Young, of South Second street, were married last night, the ceremony taking place at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., pastor of Trinity Reformed church, was the officiating pastor.

Miss Eva Dunavan, of East Second street, acted as bridesmaid, and John Young, of Westfield, brother of the groom, was best man. Beyond these there were no attendants. Miss Bennett and Miss Dunavan were both gowned in blue silk, trimmed with cream lace and satin. The former carried bride roses and her attendant pink roses. Decorations of smilax and greens were in the parlor and dining room, the bridal party standing beneath a floral bell.

The ceremony was followed by a reception, during which Mr. and Mrs. Young were the recipients of hearty congratulations. They will make their home on West Front street in a house recently purchased and furnished by the groom. Both young people are widely known throughout the city, principally through musical talents. They have been members of Trinity church choir, Mr. Young as tenor soloist and his bride as soprano. The numerous presents they received included a handsome McKinley rocker, the gift of the choir.

FORMER PATROLMAN DIES AT WHITEHOUSE

END COMES TO GEORGE W. LUNGER AFTER TWO YEARS' ILLNESS.

George W. Lunger, for six years one of the best known and most popular patrolmen on the local police force, died late last night at his home in Whitehouse. Death was due to a complication of diseases from which he had suffered for nearly two years.

He was born at Cherryille, Hunterdon County, forty-two years ago and lived there the greater part of his life, being engaged in farming. He then moved to this city and was appointed to the police force, serving with a clean record until ill health compelled him to resign. He was of a genial disposition, always fond of a joke and he was highly thought of by his fellow-patrolmen and numerous friends.

Mr. Lunger was twice married. His first wife was killed by lightning while letting down a window sash during a heavy thunder storm. Two children survive him by this union, Harry and Raymond Lunger, both of Plainfield. He afterward married Miss Maria Swackhamer, sister of former Assemblyman Swackhamer, of the borough, who survives him. Some time ago when Mr. Lunger believed his end was near, he made the request that after he died, an autopsy be performed so the physicians might know the direct cause of his death. This was done today.

The funeral services will be held from the home at Whitehouse Saturday afternoon at 3:15 and will be in charge of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., of this city, of which he was a member.

E. T. Colton to Speak.

"The Crisis in the East" will be the subject of a strong address to be given by E. T. Colton at the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mr. Colton is one of the acceptable speakers at the College Conferences at Northfield and Lake Geneva. Miss Mildred Till, of the Rock Concert Co., will be the soloist and a chorus of mixed voices will assist. Charles W. McCutchen will preside.

To Present "Mr. Bob."

The comedy "Mr. Bob" will be given by the Junior Class, of the North Plainfield High School, tomorrow night. The caste has been selected carefully by Miss Stahlberger and it is predicted that the play will be the best ever given at the school.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Education of Mr. Pipp" continues to be one of the most consistent successes of the season in New York, and well filled houses are the rule at the Liberty Theatre. The Gibson comedy reached its fiftieth performance on Monday, April 10, and will remain on 42d Street for the rest of the season. Since the play is from the series of pictures which Charles Dana Gibson drew, it is very necessary that close similarity be followed between the played characters and the Gibson idea. Everyone who has seen the performance concedes that Digby Bell is the most perfect "Mr. Pipp" that could be imagined. His quiet, resigned manner and easy reading of the laughter-producing lines which have been given him by the brainy Augustus Thomas are very amusing.

"Florodora," the most successful and popular musical play ever produced in this country, is presented at the Broadway Theatre, New York, for a limited engagement. In preparing for the revival of this most delightful of all musical plays, Messrs. Fisher and Ryley spared no expense and it will be with new costumes and scenery, as elaborate in every detail as they were when this new famous musical play was originally produced at the Casino, almost four years ago, that "Florodora" will be given at the Broadway. "Florodora" is presented upon this occasion with a specially selected cast, which will include Miss Adele Ritchie as "Lady Holyrood;" Cyril Scott as "Lord Abergood;" Phil K. Ryley as "Tweedlepunch;" Miss Elsa Ryan as "Angela Gilfain;" Henry V. Donnelly as "Gilfain," the millionaire; T. A. Kiernan as "Leandre" and Miss Lillie Collins as "Valieda." Aside from the story cast and the "Pretty Maiden" sextette, there will be a beauty chorus of 100 that is everything the word means; each member of the chorus can sing and the chorus of "Florodora" has been pronounced by all who have seen the play since the revival as the best singing chorus ever gathered together on any stage.

The National Capital.

Every American is proud of the nation's Capitol and in Washington wonderful and beautiful as it is the tourist finds a city than which no other is more interesting or grand. The great public buildings massive in their structure and imposing in appearance are gold mines of interest and curiosity. The city which is now blossoming in its bright spring garb is most perfect in its arrangement and its finely kept streets, its innumerable parks and pleasure places offer no end of amusement and instruction to the tourist and traveler. Much time can be profitably spent visiting the Treasury Building, the Congressional Library, Washington Monument, the Pension Building, Coobran Art Gallery, Smithsonian Institute, Public Printing Office and the like, while the side trips to Mt. Vernon, Georgetown and the National Cemetery are productive and valuable and interesting sights. Every American should visit the Capitol City and an opportunity to enjoy such a trip is offered by the New Jersey Central's popular spring excursion to Washington on April 18, 1905, when the rate including hotel and other expenses is $12. The trip is made on the famous Royal Limited trains and the intervening country traversed is unsurpassed from a scenic standpoint. The tickets include stopover privileges at Baltimore and Philadelphia, both of which places have many historic interests. The New Jersey Central has issued an itinerary of the trip, which is sent free to any applicant by C. M. Burt, G. P. A., New York city.

JOURNALISTIC OPINION.

Powerful Weapon.

A Union County justice of the peace, who decided that a woman's tongue is a concealed weapon, has been reversed by a higher court. It was shown that there was no concealment about it when the woman he fined for giving him a tongue-lashing used the weapons.—Newark Advertiser.

A Burning Question.

As was the case in the Newark M. E. Conference that of New York has just been the scene of an exciting experience over the question of "select" appointments. The matter was again up on the floor of the New York conference yesterday and brought out some impassioned talk. Distinct charges were made that cliques of wealthy and influential laymen had dictated to Bishops appointments of ministers to important churches to the detriment of more deserving clergymen—at least of ministers who under the theory of the church would get what President Roosevelt would call a "square deal." In the New York Conference the movement against the practice of "calling" select ministers and securing them by a "pull," went much farther than it did in the Newark body, where it was confined to a protest by the presiding Bishop. In New York a committee was appointed to consider a resolution providing for a standing committee to be known as the Committee on the rights of the minister. Yesterday in report adverse to such action was made, but the members of the committee unanimously agreed that the charge of abuse of Methodist regulations was well founded, and that it should be corrected. The agitator of the subject—the Rev. Arthur Thompson, of Matteawan—in introducing his resolution declared that for the last sixteen years all the "fat job" in the conference had been taken by the New York district, and that the country preachers had been left out in the cold. The debate yesterday in the New York Conference on this subject was very spicy, and the matter was not disposed of. Both of the incidents referred to above indicate that a question which has troubled the Methodist Church for a number of years past is approaching a crisal stage.—Paterson Daily Press.

LITERARY.

Anticipating the coming camping season, the leading article in Recreation for April is "Summer Camps and Campers," by Arnold Bartlett Parker. The story is filled with illustrations and contains many practical hints for the tenderfoot and his wife in the woods and on the waters. "In the Country of the Black Sheep" is a story by B. H. Brown, covering a trip through British Columbia, after the Ovus Stonei, the so-called American black sheep discovered by Andrew J. Stone several years ago.

While not expressly planned as a special Easter number, there are in the May issue of The Metropolitan Magazine several distinctive features which give to it a strong flavor of the approaching springtime holiday. The cover design of this number is relevant to the Eastertide and is reproduced in full color from the painting made for the magazine by Blendon Campbell. Both in drawing and color this cover effect is masterly. It is perhaps the most beautiful exterior adornment ever put upon any magazine. A frontispiece in full color by the same artist represents the "Easter Girl" in a setting of cool, springtime green. The article of foremost interest in the May Metropolitan is from the pen of Colonel G. W. Larned, of the United States Military Academy at West Point.

A MESSAGE OF PEACE

Ambassador Meyer Carried Czar an Offer to Mediate.

REPORT NAVAL FIGHT AT ANAMBAS

Russian Fleet Under Rojestvensky Held Together Passing Singapore. Have Not Been Divided—Battle Report Doubted.

LONDON, April 13.—At St. Petersburg Ambassador Meyer has presented his letters of credence to Emperor Nicholas at Tsarskoe-Selo.

In diplomatic circles the keenest interest was manifested at the first interview between the emperor and the new American ambassador owing to the widespread belief that President Roosevelt stands ready to undertake the promotion of peace. It is supposed that Mr. Meyer delivered a confidential communication to his majesty from President Roosevelt.

The audience lasted ten or fifteen minutes, but what passed between the emperor and the ambassador is unknown.

The occasion marked a notable departure from the custom of the court since the days of Minister C. R. Breckinridge, Mr. Meyer wearing no uniform, but appearing in the simple evening dress of an American gentleman.

A naval battle between the Russian and Japanese fleets is now in progress near the Anambas islands, east of the Malay peninsula, according to a telegram from Batavia, island of Java.

The dispatch adds that five Dutch warships are near the scene of battle.

The British armored cruiser Subtle has arrived at Singapore from Hongkong. She reports having passed the Russian second Pacific squadron, including seven battleships, steaming north at daylight Tuesday morning.

The St. Petersburg admiralty has no information in regard to the alleged naval battle in progress off the Anambas islands and does not credit the possibility of a general naval battle yet.

The officials concede, however, that the Japanese may have attempted a torpedo boat attack on a convoy during the night.

It is pointed out that there is no cable connecting the Anambas islands and Batavia and that the first news of a fight should some from Singapore unless the Dutch warships are able to communicate with Batavia by wireless telegraphy.

The statement that the Russian battleships passed Singapore going eastward is now absolutely confirmed, so that all of Vice Admiral's Rojestvensky's squadron are accounted for.

This definite news about the battleships was sent to Singapore by wireless telegraphy from the China sea.

It is presumed that the battleships passed Singapore further out to sea than the rest of the squadron; hence the divergent reports regarding the number of Rojestvensky's ships.

A Tokyo report says that the British steamer Henry Bolckow has been seized by the Japanese off the island of Hokkaido. It is said that the vessel was bound for Vladivostok.

It is reported at Tokyo that the Russians at Vladivostok are conducting experiments with six submarine vessels and that these boats are all of foreign manufacture and include French, British and American types.

Lenten Festival at Bethlehem.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., April 13.—In the old historic Moravian church here, after a familar hymn by the trombone choir from the big high white belfry, Dr. J. Fred Wolle and his chorus of 170 and orchestra of seventy presented in a highly successful manner the several cantatas that introduced the Lenten festival of the famous Bach cycle. Most of the cantatas were of a solo variety, the entire work being almost all written in Phrygian mode. Julian Walker, the New York basso, sang the most notable part of the cantata "Gut Nacht" and Mrs. Gertrude Stein Bailey the alto solo "Willkommen."

Seven Reported Gone to Canada.

CHICAGO, April 13.—At the beef trust inquiry here E. B. Fish, an employee of Schwarzchild & Sulzberger, was the principal witness. Great secrecy is maintained regarding Fish and his evidence. It was rumored that his testimony related to the disappearance of several persons who are wanted as witnesses in the investigation and who are said to have gone to Canada at the beginning of proceedings before the grand jury.

Edwards Confessed Murder.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 13.—Isham Edwards, who is confined here with two other negroes under sentence of death for the murder of School Superintendent M. W. Epps near Tallahassee, has confessed the crime, declaring that Caldwell and Larkins, the other negroes, are innocent and were not connected with the killing. The trio were convicted of murder in the first degree and received the death sentence.

Formaldehyde Poisoned Twins.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 13.—Formaldehyde was discovered in milk which, it is believed, caused the death of William and Ella Shanley, three-month-old twins, here. The discovery was made by Milk Inspector W. O. Scott of this city, who analyzed the milk, said to have been the only food of the children. An autopsy has been ordered.

Fears For Father Martin at Rome.

ROME, April 13.—The condition of Father Martin, general of the Society of Jesus, is unfavorable, as pus is gathering on his arm where the amputation was made. Serious complications are feared.

THE VEILED LADY.

Seventh a Great Race at Bennings. Favorite Was Beaten.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Two favorites, one second choice and four outsiders were first under the wire in the seven races at Bennings. The seventh race at one mile over the Columbia course not only was the best of the day, but proved to be one of the greatest speculative propositions of the meeting. Yeoman was always the favorite, but every horse in the race had strong backing. The start was excellent, Lochinvar being the first to show in front. He was lapped by The Veiled Lady and Yeoman. At the half Yeoman took command, with The Veiled Lady close up. At the turn into the stretch Yeoman looked to be the winner, but The Veiled Lady beat him out in a drive by a small margin. Bill Curtis got third place. Creamer's ride on the favorite was sharply criticised. In the steeplechase Champs Elysees, the favorite, made all the running and won eased up. His fencing was perfect. Hawfinch refused the Liverpool jump the second time around and did not finish. In the first event Monsoon, practically neglected in the betting because it was the horse's first start this year, won easily. The opening odds on the horse were as good as 30 to 1. Summaries:

First Race.—Monsoon, first; Ninnasquaw, second; Gallant, third.

Second Race.—Baby Willie, first; Merry Belle, second; Judge White, third.

Third Race.—Peter Paul, first; Tootsey Mack, second; Panique, third.

Fourth Race.—Julia M., first; Little Woods, second; Setauket, third.

Fifth Race.—Champs Elysees, first; Follow On, second; Illicit, third.

Sixth Race.—Northville, first; O'eroso, second; Salt and Pepper, third.

Seventh Race.—The Veiled Lady, first; Yeoman, second; Bill Curtis, third.

Good Card at Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 13.—Fine weather and a good card attracted a large crowd to Montgomery park. Ivan the Terrible was scratched in the fourth race, the feature event at one mile, leaving only Waterside and Jack Lory. Waterside was made the prohibitive favorite at odds of 1 to 6. Jack Lory's price was 4 to 1. Waterside assumed the lead from the start and won by a length and a half. Councilman, Joe Lessar and Waterside were the winning favorites.

Harvard Won From Syracuse.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 13.—Harvard defeated Syracuse at baseball here by the score of 13 to 4. The game abounded in errors and poor pitching. Hannon, the left handed Syracuse pitcher, was taken out of the box in the third inning after allowing four bases on balls and three hits, which resulted in eight runs. A running one handed catch by Rutherford, the Syracuse shortstop, of a line drive when the bases were full was a feature.

Beck Confessed Defeat.

BALTIMORE, April 13.—Emil Beck of Camden, N. J., featherweight champion of America, was completely outwrestled here last night by Ben Finnick of this city. Finnick won the first fall in 36 minutes 50 seconds, and after a little more than nine minutes of the second bout Beck stopped wrestling and confessed himself unable to throw his opponent.

Dr. Leggo at Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—Dr. Leggo broke another record at Oakland by clipping a quarter of a second from the California record in the handicap at a mile and fifty yards. The time was 1:42⅖. Although equal favorite with Dr. Leggo in the betting, Nigrette made a poor showing and finished last.

Nationals Beat Montreal.

NEW YORK, April 13.—At the Polo grounds here the New York National league baseball team defeated the Eastern league team of Montreal by a score of 8 to 0 in an exhibition game. Both McGinnity and Mathewson had perfect control in their pitching, which proved to be too much for the visitors.

Famous Race Track Sold.

BALTIMORE, April 13.—The Pimlico race track, famous in turf history for more than a generation, was sold at auction here under a court order to William P. Riggs, representing the Maryland Jockey club, which was reorganized in this city last summer. The purchase price was $[illegible],000.

Cadets Won Out.

WEST POINT, N. Y., April 13.—The West Point cadets for seven innings shut out Trinity. Then a series of errors let in three runs in the eighth and two more in the ninth inning. West Point began scoring from the start and succeeded in winning out by a score of 7 to 5.

Crohan Unable to Continue.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 13.—Edward O'Connell of New Haven defeated Tom Crohan of Springfield in a catch-as-catch-can wrestling match last night. After the first fall, which O'Connell won in ten minutes, Crohan was unable to continue.

Whitewash For Americans.

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—The spring series of games between the local clubs of the National and American leagues closed here with a victory for the National League club, leaving the series stand at four victories for each. Score 5 to 0.

Princeton Defeated Fordham 4 to 2.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 13.—The Fordham baseball team, which defeated Yale 10 to 1 two weeks ago, went down before Princeton here in a fast and exciting game, with the score 4 to 2.

GREAT HIPPODROME

New York's New Playhouse Leads the World.

A YANKEE CIRCUS ON PLANET MARS

Spectacular Production of American Civil War Incidents—Battle Scene Brings Mounted Troops on the Stage.

NEW YORK, April 13.—The Hippodrome, New York's newest and largest place of amusement, was opened to the public last night under the management of Thompson & Dundy, and every one of the 5,200 seats was taken, some of them having been bought at auction at high premiums, and wherever there was standing space it was filled. The performance began with the spectacle "A Yankee Circus on Mars." The first scene showed a stranded American circus about to be sold at auction. It is bought by a Martian, who takes it to his planet, and this gives opportunity in the following scene to show very elaborate stage settings. Following the "Circus on Mars" came a spectacular production of American civil war incidents, "Andersonville; a Story of Wilson's Raiders." In this there was a battle scene bringing numbers of mounted men on the stage. The great Hippodrome tank was utilized in the battle scene, the fore part of the stage sinking, this process of submersion continuing for several minutes until the stage represented a river.

With mounted troops represented in retreat, horses and riders rush forward and plunge into the water many feet deep. Many horses were in the water at the same time, and the magnitude of the presentation of the battle made a very effective scene.

The Hippodrome is said to be the largest and grandest playhouse in the world. Hundreds of persons and many animals, including elephants and horses, were in view at one time on the stage, making a very animated and picturesque scene. The circus specialties introduced in the first part of the performance are unusually good.

The general scheme of coloring in the Hippodrome is Roman red as a background, with all the structural features done in ivory, gold and silver. The entire orchestra, balconies and galleries are carpeted to match the decorations, and the wall hangings, draperies and upholstery are executed in a Roman red velvet enriched with heavy gold and silver embroidery and tassels.

The promenades and lobbies are finished in marble and Caen stone, relieved by ornamental parts of gold and silver. Great elephants' heads serve as the capitals for the marble columns and pilasters.

In the rear of the balcony is the mezzanine floor. Below the rear seats of the balcony there is a wide segmental promenade, with main entrances and flights of wide, shallow stairs at each end to the street. Behind the promenade the space of 200 feet long is occupied by smoking rooms, parlors, waiting rooms and cloak rooms. The U shaped gallery seats about 1,800 persons.

War Department Upheld Action.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The war department has sustained the action of the commanding officer of the army post at Fort Caswell, N. C., in refusing to surrender to the state authorities of North Carolina for trial in the state courts Sergeant Lee Kye, who, it is alleged, shot and killed Corporal Thomas Harris of the Thirty-eighth company, coast artillery, a few weeks ago. A state grand jury had returned a true bill for manslaughter against Sergeant Kye.

New Structure Collapsed.

DANVILLE, Va., April 13.—By a partial collapse of the new bridge across the Dan river here seven men and some machinery were precipitated into the stream twenty-five feet below, resulting in the injury of four of them. S. A. Patterson, one of the uninjured, emerged from the stream with his cigar still clenched in his teeth. The accident was due to defective planking.

Plainfield, N. J., April 13, 1905.

The Trenton State-Gazette says that taking everything into consideration once in two years is often enough for the Legislature of Pennsylvania to meet. What's that about "people in glass houses?"

This is the birthday of the immortal Thomas Jefferson, whose name is linked with Washington and Lincoln in greatness. It was he who wrote: "We hold these truths to be self-evident—that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

It is somewhat remarkable for a congregation in a town of this size to be able to raise over $33,000 in a single year, and that without any special effort. Such is the achievement of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. It is, to say the least, a great tribute to the ability and zeal of Rev. Dr. Zelie and the Session of the church. Of course other congregations, which are not so well blessed in the world's riches, have done as well proportionately, but the striking fact is that so big a sum can be raised by a single congregation in a community of this size which has no less than thirty churches.

The most successful advertisers of this country are the steady advertisers; the men who plan campaigns in great detail; the men who have started advertising in a modest way and have increased their appropriations as the results became apparent. These men have never been foolhardy enough to believe that they could scale the heights of prosperity at a single bound, or could count on past advertising to carry them along on "downy beds of ease" through the present. Advertising gathers force as it goes—stop it for any length of time and you have to make up for the loss of momentum. The merchant or manufacturer who drops his advertising during dull seasons is dropping his oars in midstream and letting the current bear him backwards.

ORANGE HORSE SHOW.

The committee in charge comprises Ira Kipp, Jr., Esq., chairman; G. H. Betts, treasurer; W. S. Hitts, secretary; I. W. Baldwin, W. D. Grand, Charles Hathaway, Ernest Hopkinson, Earl Millikin, Charles F. Rand, Tenno Sauvage, W. Andersen Walker.

REAL ESTATE ITEMS.

Rev. Mr. Francis, of Westfield, will speak at the Grove Street Rescue Mission this evening.

DIVIDE ON PEW RENTS

strain. After Mr. Millar had made a half a dozen explanations of the recommendation, to make it clear to questioners, the question was put.

Thirty-one votes were cast for it and fifteen against.

According to the committee's figures, the rentals will yield $3,800 a year. A number of the congregation now pay, in voluntary subscription, more than their sittings would bring in rents. It is understood that these contributions will continue, and they are figured in the total of expected income.

The sum named is believed to be adequate for the needs of the church through the year. Treasurer M. C. VanArsdale reported that $4,231 was spent last year, but the church made unusual expenditures last year in painting and redecoration, and that is about $1,000 more than the normal yearly expense. The income last year was a little more than enough to cover the expenditures.

The sittings will be assigned by a committee of five. W. B. Wadsworth, L. B. Morgan, M. C. VanArsdale and Miss Jessie McIntosh were appointed for the committee. The fifth member will be named later. A committee of three, consisting of Alexander Millar, F. A. Weeks and Alonzo Weseman, will seat the seating committee to prevent possible criticism of the former on the score of self-favoritism in allocing pews. This second committee is the continuance of an old Congregational custom.

When the pew question had been decided, Mr. Morse, as chairman of the committee of three appointed to consider ways, means and plans for the enlargement of the church, one of three sets prepared by Architect C. P. Karr, of Netherwood, was too expensive to be considered. It is estimated that the work would cost $25,000. The committee felt it could not recommend that plan.

The report halts the enlargement project for the present, at least. It is considered possible that the church will vote later on the enlargement to the northward. Mr. Karr was voted $100 from the building fund for expenses incurred in drawing the plans. The members of the committee besides Mr. Morse were F. A. Weeks and M. C. VanArsdale.

The elections at the society meeting were as follows: Trustees, E. L. Morse, J. U. Freleigh and Charles Steiner; clerk, Roland D. Rice. After the meeting the board organized as follows: President, J. E. Morse; secretary, E. L. Morgan; treasurer, M. C. VanArsdale. Mr. Morse and Mr. VanArsdale were re-elected.

At the brief meeting of the church, preceding the society meeting, the following elections were made: Deacons, for two years, E. K. Powlison, H. B. Morgan; members of the Official Board, H. C. Nomer, G. P. Fisher, Curtis Bates; trustees, E. K. Powlison, J. E. Morse; clerk, Roland D. Rice.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich, the pastor, presided over the church meeting. He made a brief but very optimistic report.

This fund shall consist: First, of the sum of one-half of one per cent deducted from the value of withdrawing shares. Second, of the difference between the book value and the withdrawal value of shares withdrawn previous to the 36th payment. Third, of the sum of one-twentieth of one per cent of the amount invested on Bond and Mortgage to be added to said fund previous to each semi-annual distribution of profits.

Section 2. The Board of Managemen shall have power to suspend from time to time the action of any part of this article when in their judgment the contingent fund has acquired sufficient volume.

Also amend Article XV. Add:

Section 2. After the value of a share is computed in accordance with Section 1 of this article, if a profit has accrued, there shall be deducted from such value, one-half of one per cent., which amount shall be credited to the Contingent Fund. ANNUAL PARISH MEETINGS

The financial statement of the church was presented by Frank T. Ostrom, treasurer. This showed the receipts to be nearly $4,000 and the expenditures have been such as to about balance this sum. Certain improvements have been made and the church has been quite generous in its contributions to various benevolent objects, including foreign and home missions. The new year is started with bright prospects for a successful one. The labors of Pastor Fish have been fruitful and all seem prepared for the series of evangelistic services to be held soon.

First Presbyterian.

The reports presented at the annual meetings of the First Presbyterian church and congregation, last night, gave evidence of a successful year in all departments. The church meeting was held first, the chairman being E. M. Cave. J. B. Bettman was the clerk and Howard A. Pope, assistant secretary. Robert H. Radford and W. H. Shotwell were elected elders for three years and E. D. George a deacon for three years.

The financial reports presented by W. H. Shotwell, treasurer, showed that during the year $1,500 was raised for benevolent purposes and $4,650 for congregational purposes. A year ago there was an indebtedness of $1,000 and $500 of this has since been paid.

Reports were received from the home and foreign missionary societies, the Senior and Junior Christian Endeavor Societies, King's Messengers, Sunday-school, and the Little Light Bearers. All showed an increase in membership and receipts. The church membership at present is 882.

Following the church meeting the congregation meeting was held. Mr. Cave continued as chairman, and Mr. Pope as secretary. The pastor, Rev. C. E. Herring, was called from the city and could not attend. J. B. Hill was elected a trustee for two years, H. A. Pope and William Shotwell for three years and David K. Young for two years to fill an unexpired term.

It was decided to make no change in the pastor's salary for the coming year and the music for the year was left in the hands of the music committee with the understanding that the present arrangement is satisfactory and should be continued.

POLITICAL CHAT.

The New Jersey Senate tendered a dinner to Governor Stokes Saturday night at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, Philadelphia. State Treasurer Briggs was also a guest. Senator Bradley, of Camden, the successor of Judge Cross as president of the Senate, was toastmaster. Several speeches were made, including one by the Governor. Senator Childs, who was detained in Canada, was the only member absent. Senator James F. Minturn, of Hudson, had an informal talk with the Governor about the manner in which the Hillery tax rate bill, now a law, came before the chief executive for his signature. Senator Minturn will do nothing further in the matter.

Roosevelt One of Four When Wolf Was Run Down.

IDEAL CONDITIONS FOR CAMP LIFE

Governor McDonald of Colorado and Party Journey to Meet Their Guest—Hunting Permit For President.

FREDERICK, Okla., April 13.—President Roosevelt and his party of hunters have enjoyed ideal conditions for their hunt in the big pasture. The weather has been cool and cloudy. The party goes out at 6:30 o'clock each morning and returns to camp about 11 o'clock for dinner. Fresh horses are saddled by attendants, and a start is made at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon. One of the diversions of the camp was a series of foot races, in which the president participated.

The dogs are so accustomed to pursuing wolves that they left off chasing a wildcat when a wolf was scented. A raccoon caught in Deep Red creek is now in camp as a live trophy of the chase.

In one of the runs a wolf was chased over the hills and across creeks and through timber for ten miles. The pace was fast, and when the wolf was captured there were only four of the party within sight of the animal—Bob Burnett, Guy Waggoner and John Abernathy, three old time cowboys, and President Roosevelt. About fifteen dogs are taken out at a time, and the remainder of the pack is kept at camp. Yelps can be heard for miles.

It is reported here that Governor Jesse McDonald, accompanied by a party of national guardsmen and officers of the regular army, intends to go to Trinidad in order to welcome President Roosevelt to Colorado. Governor McDonald will carry with him the hunting license which has been issued by the game commissioner to the president. The party intends to leave Denver tonight, arriving at Trinidad tomorrow morning. There they will join the presidential party and accompany the president back to Colorado Springs. The governor's party will consist of the governor, Adjutant General Bulkeley Wells, General Charles S. Cooper, General Frank D. Baldwin, Lieutenant H. A. Dumm, Colonel Kenneth L. Fahnestock, Charles Cavender of Leadville and Philip B. Stewart. The special hunting permit which Governor McDonald will present to the president has been engrossed and inlaid in a leather covering. It will give the chief executive carte blanche.

Meningitis Epidemic at Dunbar, Pa.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., April 13.—An epidemic of cerebro spinal meningitis, or spotted fever, has broken out in Dunbar, this county, and the citizens are greatly alarmed. The homes of Professor C. Sheldon Smith and John McManus have been quarantined, where the disease exists, and the schools of the town have been closed. At a meeting of the board of health, the school board and the president of the town council it was decided to appeal to the state board of health for help.

Frick Wants Information.

NEW YORK, April 13.—A complete record of all the financial transactions of the Equitable Life Assurance society, its relations to other corporations and a full list of the society's employees, including all its officers, together with a statement of the salaries and emoluments received by them, is asked of the society's president, James W. Alexander, in a letter sent to him by Henry C. Frick, chairman of the investigating committee appointed by the directors.

Cornell Instructor Dead.

ITHACA, N. Y., April 13.—Ralph G. Young of San Antonio, Tex., an instructor in Cornell university, is dead here after a brief illness. He contracted pneumonia from exposure while making a test with twenty seniors at an electrical plant at Cornellsville, Pa., where he worked for eighty-four hours with only one break of six hours for sleep. The body was taken to Athens-on-the-Hudson for burial.

Sagamore Imprisoned by Bergs.

BOSTON, April 13.—The Warren line steamship Sagamore, which arrived from Liverpool, reported having been imprisoned for sixteen hours by icebergs on the Grand banks. When the vessel reached the banks a dense fog prevailed, and when this lifted the steamer was found to be surrounded by great masses of ice, which towered high above her.

Australia Would Entertain Taft.

MANILA, April 13.—Governor General Northcutt of the commonwealth of Australia will, it is said, invite Secretary of War Taft and party to visit Australia during the party's forthcoming visit to the Philippines. The commonwealth of Australia will offer to defray the entire expenses.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

April 16: "Glorifying God In Our Recreations"—Ps. xvi, 5-11; I Cor. x, 31.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

We have a nature capable of enjoyment. The maintenance of our physical life individually and racially is largely under the influence of appetites of various kinds. Want and desire is the notice our powers serve on us that our nature must have certain things for its well being. Fulfilling these functions, we keep in health and vigor. Loss of appetite is a sign of disease. Relish is a mark of strength. Every power in its proper use affords pleasure. Pain is the red flag of danger.

The same facts hold largely true in the exercise of all intellectual powers. Enjoyment is inseparably bound up with the proper use of all faculties, physical, mental and moral. The right and true thing is also the beautiful and pleasure giving thing.

Another fact also holds good in all these realms of being. No power can be continuously exercised and continue to do its best work. Energy must be diverted from one to another to keep all in the highest condition of efficiency. Recuperation and recreation and rest are insistent demands of the nature. Ignorance of the fact does not make it less true, and ignoring these needs makes the result none the less disastrous in the end.

Still another truth calls for recognition. While the proper use of any power and faculty yields enjoyment naturally, the exercise of the same faculties and powers for the aim and avowed purpose of the enjoyment itself never meets the expectation. Pleasure does not come that way. All attempts to so find it must ever prove disappointing since the nature was not put together in that fashion.

Here lies the wide difference between mere amusement and true recreation, between dissipation and diversion.

It is a grievous mistake to make life a round of pleasure seeking. Whoever does so fails to find what he seeks and also fails to get any adequate good out of living. Existence cannot be other than disappointing to such.

But there is another mistake only less serious than this one. It is made by those who use the world only as a workshop for doing things and getting stuff together. Such become physical, intellectual or moral machines for turning so much raw material into so much made up things. These pride themselves that they never take vacations and claim credit, as if their vicious course was a virtue to be praised.

There is work in this world to be done—hard, earnest and downright difficult tasks. He will best do his work as a man who sees beauty, enjoyment and pleasure in the world and takes them as they may be had legitimately.

At the present time—as, in fact, in all past times—there is danger that we make mistake in this whole matter. We young Christians must learn to discriminate between what is helpful and what is detrimental, first to ourselves and then to those by whom we are surrounded who will be affected by our doing. We have duty and privilege in it all.

The test to which everything should be brought is, Will this particular thing be helpful to me in my best nature? If this be settled there arises another consideration, Will it in any way harm another? However keen our relish for anything, if it does not lift us we cannot afford it. Physical must yield preference to intellectual needs, so only that the physical be not defrauded of its rights and so finally cripple the mental. Highest must ever be the needs of the spirit, and nothing must be allowed to interfere with this. It is not always easy to decide what is best in any given circumstances. But the settlement firmly of a few fundamental rules will save much perplexity and help settle the special difficulties when they do arise.

Hold rigidly to this: (1) I will take no form of recreation that I think my Saviour would disapprove. (2) I will take none which intereferes with my highest development as a Christian. (3) Or that is contrary to my churchly obligations. (4) Or that is doubtful in its tendency or may mislead others if they follow my example. (5) I will take all proper and legitimate recreation that I need as conscientiously as I do my work that I may be in the best condition of body, mind and soul for God's service and the highest example to my fellow men of what is good and right.

His Work Goes On.

God is greater than man. Isn't it high time we should learn this lesson? His workers fall, but His work goes on. He is not limited in His resources as we are. The sea is His, and He made it, and His hands formed the dry land. Yet, when a leader falls by the wayside, like spoiled children we cry that the cause is lost. Why are we so timid and fearful and weak? Why do we put so much trust in men and so little in God? * * * Let no man's heart fail him because a worker drops out of the ranks. The work, if it be of the Lord, will go right on until He comes to claim His own.—Archibald Johnson in "Charity and Children."

Prayer.

O Lord, my Rock, how safely now
Doth my weak soul in Thee repose!
Where is the fear it felt before?
How the wild flood Thy presence knows!
My fainting heart in Thy great store
Finds its whole paradise of good
And strength and peace.
Oh, who but Thou, my Jesus, could
Bestow such love on worthless me?
Make me to love Thee endlessly!

Now let the roaring winds rush on
And stormy sea and depths arise—
Aye, e'en the death flood show its crest,
And Satan come to claim his prize;
They cannot reach me on Thy breast.
In the wild tumult of that day
I shall be safe.
Mountain and hill may flee away,
Yet shall my Rock forever stand
And Jesus hold me in His hand.
—"Wayfaring Hymns."

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in These Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning April 16.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Glorifying God in our recreations.—1 Cor. x, 31; Ps. xvi, 5-11.

True religion is never opposed to legitimate pleasure and recreation. God made the world. He made it with a beauty that charms the human eye and created man with the power of enjoyment. It would be folly, therefore, to suppose that it would be distasteful to him for man to enjoy the pleasures of the world in which He has thus placed him. But many so called recreations of life are ruinous instead of helpful, and it is just as evident that true religion is opposed to indulgence in them. Whatever is harmful to man is inconsistent with religion, for religion stands only for that which is helpful to body, mind or soul.

The line of demarkation between lawful and unlawful recreations is sometimes hard to draw. Should a Christian do this? is a question frequently asked. And how can it better be answere than by asking, Will it be for the glory of God? If we can conscientiously do it for the glory of God, we need not hesitate; if we cannot or are doubtful, we had best deny ourselves of what may seem to us desirable, for in recreations we are to glorify God.

Social life is the chief center of human pleasures. Recreations are seldom individual. Man is a social animal, and his enjoyments are usually inseparably associated in some way with his fellows. That such should be the case is natural and also in accordance with Scriptural teaching and the example of Christ. The Master had His special friends; some homes were the special objects of His favor, and He graced the important social occasion of a wedding by His presence and performed His first miracle to relieve the anxiety and embarrassment of His mother's friends. But social life should be for the glory of God. In no other sphere can we so easily divorce pleasure and religion, and yet in no other can we so magnify our God. Sanctified society can be made a strong power for good, while an unsanctified, godless social life will sap the very heart out of all religious inclination and endeavor. The forms of service may be gone through, but the power is soon lost in the whirl of a worldly, godless social life. "Whether, therefore, ye eat or drink [in all social life], or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God."

Many Christians make the mistake of seeking their pleasures outside of religion rather than in it. They act as if the problem of their lives was how to be happy, though religious. This is a serious and grievous error. Our greatest joys should be found in our religion. The soul is superior to mind and body, and its possibilities of enjoyment are also superior to those of the mind or of the physical senses. Many Christians never learn this lesson because they will not abandon themselves with whole hearted service to God. The joy of intimate association with God should surpass that of social relations with our fellow men. The joy of winning a soul for Christ should be infinitely above that of winning success or fame in life and especially above that of success at any form of social gambling. Peace of conscience is one of the most desirable of human possessions, and the contemplated pleasures of heaven should bring greater rapture than all hoped for future human enjoyments, which are so seldom realized.

Let us find our pleasures in God and our recreations in the exercises of godliness. Then we can truly say: "Therefore my heart is glad and my glory rejoiceth * * * Thou wilt show me the path of life; in Thy presence is fullness of joy; at Thy right hand there are pleasures forever more."

BIBLE READINGS.

Neh. viii, 10; Ps. xxiii, 1-6; xxxv, 9; ii, 12; Prov. iii, 12; xxi, 15-17; Eccl. ii, 1-11; Isa. xxxv, 1-10; Matt. xi, 28-30; Luke viii, 14; xvi, 19-31; Phil. iv, 4.

Five Things to Do.

The Christian Endeavor World recently conducted a contest on "Five Things I Want Christian Endeavor to Do." Rev. William Colton Clark of Lyndon, Vt., carried off the prize with the following:

First.—Abolish sectarian bigotry and unite all the young people of Protestant churches into one organic fellowship.

Second.—Abolish race prejudice within the church and cause the nations to realize the brotherhood of man.

Third.—Teach effectually the stewardship of money and enlist the wealth of Christendom in the salvation of the world.

Fourth.—Array the Christian church uncompromisingly against the licensed liquor traffic.

Fifth.—Evolve a social religious meeting in which participation will be so enthusiastic and spontaneous that no prayer meeting pledge will be necessary.

Christian Endeavorers In Cuba.

The Rev. Alfred de Barritt, who has spent his vacation in Massachusetts, pays high tribute to the efforts of his Christian Endeavorers in Cienfuegos, Cuba. They have collected and distributed $50 among the poor of the hospital, and they also raised at the last Christmas entertainment a nice sum for a family of the church who had lost their all by fire. On Sunday afternoons they sing to the inmates of the hospital and prison and distribute Bibles, Testaments and tracts in Spanish, although this branch of the work has been greatly retarded through the inability of the young people to bring sufficient literature in Spanish for the large number of persons. Quite recently the young people rode out fifteen miles along bad roads to take the gospel message to a locality where there is neither a Protestant nor a Roman Catholic church.

MILLINERY HINTS.

The New Modish Hats Tilt at an Alarming Angle.

The new hats are an entire change from anything we have been accustomed to of late. Instead of the dead level at which the flat shape was supposed to maintain itself on our heads it is now tip tilted over the face at a somewhat alarming angle by means of a bandeau of ribbons or flowers.

Much prettier is the watteau toque, with its saucy angles and curves and its dainty bouquets of flowers.

The cavalier hat with one upturned brim is the best type of the large hat.

GIRL'S LINGERIE HAT.

But bear in mind, whether hat or toque, if it is not tilted up behind it must be tilted at the side. Fashion abhors anything in the millinery line on the straight at present.

Blue, green and lavender roses may wound one's artistic sense, but they are lovely just the same.

Dead roses were never so pretty as the artistically crumpled and withered brown roses on the new hats.

In the spring modistic dispensation of things sartorial ribbons are to be allowed full play. They riot over frocks and hats alike as artful bows, as stiff cockades, as meandering ruches or flying streamers.

Creamy pink and white carnations are new in millinery.

The girl's hat illustrated is a French model. It is composed of fancy crin bordered with a ruching of gathered mousseline de soie, beyond which are set in on the brim motifs of embroidery. About the crown is a wreath of small roses fastening at the side with a satin chou.

NEW MATERIALS.

Veilings Very Smart—New Designs In Pale Blue and White.

The very best materials for the serviceable shirt waist suits are the new veilings, which are thin enough to be comfortable on cool summer days. Many of the prettiest examples are of iridescent colors.

Then there is veiling in black and white squares with dots of crimson, pink or pale blue over its surface. In shepherd plaid the smartest design is in the tiniest check imaginable. The coloring is in pale blue and white, with the white so blurred that it only shows in certain lights.

A modish way of making a gown of this plaid is with a skirt box plaited in groups of three stitched almost to the knee. At this point of vantage are put in at intervals plaited panels finished with a stitched band across the top. The coat is long and almost tight fitting, reaching to the knee. It is single breasted and has a smart shawl collar and cuffs of blue and white embroidery. A white china silk blouse is worn with the coat and skirt, and the waist is finished with a girdle formed of three shades of blue ribbon toning from pale to medium blue.

A white sailor hat bound with blue silk and trimmed with cornflowers is the accompanying hat for this costume.

The latest idea of fashioning a summer silk dress of hairlines, fine check or changeable effect is to trim it with pipings of pure white taffeta. No matter what the blendings in the silk employed, pipings of white, and only white, are the proper caper.

The charming frock illustrated is of oriental lace. It is so put together that the waist and skirt have the appearance of being made in one. This effect is gained by rows of shirring which exactly match. The skirt is formed of three lace ruffles. The waist is shirred at the neck into a deep round yoke edged with a lace bertha. Heading the bertha are round lace motifs.

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

"And my Dickory," cried Dame Charter, "was he not there? Has he not yet returned to the town? It must now be a long time since he went away."

"I know not anything more than I have told you," said the captain. "And if Mr. Delaplaine and the two ladies will get into my boat, I will quickly take you to the town and show you where you may find Capt. Bonnet and learn all you wish to know."

When the little party reached the town it attracted a great deal of attention from the rough roisterers who were strolling about or gambling in shady places. When the captain of the Belinda mentioned, here and there, that these newcomers were the family of Blackbeard's factor, who now had charge of that pirate's interests in the town, no one dared to treat the elderly gentleman, the pretty young lady or the rotund dame with the slightest disrespect. The name of the great pirate was a safe protection even when he who bore it was leagues and leagues away.

At the door of the storehouse Ben Greenway stood waiting. He would have hurried down to the pier had it not been that he was afraid to leave Bonnet; afraid that this shamefaced ex-pirate would have hurried away to hide himself from his daughter and his friends. Kate, running forward, grasped the Scotchman by both hands.

"And where is he?" she cried.

"He is in there," said Ben, pointing through the storeroom to the open door at the back. In an instant she was gone.

"And Dickory?" cried Dame Charter. "Oh, Ben Greenway, tell me of my boy."

They went inside and Greenway told everything he knew, which was very much, although it was not enough to comfort the poor mother's heart, who could not readily believe that because Dickory had sailed away with a great and powerful pirate, that eminent man would be sure to bring him back in safety; but as Greenway really believed this, his words made some impression on the good dame's heart. She could see some reason to believe that Blackbeard, having now so much property in the town, might make a short cruise this time, and that any day the Revenge, with her dear son on board, might come sailing into port.

With his face buried in his folded arms, which rested on the table, Stede Bonnet received his daughter. At first she did not recognize him, never having seen him in such mean apparel; but when he raised his head, she knew her father. Closing the door behind her, she folded him in her arms. After a little, leaving the window, they sat together upon a bale of goods, which happened to be a rug from the orient, of wondrous richness, which Bonnet had reserved for the floor of his daughter's room.

"Never, my dear," he said, "did I dream you would see me in such plight. I blush that you should look at me."

"Blush!" she exclaimed, her own cheeks reddening, "and you an honest man and no longer a freebooter and rover of the sea? My heart swells with pride to think that your life is so changed."

Bonnet sadly shook his head.

"Ah!" he said, "you don't know, you cannot understand what I feel. Kate," he exclaimed with sudden energy, "I was a man among men; a chief over many. I was powerful, I was obeyed on every side. I looked the bold captain that I was; my brave uniform and my sword betokened the rank I held. And, Kate, you can never know the pride and exultation with which I stood upon my quarter-deck and scanned the sea, master of all that might come within my vision. How my heart would swell and my blood run wild when I beheld in the distance a proud ship, her sails all spread, her colors flying, heavily laden, hastening onward to her port. How I would stretch out my arm to that proud ship and say: 'Let down those sails, drop all those flaunting flags, for you are mine; I am greater than your captain or your king! If I give the command, down you go to the bottom with all your people, all your goods, all your banners and emblazonments, down to the bottom, never to be seen again!'"

Kate shuddered and began to cry.

"Oh, father!" she exclaimed, "don't say that. Surely you never did such things as that?"

"No," said he, speaking more quietly, "not just like that, but I could have done it all had it pleased me, and it was this sense of power that made my heart beat so proudly. I took no life, Kate, if it could be helped, and when I had stripped a ship of her goods, I put her people upon shore before I burned her."

Kate bowed her head in her hands. "And of all this you are proud, my father, you are proud of it!"

"Indeed am I, daughter," said he; "and had you seen me in my glory you would have been proud of me. Perhaps yet—"

In an instant she had clapped her hand over his mouth. "You shall not say it!" she exclaimed. "I have seized upon you and I shall hold you. No more freebooter's life for you; no more blood, no more fire. I shall take you away with me. Not to Bridgetown, for there is no happiness for either of us there, but to Spanish Town. There, with my uncle, we shall all be happy together. You will again wander over your fields, and I shall be with you. You shall watch the waving crops; you shall ride with me, as you used to ride, to view your vast herds of cattle—those splendid creatures, their great heads uplifted, their nostrils to the breeze."

"Truly, my Kate," said Bonnet, "that was a great sight; there were no cattle finer on the island than were mine."

"And so shall they be again, my father," said Kate, her arms around his neck.

It was then that Ben Greenway knocked upon the door.

Stede Bonnet's mind had been so much excited by what he had been talking about that he saluted his brother-in-law and Dame Charter without once thinking of his clothes. They looked upon him as if he were some unknown foreigner, a person entirely removed from their customary sphere.

"Was this the once respectable Stede Bonnet?" asked Dame Charter to herself. "Did such a man marry my sister!" thought Mr. Delaplaine. They might have been surprised had they met him as a pirate, but his appearance as a pirate's clerk amazed them.

Towards the end of the day Mr. Delaplaine and his party returned to the Belinda, for there was no fit place for them to lodge in the town. Although urged by all, Stede Bonnet would not accompany them. When persuasion had been exhausted, Ben Greenway promised Kate that he would be responsible for her father's appearance the next day, feeling safe in so doing; for, even should Bonnet's shame return, there was no likely way in which he could avoid his friends.

URGE HOOKER'S REMOVAL.

Deputy Attorney Coman Asked For Legislature's Resolution.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 13.—The removal of Justice Warren B. Hooker from the supreme court bench of the state of New York by a concurrent resolution of the senate and assembly was urged upon the assembly judiciary committee by former Deputy Attorney General Henry B. Coman, counsel for the committee, as the logical sequence of the inquiry.

Mr. Coman read his conclusions of fact, embracing six different postoffice appointments—those of Frank P. Ball, Maurice Hooker, Ora Caldwell, Thomas O'Neill, Minerva Jeffrey and Katherine Clark—the Dunkirk postoffice leases and the judgment against the city of Dunkirk.

In each of these cases Mr. Coman declared that the conduct of Justice Hooker was immoral and tended to submit the administration of justice by Justice Hooker on the bench to contempt and disgrace.

At the opening of the investigation John B. Stanchfield said that no testimony would be submitted in behalf of Justice Hooker.

Mr. Coman submitted as the final piece of evidence a sentence from the affidavit of Maurice Hooker, nephew of Justice Hooker, in which the young man stated that his appointment to the Fredonia postoffice was due to his uncle. Mr. Coman referred to Justice Hooker as the "accused," which brought forth the following query from Lewis B. Carr of his counsel:

"Mr. Coman, is there any accused person here?"

"There will be in a few minutes?" replied Mr. Coman.

On the objection of Mr. Stanchfield the committee refused to permit the newspapers to copy the conclusions of fact submitted by Mr. Coman.

HURRICANE NEAR TAHITI.

Much Damage Done to Shipping—Cocoanut Groves Destroyed.

PAPEETE, Tahiti, April 13.—A hurricane near Tahiti and north of the islands has caused much damage to shipping. The gasoline schooner Orifenas has been damaged on a reef at Mahatea, 120 miles north of Tahiti. When the storm broke over Papeete great trees came crashing down, in some instances wrecking houses. Paul Martin's steam launch was wrecked, its back being broken, by being washed ashore against the rocks. A government cutter also was completely smashed.

The other sections of Tahiti suffered much damage from the fury of the gale. The French Protestant missionary schooner Leiox du Sud put into Teravan bay, having lost nearly all her sails.

The steamer Mariposa of San Francisco encountered the outer edge of the hurricane, two days out from Papeete, and was compelled to avoid the usual passage through the Tuamotu islands in favor of the new westerly one around Mutuhiva, which is longer by a hundred miles.

It is feared in Tahiti that the schooner Teito, owned by some natives, went down in the storm.

The greatest damage done by the storm is believed to lie in the destruction of cocoanut groves. In the Tuamotu section unquestionably the copra industry has been greatly retarded for this season.

Edward S. Hall, presiding elder of the Mormon church, has recently purchased a site in the city of Papeete suitable for the erection of a church and mission house.

Arrest In Payne Murder Case.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., April 13.—Harry Allen, who has several aliases, was arrested in Bloomsburg last night and brought here. He is charged with being the murderer of Mrs. George W. Payne, who was killed in a barn on the morning of Feb. 23, 1903, in Jackson township, Tioga county, N. Y. Allen was locked up here to await the husband of the murdered woman, who is expected to reach the city this morning. It is claimed the latter is able to identify the prisoner.

Fatal Accident at Belmont Track.

NEW YORK, April 13.—One laborer was killed and another probably fatally injured by the falling of a boom at the new Belmont park race course in Long Island. The boom was part of a large derrick used for excavating purposes in the construction of the tunnel entrance to the park leading under the railroad tracks. A score of workmen narrowly escaped death as the heavy timber broke and fell.

Local Option Bill Defeated.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 13.—With seventy-three votes in favor, just three short of the number necessary to pass it, the Ambler-Wainwright local option bill was defeated in the assembly after an hour's debate. There were sixty votes against the bill, which is designed to submit the liquor question to the people by residence districts.

Two Miners Lost Their Lives.

GADSDEN, Ala., April 13.—Two miners, Bob Heald and Horace Williams, were found dead in a coal mine near here. Fifteen miners left the mine on account of bad air, but the two men went back to investigate and did not return. It is not known whether they died from black damp or because hot air was pumped in the mine.

Shot Husband and Herself.

CHICAGO, April 13.—Mrs. Ralph Hill shot her husband and then took a draught of acid here. Her attempt at murder and suicide took place at the home of Benjamin Hill, principal of the Seward public school. Neither she nor her husband is expected to live. The cause of the deed is unknown.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

In a game marked by brilliant work throughout on the part of the winning team, the Plainfield High School literally buried the Leal's school team under a pile of ten runs to none in the first of a series of games to be played for the city scholastic championship, yesterday afternoon on Crescent Oval. Before a crowd of almost 500 schoolboys and girls and amid the cheers of these the High School lads showed that their reputation as a crack nine belonged rightfully to them. It would be a hard thing to pick anyone as the star of the game, for all did exceedingly well. Smith, the High School crack pitcher, seems to have regained his control of last year, and in the seven innings which he pitched eleven Lealonians fanned the breeze, while but one hit was secured off his delivery. Burt, who succeeded him, did equally well and Leal's made but one hit off him. Leal's team showed a sad lack of practice, but at times played well together. However, the material is in the school for a first-rate aggregation, and with a little more hard practice the team will be a good one. Deane's playing at first base and Craig's batting were the features of the game. The line-up:

Leals.	P.	H.	S.
Jewett	p			Smith and Burt
Glenny	c			Davis
Dallas	1b			Deana
Wills	2b			Thompson
Howard	3b			Conway
Brown	ss			Craig
Daniels	lf			Bunks
Manning	cf			Brakeley
Lyman	rf			S. Freeman

Score by innings:

P. H. S..1 0 0 2 2 1 2 2 *—10

Summary: Earned runs—P. H. S., 3; Leals, 0. Two-base hit—Glenny. Base on balls—Off Smith, 2; off Jewett, 9. Struck out—By Smith, 11; by Jewett, 6. Left on base—P. H. S., 5; Leals, 6. Double play — Jewett to Glenny, to Howard. Wild pitches—Glenny (3); Lyman (1). Passed balls—Glenny (4) First base on errors—P. H. S., 5; Leals, 2. Hit by pitcher—Brown, Lyman. Umpire — Cooley, of Worcester. Attendance—500. Time of game—2 hours, 8 minutes.

GOLF.

Among the large number of players entered in the Atlantic City Country Club golf tournament which begins today, is S. D. Lounsbery, of the Plainfield Country Club.

The programes for the Sixth annual tournament of the New Jersey State Golf Association to be held at the North Jersey Country Club on June 1, 2 and 3, are out today and may be obtained from H. J. Hewat, 227 Hamilton avenue, Paterson; F. M. Wilson or C. B. Beckworth, who form the tournament committee. This is one of the oldest Links in the Metropolitan district and will be the first tournament held there. There is a team prize to be settled in the qualifying round and the ownership of a gold medal, when match play will begid for the championship and minor prizes. There will be "something doing" for each of the sixty-four in the qualifying round, the conditions being such as to bring out a good entry and to stimulate interest in the tournament.

Much activity is already being shown in the sixth annual tournament of the New Jersey State Golf Association to be held on the course of the North Jersey Country Club, Paterson, the first three days in June, and Plainfield, will, as usual, be well represented. There will be the New Jersey State championship to be contested for, a golf championship cup to be awarded to the winner, his name to be inscribed thereon. Should the cup be won three times by any player or players of any one club it shall then become their property. A gold metal will also be given the winner of the event; a gold medal to the runner up; a gold medal for the best qualifying round; four gold medals, one each to be given the winners in the team's match; a gold medal will be presented to the winner of the second eight in the first sixteen. Marked 2d eight. A gold medal to the winner of the first eight of the second sixteen. Marked 3d sixteen. A gold medal will be given to the winner of the second eight of the second sixteen, and so on to the winners among the other contestants. The courtesies of the club will be extended to contestants during the week commencing May 20.

Miss May Pierson will conduct the Christian Endeavor Society meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow night. The Intermediate and Junior Endeavor Societies will meet in the afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

The Women's Home Missionary Society, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, has completed the box for the school at Tucson, Arizona, and the weekly meetings of the society will be discontinued until fall.

Rev. Dr. Swaffield, of New York, will assist Rev. A. E Finn, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, in a series of evangelistic services to be held at the church, commencing Monday night, April 24. Dr. Swaffield will be here until Friday night, April 28.

The twenty-second conference of the Women's Missionary Union was held in the North Reformed church, Newark avenue, Newark, yesterday and those who attended from Trinity Reformed church were Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, Mrs. Jennie Schenck, Mrs. Winfield Schemp, Mrs. Henry C. Van Name, Mrs. W. A. Woodruff, Mrs. Julius G. Williams, Mrs. C. E. Ball, Mrs. Jennie Chickering, Mrs. A. L. Force and Miss Lillian A. Force.

Under the leadership of the new pastor, Rev. C. H. Schneegas, of the German Reformed church, on Craig place, there has been inaugurated a mid-prayer service in the church. This is something that has been neglected for a long time and the new departure will no doubt be a blessing to the church. Last night the pastor, consistory and a number of the congregation met at the home of Martin Ptaschinska, 114 Duer street and held an enjoyable prayer-meeting, Mr. Ptaschinska being ill and not able to attend the church services.

Sunday was the forty-ninth anniversary of the sailing of the first Methodist missionaries to Indian—Dr. and Mrs. William Butler. Not only was Mrs. Butler's husband the founder of the missions of the Methodist Episcopal church in India, but she herself was one the founders of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society. The event, therefore, was of double significance to Methodists. Mrs. Butler is still living at her old home in Newton Center, Mass., which is a Mecca for Methodists interested in missions. Though in advanced years, Mrs. Butler occasionally speaks to audiences in behalf of the cause in which she has labored so long. She regularly attends the meetings of the executive board of the New England branch of the society.

SATISFIED TO HAVE OLD PASTOR BACK AGAIN

REPORTS OF OSLERITE TROUBLE IN DUNELLEN CHURCH UNFOUNDED.

There is no foundation for the report current in Dunellen that the return of Rev. S. K. Doolittle, pastor of the Methodist church there for five years, by the annual conference, has resulted in much dissatisfaction among the members of the church. It was reported before the conference that certain prominent persons in the congregation would withdraw their presence from the services, and their financial support from the exchequer if Mr. Doolittle came back.

A reporter for The Daily Press went around among several of the prominent Methodists yesterday to learn just what truth there was in these tales. He saw a number of members who should know the sentiment of their brethren as well as anyone, and no one could be found who seemed to be put out over the return of Mr. Doolittle, or had heard of any such general dissatisfaction with the action of the conference as had been reported. He was given to understand that a certain prominent member of the congregation was opposed to the return of Mr. Doolittle, and had made no great effort to conceal his feeling in the matter, but that the feeling was confined to this one quarter.

There is no reason to expect, as far as the reporter could learn, that there is any tendency to withhold from Mr. Doolittle any measure of the warm welcome to which a minister who has labored in a field so long would naturally be entitled upon his return to the pastorate. Some of the members resent the stories of dissatisfaction that have gone about the community so generally, and their friendliness toward the aged pastor has been quickened by what they regard as an unjust attack on his abilities to such an extent that they will endeavor to make his welcome as cordial as it can possibly be made.

It is pointed out that Mr. Doolittle's record as a pastor is more than ordinarily good in point of church and congregational benefit. His efforts were mainly responsible for the raising of the money necessary to clear off the debt of $2,000 on the church, from which the congregation freed itself last year.

Mr. Doolittle will formally begin his new year as pastor next Sunday. He will preach at both services.

BOY GOES TO JAIL.

Incorrigible Colored Fifteen-Year-Old Threatens His Grandmother.

Charles Matthews, colored, fifteen years old, was sent to the county jail for thirty days this morning by City Judge Runyon. He was arrested upon complaints of his grandmother, Mrs. Charles Wood, whom he lives with. The boy is big and strapping, and he went look out of place in jail.

The police say he is a bad, bad man in embryo. His grandmother told the judge that he "jumped" freights at every opportunity, wouldn't work or go to school, and cursed and threatened her whenever she attempted to correct him.

NEW RULE TO FURTHER RAISE THE VALUATIONS

STATE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION EXTENDS ORDER TO MUNICIPALITIES.

A rule sanctioned by the old State Tax Board was extended by its successor, the State Board of Equalization of Taxes, at its meeting at Trenton yesterday, with the expectation of further raising valuations.

The equalization board decided to direct all assessors to separate all lands and improvements, except farm lands.

This rule, which will force the assessors to fix a separate valuation on the lands and also on the buildings, is now in force in all places of 10,000 and over. Under the new rule there will be no exempted municipalities.

She Becomes the Wife of Sidney E. Frazee, of West Front Street.

SNAP SHOTS.

Representatives of local Jewish organizations have started a movement for the celebration this fall of the 250th anniversary of the arrival of Jews in this country. The date of the anniversary has not been fixed, but the suggestion is made that it might be well to have the celebration fall on Thanksgiving Day. The ideas expressed are that there should be public exercises, that some kind of a statute or monument should be erected, and that, incidentally, a volume of some sort should be published giving the history of the Jews in this country. Leon Hehner, of the Jewish Historical Society, proposed erecting an obelisk. The decision of all preliminaries is left to a committee of fifteen, of which Jacob H. Schiff is to be chairman.

MET DEATH ON THE RAIL

Body of Unidentified Man Found on Central Tracks.

BADLY MANGLED

Head and Chest Crushed In—Remains at the Morgue—Burial Tomorrow.

Head and chest crushed in, the body of an unidentified man was found by Central railroad men near the tracks above the tanks at Greenbrook at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. The body was taken to the Dunellen morgue, where it awaits identification.

The man was poorly dressed, and his appearance indicated one who, if not a hobo, was traveling in the same way. The railroad officials will not admit that he was undoubtedly killed by a train, but there is nothing to indicate that he came to his death in any other way. The injuries lead to the conclusion that he was struck while walking along the track.

A clue to his identity was found in his pockets in the form of a slip of paper bearing the address of Theodore Duvier, of Phillipsburg. The authorities wired a description of the man to Duvier, and he telegraphed back that a man named Adam Mowyer, answering most of the particulars of the description, had worked for him recently. The identification, however, was not positive enough to satisfy the authorities. Duvier said Mowyer had a brother in New York and an effort was made to locate him. Up to noon today the effort had not been successful.

The dead man was evidently a German, about fifty years old, five feet seven inches in height, and weighing about 150 pounds. He was bearded, and hair and beard were tinged with gray. Unless identified the body will be buried in South Plainfield tomorrow.

Faith Chapel Elects Officers.

The first business meeting since the reorganization of Faith chapel was held last night for the purpose of electing a clerk and three deacons. The pastor, Rev. J. W. Musson, presided. William A. Conger was elected clerk and L. W. Randolph, U. B. Crane and Frank Stewart were elected deacons to serve for one year. Six new members were received by letter from other churches. In addition to these of Pastor and Mrs. Musson, there were two from State of Washington and two from Lambertville.

BOROUGH AGITATING SEWER SYSTEM PLAN

MR. ARNOLD'S REMARKS IN THE COUNCIL LEAD TO POSTAL CARD CANVASS.

Acting upon instructions from the Borough Council, Collector George F. Brown is conducting a postal card canvass of one district in North Plainfield, in order to obtain a comparison between the cost of the cesspool system now in use and the cost of a sewer system, if such should be installed. Every real estate owner within the territory bounded by Somerset street, Greenbrook road, Grove street and Green brook has been asked to give the amount he has expended during a stated period, both for cleaning and for building or repairing cesspools. The aggregate is to be compared with the amount the borough would have to expend in maintaining bonds to cover the cost of a sewer system for the purpose of showing that the latter is much the more economical without taking its advantages into consideration.

The subject of a borough sewer system was broached at the last Council meeting and there is a growing sentiment in favor of it. Chairman Arnold, of the street committee, declared the matter is one that demands immediate attention and the postal card canvass is one of the direct results of his remarks. Several other plans are in contemplation for fact-learning and it is hoped to have them in shape previous to calling a public meeting to discuss the subject.

BIG DEAL IS HELD UP

Judgment Against Heir Prevents Transferring of Title.

IMPROVEMENT STAYED

Title to Cadmus Tract Cannot be Obtained by Borough Syndicate at Present.

The extensive improvements planned for the West End of the borough by a syndicate, of which Charles W. McCutchen and Mayor Newton B. Smalley are among the partners, is likely to be held up for an indefinite time through legal complications arising over the passing of the deed which is delayed owing to the settlement of suit against Abram L. Cadmus, one of the heirs of the Cadmus estate which is involved in the deal.

The syndicate purchased among other property a large part of the Cadmus estate for $17,000, including the raceway, and it is planned to locate a lake thereon. There is still left of the estate property valued at $30,000, which is owned by Abram L. Cadmus, Miss Susie Cadmus and Alvin E. Hoagland.

The Fidelity Trust Company, of Newark, has been issuing the title for the transfer of the property and several appointments have been made to pass the deed, something interfering each time. It appears that Craig A. Marsh, Esq., some time ago secured a judgment of $5,000 for William B. Shafer, a miller, employed by Abram L. Cadmus, against the latter, and the mater is now in the Supreme Court on a rule to show cause why a new trial should not be granted. James P. Powers, Esq., and Robert McCarter, attorney-general, represent Mr. Cadmus, and they have asked Mr. Marsh to release his lien on the Cadmus property so that the deal can be closed with the syndicate, but Mr. Marsh has refused to do so, until the judgment for his client is satisfied.

Mr. Shafer's suit was the outcome of an accident he had at the Commercial Mills, owned and operated by Abram L. Cadmus, in which he claimed damages. Mr. Shafer won his case, but a new trial has been asked for, the decision of the Supreme Court now being awaited.

In the meantime, S. St. John McCutchen, Esq., representing the buyers, threatens to sue the Cadmus estate if it fails to transfer the property according to the terms of the sale. The heirs are willing and anxious to comply with the terms, if permitted to do so, but cannot until some disposition is made of the other matter in the Supreme Court.

Mr. Cadmus is reputed to be worth $50,000, in addition to interests in valuable property and it is claimed that he is many times worth the amount of the judgment. The heirs feel as though an injustice is being done them in tieing up the property in question, when there is enough besides to satisfy the judgment if enforced. W. S. Angleman, Esq., is looking after the interests of the Cadmus estate.

GOVERNOR STOKES WILL HEAD JUNIORS

AND PLAINFIELDERS WILL BE IN LINE AT ELIZABETH CELEBRATION.

The Junior Order United American Mechanics will endeavor to have a division of their own in the parade on the occasion of the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of the battle of Elizabethtown at Elizabeth on June 8, and the Plainfield Councils will be asked to take a place in line. Governor Stokes, the most distinguished "Junior" in the State, will be present, and if the "Junior division" is arranged he will ride at its head.

A committee of five has been appointed from each of the five Elizabeth councils—Orient, Elizabeth, Scott, Unity and Mack—and they are busily engaged in making preparations for the event.

The combined membership of the Elizabeth councils numbers over 1,000 and there are several hundred living in Elizabeth who are affiliated with out-of-town councils.

The councils at Rahway, Roselle, Cranford, Westfield, Scotch Plains, New Providence and Summit will also be largely represented, while the combined councils of Newark will send several hundred. It is expected that the Junior's demonstration will be the biggest they ever made in this section.

ICE TO BE ADVANCED TO 40 CTS. PER 100

PLAINFIELDERS MAY HAVE TO TREAT IT AS A LUXURY.

Notwithstanding the fact that last winter yielded a large crop of ice and that every ice-house in the city and vicinity is well stocked with frozen water of good quality and thickness, there is every indication that the price will be increased this summer from thirty to forty cents a hundred for family use, while an increase of from twenty to twenty-five cents will likely be made to business houses. This is now the plan, unless some dealer decides to fight the combine.

Many of the dealers say that they lost money last summer selling ice for thirty cents a hundred, that it did not begin to pay them for their time and labor. Two years ago the retail price was twenty cents a hundred and then followed the jump to forty cents. It is now said that some of the dealers are in favor of making the price thirty-five cents retail.

The crop this year was fully as large as last, and many persons are at a loss to understand why the price is advanced when the commodity is plentiful.

GIRL SANDBAGGED AND HIDDEN AWAY

TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE OF MISS HAYDEN IN ELIZABETH.

Miss Fannie Hayden, fifteen years old, of Marshall street, Elizabeth, was found unconscious in a vacant lot near her home Wednesday night. She had been sand bagged while returning from church.

Miss Hayden was formerly a member of the Fulton Methodist Episcopal church in that place, but about a month ago began attending the East Baptist church. She had not been an attendant at the Baptist church long when the Rev. Mr. Ellison, the pastor, received an anonymous letter threatening bodily harm to the young woman if she did not cease going to his church.

The church people paid no attention to the message, but when Miss Hayden failed to return home after prayer meeting much alarm was felt for her safety.

A posse was organized and a thorough search was made near the Hayden home. The searchers were about to give up in despair when some one heard a groan from the direction of a vacant lot, and going there, found Miss Hayden lying on the ground. She was partly hidden by planks which has been placed over her. She was carried to her home.

Miss Hayden could give no description of her assailant. The letter that was received by the minister has been turned over to the police.

TROUBLE TONIGHT IN COMMON COUNCIL

CITY CONTRACTOR THINKS HE HAS BEEN TREATED UNFAIRLY.

The street sprinkling matter will be decided at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council tonight. Chairman Wilson, of the street committee, will present a report with recommendations, which it will be up to the Common Council to act upon. The contract as originally drafted by the street committee and which John E. Keely bid for, has been materially changed, and as so, it may result in complications provided Mr. Keely desires to enter a protest. Mr. Keely will attend the meeting and he may be accompanied by counsel.

The finance committee will quite likely report the tax ordinance at this meeting so that it can go into effect in May. The committee has been at work on the budget for several weeks past and it is hoped that it will not be necessary to materially increase the general amount to be raised by taxation, the increased amount to be received from liquor licenses being relied upon to meet the extra needs.

—Classified advertising simplifies your search. Even to "look for a needle in a hay stack" would be easier if the hay stack were "classified," and the needle placed under the letter "N." And if the needle, like many want ads., were threaded with a golden thread, the quest would be still more attractive.

LEAPED TO HER DEATH

Woman in Local Sanitarium Jumps From Window.

CAME FROM PASSAIC

Mrs. Isabella Weller Escapes Vigilance of Attendants and Kills Herself.

Eluding the attendant detailed to watch her, Mrs. Isabella Weller, whose home was in Passaic, leaped from an upper window at the Brookside Retreat on Somerset street, last night, and received injuries which quickly proved fatal. She struck on a hard surface and beside fracturing limbs was hurt internally.

Attaches of the place were quickly apprised of her act and carried her to the Retreat but she was beyond medical aid.

Mrs. Weller was a widow and was forty-seven years old. She is the only daughter of Garrett Garrabrant, of that place. She was received at the institution a short time ago suffering from a nervous complaint and her condition was such that she needed constant watching.

Her illness preyed upon her mind to a great extent and she had evidently been waiting for a chance to commit self-destruction. The opportunity came last night and the leap was made through a window while the attendant was absent from the room for a few minutes.

Dr. S. O. B. Taylor, county physician for Somerset county, viewed the body this morning and granted a burial permit. The funeral will take place at Paterson.

FRED WILCOX MAY GET SCHOLARSHIP

SUNSHINE FUND ENTERTAINMENT AT CASINO LAST NIGHT.

Considerable enthusiasm was shown in the entertainment and lecture held at the Casino, last night, in the interest of the International Sunshine Society scholarships to be established at Alfred University. Through the efforts of Mrs. Harriet I. Macdonald, superintendent of this work, assisted by Mrs. Redhead, of New York, many were present at the entertainment and in other ways help was given toward establishing one scholarship in this city. Fred Wilcox, who is identified with the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., is quite likely to be chosen for a scholarship and a sufficient sum of money has already been subscribed and given in trust to Kenneth Robbie, boys' secretary at the association, to enroll one student.

Mrs. Macdonald, who was accompanied by several members of the society from New York, had charge of the entertainment and she explained the details of the perpetual scholarship. Mrs. Frederick W. Pender, a well-known elocutionist, gave a delightful recitation which was well received.

The rest of the evening was then devoted to an illustrated lecture on "Industrial Niagara." Charles Wilson, of Niagara Falls, gave the lecture. The scholarship is the first one to be established outside of New York. The work of arranging the details for enrolling a student will be left to local parties.

In Justice Von Minden's Court.

In Justice VonMinden's court at Dunellen this morning, Peter Wagenhofer was given ninety days for disorderly conduct. The contract case of Felix J. Hahr against Alice Sandford was adjourned and the contract suit of Cameron & Greenlee against John Huff was continued until tomorrow.

K. of P. Smoker.

Unity lodge, No. 102, K. of P., held a smoker last night during which it entertained a delegation of Perseverance lodge members. One proposition was received at the business session and provision was made for conferring the first and second ranks next Thursday night.

Captured by the Coppers.

Three young men giving their names as Higgins, Hickey and Smith were arrested by the borough police on Somerset street at 2 o'clock this morning. They deposited $10 bail each and will answer to a charge of disorderly conduct tonight.

Demolition of Frame Building.

Alexander Kane this morning commenced tearing down the wooden building adjoining Woodhull & Martin's store on the west side, to make room for the new store building to be erected by Woodhull & Martin.
